THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

(By TUCK)

Well, I'm back, keeds! Man, have I traveled this summer. I've really covered most of the states and even hit the upper half of Old Mexico.

Royce Seales looks like an up and coming football star, doesn't he, football fans? They really tried to put him out of the game last week in Montgomery, but he was just too much for those Starke Cadets. And him just such a little guy, too. Well, they always did tell me good things came in small packages, and now I believe it.

Looks like we've finally latched onto a math teacher to fill in for Mr. Adair. I'm not saying Miss Hunter didn't know her math, she just didn't know how to control her classes. Mr. Kerr, that's our new math teacher, seems to be able to do both. Good luck, Mr. Kerr.

It's being rumored that a seat on those new bleachers at school is going to cost some unlucky fellow a dollar. I sure hope it isn't me. They look mighty nice but they would look a lot better if they had rubber cushions on every one of them.

Seems like the band members aren't exactly happy or thrilled about the set-up this year. Some of them seem to think that the new members mess up the deal. Well, we've got something to look forward to, haven't we students? Because if everybody tries we ought to have an excellent band by the end of the football season. In case anybody's wondering, I'm not a band member, so I'm not taking sides with anybody, but all of them could try a little harder. And, oh yeah, if I'm not getting out of my place they could pep those marches up just a little bit.

Speaking of the band, R. L. Foshee makes a good strutter, doesn't he, folks? Well, maybe it will be a change having a drum major instead of a majorette. I guess we shouldn't make fun of the old boy, but he sure looks like the cock of the walk out there leading those lambs to the slaughter.

We have an excess amount of students this year it seems. It's gotten to where half the people I meet in the hall, I don't even know their names. Speaking of meeting some of them, you meet rather suddenly and not very formally. Sorta like spa. . .lat or SMACK! Oh, well, I guess you just have to take the knocks. I've heard many people say that learning had to be knocked into kids, but I never took them literally. Well, at CCHS the students try to knock it OUT of you. (The new students, that is.)

The Nation's Worst Swine Killer

QUESTION: What disease kills the most swine in America?

ANSWER: Hog cholera is by far the worst killer. It destroys about $20,000.00 worth of hogs a year.

QUESTION: What causes it?

ANSWER: A virus—too small to be seen even under a microscope. The amount you could get on the point of a pin could kill an entire herd of hogs.

QUESTION: Can you tell when a hog has cholera?

ANSWER: That's one of the worst things about hog cholera — a number of other maladies may show symptoms like it. Usually the first symptoms of cholera include loss of appetite, fever, weakness and prostration. Pigs may start dying rapidly.

QUESTION: Can cholera be cured?

ANSWER: There is no cure. Prevention is the only answer. Hog cholera losses can be cut down to almost nothing by proper vaccination of pigs around weaning time.

QUESTION: Any special points to bear in mind about vaccination?

ANSWER: Yes. Only healthy pigs in good condition should be vaccinated. Otherwise, vaccination with serum and virus may cause bad reactions. A careful examination should always be made by the veterinarians to determine whether or not the pigs are in proper condition for vaccination. Another important point: The virus is dangerous and should be handled only by someone who knows how; and one who understands sterilization of equipment and other precautions.

ECONOMY
Soil-cement pavement is low cost because: (1) about 90 per cent of the required material is usually local soil already on the street, (2) it is easy and fast to build. Economy is important to taxpayers.

ADAPTABILITY
Whether your local street is now dirt, gravel or stone, it can be transformed into strong, long-lasting pavement with soil-cement. Soil-cement streets can be built and used under a wide range of weather conditions.

DURABILITY
The durability of soil-cement for local streets has been proved by years of all-weather service at low-maintenance expense. Thousands of miles of dependable soil-cement pavement are now in use throughout the United States.

MURDERER FIRST

A Short Story

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

INSPECTOR LEM DORSEY carefully arranged the three packs of paper matches on the table, leaving their flaps open. On the inside of each flap he wrote a name.

"Just so we'll remember who belongs to which," he smiled. The three men who stood about the table did not smile in return. Charlie Seabrook, vice-president of the Pillsbury Metal Works, said impatiently: "I wish you'd explain what it's all about, Inspector. I have to get up to Traversack by dinner time tonight."

"What!" Inspector Dorsey opened his eyes in astonishment. "Thinking of a dinner engagement when your president's body is hardly cold after being murdered!"

"We're not sure that it was murder." Seabrook answered sourly. "Besides, what good can I do staying here?"

"Why, you might be the man who murdered him!"

Seabrook snorted in disgust. He took out his watch, glanced at it, thrust it back into his pocket, sighed and regarded the inspector wearily. "Well, get on with it."

Kim Young, the metal company's bookkeeper, sat on the edge of a chair drumming on his knees with his fingers. He said now: "You've got to establish a motive before you can even think of pinning a murder charge on anyone, Inspector."

Dorsey shook his head. "I'll prove who killed him, and establish the motive later."

"You can't do that! You can't just accuse a man of murder without knowing why he'd do it." This from Fen Bradley, the company's general manager. He was a small man, wiry, alert. He had a quick nervous habit of gesturing with his hands as he talked.

Inspector Lem smiled blandly. "Now, gentlemen, you're all excited. I must say none of you is very shrewd. Otherwise you'd understand that you've reached the state of mind into which I've been trying to get you for the last half-hour. Well, anyway, we'll get on with the business.

"Now, you all noticed that Mr. Pillsbury was found holding the gun in his left hand. You have all testified that he was right-handed. What does this indicate? First, it indicates that he did not commit suicide as at first we suspected. Second, it indicates that whoever murdered him wanted it to appear like suicide. And, third, it indicates that Mr. Pillsbury's slayer was left-handed himself. We can reasonably hazard that, in the excitement of the moment the killer placed the gun in Mr. Pillsbury's left hand because it was natural and instinctive for him to do so.

"Now, it appears that all we have to do is find a left-handed man among those who were with Mr. Pillsbury this afternoon. You three have admitted—under questioning—to have dropped in at his office. Now, if one of you three were left-handed. . . . But, draw close here gentlemen. I want you to study these three packs of paper matches. I want you to tell me if any one is different from the rest."

Inspector Dorsey made a slight motion with his hand. As if unable to resist the three men drew close to the table and stared down at the three paper folders. Inspector Dorsey watched them closely. When their heads were bent he shot a quick, sharp glance at Officer Moriarty, who stood on guard near the door. Moriarty's nod was ever so slight, but the muscles beneath his blue uniform grew tense. One hand dropped carelessly to the butt of his service gun.

"Look the same to me," Bradley said, straightening. "Say, listen, inspector, what kind of a game is this?"

"How do they appear to you, Mr. Seabrook?" Dorsey asked, turning to the vice-president.

Seabrook shrugged. "Sorry, I guess I was thinking of something else. Might be a difference, but I can't see it."

"And you, Mr. Young?"

The bookkeeper gestured nervously. "There's more matches used from one pack than there is from the others," he offered.

"Precisely. And if you will note, the matches that have been used were taken from the left-hand side of the pack. Only a left-handed man would take them from that side first. He holds the pack in his right hand and tears off the matches nearest him with his left. That's natural. We could prove it more definitely by examining a dozen or more packs. But we can feel reasonably sure by examining the other two that are here. Please note, the remaining pair have the matches torn off from the right side, indicating that their users were right-handed.

"Now, we note the name on the left-hand pack. We see that is—Ah, Mr. Young, you're wasting your time trying to draw that gun. Officer Moriarty has his out already and it is aimed directly at your head."

Kim Young whirled with a savage oath. He might have suspected that Dorsey was bluffing. But Dorsey wasn't. Officer Moriarty's gun was pointed directly and in a very business like fashion at his head. He was bright enough to see the folly of trying to beat a trained weapon to the draw. He quit, with a sort of groaning sigh.

Inspector Dorsey sucked in his breath. He had hoped to avoid gunplay, and was glad Young had shown some intelligence.

"I doubt," he remarked dryly, "if we'll have much trouble in establishing the motive—now that we have the killer."

Senator LeBlanc Says South Has Great Industrial Future

Now Is the Time to Start Getting Somewhere, Says HADACOL Owner

Lafayette, La. (Sp.)—Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc, colorful owner of HADACOL, wants the South to sell its advantages to the nation just as he is selling HADACOL to the rest of the country.

The Senator spoke to about 500,000 people on his recent half million dollar good-will tour of 10 southern states. His theme was the fallacy of the South producing raw products, shipping them north for processing and then paying freight to bring the finished product back home.

The Senator pulled his handkerchief out of his pocket waving it to crowds that ranged from 25,000 to 60,000. "This handkerchief was made from cotton grown in the South," he said. "The cotton was shipped to Massachusetts and made into this finished product. Then we in the South paid the freight on it back home where we grew the cotton.

"That mill in Massachusetts furnished employment to folks up there and paid taxes that created schools and improved their economy. Why couldn't those northern folks move factories down here and give employments to our folks? I tell you, they would if we sell them the wonderful advantages of the South just as we are selling HADACOL to the rest of the nation."

Senator LeBlanc is spending a great deal of money on colored sound pictures of the HADACOL Good Will Show to display the advantages of southern industry. He plans to show these in theaters. He is also preparing an elaborate booklet to distribute throughout the north.

Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc

"I feel that when a firm has become as large as HADACOL that it owes it to its people to do more than sell just itself," said Senator LeBlanc.

Senator LeBlanc presented Mickey Rooney, Burns and Allen, Carmen Mirandi, Connee Boswell, Roy Acuff, Ernest Tubb, Minnie Pearl, Sharkey and His Dixieland Band, Frakson the Magician, and Marie Germain LeBlanc.

HADACOL is now selling at the rate of more than $2,000,000 per month and the Senator is planning to increase sales to $50,000,000 if he can obtain enough raw materials.

GRAPE AND MASCADINE PRESERVES ARE TASTY

Auburn, Ala. — Eating grapes fresh is one of the best ways to enjoy their rich flavor. But the grape season is so short it's a good idea to preserve some for winter use. That's the recommendation of A.P.I. Extension Service Food Preservation Specialist Lavada Curtis.

Grapes can be made into flavorsome grape juice, tart grape jelly, rich grape jam, or spicy grape butter.

"Grape juice and grape jelly are easy to make," asserts the specialist. "The problem in making these products is the crystals that sometimes form in them. These crystals are harmless, but they're gritty and ruin the texture of the products. If the juice is strained and allowed to set overnight in a cool place, the crystals will settle to the bottom. The next day carefully dip off the juice and strain it a second time."

Miss Curtis adds that when juice is made into jelly, this same trick may be used, or the grape juice may be combined with some other fruit juice.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Lucille Martin of Gary, Ind.: I don't remember the little red schoolhouse, but I do remember the three-room red brick school building with each room heated with a pot-bellied soft-coal stove. The building usually was set in a small cindery yard. There was a red-composition water bucket in each room with a tin dipper which was shared by about 60 pupils—a far cry from the more sanitary drinking fountain.

From Abigail M. Temple of New York City: Who remembers the songs of Col. Will S. Hays? A few of his most popular numbers were: "Evangeline," "My Southern Sunny Home," "Little Log Cabin in the Lane," "Take This Letter To My Mother," "Mollie Darlin'," "The Drummer Boy Of Shiloh," "I'll Remember Your Love In My Prayers," "Fourteen Years Ago," "Tilden and Reform," "Driven From Home," "Old-Fashioned Roses Are Sweetest" and "Nora O'Neal."

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: I remember getting matches in long boxes containing 1,000 pine sticks with sulphur tips. A box seemed to go fast. Diamond was the most wanted brand.

From Mrs. Maude Phillips of Ontario, Calif.: Those song-titles sure bring back old memories to me. Those I remember best include: "When You and I Were Young Maggie," "Nellie Gray," "On the Lone Prairie" and "My Old Kentucky Home."

FOREST FIRE CONTROL URGED

Fire was one of our greatest discoveries. Before fire was discovered people ate their food raw, dried by the sun, etc.

Fire is one of man's best friends if controlled; but one of his worst enemies when uncontrolled.

A large number of our forest fires are caused by burning new ground, terraces and fence rows and to kill (they think) the boll weevil. There is a certain amount of burning around the farm that more or less has to be done but let's control these burnings. Know your forest fire laws before you do any burning. Keep the fires out of our woods and our neighbor's woods for when a fire burns in the woods everyone loses, not only the land owner.

Let me quote an article pertaining to forest fires and the boll weevil that was printed in the Alabama Farmer's by Haygood Paterson, Commissioner.

"During the calendar year 1948, a total of 5,503 forest fires burned on the 17 million acres of forest land that the Division of Forestry of the Alabama Department of Conservation had under intensive forest fire control. Of this total 980 fires were classed as debris burning. In other words, approximately 16.6 percent of all forest fires occuring in Alabama are the result of burning brush, ditch banks, fence rows, terraces and fields preparatory to the start of farm operations. Instead of keeping such burning under control, the fires are permitted to spread into the adjoining woodlands. Much of this burning could have been avoided, but some farmers persist in the view that burning the woods is necessary to control the boll weevil.

"If burning the woods helped to control this insect pest, the vast cotton fields in the Mississippi delta would be completely free of the boll weevil. There are no woods there to burn! Nevertheless, the cotton crop in the delta is going to be short because of boll weevil damage. The humid days during the summer provided optimum conditions for the boll weevil to flourish and multiply.

Ordinarily the application of poison is effective, but during the summer of 1949 the rains came just after the poison had been applied. Consequently, the boll weevil continued to prosper at the expense of the farmer.

"There is no inducement for the boll weevil to go to the woods. There is nothing there for him to eat. Setting fire to the edges of the fields and permitting the fire to burn into the woods will kill very few weevils. There will always be enough weevils spending the winter around the barn and farm buildings to populate the cotton fields if weather conditions are just right. Hot, dry weather during the summer plus the application of poison, is the protection that the crop needs.

"The boll weevil has the unique distinction of destroying two crops—one directly and the other indirectly. Both the cotton crop and the tree crop are important sources of income to the farmer. Needless destruction of the tree crop in an effort to avoid weevil damage to the cotton crop is poor farm business.

"Growing trees is like having money in the bank at interest. They are an asset that can provide an income during the winter months, particularly if the farmer uses his own labor to cut fuelwood, pulpwood, poles, piles and sawlogs for the market. Growing trees should give a farmer a sense of security, for if one crop fails he still has his tree crop. His merchantable trees will provide cash income at regular intervals, provided he cuts his timber wisely.

"Tree farming is becoming increasingly important in Alabama because of better forest fire control and improved timber cutting practices. Indiscriminate burning of woodlands is just as destructive to the tree crop as is boll weevil damage to the cotton crop. Eliminate fire and save the tree crop; apply poison and save the cotton crop.

"Instead of destroying trees by fire in an effort to control the boll weevil, the farmer should plant his idle and unproductive acres with pine seedlings. The forest industries of Alabama need the tree crop to continue their operations. The farmer needs the income that the trees will provide. This spells prosperity to the individual and to the whole State of Alabama."

Whether it be crop land, pasture land or forests let's keep 'em green and keep 'em growing.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

THE OLD LINE office-holders have won out in the various governmental agencies on the question of whether or not they or an entirely new agency would have charge of rationing and controls under the new law just handed President Truman by the congress.

The President had announced that it was his plan for the existing agencies of government, such as agriculture, treasury, commerce and labor, to take over the functions in their own field which were practiced by OPA during the last war.

Mr. Truman found much opposition to his theory, however, from within the ranks of his official family on the theory it was bad politics. These leaders reasoned they and their departments likely would be here after the need for controls was over and they would inherit the ill-feelings and gripes which controls necessarily cause in the consuming public. The President, therefore, has announced he will create an entirely new agency to stabilize prices and wages to be known as the economic stabilization agency, headed by a director of price stabilization and with a wage stabilization board set up within the agency.

Particular opposition was voiced within the department of agriculture over the President's original plan on the theory the department which also conducts the price support program, would be conducting the price control program which would leave it open to much criticism.

In the meantime, pending set-up of the new agency, such allocations and controls as are necessary immediately will be operated by the old-time agencies under orders of the President.

* * *

President Truman likely will ignore the sentiment of the congress on the Franco loan provision of the omnibus appropriations measure. The President considers the Franco loan to Spain merely an authorization, but he does not consider himself bound to make the $62,500,000,000 loan, since he does not believe it would be in the best interest of this nation's foreign policy in Europe.

A White House statement in connection with the loan said: "Spain is not, and has not been foreclosed from borrowing money from this government. Money will be loaned to Spain whenever mutually advantageous arrangements can be made with respect to security, terms of repayment, purposes for which the money is to be spent and other appropriate factors, and whenever such loans will serve the interests of the United States in the conduct of foreign relations."

* * *

Also the President denounced as "unwise and dangerous" another provision of the appropriations bill which requires that the executive branch, and not congress, curtail its spending by cutting off $550,000,000 in expenditures from the $36 billion dollar total.

Actually what the congress did represents a failure by the congress itself to exercise its proper function and proper responsibility for enacting appropriations to conduct the government's business. The mere fact that congress approved such a proposal involving an arbitrary cut of such size indicates or is equivalent to a confession that it does not trust its own appropriations committee to do a good job of budget revision.

It will be remembered that the original motion by Senators Bridges and Byrd called for an across-the-board cut of $550,000,000. As it was finally passed, the motion was softened to give the budget bureau some leeway or some discrimination in making the cuts. Said Mr. Truman:

"This is an unwise and dangerous departure from proper budgetary practice. The congress itself should set the precise amounts of money to be spent.

* * *

"When I make a mistake, I try to correct it." Then smiling, President Harry Truman stood before more than 200 amazed members of the U. S. marine corps league in convention at the Statler hotel and made his apology for the now famous remark concerning the marines.

HEN CAFETERIA

Farmers find that when they let hens balance their own ration, maximum use can be made of home-grown feeds. Three feed hoppers are kept filled and before the hens at all times. One hopper contains a high protein supplement, the second one has whole yellow corn in it, and the third one is filled with whole oats.

IN MEMORIAM

Resolutions of the Board of Directors of Alabama Mills, Inc., on the death of Franklin Jackson Callen.

Franklin Jackson Callen, a member of the Board of Directors of Alabama Mills, Inc., departed this life at his home in the City of Clanton, Alabama, on September 2, 1950. His immediate survivors are his widow, Mrs. Amie Callen, a son, William Thomas Callen, both of Clanton, and a daughter, Mrs. Ann Callen Barnett, of Dallas, Texas.

Mr. Callen was born in Clanton, Alabama, on November 14, 1892. He spent his entire business life in Clanton where he was an outstanding leader in the civic and business affairs of the community. He became connected at an early age with the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton to which he devoted his time and efforts for a period of many years, having succeeded his distinguished father as President of the Bank and having served in that capacity for approximately twenty years prior to his death.

Mr. Callen was a highly respected and greatly beloved member of the community in which he lived, deeply interested in the upbuilding of his native City and always willing to devote his time and energies toward the improvement of the standard of living of his fellow citizens. His kindly, courteous, patient and sympathetic attitude toward his fellow man won for him a host of loyal friends.

Mr. Callen was instrumental in establishing a plant of the Company in his home City of Clanton. He has served on the Board of Directors of the Company since 1928. During the period he served on the Board he took an active interest in the Company's affairs, giving freely of his sound counsel and advice. We who were his friends and associates and who have worked with him over the years have suffered an irreparable loss in his passing.

As fellow members of the Board on which he served so faithfully we pause today to pay our respect to him and to record our gratitude for the privilege of serving with one whose contributions greatly helped in making the Company an asset to the industrial life of our State.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, by the Board of Directors of Alabama Mills, Inc., at a meeting held in the City of Birmingham, Alabama, on September 20, 1950, that in the passing of Franklin Jackson Callen the Company has lost an interested and able counsellor; and with his friends and family, we mourn the passing of this beloved associate, and tender our deepest sympathy to his loved ones; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that these resolutions be entered on the minutes of the Company and these expressions of respect and esteem for him and of sympathy to his loved ones in their bereavement be transmitted to the members of his family.

(Too Late For Last Week)

There was a nice crowd out for Sunday School and preaching Sunday morning. Everyone enjoyed the message Bro. Jones brought us. Sunday night we had an awful small attendance to compare with that of Sunday morning, although Bro. Jones brought as good a message. All who missed it, missed a blessing. We are praying you will wake up to God's work which is your church, and do all you can to be present next time.

Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Jones and son were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Yeargan and family Sunday.

Mrs. Ed Humphrey and children of Sylacauga were the week end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T Partridge, and attended Sunday School and preaching Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Devaughn visited Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Devaughn Saturday night. Mr. Devaughn is very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yeargan and children of Talladega visited their family here over the week end.

Miss Joyce Ann Devaughn spent Sunday with Miss Annie Fern Edwards.

We hope and pray you will be able to attend Sunday School next Sunday and visitors remember you are always welcome to come worship with us.

TIME TO PLAN SPRING AND SUMMER GARDENS

It's time to plan for the late spring and summer garden, according to J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service garden specialist.

In fact, he urges gardeners to plant winter legumes on land where spring and summer gardens will be grown. Beans, peas, squash, tomatoes, eggplant, cucumbers, corn, melons, and other summer-growing vegetables do well following a good crop of legumes turned under early in the spring.

DUROC BREEDERS MAKE PLANS FOR TWO SALES

Auburn, Ala. — Growers and all others interested in Alabama's hog industry are invited to attend one or both hog sales scheduled for October by the Duroc Breeders' Association.

The first sale will be held on the Birmingham fair grounds, October 7th. The other sale is set for October 19th at the Dothan Stadium.

"At each show, hog growers will have an opportunity to select some of the best foundation stock in the state," declares Jimmy Nunn, secretary for the Duroc Breeders' Association.

He believes that a number of farmers will welcome this chance to select gilts for brood sows. They are reminded that well-grown gilts can be bred at 8 to 10 months of age. Also, well-grown boars may be used for light service at 8 to 10 months.

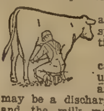
American Foundation For Animal Health

The Great Milk Thief—Mastitis

QUESTION: Just what is the cattle disease, "mastitis"?

ANSWER: Mastitis means any inflammation of the udder. Several kinds of germs can cause several types of infection in teats and udders. Injuries may also cause mastitis.



QUESTION: What are some common symptoms of mastitis?

ANSWER: If the case is acute, the udder may be sore and swollen; there may be a discharge from the teats, and the milk may be stringy. In chronic cases, however — and there are hundreds of thousands of these —a laboratory test and physical examination may be required for a sure diagnosis.

QUESTION: What treatment is best for mastitis?

ANSWER: Several types of medication are helpful. But tests must be made first to find out what germs are causing the trouble—so the correct treatment may be used to fight that particular cause. The important thing to remember is to have a veterinarian check the animal at the first sign of trouble. Prompt action may save a cow's usefulness.

QUESTION: What can an owner do to prevent mastitis?

ANSWER: Guard against teat injuries; be sure milking machines are adjusted correctly; buy only clean replacement stock; sterilize milking equipment; milk infected cows last; work out a practical control plan with the veterinarian. Medication alone will not solve this problem. A planned control program is necessary.

The Story

HUMPHREY BOGART and George Raft, as two free-lance truck drivers, have been operating their business on borrowed money. Bogart hates the night-driving hours because it keeps him away from his wife, Gale Paige. Raft meets up with Ann Sheridan, playing a flippant roadside waitress, and falls hard. Bogart has an accident and loses his arm, and Raft is then forced to go and ask an old friend, Alan Hale, for a job. Hale's wife, played by Ida Lupino, is young and attractive, and makes a strong play to win Raft's attentions. He gives her the cold shoulder. Ida then murders her husband and tries to pin the guilt on Raft. During the trial however, Ida cracks under the strain and exonerates Raft, which leaves him free to marry Ann.

FARMERS URGED GROW WINTER GRAZING

Farmers who grow enough winter grazing can make more beef profit by having their calves born in the fall rather than in the spring.

But farmers who do not have plenty of winter grazing should have their calves born in the spring because cows can get through winter without adequate feed better if they are dry than if they are suckling calves.

For each brood cow, cattlemen need at least one acre of early winter grazing, to be fed along with dry roughage. With this system they can make extra profit from fall calves.

Fall calves have the following advantages over spring calves: 1. Fall calves are born at a time when their mothers do not give the maximum amount of milk. This reduces the problem of milking out cows. 2. Calves grow better in the cool part of the year than they do in the summer heat. 3. They will be big enough to use the extra milk their mothers produce when the grass puts out in the spring. They can also eat spring grass to advantage. 4. Fall calves can stay with their mother for nine to ten months rather than six or seven. 5. They will be ready to sell in July and August, when the market is higher than it is in the fall.

At the Black Belt Substation the average of the last three calf crops showed that fall calves brought $52.90 more than spring calves. They weighed more, brought a better price per pound, and were ready to sell two months earlier. They also graded higher by official government grades.

The way to get fall calves is to keep bulls away from the cows from July 1 until December 1. After doing this for a number of years, most cows will drop their calves in the fall. Heifers being brought into production should be bred to have their first calf in the fall.

WINTER CABBAGE

Cabbage plants should be kept growing rapidly. To bring about this rapid growth, it may be necessary to water the plants when the weather is dry.

WINTER LEGUMES IMPROVE SOIL

One important reason for growing winter legumes is that, when used regularly and often enough, they play a big part in improving soil fertility.

Results from experiment conducted at various locations in Alabama emphasize the long-time value of legumes in a farming program.

A simple winter legume-corn-cotton rotation was conducted from 1930 through 1945 on the Tennessee Valley, Sand Mountain, and Wiregrass Substations and the Alexandria, Aliceville, Brewton, and Prattville experiment fields of the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station System.

In this experiment the winter legume was fertilized with the equivalent of 400 pounds per acre of 0-16-8; corn, following the legume, was unfertilized; and cotton received the equivalent of 250 pounds of 0-16-8 and 100 pounds per acre of nitrate of soda. Varieties, spacing, and time of planting were practically uniform throughout the period.

1934-37 — corn, 40.3 bu.; seedcotton, 1339 lbs.

1938-41 — corn, 44.8 bu.; seedcotton, 1547 lbs.

This simple rotation increased the yields of corn and cotton very noticeably the first four years. In fact, except on the rather fertile Tennessee Valley soil, yields were more than doubled by the first few winter legume crops. The winter legume was planted and turned for corn; its value to cotton is an indirect one that came the second year through the carry-over effect of the legume.

The value of winter legumes is further shown by comparing the first four-year period with the last four years. The increase in the corn yield was 35 percent and the cotton 34 percent. At present prices the increased soil fertility from 1930-33 to 1942-45 is worth $13.25 per acre annually to corn and $42.50 to cotton—a total of $55.75. The annual cost of winter legume seed to produce these increases was approximately six dollars per acre. Fertilizer treatments were the same in all years.

Hogs build and improve land. They produce more manure, per pound of body weight, than any other farm animal. And it contains more total fertilizer elements than any other farm animal pasture. This valuable conservation material can best be used by keeping hogs on green grazing.

POULTRY NEWS

Broiler Feedings. Recent research shows that broilers fed crumbles or pellets make greater gains than those fed a mash feed.

However, the birds fed pellets are likely to develop cannibalism, feather picking, or go off-feed before market age. If pellets are fed, they should be used as a supplement to the mash or crumble form of feed. Supplemental feeding of pellets will slightly increase the rate of gain.

Feeding Grain Profitable. Feeding grain the last two weeks of the growing period to broilers will reduce the cost of feed per pound of grain, according to recept work at the Experiment Station at Auburn. The rate of growth of the birds may be reduced slightly, but the lower cost of the grain will more than off-set this.

Grain may make up as much as one-third of the ration during this period and should be fed in the afternoon.

Chicks in houses where the litter was not disturbed, except by the chickens gave heavier birds at end of the growing period, gains were made on less feed and the stirring had no effect on coccidiosis outbreaks.

The formation of rust on iron utensils that are not often used may be prevented in this way. Dry the utensils thoroughly and then oil them lightly with mineral oil or rub with fat which contains no salt.

PROCESSING MILK SALES IN CHILTON COUNTY GRADUALLY INCREASING

During July, 1950 (last summary records received by County Agents' Office) sixty Chilton County milk shippers sold 81,863 pounds of milk for a total income of approximately $3,000.00. This is an average monthly income of $50.00 per producer per month. Chilton County Grade "B" dairymen are milking an average of only about four cows per producer.

The sixty milk producers have been able to add this additional $50.00 per month to the family farm income without materially reducing their acreages or production of other cash crops.

Considering the fact that milk income is twelve-months-per-month income, sixty farmers are now producing at a $36,000.00 annual rate. Thirty-six thousand dollars will buy a lot of school kids shoes.

4-H SIGNS ON MAILBOXES

Chilton County's roadsides are still looking prettier every day by use of 4-H signs on mailboxes. During the summer large numbers of signs were put up and mailboxes painted.

Since school has started the following girls at Enterprise were given signs by the home agents:

Lena Mae Jacks, Jeanette Tucker, Willodean Headley, Betty Jo Littleton, Margaret Cleckler, Virginia Rollan, Willie Jean Wilson.

PARTRIDGE PEAS SELL FOR $1.00 POUND

Auburn, Ala.—All farmers who have wild or cultivated stands of large partridge peas should be able to find a market for properly harvested seed if they contact the local county agent.

"Last year," reveals Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. Extension Service wildlife specialist, "between 11,000 and 12,000 pounds of seed were harvested and sold with the exception of about 1,500 pounds that had low germination."

He stresses the fact that harvesting at the correct time, drying properly, and recleaning seed are the factors for obtaining high germination. For a germination test, farmers may send a sample of seed to the Department of Agriculture, Montgomery, Ala.

"Large partridge peas is one of the best crops to plant for bob whites (quail). The crop is an annual which usually gives a satisfactory volunteer stand. It will succeed on a greater variety of soils in Alabama than any other quail food plant now known, and can be used as a volunteer summer legume in rotation with winter grains on poor soils."

CRIMSON CLOVER ON LESPEDEZA SERICEA

Usually agronomists and county agents are urging farmers to plant crops earlier than they do, but this is not true when planting crimson clover on an established stand of lespedeza sericea.

"Unless rainfall is heavy," explains D. R. Harbor, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, "a good stand of crimson clover, planted before the sericea stops growing and removing large amounth of water from the soil, usually will not survive. The sericea starves the crimson clover seedlings to death."

Therefore, the specialist says that it is safer to delay the planting of crimson clover seed on established sericea until rather late—around October 15th.

A CHECK UP MAY MEAN HONOR ROLL FOR PUPIL

To be "smart" in their studies, school children need to see and hear well, advises Elta Majors, A.P.I. Extension Service child care specialist.

She points out that a child who has poor teeth, faulty vision or poor hearing is handicapped greatly. Most often the child will not reveal these handicaps except to the family doctor who is trained to recognize them. A physical check up for the young scholar will help him go to school with enthusiasm and make better grades.

To balance rug wear, mark one corner of the rug with a safety pin. Then when the rug is relaid each year, place it so that the marked corner is moved halfway around. Thus the rug is given the same amount of wear.

Don't Be Satisfied With Symptomatic Relief!

HADACOL NOW MAKES IT POSSIBLE TO RELIEVE THE CAUSE OF YOUR SICKNESS

Neuritis Pains, Stomach Disturbances, Indigestion, Gas, Constipation, Certain Nervous Disorders and a General Run-down Condition

When due to lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin in your system!

Read How These Folks Benefited Who Had Such Deficiencies

Mr. Anthamatten, 4731 South 32nd West Ave., Tulsa 7, Oklahoma, suffered from stomach distress for quite some time. He had spent much money trying everything possible for relief and was in bad health when he started taking HADACOL. He says, "After taking three bottles of the $3.50 size, I've gained 27 pounds and now eat anything I desire and positively have no trouble." (HADACOL gives such wonderful results because it actually relieves the REAL CAUSE of stomach distress [gas pains, heartburn, indigestion after eating] due to such deficiencies. And continued use of this great HADACOL helps prevent such distress from returning.)

Mrs. Mabel Kitchen, 1650 Amsterdam, Cincinnati, Ohio. "Before I started taking HADACOL I had aches and pains of neuritis in my shoulders, my back and arms. I could hardly move without having those terrible pains. Then I heard about HADACOL. After the second bottle the pains and aches were about gone. I'm now starting my fourth bottle and am on top of the world. I eat well and, best of all, the aches and pains are completely gone." (Mrs. Kitchen is a very smart woman because she relieves the REAL CAUSE of her neuritis pains due to such deficiencies. HADACOL often brings a wonderful improvement within a few days' time.)

Mrs. J. Sciesszinski, 514 Kruger, Ottumwa, Iowa, writes: "My daughter, Marilyn Sue, is 5 years old and for some time lacked pep, had a poor appetite, was generally run-down. Since giving her HADACOL, we have noticed wonderful results . . . she has a much better appetite, eats everything on the table and doesn't seem tired like she used to. Incidentally, she likes to take HADACOL, too." (HADACOL is a great 'builder-upper' for sick, nervous, puny kids whose systems lack precious Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin. A big improvement in their well-being is often noticed within a few days' time after taking the great new HADACOL.)

Mr. Henry Angel, RD No. 1, Springfield, Ohio. "I used to suffer great pain from neuritis aches in all parts of my body, especially in my legs, arms and shoulders. I never got any real relief until I tried HADACOL. After taking several bottles, my pain is all gone. And I'm working every day." (Now there's a smart man! Mr. Angel took HADACOL and relieved the REAL CAUSE of his neuritis pains because they were due to such deficiencies. HADACOL is helping thousands upon thousands of grateful men and women troubled this way. Why don't you give HADACOL a chance to help you? Start taking it today!)

IMPORTANT! Why don't you get that wonderful HADACOL feeling everyone is talking about? In this modern age, wise folks are no longer satisfied with symptomatic relief — because now it's possible to relieve the CAUSE of such deficiency sickness with that wonderful new HADACOL.

HADACOL not only supplies deficient systems with extra quantities of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin but also helpful amounts of precious Calcium, Phosphorus and Manganese—vital elements every human being must have to maintain good health. You owe it to yourself to give HADACOL a fair trial. Many doctors recommend this great new HADACOL. It's sold on a strict money-back guarantee. Trial size, $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50.

Church News—

Nineteen members of the Sunbeam Band of the Baptist Church met with their leader, Mrs. Frances Watson, last Thursday afternoon. After their program they enjoyed a watermelon cutting at the Nix lake. New leaders for the Sunbeams for the coming year are Miss Mishie Bearden and Mrs. Hershel Shanks.

Attendance at Sunday School worship service, B.T.U. and prayer meeting at the Baptist Church is growing, for which the pastor and leaders are proud. Let us continue to grow.

A mission study is being taught at the Methodist Church in the afternoons of this week. Mrs. Charles Baugh is teaching this study.

Those who attended the study on Stewardship, taught by Mrs. Rube Bearden at the Baptist church Monday afternoon, were: Mrs. Daisy Littlejohn, Mrs. Evie Cochran, Mrs. Willie Hathcock, Mrs. Evan Johnson, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mrs. Frankie Seals, Mrs. Eugene Hathcock, Mrs. Sara Mitchell, Mrs. Ruth Hubbard and Mrs. Robert Scott.

It is the intention of the Baptist pastor, Rev. Evan Johnson, starting next Sunday night, to begin a series of sermons on Love, Courtship and marriage. The subject for the first sermon will be, "Dating." It is the intention of the pastor to deal with this series of subjects in such a way as to be helpful both to young people who have these problems and for their parents who must help them with them. We are quite sure every one will be blessed by hearing these sermons.

Those who wish to attend the Howard College Extension School at Clanton meet at the church Thursday, at 6:30 p.m.

We extend our sympathy to Dr. Ed Day and family in the death of his twin brother, Mr. Jim Day, last Wednesday in Vaughn's Memorial Hospital, Selma, Ala. Dr. Day and his brother were together in rolling chairs on the sun porch of the hospital only a few minutes before Mr. Jim Day's death, which came suddenly as he entered his room for lunch. Mr. Day was a resident of Selma, Ala., and was in the hospital for treatment of heart ailment. Dr. Day's condition still continues to improve. He is gaining weight and is expected to return to his home in Maplesville this week. This is gratifying news to all his friends here and in surrounding communities, although he may not be able to practice medicine for some time. We shall be happy to see him back at home.

Red Devils Win 19-0—

Everyone making the trip got into the game. With only 24 Maplesville boys dressed out against 41 Bibb County boys, the outlook before game time looked dim. However once the game started there was little doubt as to the outcome.

The line play of the Red Devils drew high praise from Coach Kelly, as they opened holes time and again for the backs to gain yardage. The defensive line was impossible for Bibb County to penetrate. Most of their gains came from an unexpected passing attack in the first half.

Coach Kelly expects a much harder game this Friday night at West Blocton, and warns of over confidence. However, if the boys play as they did against Centreville, West Blocton will find a game on their hands. So come on, boys, and don't let up. Let's every one who can go to West Blocton and boost our team on to another victory.

Maplesville Red Devils will play Isabella Friday night, Octber 6th here on the home field, and they will have a will to win.

Erosion is stipped, too. See the local county agent for complete information on ordering pines to be planted on Alabama farms.

HARVESTING TOMATOES

If tomatoes are wet when harvested, small particles of sand and dirt will stick to them and cause small cuts in the skin. These cuts may not be noticeable immediately but will become discolored and may even start to decay as the tomatoes ripen.

SAFETY DEVICES ON FARM MACHINES

Farmers should check safety devices regularly for rust and dirt and other foreign material by forcing them to break, trip, or release.

LAND USE

A sound land use program for a farm provides for cropping the land in such a way that the soil will be stabilized and the fertility improved.

Hogs need good pasture as much as cattle. Hogs don't eat as much green grazing, but what they do eat is very important if best gains are to be made at the least cost.

Some years ago farmers thought the best way to fatten hogs was to shut them up in a tight floored pen and pour the corn to them. But today they know that full feeding a balanced ration, including green grazing, produces cheaper pork and better quality meat too.

Never salt turnips when cooking as salt extracts their sweetness.

Pigs born on green ground and kept on it until they go to market as top hogs in about six months are seldom bothered by internal parasites.

Hogs are not choicy about the kind of green grazing they eat. They'll graze and do well on nearly any kind commonly grown in Alabama. Most farmers can provide green grazing for almost 12 months in the year.

A bulletin board placed on the kitchen wall and used for inter-family reminders and messages is helpful in many households.

WHEREAS, the above sum for the County is to cover construction costs and engineering and inspection charge; in connection therewith.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of these premises, the mutual covenants herein contained, and the sum of $1.00 by each of the parties to the other in hand paid, receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

That the State will enter into agreement with the Public Roads Administration covering the improvement of the road and-or bridge from Clanton to Lay Dam, known as Project No. S-18 (2).

Minutes Of Com'issioners Court-

That the County hereby authorizes the State to transfer sufficient unobligated funds accrued to the credit of the county and held in the funds of the State to cover one-fourth of the cost of said project and the County agrees to pay to the State on or before the award of the contract a like amount of the unobligated funds accrued in the Treasury of the County to match such funds. Should the funds as provided in Section 13; namely, Federal funds in the amount of $32,061.53, plus the unobligated funds accrued to the credit of the County in the State Treasury, plus the unobligated funds in the County Treasury for matching same, fail to be sufficient to cover the amount of the contract, the County will, on or before the award of the contract, pay to the State the difference in such amounts.

Upon completion of the projects, a final settlement will be made between the State and County, adjusting overruns on such a basis whereby the State and County will share equally in the cost thereof over and above the FAS funds alloted to the County for the project.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the State of Alabama Highway Department has caused these presents to be executed by Ward W. McFarland, State Highway Director, and Chilton County, by proper resolution of its Commissioners Court (or Board of Revenue), has caused these presents to be executed this the day and year above written.

114 Births In Chilton County In Three Months

Montgomery, Ala. — The 17,486 births reported from the entire state between April and June, inclusive, included 114 occurring in Chilton County. The announcement was made today by the State Department of Health.

The state total fell markedly short of the 18,970 births reported in January, February and March. It also failed by a substantial margin to equal the 18,585 births reported in April, May and June of last year.

The State Health Departments announcement was based upon provisional reports prepared by its Bureau of Vital Statistics. These may differ slightly from the final reports not yet available.

All figures refer to live births only. No stillbirths are included.

Take One False Step To Show At Drive-In

William Powell wears armored underwear for a scene of "Take One False Step," Universal-International comedy-melodrama starring him and Shelley Winters, which opens Saturday at the Clanton Drive-In Theatre.

The scene shows Powell fighting for his life with a big and savage police dog, which attacks when he breaks into the home of a discarded girl friend to salvage an incriminating diary. Since Powell and the former girl friend are now married to different persons, the diary is important.

Studio technicians devised the armored underwear to save Powell from any possible punctures while he jousted with the dog, a powerful 100-pound animal capable of breaking an arm or leg or ripping out a jugular with one sweep of its fangs.

"Take One False Step" was produced and directed by Chester Erskine, who directed "The Egg and I." The cast includes Marsha Hunt, James Gleason, Dorothy Hart and Felix Bressart.

Promoted At Station WKLF

PAUL REID

The promotion of Paul E. Reid, for the past several months Program Director of Radio Station WKLF, to the position of Assistant Manager of the local radio station, was announced recently.

The announcement was made by the General Manager of the Southeastern Broadcasting Company, Robert B. Taber. In this announcement Taber stated that his new assistant had been with the company better than two years and he felt that the promotion was well earned. "It is with great pleasure that I make this announcement," Taber said, "because I feel that Paul Reid is a definite asset to Radio Station WKLF and to the Clanton community as a whole."

Raised in north Alabama, Reid received his early education in the schools of Cullman and Gadsden. He joined the U. S. Air Corps in 1942, and upon completion of his training was shipped to the ETO, where he flew many missions throughout Europe.

Following his release from the Air Corps Reid entered the University of Alabama in the School of Radio Arts and entered the employ of the local radio station as an announcer in October, 1948. Shortly thereafter he was promoted to Program Director and has risen steadily to his present position.

C.C.H.S. Seeks Fourth Win Friday Night

After squeezing by Montevallo last Friday night by one point Clanton will be out to win its fourth game Friday night of this week from Billingsley High School. The visitors are a new comer on the Tigers' football schedule. The last time these two teams met was in 1942 when the locals won by the score of 20 to 0. That was in the days when James Payton was putting on the steam around end, and Bobo Collins was snatching passes thrown to him down field. All these boys have long since passed on and come this week end it will be seen what the present team will do about a score

Little is known as to what kind of a team Billingsley will put on the field, but judging by the last two games the Tigers will not take this game lightly. The team came through the hard Montevallo game with no serious injuries, and should be ready for the game at kick-off time at 7:30.

Power Company Pays Tax Dept. Of State Big Tax

Alabama Power Company delivered to the State Department of Revenue today a check for $649,558.98 in payment of the 1950 kilowatt hour tax. It was $127,275.24 greater than the 1949 payment. The 1950 payment is the largest since the tax was imposed in 1927.

This tax is in addition to all other taxes paid by Alabama Power Company.

The entire amount of the tax goes into the special educational trust fund of the state. Elementary and high schools in the state will get $503,114 of the tax payment, institutions of higher learning will receive $85,100 and the remainder will be used for other educational services. Every county in the state receives a share of the tax, with 47 counties receiving more than $5,000.

The Power Companys tax bill for 1950, including federal taxes, will total approximately $10,000,000, of which about $1,500,000 will go to schools.

PILOT NEWS

The Clanton Pilot Club assembled in the private dining room at the Dixie Cafe September 26th at 7 o'clock for the regular program meeting. The International Relations Committee, Mrs. Gertrude Nivens and Mrs. Edna K. Williams, had charge of the program.

The after dinner speaker, Mrs. Ann Davis, Opelika, Ala., our former District Governor, and now chairman of the Co-ordinating Committee of Pilot International, spoke to us on her visit to Vimouties, the French Village in Normandy, which is sponsored by Pilots.

Our own Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With The Wind," became concerned over the tremendous needs of the war-torn village in the heart of Normandy. Vimouties, through a young engineer, Dennis Barios, who learned to fly near Atlanta during the war. Since many Pilots were her friends, she turned to Pilot International in seeking a sponsor for the village.

The local Pilot Club in Clanton has joined in, hearts and hands, with all the other Pilots in coming to the aid of this picturesque, but war devastated village.

Last Christmas, package after package arrived in the village to make it a memorable time in the lives of the war orphans. There was new equipment for the schools, the hospitals and all the institutions. The elderly were comforted and the suffering relieved by food, clothing and medicines.

Now in the orphanage the little ones no longer need to eat with bent and blackened spoons salvaged from the ruins after the 1944 bombings. There are many true stories which would stir your deepest sympathy.

There is joy and happiness, too, and beauty, under the skilled fingers of the women, fine linens and embroideries are stitched. These are sold in Paris and are much sought after. An exhibit of them is in America, and perhaps Clanton Pilots may invite you to a showing in the near future. All monies received for the fine linens are for the support of the orphanage in Vimouties.

Pilot Ann Davis was an interesting and able speaker. She brought greetings from the Pilot Club in London, England, and the appreciation, the grateful thanks of Vimouties.

The Pilots theme for the year is Building Against Bewilderment. Ann reminded us we cannot ignore the problems of bewilderment, but we can face them, acknowledge them and do something about it. For we cannot afford to be idle. We must have unity of purpose, faith in God and in ourselves, then we can begin to lay the foundation for International goodwill and security.

County To Hold Election To Vote Four Mill Tax To Build And Maintain Hospital

When the voters go to the polls on November 7th in Chilton County they will vote on a four-mill tax in addition to six Proclamations, and, of course, the regular ticket of candidates for the various State and County offices.

The thing that has been added is the four-mill tax election:

Under the provisions of a recent constitutional amendment, the counties of Alabama are authorized to levy up to a 4-mill tax for hospital purposes after a favorable vote of the people. The proceeds of the tax can be used as follows:

1. 75 percent can be pledged for retirement of bonds issued to finance the county's part of the cost of the building and equipping the hospital.
2. The balance can be used for operation and maintenance of the hospital. In the event the full 75 percent is not required for debt service, all of the remainder of the tax may be used for operation and maintenance.

Under the provisions of the Hill-Burton Act, the County will be required to put up only approximately one-sixth of the cost. Thuus, if a new hospital is to cost $600,000, the county's share would only be one-sixth or $100,000. The estimated cost of a new hospital for Chilton County has not yet been determined nor has the number of beds been determined. These factors will be decided after the recommendations of the Hospital Planning Board.

Every county that has called an election on the voting of the 4-mill tax has voted the tax overwhelmingly. Among the counties that have voted the tax are the following:

Blount, Perry, Randolph, Lawrence, Pickens, Escambia, Houston, Bullock and Conecuh.

The hospital would be operated on a businesslike basis and would be under the management and supervision of a trained hospital manager and supervisor. There is a very definite need for adequate facilities in Chilton County.

RECALLS UPSET . . . The last presidential campaign when President Truman snatched victory from the jaws of defeat was recalled when the chief executive was presented with a Norman Rockwell oil painting and a bronze plaque by the national council to combat blindness for his efforts in furthering the cause of eye research. The painting depicts a husband and wife debating over the breakfast table. Husband is a Dewey man and wifie is all for Harry.

Decentralization Of America Can Be Grassroots - Inspired

The "Why Not" department last week struck closely to the secret of the future success of many a grassroots community. Why not go after more of the decentralized business movements?

The suggestion cited at least four excellent reasons why small-town living can attract the factories.

These were:

ONE—It costs less to live out of the city.

TWO—It costs less for transportation.

THREE—Small towns provide better facilities for growing children, considering traffic dangers, larger play areas, better and closer friendships, etc.

FOUR—There is more off-duty time for workers by virtue of less travel-time, less fatigue from fighting traffic of riding commuter trains.

Finally, from an immediate urgency viewpoint, decentralization provides for a better national protection since enemy attacks could not destroy factories and personnel which have been dispersed.

The WHY NOT suggested that a good small town committee, really interested in community growth, could manage a fund to erect the kind of plant needed and lease it to the factory firm.

Theres a good reason for this control. The committee could make sure that the plant is kept attractive, that it could be made to look more like a school—for instance—instead of a factory. This would keep the community's eye-appeal at a high standard, thus drawing other people and factories.

It should be pointed out that such committees should bear in mind that small towns cannot possibly attract new residents unless they provide a means of making a good living. When a factory is moved, employees frequently go with the move, thus adding new population or creating new markets for merchants, builders, advertising and newspaper circulation.

We believe that thousands of big-city residents would welcome an opportunity to move to smaller towns if work was made available.

All Americans like to look to future progress. In a small town, for one thing, the resident with means can look to wide civic developments which may either have been accomplished or stand as impossible barriers in the fully-developed city.

There is still another angle to tax-harrassed communities, which favors this industry-attracting plan.

If a factory committee were to form a non-profit group and then take options on land, lay out a regular plan and raise funds for new factories, the land would increase in value as the town grew. This would turn a neat profit, all of which could be used to meet local government costs.

If such profits were used in lieu of taxes, or in reducing such taxes locally, the fact would have a great pulling power on new factories. Commercial firms frequently get stuck on taxes and they don't like it. An attractive tax rate would be especially luring.—Publisher's Auxiliary.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

What's going on around here? First, we are told that Paul Reid is leaving us and taking a position at Opelika and then we are told that he is not. . . he is remaining here. The latter, of course, is the best news. Not only to us but to all these pretty girls Paul has given palpatation of the heart. We hope Paul will remain in Clanton. He has made scores of friends here and in Central Alabama because of his sunny disposition and friendly manner and we would hate to lose him.

Everybody is going to the Alabama State Fair at Birmingham this week. That is, the best way we know to forget your troubles and take your hair down. There is absolutely nothing that will turn back the years and lift care from your shoulders like paying twenty-five cents for a nickel balloon. Or spending ten cents a throw at dolls that were made to stay-put while your ball glances off to one side. And cotton candy—the biggest ball of nothing since Herbert Hoover, is a must at any fair. It's all a gyp at Fair midways but people love it just the same. It has always appeared to us that Fairs were attended with the expectations of throwing your money away and when it is all gone you leave satisfied. Of course there are educational features too. They are the features that are free. And not nearly so popular as the midway. Bet you think we have more sense than to go to the Fair and spend our money on nothing — but foolishness. Ha, ha.

Well, see you at the fair.

Sorry to hear of the sickness of Dewey "Catfish" Eubanks. He suffered a stroke the past week end it is reported. Catfish was our favorite barber for many years and was depended upon by many to see after their tonsorial requirements. We hope he will be back on duty before long.

What's this we hear about Melba Studdard getting married. And to Oakley Melton, Jr., too, son of our Circuit Judge. That's the story that leaked out Sunday and surprised everybody here about. Of course it didn't surprise the family but we don't think they intended making the announcement for a while yet. We don't know Oakley, Jr., but we know his dad, and if he grows into as fine a man we can tell you now he'll be okey. As for Melba, we've known her since she was a little girl and we surely wish the mostest of the bestest for her always.

Did you know that Jimmy Stroud was playing full back on the U. S. Naval Recruiting Station football team in Washington, D.C.? Just shows how little you get around. However, we wouldn't have known either if Helen Stroud Mims hadn't told us. Jimmy played at C.C.H.S. before entering the Armed Forces.

Another square dance at Thorsby Saturday night. It will be sponsored by Post 206 American Legion. The last square dance given by the Post a few weeks ago must have been a big success. At any rate the same rules apply, same admission price, same children under 12 can get in free if accompanied by their parents. So come out and enjoy a square dance with the Legion.

SHOCK TREATMENT

Shock treatment for mental illness is not new. Ether was used in 1854 to produce shock; in 1870 overdoses of opium were tried, and electricity from dry cell batteries was applied in 1872 to stimulate mental activity. Prolonged sleep was experimented with in 1922, and carbon dioxide inhalations were tested in 1927. Insulin was first given for shock treatment in 1933. Two years later metrazol produced convulsions, and good results in patients with psychosis were reported. The use of electricity was revived in 1938 with the development of instruments to control the dosage and time factors.

Just what happens to a psychotic person when given shock treatment? Psychosis may be defined as that abnormal pattern of activity which appears in a previously normal person who has met an intolerable situation and solved his problem by making a complete and successful retreat from reality, whereby it has become unnecessary to meet the intolerable situation. In treatment, a person is rendered unconscious. During the process of regaining consciousness, it has been shown that the oldest habits of action and thinking make their appearance first, followed in rapid succession and in their proper order by younger, more recent habits.

If a psychotic patient is rendered unconscious, it is logical to assume that on regaining consciousness, the psychotic pattern of activity will be the last, rather than the first, of the habit patterns to reappear. There is an interval in this recovery process when the patient passes through a normal period before the psychotic pattern is remembered. It is during this lucid period that the physician is able to make suggestions to the patient to aid in the solution of his problem.

Shock treatment is merely an agent opening the pathways of communication and is said by many physicians to be useless in cases of long standing psychosis. Shock treatment cures nothing, but may open the door whereby the true curative factors may be able to enter and get behind the dark cloak that surrounds the patient.

Crusade For Freedom

Since September 5th the Crusade For Freedom has been under way. It is for the purpose of letting the people behind the so-called "Iron Curtain" know that there is yet a free people in the world, and that we will resist with everything that is within us all aggression which might appear to destroy this precious freedom we now enjoy. Wars have been fought before this date to free nations, to establish freedom and justice for one and all. There are in this country and in other countries men like old Pat Henry who said, "Give me liberty, or give me death." We all know, or should know by now, that the movement is on to take and destroy our freedom, our way of life and free enterprise, freedom of speech, and freedom of worship; and to enslave us as others have been enslaved. But this can never be done, if we who are the free people of the world will do one thing, that is, keep faith in God, and live by our faith. It was said by a man after God's own heart, "That if God was for him, who could be against him." Friends, all aggression will meet with defeat if we keep faith in God, and live by our faith.

A. T. HICKMAN

As I have said before, and it will bear repeating, that our first line of defense is the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. He has established it upon the Rock that the gates of hell cannot prevail against. This Institution, the Church, is the salt of the earth, and it is the light of the world. Pagans cannot enslave a free people who hold to their faith in the true and living God. Israel was delivered from the tyranny of Egypt, and even from other kingdoms that held them in bondage. They always gained their freedom with faith in their God. This great crusade for freedom can be successful only as we exercise a living faith in the Living God. It is He that has made us, and not we ourselves. And it is He that can and will protect His very own. May this present Crusade For Freedom cause many to awake out of their sleep and slumber; arouse themselves spiritually, and find their way back to the Church and to God. We can never have a real Crusade For Freedom successfully until we have a revival of faith in God, and spiritual worship. We already have a form of godliness without the power, but we need the spiritual power to make our religion and faith alive.

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

Do the Thing You Fear To Do

HERE'S A MAN who says that at one time, and not so long ago, he was living virtually in a state of confusion. He found himself unable to make clean-cut, definite decisions on even minor matters. He would have his mind almost made up on a certain point, then, presto! he would begin to waver.

This man is Stewart H. Jessee, Hugo, Oklahoma.

Carnegie

Well, it's not surprising to hear that any man wavers today when confronted with a decision. We have so much evidence presented on each side of a question, and much of it forced, untrue. But let's go on and see what happened in the case of Stewart Jessee when he was promoted to a new job in his company. This job carried quite a lot of responsibility. He had to both plan and direct the work of others. He was quite happy when he was told he was to get this promotion. It was something he had been working toward, longing for. A step up the ladder he had set himself out to climb. He continued to be happy for a couple of months, went to work each morning with enthusiasm.

As bigger problems presented themselves, as those working under him did not always cooperate, fear seized him, he began to worry. What if he couldn't handle this job to the satisfaction of his superiors after all? What if he made some vital mistake, something which would mean a severe loss? And once he started worrying, he found it the most natural thing in the world to continue. Of course, he didn't call it worry, or fear, even though he stumbled over a decision. By and by, he lost so much confidence in his own ability to think things through that he didn't perform even the simplest of jobs well. Then the future seemed dark.

Then he read some advice made popular by the late Theodore Roosevelt. This advice ran: Do the thing you fear to do and fear will disappear. Now he realized that he was afraid to make a decision, afraid he would be wrong. So he made up his mind that he would do what seemed to him to be the right thing—and stand by whatever consequence. He would believe himself in the right and he would work to make that right come right.

Well, it was very simple after that. The first time wasn't too difficult, and each succeeding time became easier. And it was amazing how many times his decisions proved to be right.

Now he knows that there was nothing the matter with him except fear and nervousness. But he might have lost a good job had he not conquered himself.

Chilton County Veterans Office List 2,387 Services

On September 30, 1950, the Alabama Department of Veterans' Affairs and the Chilton County Office will have ended its first five years of service to veterans and their next of kin. This department, which has served as a pattern for the development of similar agencies in many other states, has been under the direction of C. C. Horton since its organization, following authorization by the 1945 Legislature. Headquarters are maintained in Montgomery.

Since October 1, 1949, more than 2,300 services have been rendered to Chilton County veterans and their dependents. The major services rendered by this office may be classified as follows: Disability claims assistance for veterans and dependency claims for next of kin; assistance to veterans with arrears of pay claims against the armed forces; assistance to veterans in establishing their eligibility for training and education; reinstatement and conversion of National Service Life Insurance; filing of terminal leave claims; hospitalization and out-patient treatment; burial allowance claims; obtaining headstones for deceased veterans; prisoner-of-war benefits; out of state bonuses; free notary services and correspondence for veterans and their next of kin.

Letters Are Written—

A total of 1,493 letters have been written for Chilton County veterans. Monetary benefits secured have beneficially affected the whole economy of the county. The Chilton County office is under the direction of Cohen E. Stapp, who is Veterans' Service Officer. He has served in this capacity since October 15, 1949. In giving this information about the office, he said the department feels that efforts have been well worthwhile. All benefits received through the department have been obtained without one cent of cost to the veteran or his family. Mr. Stapp said about 87 percent of the cases handled through his office are white, and the remainder negro. He talks with pride of the various cases handled and of the benefits the office has been able to bring about to residents of this county. An estimated 350,000 veterans of all wars reside in Alabama. Of that amount, it is estimated that 5,200 reside in Chilton County.

The Chilton County Office is located over Upchurch Drug Company in Clanton, Ala., and is open Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

PLANT MUSCADINES, WAIT FOR A TREAT

Farm people who have a muscadine vine can enjoy a treat that many town folk have never experienced.

"There isn't anything much more delightful than to go out to the muscadine vine along the garden fence or on a trellis and eat one's fill of one of nature's finest gifts to the human palate," declares John Bagby, A.P.I. Extension Service horticulturist.

He adds that the Scuppernong is probably the most widely known variety. Hunt, Thomas, Dulcet, Creek, and Luga are also excellent. It is necessary to plant a pollinator with any of these varieties. Either plant a male vine or a vine of Burgaw, Wallace, or Willard.

FOR MORE PROFIT PUT IDLE ACRES TO WORK

According to the last agricultural census, 13.2 per cent of the land available for crops was permitted to remain idle or fallow.

"Generally speaking," states S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist, "this land is so seriously eroded that farmers feel they cannot continue to cultivate it at a profit.

However, by planting such areas to thick-growing crops of legumes and grasses, erosion will be reduced, soil will improve, and grazing and hay will be provided to help feed an increased number of money-making livestock."

TEACH EACH CHILD RULES OF SAFETY

The hazards of today make it imperative that the small child be taught good habits of safety before he is school age. Today's accidental death rate for children under five presents a challenge to everyone interested in child life.

"Usually parents are very careful to teach the first child rules of safety," Elta Majors, A.P.I. Extension Service child care specialist, reminds mothers, "but younger children are often neglected, resulting in many accidents. Therefore, make it a practice to have each child safety conscious before he is school age."

School News—

Last Friday evening our Maplesville "Red Devils" travelled to West Blocton seeking revenge for last season's loss. However, they were compelled to come back to Maplesville with the victory in mind only, as West Blocton managed to salvage a 6 to 6 tie.

The boys and Coach Kelley seemed fairly well pleased with the team's playing. Had it not been for the numerous bad breaks in the second half, they feel sure Maplesville would have been on the large end of the score.

The "Red Devils" play here this month on the home field each Friday night, and are expecting a large crowd to be on hand Friday night of this week, October 6th, to cheer them to victory over their bitter rivals from Isabella.

The Maplesville cheer leaders are doing a fine job with their cheering, and they are very attractive and lovely in their new uniforms. Everyone should not forget to remember to come to see the game Friday night.

The P.-T.A. will serve plenty of eats and drinks near the field.

WAYS TO KILL PEACH AND PLUM BORERS

Auburn, Ala. — Borers kill thousands of Alabama peach and plum trees every year. Other thousands of trees are greatly injured but not killed.

"When wax or gum forms at the groundline in early spring, it is proof of injury by borers," asserts J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service orchard specialist. "This injury can be prevented at little cost and with little labor."

He says that either proplene dichloride emulsion or ethylene dichloride emulsion can be used to kill borers. In North Alabama treatment can be applied from October 1 through November. In the southern counties treatment should be delayed until October 15; thereafter, it may be applied any time over a period of 60 days. Printed instructions are on cans containing the emulsions.

"It is important to note that young trees require a weaker solution and less of it than older trees," adds Ford. "A strong solution may kill young trees."

ENRICH CORN MEAL FOR HEALTH'S SAKE

Auburn, Ala. — Although corn is an excellent food, it lacks certain vitamins and minerals necessary for good health.

John P. Bell, A.P.I. Extension Service corn products marketing specialist, points out that pellagra, a common disease in the South, is largely a result of diets which contain too many foods, such as corn, that do not supply an adequate amount of niacin.

"However, since corn is a cheap source of energy and an almost universally used food," explains Bell, "several nutritionists helped develop an enrichment formula composed of niacin, thiamine, riboflavin, iron, and calcium. Also, a simple enrichment attachment for grist mills was perfected. Now, whether or not the use of these enrichment facilities becomes widespread in Alabama is greatly dependent upon the public. Therefore, don't say corn meal, say enriched corn meal."

Honey will be absorbed if placed on hot baked apples just as they are being removed from the oven. Honey or maple syrup, moreover, mixed with whipped cream and served as a "topper" for baked apples is also delicious.

You Can Tell a Man By the Rules He Keeps

On that last beautiful day we had, it's really not surprising that young Skeeter Roberts and Bud Boyd decided to ditch their books and take off for Sandy Creek.

But they made one mistake. Got kind of hot walking, so they thumbed a ride—from Mr. Wilson, our brand-new School Superintendent! A few minutes later, both boys were back in geography class.

Mr. Wilson had to tell their parents—school regulations. But he pointed out that maybe a real "talking to" was all they needed.

From where I sit, I'm afraid poor Bud Boyd is in for quite a lecture. His dad, Andy, who owns the Green Gardens, is quite a stickler for living up to the Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. Under this voluntary program, retailers selling beer cooperate by keeping their places of business clean, bright, and orderly. Andy follows this Program to the letter. "Once you make 'em, don't break 'em," is his motto about rules and regulations.

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From the Old Timer of Frankfort, Ky. to C. M. Johns: There was one significant mistake in my handling of your recent contribution to "I Remember" in which you recalled when harvesting was done by hand and cradle and sheaves were tied by hand. The item, as it appeared in the column, said the men used to work from sunup to sundown for 75 cents to a dollar an hour! Of course, no one—not even white-collar workers—earned that much in those days. Obviously, their wages ranged from 75 cents to a dollar a day, like you said originally. Obviously!

From Jennie Garard of Bakersfield, Calif.: I remember my mother getting up early to make fresh cream pie for breakfast, or perhaps vinegar pie. Both kinds were delicious. Mother's pie drawer, holding five pies, was never empty and we kids were permitted to help ourselves upon coming home from school. This was when we lived in Indiana. Hoosiers are noted as great pie-eaters.

From E. E. Meredith of Fairmont, W. Va.: I remember when pound packages of Arbuckle's coffee contained cards with information concerning the various states and children traded with the hope of getting every state.

TALLADEGA COUNTY TO HOLD ANOTHER ANNUAL TURKEY FESTIVAL OCT. 19-20

October 19th and 20th will be red letter days in Talladega County this year!

These are the days when the whole country will turn out for the second Annual Turkey Festival to be held in Talladega.

Cedric Foster, famous radio commentator, and Lash LaRue, bull whip sensation of the latest horse operas, will be the two featured guests. Both will serve as judges for selecting the Talladega County Turkey Queen. Foster will be the featured banquet speaker and he will also deliver two nationwide broadcasts from the local radio station.

Miss America, Alabama's own Yolande Betbeze, has also been invited to the Festival, but it is not yet known whether she will be able to come.

North Carolina's hillbilly clog dancers made such a hit last year, that they have been invited back to set the pace at another square dance.

The Festival was begun last year in honor of the turkey which brought an income of some $40,000 into the county. This year's turkey crop is expected to be even better.

Turkey will be featured on the menu of all eating establishments during the Festival and dressed turkeys will be on sale both days.

PROPER PLANNING AND MANAGEMENT MAKES A SUCCESSFUL FARMER

Grady B. White, enrolled on on-the-farm training program in Chilton County March 1, 1948, owns an eighty-acre farm, with forty acres in cultivation; and has all the farm equipment necessary to operate his two-horse farm. He is carrying out a very good live-at-home program, having a nice flock of laying hens which furnishes him with eggs for home use as well as some for market. Also he has canned fruits and vegetables, dried fruits and vegetables, and meats for home use.

He has for cash enterprises four acres of cotton, two brood sows, six calves, and two milch cows. He has on hand at the present time about twenty hogs and pigs which will be marketed later this year.

His feed crops consist of twelve acres of corn and six acres of hay. His grazing program consists of four acres of kudzu, four acres of sericea, two acres of kobe lespedeza, and one-fourth acre of manganese bur clover for a seed patch which will seed several acres next year. He plans to have winter grazing consisting of oats and clovers.

White is doing an excellent job of farming, and is establishing himself as a successful farmer of years to come.

Device for removing stones from field employs chain and T-pipe. Chain is passed around stone with pipe extending through ring in chain into ground under stone. The pull of the horse and prying of the man dislodge stone.

KNOW TREES

To identify trees, find out where to plant them, and learn their uses, stop by the local county agent's office and examine a copy of "Forest Trees of Alabama."

WOOD VERSUS STEEL

Wood is about to invade still another field. A plywood freight car is being readied for competitive use. Crash-tested against a steel freight car, the plywood car not only survived in good condition but succeeded in wrecking the steel model.

For winter grazing Dewey Collins has seeded a mixture of fescue and ladino clover on low land and caley peas to sericea and kudzu on these upland perennials.

FREEZING A WHOLE, HEADY-TO-COOK BIRD

Auburn, Ala. — Properly packaged poultry can be frozen either whole or cut up, according to Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist.

She points out that roasting birds are usually frozen whole. Younger chickens or turkeys take up less space and are more convenient to use if split in half for broiling or disjointed for frying, and then compactly packaged.

"Most families prefer to freeze poultry in ready-to-cook form," finds the specialist. "In other words they want birds to be fully drawn, thoroughly cleaned inside and out, with pinfeathers and oil sac removed."

To package a whole ready-to-cook bird for freezing, Miss Curtis says to tie legs and wings close to the body, then place bird in a film bag or wrap in a sturdy sheet of moisture-vapor-resistant film or metal foil. Giblets should be packaged separately for freezing and held only a limited time —not longer than three months.

13-HOUR WORK DAY FOR HENS

Lights should be turned on so that hens will have a 13-hour work day. Either morning or evening lights may be used or both. Some poultrymen use all-night lights.

BOLL WEEVILS

Some farmers, believing boll weevils winter in the forest, have made the mistake of burning their timber land to get rid of them. They do spend the winter at the base of cotton stalks, under rocks, in old scare crows, in hollow fence posts, under shingles, in decayed siding on machine sheds, and other places except timber stands.

To make sweet cream sour, add two tablespoons of vinegar or lemon juice to one cup of sweet cream. Allow the cream to stand in a warm place for about 15 minutes, and it will then be sour and ready to use.

Officers and teachers for our Sunday School and B.T.U. for another year are:

Superintendent, Jesse McKinnon; Secretary and Treasurer, Hoyt Burgess; Teachers—Adult class, men, Glen Sessions; adult class, women, Mrs. Vollie Littleton; young people, Mrs. Cecil Smith; Intermediate, Mrs. Tom Strain; Junior, Mrs. Severah Burgess; Beginners, Mrs. Helen Littleton and Mrs. Willie Smith; pianist, Mrs. Doris Allen; chotister, Mrs. Clarence Murrah.

B.T.U. Director, Mrs. Ruth Benson, group captain No. 1, Mrs. Hazel Bean; group captain No. 2, Mrs. Glen Sessions; chorister, Mrs. Clyde Gore; pianist, Faye Sessions, reporter, Ann Strain.

Rev. Hill will preach for us Sunday night. Everybody is invited to come out and hear him. Our church is now without a pastor, but if we will pray for the leadership of the Holy Spirit in this great task I feel that the Lord will send us the pastor that we will need to fill the vacancy of our much loved pastor who has just left us, Bro. L. D. Hughes.

Our school is progressing nicely. The chicken supper last Friday night was enjoyed by a good crowd. Several from Thorsby were there. The people over there are always ready to cooperate with us in our church and school activities for which we say, "Thank you, Thorsby."

Thursday, October 12th, the Association meets at our church. We invite all the neighboring churches to come out and be with us.

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

(By TUCK)

Boy, that was close wasn't it, kids? Old Montevallo just almost stepped on dear Ole Chilton High. But we came out in the lead 14-13. Guess we'll just have to give Derrell Bannister credit for those two well made extra points.

I have heard a lot of comments and compliments on the nice school paper we got out last week. Nice work, Myron, keep it up.

You know I'll kinda be glad when cold weather gets here. This thing called school and the weather we're having just don't mix at all.

Whew!

I was speaking of the school paper: Everyone seems to really go for Mr. Kerr, don't they kids? Well, I guess they have good reason to, he is a good mathematics teacher. He's also friendly, that helps an awful lot.)

Man, these History tests this year are something else. Not many people seem to be enjoying History this year like they did last year. You know, I studied all day on one of those tests, even in some of my other classes (of course, the teacher didn't know it) and I still didn't make what you would call downright excellent. As my report card will plainly designate.) Of course, you can't pass every time but it seems like this year I'm sorta overstepping that brilliant statement and NEVER PASSING.

It seems there is a certain teacher in school that could use just a few more friends. (Mildly speaking, that is.) Well, what teacher couldn't? No. . .I really like some teachers, (you'll notice I said some teachers), but some seem to take advantage of their position, if you know what I mean, and sometimes put you in a very delicate position, and it isn't exactly perpendicular with the natural way of walking. But that's beside the point. It's like it was with the father and his son, it might hurt the teacher worse than it does the student, but it isn't exactly in the same place.

By the way, guys and gals, I'm going to attempt to start my mystery boy or girl next week, so look for it will ya?

Now just because YOU were it some time last year doesn't necessarily mean you cannot be it this year. I'll just try to change your properties around a little bit. You know, if I didn't I'd soon run out of students, because I don't quite know everybody in school down there.

SHILOH

Services were well attended at both morning and evening services. We had several visitors and invite them back at any time.

Our revival will begin Friday night, October 6th, 1950, with Rev. J. L. Hand of Climax, Ga., doing the preaching.

Leonard Traywick and family were the Sunday guests of Mrs. Beatrice Wyatt.

We are sorry that Mr. Dan Williams is in a Selma hospital.

Miss Marzelle Mims is visiting her mother this week end.

Mr. Mose Hathcock and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Williams Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson attended church at Highland Sunday and visited Mr. and Mrs. Clint Billingsley.

MT. PISGAH

We were proud of our attendance for Sunday School Sunday. We missed you who were absent and will be looking for you next Sunday to worship with us in Sunday School. Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Holley of Tennessee are visiting relatives here. They brought along a big surprise for both families, a fine one month old girl, Mary Elizabeth. We were glad to see them and hope they will be back soon.

Several from here attend services at Maple Springs Sunday night. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Edwards, Mrs. Earl Holley, Mrs. Mary Foshee and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Devaughn. They reported a good service.

Miss Marilyn Smith spent Saturday night with Miss Elnora Devaughn.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Boyd of Montgomery spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Edwards.

We will be looking for you to be with us Sunday.—Reporter.

Customers' Corner

Packing your order may sound like a little thing, but our trained employees give it a lot of thought.

They know that it isn't right to place five pounds of flour on top of a quarter pound of butter . . . or to place soap next to cheese.

The men and women of A&P will appreciate it if you will let them have any suggestions as to how they can make a handier package for you to take home.

LITTLE CHANGE MADE IN STATE HUNTING RULES

Quail Hunters Get An Extra Day Deer Possession Limit Is Dropped To Two Bucks

Montgomery, Ala., Alabama's hunters should have little trouble remembering the 1950-51 hunting seasons and bag limits on resident game. With but two exceptions the open periods and bag limits are the same as those in effect last year.

Because of the traditional opening of the bobwhite quail season on Thanksgiving Day, hunters will get an extra day to hunt this year. Instead of three bucks, as in the past, nimrods may take only two during the entire season this year. The screw worm infestation of this year in southwest Alabama and the mysterious disease which affected north Alabama deer herds last year caused this change.

The 1950-51 open seasons and bag limits on resident game

Quail: November 23-February 20; 10 per day or in possession except under special permit of the Department of Conservation.

Deer: pronged antlered bucks only; November 20-January 1; one buck per day, two per season.

Turkeys: Gobblers only; one gobbler per day, 5 during entire 1950-51 season; open season in all designated counties and areas, November 20-January 1; Spring season in designated north Alabama counties, March 25-April 20. Spring season in designated south Alabama counties, March 20-April 15.

Squirrel: 6 per day; North of U. S. Highway 80, October 15-January 1; South of U. S. Highway 80, November 1-January 15.

Rabbit: Hunted as game with guns; 6 per day; October 15-February 20.

O'possum and Raccoon: hunted as game, no bag limit; October 1-February 20.

No open season on bear and alligator.

Hunters must plug their automatic or repeating shotguns to hold not more than three shells, one in the firing chamber and two in the magazine. Shooting hours will be from daylight to sunset on all resident game. Possession of game will be legal for a period not longer than 90 days after the close of the season on the species of game held. Licenses will be the same as they have been for the past 30 or more years. County license $1.00; State, $3.00; Seven Day Non-Resident, $5.00; and Annual Non-Resident, $25.00.

Deer hunting will be legal in the following counties and areas: Baldwin, Choctaw, Clarke, Conecuh, Covington, Escambia, Green, Marengo, Mobile, Monroe, Pickens, Sumter, Washington, Wilcox; that part of Hale County west of State Highway 13 from Moundville to Prairieville; in Tuscaloosa County except that part east of State Highway 13 from Tuscaloosa to Moundville and south of State Highway 6 from Tuscaloosa to Centreville; also for a period in part of Jefferson County west of a line running north and south at Bessemer, dates to be set by Department of Conservation and Jefferson County Sportsmen Association; Black Warrior Wildlife Management Area of William B. Bankhead National Forest, November 20-21 stalk-hunt), November 24-25 (dog hunt), permit hunts; Choccolocco Wildlife Management Area, Talladega National Forest, November 20-21 and 24-25 (stalk hunts), permit hunts; Oakmulgee Wildlife Management Area, Talladega National Forest, November 20-21 and 24-25 (stalk hunts), permit hunts. Rest of state closed.

Turkey hunting will be legal in the following counties and areas: North Alabama (November 20-January 1 and March 25-April 20)—Jefferson, Pickens, Walker, Shelby, Tuscaloosa, St. Clair; east of U. S. Highway 241 and west of State Highway 9 in Talladega and Clay Counties; also that part of the Talladega National Forest in Cleburne County south of State Highway 4 (U. S. Highway 78) except within the boundaries of Cheaha State Park. All other areas closed. South Alabama (November 20-January 1 and March 20-April 15)—Baldwin, Bibb, Butler, Chilton, Choctaw, Clarke, Conecuh, Coosa, Covington, Dallas, Escambia, Greene, Hale, Henry, Houston, Marengo, Mobile, Monroe, Perry, Sumter, Washington and Wilcox.

Turkey hunting in the William B. Bankhead National Forest and the Oakmulgee Division of Talladega National Forest, April 1-15, by permit of U. S. Forest Service and Department of Conservation.

The Rev. F. M. Crowe of Anniston officiated at the wedding which was marked by simplicity. The bride wore a gray suit with navy accessories and carried a white Bible topped by a white orchid with satin streamers.

Charles Earley Davis, a brother of the bride, and Lewey Hammett, both of Pell City, were the ushers.

The nuptial music was rendered by bride's sisters. Miss Hardie Davis sang, "At Dawning" and Sweetest Story Ever Told." Miss Naomi Davis, pianist, played "Meditation," "Wedding Serenade," "I Love You Truly," and the traditional Wedding March.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Eargle left for points in Georgia and South Carolina. They will return to Pell City to make their home.

The bride was graduated from Parrish High School, Selma, Ala., in 1947, and attended Central South Carolina College and is now teaching in the Pell City schools. The groom, an employee of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, is awaiting an early call to military service.

Among those who attended the wedding from this section were: Mrs. J. W. Benton, a sister of the bride, and Mr. Benton and their children of Stanton; and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bell of Selma, Ala. (Mrs. Bell is a sister of Mrs. Eargle.)

THE CREEK AND CHOCTAW BALL GAME

Before the coming of the white men, the region between the Tombigbee and Warrior rivers was used as a hunting ground by both the Creeks and Choctaws, each of which claimed ownership. According to legend, they agreed to play a ball game and the winner was to be given full possession. The Creeks won but the Choctaws said they were cheated and demanded another contest, this time with knives and war clubs. The Creeks won again but the region was still disputed territory when white settlers arrived.

OVER SIX FEET

(A Short Story)

By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

NICK SCHURTLIFF was standing near the corral gate when Sheriff Sol Rock arrived at the Bar X. His little pig-like eyes were gleaming wickedly.

Just inside the corral Eli Crandon lay sprawled on his back. Standing up, Eli was considered a tall man—several inches over 6 feet. Lying there beside the corral fence he seemed even taller.

Directly across from the gate a section of corral had been penned off. The pen now held a single occupant. A mule.

Crandon's face was a mass of blood and torn flesh.

The sheriff said: "Got your message, Nick, an' come as quick as I could. What happened?"

Sol studied the man's dark face.

Schurtliff's eyes gleamed. Jerking a thumb toward the mule, he replied:

"He done it. He got tired of being whacked around. He kicked Crandon to death."

"When?"

"This morning. Early. Crandon found the mule in the vegetable patch back of the house. He picked up a club an' began beatin' him. The mule got sore an' come at Crandon. The old man run, tried to get inside the corral. But the mule caught up and kicked him to death."

Sol studied the man's dark face. "You hated Crandon, eh, Nick?"

"No more so than the mule hated him."

"He used to beat you, didn't he?"

"Also the mule. He'd get drunk and ugly. Took it out of me or him."

Sol gazed across at the mule, then down again at Crandon's still form. "What was Crandon doing when the mule kicked him?" he asked.

Sol thoughtfully rolled a cigaret, squatting on his heels.

"You been workin' for Crandon about 10 years, ain't yuh, Nick?"

"That's right."

"He took yuh in when you was broke—a kid. He gave yuh shelter an' fed yuh. An' in return he made yuh work. You was glad of the chance then. After you'd growed up you still hung around. Why? Well, I got a hunch I know. You're kinda glad he's dead, ain't yuh, Nick?"

"Plenty glad. I hated him!"

"Sure. I know. Well, now he's gone, what's gonna happen? Eli ain't got no heirs. Kinda figure the ranch will go to you, Nick?"

"I don't want the place. I hate the sight of it!"

Sol stood up, crushed out his cigarette, glanced down at the dead man. Presently he crossed to the pen and surveyed the mule. The animal's ears were back, its eyes red.

Sol returned to the corral gate. Schurtliff hadn't moved.

"Nick, you're a liar! You killed Crandon. He was drunk this morning. He tried to beat you up. You grabbed a club and killed him!

"It took a long time to figure out a way to do it, eh, Nick? Without being caught. Matter of fact you didn't have no way figured out at all. It came all of a sudden—after Crandon was dead. You thought up the mule, dragged Crandon in the valley was aware of how Eli beat the mule—and you, too. It looked pretty plausible. You penned of the mule. You knew everyone to where he is now and felt pretty satisfied with your little scheme. Thought you could get away with it. Was sure you could. So you called me on the 'phone and told me the story. That made it look genuine enough."

Sol reached around to his hip pocket and produced a pair of handcuffs. "Maybe my figurin' is wrong, Nick. But I gotta take you along."

Sol snapped on the handcuffs. "You got a dang good case of self-defence, Nick. Folks hereabouts hated Crandon near as much as you. They knowed how things lay here, an' they'll take that into consideration." He glanced down at Eli Crandon's lengthy form.

"As for how I figured things out, it was this a-way. You-all told me that Eli was tryin' to unlatch the corral gate when the mule kicked him. Well, I been lookin' over Eli's body and I ain't found a single wound on him, except around his head. Now there ain't a mule living could kick Eli Crandon in the head, providing he was standin' up and the mule was on the ground. He'd have to be knocked down first. An' Eli musta been standin' up if, like you said, he was tryin' to unlatch that gate, because the latch is high for even a man as tall as Crandon."

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Thomas Hayes, Thorsby, has an excellent stand of button bur clover and oats. This was planted on a well prepared seed bed two weeks ago. Rate of seeding was twenty pounds bur clover and two bushels of oats. Fertilizer used was one ton of basic slag and two hundred pounds of sixty per cent potash. With a normal season this combination should furnish some excellent grazing by the first of November. The plants will also be topdressed with some nitrate this week to quicken the growth.

Using a double boiler to heat milk is an excellent preventive measure to keep milk from burning. The practice of putting a small amount of water into the utensil first and heating it before adding the milk also helps to prevent milk from sticking or scorching.

LOCAL MEN VISITS PURINA FARMS IN MISSOURI

Gray Summit, Mo. — Several hundred livestock and poultry farmers visited the Ralston Purina Research Farm here this week. Among those in the party were A. R. Taylor, L. A. Baker and James N. Dennis.

The 738-acre Purina Research Farm is not a show place where blooded stock and pedigreed birds are put through their paces for the visitors; it is an actual working demonstration and proving grounds for programs under development by Purina. The purpose of the projects is to provide the typical farmer with the information and help he needs to raise the average type of livestock and poultry profitably.

The constant experimenting and tests at the Farm have proved the average farmer, raising average livestock and poultry, can usually produce more meat, more milk and more eggs at a lower cost per animal or bird, and thereby increase his margin of profit.

ENTERPRISE 4-H CLUB

The 4-H Club of Enterprise Jr. High School met September 18, 1950, at 10:00. The officers were elected for the year of 1950-51. They were the following: President, Lucretia Davis; vice-president, Carolyn Bowman; secretary-treasurer, Verla Mae Grimes; song leaders, Robbie Lois Mims and Elsie Deavers; reporter, Ruby Nell Hathcock.

We were honored to have Carolyn Bowman from our school to go to the 4-H Club camp at Auburn. She was elected as one of the three girls from the county to go. She told us of her exciting trip.

We learned a new song directed by Miss Ann Brown and Carolyn Bowman. We had the pledge and were adjourned.—Ruby Nell Hathcock, Reporter.

He also is a member of the Committee on Taxation of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, auditor of the Community Chest of Canton, and ember of the Committee on Membership of the American Institute of Accountants. During World War II, Mr. Cox was accounting counsel for the renegotiation of numerous government contracts, and he also has served as arbitrator in many labor-management disputes.

Several members of the local club will attend the convention.

Concert Campaign Begins Monday

Final details for the membership campaign of the Clanton Community Concert Association to be held Monday, October 16th, through Saturday, October 21st, are completed, according to Raymond P. Mims, president of the Association.

Mrs. L. C. Warr, Membership Chairman, and Mrs. W. H. Klinner, Dinner Chairman of the Association, are making a last-minute check of all preparations and attendance at the dinner meeting to be held Monday evening in the Chilton County High School Lunchroom to insure that the drive will be a complete success.

Mrs. W. H. Klinner has made around sixty reservations for the dinner and 100 percent attendance is anticipated. Music lovers from Thorsby, Clanton, Jemison, Maplesville and Verbena, who will work with the membership committee will attend the dinner. The dinner will also be attended by Mrs. Amelia Sperry, Representative of Community Concert Service, who will address the meeting and be present for the entire week to assist in the campaign.

The gathering will be entertained by a musical film of about 20-minute length, in which famous stars of the concert world have been especially filmed with sound for this purpose.

Immediately after the campaign closes the artist committee will meet and choose the series of concerts for Clanton from a list including the most celebrated names in the music world.

Campaign headquarters for the week of October 16th through 21st, will be in the Willingham Hotel.

Group Organizes For Drive; New Hospital Aim

The press, radio and civic interested public speaking citizens and businessmen are banding together in an effort to see to it that Chilton County's citizens are not made to suffer and to have to go without adequate hospital facilities.

As had been pointed out by members of Chilton County's Medical Association, under the state health law, Chilton County will be without a hospital unless something is done to make our hospital facilities conform to the new regulations. As things stand at the present time the Central Alabama Hospital will not conform to these state standards after January, 1952.

It has also been pointed out that the present structure, which is reported to have been built some 49 years ago cannot be remodeled to meet these laws.

Therefore, members of the local Medical Association have petitioned members of the Chilton County Commissioners to include on the ballot for the general election on November 7, a question as to whether the citizens of Chilton County will help to finance

Clanton Tigers Win 39-12 Over Billingsley

(By Bobby Tucker)

Friday night at the Chilton County High School ball park the Clanton Tigers showed just what they had by beating the Billingsley Bears by a score of 39-12.

Although the Tigers ran up a pretty large score the Bears showed some of the best sportsmanship I have ever had the pleasure of seeing.

In the first quarter of the game Clanton ran up one T. D., James Paul Easterling making it for the Tigers

In the second quarter the Bears made one T.D. on a touchdown pass from Mims to Mims. The Tigers made two T.D.s in the second quarter making the score at the end of the first half 18-6 in Clantons favor.

The Tigers came back in the third quarter with three T.D.s and Bannister making all three of the extra points Touchdowns were made by DeLoach on a long pass and run, Easterling on a 52-yard sprint with beautiful blocking by the line. Royce Seals ran one through the line making 21 more points for Clanton.

In the fourth and last quarter of the game Coach Spicer for Clanton let the second string play and failed to make any more T.D.s, however, the bears made six points. The Bears last T.D. was the most beautiful play of the whole game. Horace Powell who played halfback for Billingsley made a beautiful run of about 60 yards, making the score at the end of the ball game 39-12 in favor of the Clanton Tigers. Incidentally the Tigers have had four and four down, but they are looking forward to some pretty tough opponents.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO ALL VETERANS

At the regular meeting Tuesday night, Chilton County Post No. 6 of the American Legion, unanimously supported a move to urge all veterans to register and vote. The Board of Registrars meets at the courthouse on the first and third Mondays of each month. Your registration does not cost you one cent. It is very simple for you to qualify as a legal voter in this county and state. All that is necessary is that you bring your discharge, or a copy, to the courthouse and register with this Board. Then take your papers to the Probate Judge's office where, without cost, you will be given a certificate to exempt you from payment of all poll tax. You will then be a legal qualified voter.

You were called to fight for your country and for the right to vote as you please. Now your duty is to go to the polls and vote your convictions. It is necessary for you to vote in order that this great country can keep and maintain the type of government you fought for. The American Legion strongly urges you as a veteran to act and not wait another day. Go register and go vote!—James C. Martin, Vice-Commander.

A County Hospital

The people of Chilton County have started machinery working that if acceptable to the voters next November 7th, will bring to our county a badly needed hospital. Each and every citizen should be vitally interested in this movement and contribute to its success.

As things now stand, after next year, Chilton County will have no hospital at all unless something is done on November 7th when the voters will be asked to vote for a four-mill tax to build a hospital under the Hill-Burton Act.

Within the past year several Alabama Counties have taken advantage of this legislation to secure a hospital. Under the provisions of this constitutional amendment the counties are authorized to levy up to a four-mill tax for hospital purposes after a favorable vote of the people.

Under the provisions of the Hill-Burton Act the people of Chilton County will be required to put up only about one-sixth of the cost of the hospital. Thus if a new hospital is to cost 600,000, the county's share would only be one-sixth or $100,000. The estimated cost for a county hospital here has not yet been determined nor has the number of beds been determined. This will all be decided later.

The point is that it is a very worthwhile undertaking and one in which every citizen of Chilton County can take a part. It can, and will, be used by every family of the county at one time or another.

Like the "Drive Carefully" advertisements, the object of a hospital is to save lives, and the life you save, may be your own.

Oil Progress Week

We hear a great deal these days about the American way of life, and it is all to the good. It would be difficult indeed to think of another subject so infinitely varied or so richly rewarding. Yet it is not enough simply to go on talking about it. If the American Way is to have any valid meaning, we must live it. And before we can live it, we must understand it.

It is in this conviction that we welcome the arrival of Oil Progress Week, October 15-21. The men and women of oil have set aside this time to report to their fellow townsmen and the consumers of their products on their contributions to our well-being and their plans for the future.

In setting aside this week to tell their fellow-citizens about their industry, the 1,800,000 men and women of oil are performing a valuable service. In showing how progress in industry and the whole American dream have been realized, their efforts merit our attention and good-will.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

"Box Office," the theatre man's magazine devoted nearly half a page to Joe Jackson's Drive-In on their Peach Festival Float, in the 1950 Peach Festival. The article went on to say: "The float was the first to be sponsored by a theatre in Chilton County. The entry while serving as an advertising medium for the Drive-In also built good-will among local citizens"... The article also mentioned Miss Marguerite Davis who was sponsored by the Theatre in the Queens contest. Too, our good friend, Carl Christiansen was credited with the engineering work at the Clanton Drive-In.

The fellow who stopped the motorist one dark, rainy night recently had nerve to spare. It was raining and the motorist saw a flashlight waving up the road a short way. He slowed and stopped to see what was the matter. As he stopped the waver of the flashlight took the front door handle, opened it and jumped in. When asked what the matter was he answered, "Nothing, I just wanted a ride to town, it's raining."

Called Clyde Mims Grocery Monday morning to get some information, and whatta know? Clyde doesn't work there any more. Mrs. Mims fired him. Now that wasn't the way the story was told to me, but being a married may myself, well. . . .we kinda know how the conversation went before he quit. Naw, Clyde is working out of Selma, travelling, and he turned the store over to Mrs. Mims to look after in his absence. She makes a much prettier store manager than Clyde does. Don't you think?

Just in case you are wondering what will be enclosed in the wire fence across from the Southern Bell Telephone Office and next door to 31 Service Station, it will be used cars. We understand Clanton Motors, Inc., will put a used car lot there.

And, oh yeah, that new building going up next to Parrish & Hayes Veteninary Hospital will be occupied by Campbell Auto Parts Co. They're located just down the block at present.

There are so many things to be done and so little time to do them. We know the Mayor and City Council have their hands full with things they want to do for Clanton, but wouldn't it be nice if we had some water outlets at the cemetery. Visitors there are often in need of water to keep their flowers alive and fresh, but one must walk blocks to get to it. That would be a service appreciated by many when the City Fathers can get around to getting it done.

A husband went out with the boys one night, and before he knew it the next day had already dawned. He was afraid to call his wife, but finally hit upon an idea. He called his wife and shouted, "I'm back; don't pay the ransom."

Clear Conscience

A man by the name of John Heath of Trussville, Ala., confessed to stealing an automobile a few days ago in Birmingham. After taking the car, he said his conscience began hurting him; so he went to the Birmingham office of the F.B.I. and told Commissioner Charlton he wanted to plead guilty and get it off his conscience. Though his confession sent him to jail waiting trial, and whatever penalty may be placed on him for stealing the car. But the main thing he wanted was a clear conscience. His confession was medicine for a guilty conscience.

A. T. HICKMAN

People who have gypped the City of Boston in one way or another have voluntarily paid back $1,500.00 to the city's eight-month - old conscience fund. Realizing that a sick conscience is more than they had thought, wanting a cure, they refunded the money, and found their restitution to be medicine for a sick conscience. In Washington, D.C., hundred of dollars are paid back each year by people who have taken from the Government that which did not belong to them. The refunded money goes into the "Conscience Fund."

Well, the Bible has something to say along the line of making restitution. In Ezek. 33:15 it says, "If the wicked restore the pledge, give again that he had robbed, walk in the statutes of life without committing iniquity, he shall surely live. None of his sins that he hath committed shall be mentioned unto him, he hath done that which is lawful and right."

When Zacchaeus came down out of the sycamore tree to meet Jesus, he stood before the Saviour and said, "Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor, and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold." The confession brought salvation to his house that same day.

Nothing shorter than a full and complete confession of sins, and the making of restitution whenever possible will give any one a clear conscience. The people who have old unpaid debts, and dodging the creditor on every corner do not have a clear conscience. People who have cheated and gypped others out of their rights do not have a clear conscience. "Owe no man anything. . .provide things honest in the sight of all men. . .let them that stole, steal no more. But let all such clear the slate with their fellowman, and in so-doing, clear the record with God. AMEN.

Two tablespoons of grape juice added to grapefruit after it has been cut will give it a delicious flavor and an attractive color.

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

"Do Unto Others . . ."

THE FOLLOWING STORY originated a number of years ago, and Oliver Simms, New York City, says he has had ample time to prove the benefit of what he learned.

He had been given the responsibility of directing the work of several men and women. The nature of the work was very exacting; even a small mistake could cause considerable trouble and be the means of creating a good deal of expense for the employer.

Carnegie

He was rather young and, as he says, possibly a bit over-zealous, and since he himself was a conscientious worker, more or less of a "perfectionist," he soon developed into a rather strict man. Everything had to be done just the right way, and invariably the right way was the way he wanted it done. He allowed no leeway. When a mistake occurred, he didn't hesitate to let the perpetrator know how he felt about it and how the company officials would feel about it. He always ended his remarks with "and we don't want it to occur again." Then he went about his own duties with no thought of how it affected the employe.

It wasn't long before he was recognized as a very unpopular person. Naturally!

But, fortunately, it wasn't long either before Oliver Simms realized his lack of popularity. He didn't feel he had a real friend in the place. He was an intelligent man; he knew that no one can work long among a group of people if they are not his friends. He began to take stock of himself. Then he recalled the golden rule. Remember it? In case you don't, here it is: "Do Unto Others as You Would Have Others Do Unto You."

Was he treating his fellow workers the way he would want to be treated? He, too, had made mistakes; he, too, no doubt, would make others, no matter how conscientious he was.

It took a little time to correct the situation he had created, but not so long as maybe you would think, for people are quick to respond to kindness, understanding and sympathetic interest.

> "The terms of office of all members of such commission shall be six years, except that the terms of office of the two members of the state bar first elected shall be for one and two years respectively, and of the two members first elected by the senator and representatives in the Alabama legislature from Jefferson County shall be for three and four years respectively, and the term of the circuit judge elected by the circuit judges shall be for five years; the length of such terms of office of the members of such commission being indicated by the respective electing bodies. The terms of the initial members of such commission shall begin on January 16, 1951. A vacancy in the office of a member of such commission shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as such member was originally chosen.
>
> "The probate judge of Jefferson County shall record all such certificates of election and shall safely and permanently keep the original certificates. Forthwith upon his receipt and recordation of every such certificate, he shall send to the governor a certified copy of every such certificate.
>
> "No member of such commission shall be eligible to succeed himself as such member or for nomination to the governor for appointment as judge of such circuit court during the term of office for which such member shall have been selected.
>
> "The members of such commission shall not receive any salary or other compensation for their services as such members. >
> "If, subsequent to January 15, 1951, a vacancy occurs in the office of judge of the circuit court holding at Birmingham, such commission shall nominate to the governor three persons having the qualifications for such office. Such nomination shall be made only by the concurrence or a majority of the members of such commission. Ralph V. Patterson, who enrolled in on-the-farm-training in Chilton County on March 15, 1947, has established himself as an outstanding farmer in his community.

Since Ralph was enrolled, he has purchased a 135-acre farm, built a modern six-room house, and built a large barn.

He has a highly diversified farming program including 265 peach trees, pole beans, squash, okra, sweet potatoes, tomatoes and peas. In addition to these crops, Ralph has two brood sows which produce four litters of pigs annually. All the pigs are topped out, thereby giving him a better price for his corn and other grain feed.

Five acres of land has been cleared for the hog unit which will furnish the hogs ample green grazing most of the year.

a peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

WELL, DON McNEILL'S popular "Breakfast Club" is on television . . . We can't help but be a bit disappointed by the results . . . For years, the attraction of the radio show seemed to lie in the illusion it managed to build in a listener's mind . . . For that reason it was only natural to assume that here was a show that would be better on TV because it was visual and would satisfy the curiosity of fans . . . But the marching, the interviews, the impromptu acts seemed to suffer before the cameras . . .

McNEILL

We're sure that with just a few deft strokes in the right direction the show will become as popular on TV as it was in radio . . . Certainly it's good, clean, homespun material in the best of taste, but it needs a little more Cowling and is sadly missing wonderful Aunt Fanny . . . Don is still stiff and unsure of himself but will undoubtedly grow with the show . . . The one outstanding performer was Johnny Desmond, possibly because he is a television veteran by now . . . Patsy Lee is pretty and talented but looks uncomfortable, too.

IDLE CHATTER

Comic Frank Fontaine, discovered by Jack Benny last season, now is being wooed by both NBC and CBS for his own show . . . Al Jolson was the first big-name showbiz personality to tour the Korea area to entertain troops . . . Many others will follow shortly, among them Bob Hope and possibly Curt Massey and his CBS musical show . . . Ann Sothern has signed to do 26 more "Maise" air shows . . . Willard Waterman, the new "Great Gildersleeve," turned down the role of Walt in "Gasoline Alley."

Joe Graydon, Hollywood baritone star, has been offered a dramatic role, no singing, by one of the major film companies . . . He's listening with interested ears . . . Heddy Hopper will kick off her new air show shortly . . . Advance word has it that it's a fine program.

NELDA MINOR CELEBRATES THIRD BIRTHDAY

Mrs. James Minor honored her little daughter, Nelda, with a birthday party at the home on Tuesday afternoon, October 10th. Nelda was celebrating her third birthday.

The rooms were decorated in birthday colors of pink and white with streamers and balloons carrying out the color scheme.

The serving table was centered with a birthday cake made as a large doll house with the chimney, windows and doors decorated with spun sugar. The yards bloomed with a profusion of spun sugar flowers and three doll candles stood in the yard.

Co. Hospital

such a new structure that would be needed to care for our sick. The question is, will the people of Chilton County vote for or against a four-mill property tax to pay for the county's part of the financing?

As it has been explained to this reporter, that under the Hill-Burton Act, the county is required to pay one-sixth of the cost of a new hospital. Therefore, if the county were to build a $600,000 hospital under the Hill-Burton Act the cost to the county would be $100,000.

Many advantages of having such an institution have been advanced during the past few days and the one that seems to stand out most in the minds of Chilton County citizens at the present time is that if Chilton County were to lose it's hospital facilities, the nearest institution would then be some 50 miles or better from this area. Other outstanding arguments were that now is the time to take advantage of the Federal monies now available for this purpose and the fact that our doctors would have the facilities they need in order to administer as they should. As it now stands if a patient is in need of an X-ray for instance, that patient is required to be removed to an out-of-town hospital at greater additional cost to the patient and his or her family.

However, as has been pointed out previously, the whole question is going to be left up to the people of Chilton County to decide. And through the means of radio, newspapers and public speakers the pros and cons of the question are to be brought out so that all can know just what is to take place in Chilton County regarding the question of whether Chilton County wants a new hospital.

THIS PETTY PACE

BY BROWN LEE YATES

"LOOK YOUNGER, DIE YOUNGER," a condensation from the book by Dr. Forceps Shakewell, dedicated to those who should live so long and abridged for all the fine young men whose time is running out in the condemned row at state's prison:

The secret of agelessness lies in eating intelligently and in not getting hanged so soon. The ideal diet for long life, nutritionists say, is plenty of protein (milk—especially yogurt—eggs, lean meat, fish, cheese), plenty of green and yellow vegetables and fruit, and all the iron that can be crammed into your diet (fresh crisp hacksaw blades).

Doctors and dietitians have prescribed various eating programs designed to prolong life in the outside world. No one ever prescribes a protracted eating regimen for the man about to be hanged. All he hears is his "last meal," and nothing is more discouraging.

One authority says that to add to your life, get acquainted with these five wonder foods: powdered milk, brewers' yeast, yogurt, wheat germ, and blackstrap molasses. While they won't make you strong enough to bend the bars, we say, steady request for these items will convince the state you're insane and bring about commutation of your death sentence. They are sold at your nearest health-food store. If your cell block doesn't have one, consult the warden.

These are the foods on which you are less likely to over indulge. They help cut down overweight. Of all the causes that help destroy good looks and shorten life, overweight comes first, health authorities say. Every man who has been hanged knows that his weight is what destroyed him—the more the pounds, the tauter the rope and the tighter the noose. The ampler the waistline, the more pinched the neckline and the shorter the lifeline, so to speak.

The more I study men in condemned rows across the nation, the more I am convinced that only planned nutrition can prevent premature aging. A 50-year diet program for each man would work wonders.

HON. ED deGRAFFENRIED BACK IN DISTRICT

Congressman Edward deGraffenried has returned to the District during the adjournment of Congress and has opened offices on the second floor of the Post Office Building at Tuscaloosa. Mr. deGraffenried plans to visit in as many counties as possible during his stay in the District.

The Congressman announced that anyone desiring to see him about any matter could contact him at either the Tuscaloosa Post Office or while he is visiting in the various communities of the District. The Congressman stated that he plans to remain in the District until November 27th, when Congress reconvenes, unless he should be called back to Washington in the meantime by Chairman Vinson of the Armed Services Committee in connection with the work of the Stock-piling Sub-committee or Air Procurement Sub-committee or other work of the Armed Services Committee.

His office will be staffed by his Executive Secretary, Mr. Cleveland Tucker, and Mrs. deGraffenried, who accompanied him to the District. Miss Mary Ellen Higgins, Clerk, will remain in the Washington Office during the adjournment.

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLD TIMERS

From J. Risor Camryn of Seattle, Wash.: "I remember when we went to the woods for nuts in the fall—mostly black walnuts—and how we prepared them for winter. By removing the hull and pounding them through the proper-sized knot hole or one bored through a plank. Then nailing a cleat on the sloping barn roof, and placing them one by one behind it to dry and cure. And the stained hands we had for a long time afterward. Most of the boys in school had 'em."

From Marie J. Chubb of Chicago: "I remember the good sponge candy we used to buy as children at candy kitchens or in school stores. We paid a penny for a bag. I sure wish I had some now!"

From the Rev. Robert E. Oughton of Kirkwood, Mo.: "I'm not much of an old-timer, but I remember when women used to raise children instead of poodle dogs."

From Mary Stewart of Chicago to Mrs. Minnie Cox: Do you remember: "Won't You Come Over in My Yard," "She's Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage," "Molly, I and the Baby" or "Down Went McGinty to the Bottom of the Sea"? Or the song that began, "Satan is a dandy, he'll feed you on Nick's candy, climbing up the golden stairs"?

DISEASES OF OATS AND THEIR CONTROL

Auburn, Ala. — Crown rust and Helminthosporium blight are the two most important oat diseases in Alabama. Either disease is capable of destroying the entire crop if favorable conditions exist, according to James A. Lyle, assistant plant pathologist, A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station.

Crown rust of oats, often known as leaf rust or orange leaf rust, occurs principally on the leaves, although it is frequently present on leaf sheaths and sometimes on stems and panicles. The only known control for the disease is the planting of adapted, resistant varieties. Since crown rust is a wind-borne disease and does not live over in the soil or on the seed, crop rotation and seed treatment are of no value.

Helminthosporium blight occurs on all parts of oat plants, the pathologist points out. The disease does more damage in warm, wet weather. Therefore, fields planted early in the fall usually show more seedling blight than later plantings. The planting of adapted, resistant varieties is the best control for the disease. However, Mr. Lyle points out that the following measures are helpful in its prevention: Plant clean seed that have been treated with a recommended seed treatment and rotate crops since the disease producer is carried on oat-straw and stubble.

WASHING RICE IS NOT RECOMMENDED

Auburn, Ala. — One old, familiar kitchen practice, outdated by recent research, is washing or rinsing rice before and after cooking.

Years ago when rice was sold in bulk, washing before cooking was necessary to be sure the rice was clean. But packaged rice today is a clean product. After cooking, rice was rinsed to separate the grains, but newer cooking methods have made this unnessary. Washing rice wastes not only time but also nutritive value.

Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist, reveals that vitamin value may be washed off brown and partially polished rice. Tests show that brown rice loses about 10 per cent of its original Vitamin B1 when washed through five changes of water, even though the washing is rapid. As for partially polished rice, tests show that it loses about 20 per cent of its thiamine through washing and cooking. Washing off the powdery rice polish which clings to the grains probably accounts for much of this loss.

"White rice, which has little or no Vitamin B1, is eaten by many people," adds Miss Hulsey. "It is much better to serve brown unpolished rice or, at least, the partially polished rice which contains about 70 per cent as much Vitamin B1 as the brown rice."

KEEP FIGHTING GARDEN DISEASES AND INSECTS

Garden insects and diseases do not take time out for farmers to harvest their crops.

"Therefore," says J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service garden specialist, "keep using the Auburn formula garden dust that controls most insects and diseases."

A THOROUGH RINSE AVOIDS SOAP STAIN

Soap that is not rinsed out of clothes during the laundering may show up in a brownish stain resembling iron rust when the clothes are ironed, according to Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist. Therefore, give clothing a thorough rinse.

ENOUGH CERTIFIED HYBRID SEED CORN

A good supply of Alabama certified hybrid seed corn is in prospect for planting the 1951 crop, according to Ralph Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service seed marketing specialist.

He points out that 2,239 acres of hybrid seed corn have been grown this year and that the crop is now being harvested and processed. Hybrid seed being produced include Dixie 11, Dixie 17, Dixie 18, Ga. 101, N. C. 27, N. C. 1032, Funk's G-714, Funk's G-717, P.A.G. 170, P.A.G. 620, P.A.G. 630, and P.A.G. 631.

CORN MEAL

Meal made from good corn and enriched with vitamins and minerals is a health-promoting food. Therefore, ask grocers and millers for enriched corn meal for health's sake.

PACKAGING PRODUCE

Many farmers could sell more produce at better prices if it were packaged in the kind of containers that would catch the eye of prospective buyers.

BREEDING COWS

Now is a good time to make a survey of the dairy herd to determine when each animal should be bred. A check list will prove valuable since it will insure getting all cows to freshen as needed for a steady milk supply next fall and winter.

GROWERS ARE ADVISED SAVE COTTONSEED

Auburn, Ala. — Cotton growers should not be caught short on good seed for planting next year's cotton crop.

On N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extensions Service cotton improvement specialist, advises growers who planted breeder, certified, or pure first year seed of a recommended variety to save an ample supply of seed for planting the 1951 cotton crop. Enough seed should be saved for a possible increase in acreage.

"The state's cotton acreage and estimated production is lower than it has been in many years," states the specialist. "Consequently, the volume of good planting seed offered for sale will be greatly reduced. Certified growers and growers in one-variety communities who normally produce seed for sale report a very short crop."

He reminds farmers that it will be necessary to keep seed pure while handling and ginning. Cottonseed stored in bulk should be stirred to prevent heating. It is a good practice to sack planting seed as soon as they are ginned, store them in a dry building, and keep turning them to prevent heating.

AIRPLANE FARMING

At the present time farmers and custom operators are using several types of civilian planes to do some 75 different jobs.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A cake which has not finished baking completely, particularly one of the angel food or sponge cake types, has a little singing noise which stops when the baking is completely finished. If silent, the cake is usually done; if singing, the baking process should be continued.

TRADE-IN VALUE
IT WOULDN'T BE SMART BUSINESS TO TRADE IN YOUR CAR FOR A POORER ONE—AND WE WOULDN'T LAST LONG DOING BUSINESS THAT WAY.
Trading our Voluntary, free American way of doing things, for the Compulsory, dictatorial, tax-eating way of Socialism, isn't good business, either. And the America we know wouldn't last very long if we made that trade.
Let's do business the American Way—the Voluntary Way.

Who Runs America?
the Congress? the President?
OR YOU AND THE MAN NEXT DOOR?

RUNNING AMERICA is the joint job of 150,000,000 people. It's the biggest job in the world today—keeping it running for liberty and for freedom. And the whole world's watching to see whether Americans can do it!

IN MUCH OF THE WORLD today, the people have resigned from running their own countries. Others have been quick to step in—first with promises of "security"—and then with whips and guns—to run things their way. The evidence is on every front page in the world, every day.

FREEDOM COMES UNDER ATTACK. The reality of war has made every American think hard about the things he's willing to work and fight for—and freedom leads the list.

But that freedom has been attacked here recently—just as it has been attacked in other parts of the world. One of the most serious threats to individual freedom has been the threat of Government-dominated Compulsory Health Insurance, falsely presented as a new guarantee of health "security" for everybody.

THE PEOPLE WEIGH THE FACTS. In the American manner, the people studied the case for Socialized Medicine—and the case against it.

They found that Government domination of the people's medical affairs under Compulsory Health Insurance means lower standards of medical care, higher payroll taxes, loss of incentive, damage to research, penalties for the provident, rewards for the improvident.

They found that no country on earth can surpass America's leadership in medical care and progress. They found that able doctors, teachers, nurses and scientists—working in laboratories where Science, not Politics, is master—are blazing dramatic new trails to health for Americans—and for the world.

THE "GRASS ROOTS" SIGNALS CONGRESS. In every community in the Nation, people stood up to be counted on this important issue. Thousands of local women's clubs, civic groups, farm, business, religious, taxpayer, medical, educational and patriotic organizations spoke out—giving the great United States Congress its unmistakable Grass Roots signal from home!

And ever watchful, ever sensitive to an alert people, The Congress saw that signal, and heard the people speak out, loud and plain. That's democracy in action. That's the American way!

Today among the 10,000 great organizations on militant public record against "Compulsory Health Insurance" are:

General Federation of Women's Clubs
American Farm Bureau Federation
National Grange
Veterans of Foreign Wars
National Conference of Catholic Charities
American Protestant Hospital Association
American Legion
National Association of Small Business Men
United States Chamber of Commerce
National Association of Retail Grocers
National Retail Dry Goods Association
American Bar Association

• Doctors of this Nation are grateful that the people refused to be wooed by the fantastic promises of this un-American excursion into State Socialism. • Doctors of America are dedicated to serve their fellow citizens at home and their comrades in uniform, wherever service to this Nation may take them. • And the thing they stand ready to fight for—to sacrifice for—to die for—is not the alien way of life of Socialism, but the prideful security of a free and self-reliant people!

THE VOLUNTARY WAY IS THE AMERICAN WAY!

• Throughout the Nation, free men and women, working and planning together, are finding the American answer to every question of medical service, care and cost. Hundreds of Voluntary Health Insurance Plans are in healthy competition—sponsored by doctors, insurance companies, hospitals, fraternal organizations—by industry, agriculture and labor. • Today in America—70 million people are protected by Voluntary Health Insurance! • Throughout the Nation, families are insuring themselves against the major costs of illness—at reasonable, budget-basis prices. Voluntary Health Insurance takes the economic shock out of illness. Protect your family now. • For information, ask your doctor—or your insurance man.

An American's greatest heritage is the right to learn the facts—and to speak his mind. Maintained with honor and used with sincerity—that right will guarantee forever that

UNITED NATIONS WEEK OCT 16-24

Chilton County women will be asked to turn their needles from home sewing to take a few stitches on United Nations flag.

So said Miss Mattie Jo Barber, Home Demonstration Agent, today in explaining a program aimed at bringing United Nations Week, October 16-24 into every home in this county.

"And we would like for the men, too, to join in on this project. They might not do the sewing—but could encourage the making of these flags in every community and civic club in Chilton County," continued Miss Barber.

She explained that the National Citizens' committee for United Nations Day, October 24, has assigned to all home demonstration agents in the United States the job of taking the lead in plans for making and flying the United Nations flags in every community.

The agents will supply flag-making information and demonstrate to interested local groups how to make the flags.

Miss Barber said she now has a kit of materials needed to make the U. N. flag. Demonstrations will be given leaders from each home demonstration club, 4-H Club, and every other civic and business group interested in making flags.

"By taking part in constructing the flag, people will become more conscious of the meaning and purpose of the United Nations organization," said Miss Barber. "Of course the flags could be purchased, but the opportunity for all of us to become conscious of United Nations would be lost."

The agent explained that the plan calls for women and girls in farm organizations, home demonstration and 4-H Clubs, city, church, veteran, school, and other interested groups to make flags and present them to local officials for flying on United Nations' Day and on other occasions.

Miss Barber urged all those interested in the U. N. flag-making project to contact her. She will order kits and provide the necessary instructions.

BREEDER COTTONSEED

Farmers who planted breeder or certified seed of a recommended variety should keep their cottonseed pure when harvesting, handling, and ginning.

A snap clothespin tacked inside the door may be used to hold an ice or milk card securely.

NEW TRAINING POLICY FOR RE-ENLISTEES

In a major policy change for re-enlistees entering the Air Force from civilian life, the Air Force will hereafter give them the same indoctrination training as basic airman.

Only those holding the rank of sergeant and above and thise who have been out of service for six months or less will be exempt from basic training.

Personnel exempt will be assigned to the re-enlistee squadrons where they will receive an indoctrination course for a period of approximately one week. This course was cut last August from 15 working days due to the current emergency and the selection of re-enlistees to fill technical school assignments to other stations.

Lackland, besides being the nation's Air Force re-enlistment center is the Air Force reception base for WAF's, home of the U.S. AF Officer Candidate School, Headquarters Human Resources Research Center, and Center of Basic Airman Indoctrination. See M-Sgt. Barry T. Morehead, local recruiting sergeant for the U. S. Air Force, in the New Wade Building, Clanton, Ala., for details on how to enlist.

PLAN TO RETURN RATED OFFICERS TO FLYING STATUS

Provisions for returning to flying status some of the Air Force rated officers who were removed from flying duties under the economy measures of the last fiscal year.

Approximately 1,800 rated officers who were removed from flying status under the economy program are now serving on active duty in the Air Force in non-flying status. The criteria under which all rated officers will return to flying status follow:

(a) Officers must be qualified and must volunteer for return to flying status.

(b) They must be potentially qualified to perform combat duty.

(c) Their return to flying status will further the accomplishment of the Command's Flying Mission.

AFFAIRS HONOR BRIDE - ELECT

Miss Barbara Burnett, bride-elect of Algert Swanson Agricola, was feted on Wednesday, October 4, when Mrs. M. C. Barth entertained at a very unique and original morning coffee.

Guests were met informally by the hostess, the honoree, and Mrs. Julius C. Burnett, mother of the honoree.

The handsome ebony grand piano was used for the "serving table," covered with an exquisite lace cloth, the "table" was centered with a miniature piano, an exact replica of the grand piano. The miniature held an arrangement of beautiful roses in pink and rose hues. A large cheese cake in the form of a wedding slipper in the pink and rose color scheme centered on a silver tray, occupied one end of the piano "table." The silver coffee service was on the opposite end. Miniature wedding slippers in the pink and rose color scheme were used artistically in the other dainty refreshments. The pink coffee napkins were very personal and unique, with a photograph of the honoree in one corner and the inscription, "Coffee With Barbara," done in black.

Mrs. Samuel E. Johnson played softly on the piano, while the honoree cut the first slice of the cheese cake, which was later served by Mrs. John Hollis. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Samuel E. Johnson. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Harold Lawrence, Mrs. Omar L. Reynolds, Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, Mrs. James Q. Wade, Mrs. Frank N. Scott and Mrs. C. C. Craig.

The pink and rose color scheme was repeated in lovely flower arrangements throughout the receiving rooms.

Sixty guests called during the coffee hour.

Luncheon Thursday—

Mrs. John Mullins entertained at a luncheon on Thursday of last week, complimenting Miss Barbara Burnett.

A crystal bowl filled with mixed flowers in bridal tones of pink and blue centered the luncheon table. Attractive wedding bell place cards marked the place of each guest.

Honored On Saturday—

Among the pre-nuptial social courtesies shown Miss Barbara Burnett was the lovely luncheon given by Mrs. John DeRamus on Saturday, October 7th.

Each small table where the guests were seated was marked with a glass wedding slipper filled with pink sweetheart roses. Wedding slippers were repeated in the place cards. To further carry out the slipper theme, the honoree was presented with a Dresden slipper as a remembrance.

Attendants Luncheon—

The bridal attendants of the Burnett-Agricola wedding party were entertained at a lovely luncheon at the home of the bride-elect, Miss Barbara Burnett, on Sunday, October 8th.

Briarcliff roses interspersed with fern formed the center piece for the luncheon table.

Tiny colonial dolls accompanied the dainty place cards by which the following guests were seated: Misses Helen Hayes, Peggy Ramsey, Melba Studdard, Mesdames James L. Forman, Walter Wood and Miss Burnett.

The Study Club—

The first meeting of the Study Club of Clanton, Ala., was held on Friday afternoon. October 6th, at 3 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. Robert Powers. She chose carnations, the club flower, gladioli and chrysanthemums to enhance the beauty of her home.

After a brief business meeting with Mrs. John Mullins. club president, presiding, the club members were introduced to the guest speaker. Since World Events is the general theme of the club for the year, Mrs. Grady Heflin introduced Mr. Albert H. Haack by saying that he had chosen for his topic, "The Battlefront of Today and Tomorrow." His talk was very thought-provoking, making the club members realize that the Communists have world-wide aspirations for their way of life.

A delicious salad plate carrying out the club colors of green and white was served to the members and guests.

The meeting was adjourned.

This Week In Washington

A TURN FOR THE BETTER in the Korean war news, the upheaval in the President's cabinet brought about by the resignation of Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, the unexpectedly bitter denunciation of Gen. George C. Marshall by Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana, and the first orders of the new war production control organization were the highlights of the Washington picture recently.

• • •

Johnson's resignation was not expected until after the November elections had eased some of the pressure upon President Truman for the alleged sins of omission in the preparedness program in Korea. But despite these charges the navy, the army, the air force and the entire defense set-up have performed a miracle of logistics in the transportation of men and material over the 6,000 mile supply line to Korea, as evidenced by the recent landings of upwards of 40,000 men and a mountain of material at the new Seoul front.

It is significant that the same people who were loudest in their praise of Johnson's economies a few months ago are now loudest in their denunciation of the ousted defense chief, and that our military defense as evidenced by recent happenings in Korea were not as weak as the first few weeks of the war indicated.

The Johnson resignation is considered here a great victory for Secretary of State Dean Acheson and his far east foreign policy, and those sounding the hue and cry for Acheson's resignation have been diminished to a handful, headed by Senators Wherry of Nebraska and McCarthy of Wisconsin.

In the meantime, two rather important measures have gone over the congressional hurdles—one to provide authorization for between $150 million and $170 million in federal aid for school construction, the other measure to provide a five-year armory construction program of $50 million a year, the federal government providing 75 per cent and the states supplying 25 per cent.

As finally adopted, the new tax bill will increase individual income taxes about 17 per cent and corporation taxes about 15 per cent. In general, the individual income tax boosts will about equal the tax cuts voted in 1945 and 1948. Agreement was reached to let the excess profits provision wait until next year, but to draw up such a measure early in 1951 and make it retroactive on corporation profits to July 1, 1950.

• • •

Among other late action was a bill to shelve cotton acreage allotments, but to set up peanut acreage quotas for 1951 and 1952; postponement of action on the controversial senate-passed central Arizona project; approval and authorization of construction of the $76-million Palisades dam project in Idaho; granting the states permission to set up home guards while the national guard is serving abroad and authorizing the federal government to supply the arms and ammunition for these home guard units; and placing at the bottom of the list of must legislation the two statehood bills for Alaska and Hawaii.

• • •

The senate has set up a sub-committe of its armed services committee to serve as a watch-dog for investigation of the national defense program. The new seven-member group is headed by Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas and will act similarly to the old Truman war investigating committee. The committee has the blessing of President Truman and, by its own admission, it is proposed to "reactivate the Truman committee which showed so effectively what a legislative investigating committee could do during a grave emergency when close understanding between the legislative and executive branches is essential to the national security."

Its primary objective, according to Senator Johnson, is to develop the supply of natural and synthetic rubber and put the surplus property disposal system in line with national emergency demands. It is concerned not merely with the Korean war, but with any future war, hot or cold, military or economic, declared or undeclared.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

WITH THE RECORD of the 81st congress a matter for the verdict of the voters in November, there was an atmosphere of relief here in Washington, both in and out of government, as the lawmakers trekked out of town, some to lose . . . others to win approbation at the polls . . . but most to put in busy hours before the election booths open Nov. 7.

• • •

Even up to the last moment of adjournment there was tension and rebellion in the air as first the house and then the senate passed the McCarran anti-subversive bill over the veto of President Truman. And likely this measure may become a campaign issue, although 26 Democrats in the senate voted to make the bill law despite presidential veto.

It has been a hysteria-ridden congress, fearful of what the people might do in retaliation at the polls, which herded otherwise sober-minded senators to vote for the most drastic curb on freedom ever on the books in this country. It has been a congress which had been nagged and spent by witch hunts and Communist charges and counter-charges for months which finally gave-in "for a mess of pottage" and plastered the measure on the statute book, although the President and the department of justice said the bill would do these things: (1) it would require publication of vital defense installations; (2) it would waste time of the justice department and the FBI on "its unworkable registration provisions"; (3) it would cost the assistance of many aliens in intelligence matters; (4) it would antagonize friendly governments; (6) it would put the government in the thought control business; (6) it would permit subversive aliens to become naturalized easier and (7) it would permit creation of concentration camps in this country and give the government vast powers to harass all citizens in their right of free speech. In debate on the floor opponents of the measure likened it to New England witchcraft and to the alien and sedition laws of early colonial days.

The call for a return to Washington on November 27 is for the purpose of holding hearings on an excess profit provision of the 1951 tax law as promised when the present tax law was passed. Congressman Robert Doughton of North Carolina already has announced his house committee will go into session for the tax hearings.

• • •

Not to be outdone by the senate, the house has named a sub-committee of its executive expenditures committee.

• • •

Friends of Sen. Charles W. Tobey, of New Hampshire, were offering him their congratulations upon his renomination by a hairline decision as the GOP senator from that state. According to word from New Hampshire, a recount may yet decide the issue. The battle against Senator Tobey, one of the thorns in the side of the more conservative Republicans because of his libealism, was led by a Manchester newspaper publisher, William Loeb. When the Tobey organization published statements concerning Senator Tobey by his GOP colleagues, Publisher Loeb sent these senators telegrams asking confirmation of their statements. Several senators either backed down, denied or side-stepped the issue, much to Loeb's glee and Senator Tobey's discomfiture.

But Sen. George Aiken of neighboring Vermont stuck by his guns. Seator Aiken's reply to Publisher Loeb said:

"Senator Tobey has fought shoulder to shoulder with me for the St. Lawrence development, REA and low-cost power for New England. He stood by me when the federal administration tried to get control of the farmers of America. He has consistently fought for better health and education, better living conditions for low income and working people and other measures I have stood for. His exposure of 'charitable trusts' has resulted in a provision in the new tax bill which plugs the loopholes through which some corporations escaped taxes.

"Although I have no intention of participating in the New Hampshire campaign, you know me well enough to know that I would not turn on Senator Tobey when he is under attack."

What's Wrong with FREEDOM?

Our business is selling merchandise—the best we can buy—at the most economical price to you. It's a good business, and we like it.

But being in business in America is more than skillful buying and selling. It's the exercise of a fundamental right—freedom to venture, freedom to plan, freedom to succeed by serving best.

All freedoms stand or fall together. That's why we take our stand today, with the doctors of America, for the Voluntary System. At home and abroad, it's worth defending!

to buy residence telephone service today than it did 10 years ago . . .

The price that you pay for residence telephone service in Alabama today actually takes a much smaller percentage of your wages than it did in 1940. Here are the facts:

In the past ten years, hourly wages in manufacturing plants have gone up 118% while, in this same period, residence telephone rates in Alabama have advanced on the average only 31%. Compare that also with a 72% rise in the overall cost of living during this same 10-year period.

In other words the price you pay for telephone service has gone up far less than wages, far less than family income, and far less than most commodities and services you buy.

Meanwhile, the amount of telephone service available at your local service rate has increased immensely. Today throughout most of Alabama you can call and be called from nearly three times as many telephones at your local service rate as you could 10 years ago.

Yes, any way you look at it, telephone service is still one of today's biggest bargains in Alabama.

Maplesville News

Church News—

Those who wish to attend the Howard College Extension School at Clanton Thursday night of this week, meet at the Maplesville Baptist Church at 6:30 p.m.

A large number of members attended W.M.U. meeting Monday afternoon at the Baptist Church. In the absence of the Circle Leader, Mrs. [illegible]vie Cochran, the meeting was conducted by Mrs. H. M. Nix. Interesting discussions on missions by Mrs. Daisy Littlejohn, Mrs. Eugene Hathcock and Mrs. H. M. Nix. The members gave a pounding to Mrs. J. V. [illegible] whose husband is in the Veterans' Hospital, Montgomery.

Rev. Evan Johnson preached a wonderful sermon last Sunday. He asked member to try tithing for three months and see that the Lord would abundantly bless.

School News F.H.A.—

Last Monday and Tuesday were initation days for the 25 new members of the F.H.A. of the Maplesville High School. Monday they had to wear old faded dresses, worn backward, with high heels, socks of different colors, ribbon in their hair, a big purse, no make-up or jewelry. They were compelled to do everything the 12 old members told them to do.

Tuesday they were compelled to dress worse than Monday. Everyone had to dress differently and do different things. It was a lot of fun. They made pictures both days. Tuesday night they had the formal initiation by candle light. All spent the night in the Home Economics Building, cooking their supper and breakfast there. Mrs. Pierson, F.H.A. Advisor, was with them as chaperon.

This happy occasion will long be remembered by the F.H.A. girls.

Last week the F.H.A. girls entered the State Fair F.H.A. exhibits contest and were put in the third division. They won a beautiful white ribbon and $60.00. Their lamp exhibit was entitled, "make light of it." Each lamp was made by a home economics student.

Beta Club—

The Maplesville Beta Club members are selling subscriptions to magazines this week and next week. The proceeds from the subscriptions will go into a scholarship fund for a Beta Club member who is going to college. Anyone who is interested in subscribing for some magazine get in touch with Mrs. Georgia Billingsley, advisor, or the Beta Club members.

Mr. and Miss Maplesville High School—

Each year the student body of Maplesville School elects by secret ballot two outstanding students to represent the school. They must have a "B" average in their grades, must have attended Maplesville High one year, taking part in all the school activities. Friday night, October 6th, during the half of the Maplesville-Isabella football game Mr. J. E. Daniels, principal of the school, announced the winners of "Mr. and Miss M.H.S." They were Miss Opal Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julious Taylor of Maplesville, and Mr. Earl Chambers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Chambers of Maplesville. This is indeed an honor.

Congratulations to Opal and Earl. They are well deserving of this title. Miss Eva Jo Walker, the retiring "Miss Maplesville School," had the honor of pinning the ribbons on them.

Football—

Maplesville "Red Devils" defeated Isabella by a score of 27-0. All the touchdowns were made during the first half. Coach Kelley of Maplesville must have known that during the last half the score would run much higher, so he put his second team in against the Isabella team. The second team kept them from scoring. However, the game next Friday, October 13th, here at Maplesville against Plantersville High School team, might prove to be harder to win. With the good coaching of Mr. Kelley, the running and blocking combination of the "Red Devils" we are quite sure they will win. Everyone come out and boost our boys to another victory.

The P.-T.A., as usual, will serve plenty of delicious sandwiches and drinks in the new lunchroom near the field.

With the new bleachers everyone will be comfortable while watching the game.

The athletic field now has a new fence around it.

THEY'RE AFTER HOSPITAL — Members of the press and radio have joined hands in Chilton County to get the ball rolling for a new hospital for the Central Alabama area. SOIL-CEMENT—today's biggest value for light-traffic streets

SOIL-CEMENT makes taxpayers' dollars go farther because about 90 per cent of the required material is usually native soil on the site. It's easy to transform high-maintenance cost streets into strong, durable pavement good for years of all-weather service with soil-cement.

Soil-cement's superior value and durability for light-traffic streets are fully established. Thousands of miles of soil-cement paving are now in service in the U. S.

AMERICA IS THE . . .

Land of the Free

BUT AMERICA IS NOT THE LAND OF THE FREE HANDOUT

Our Nation was founded on the principle that Freedom must be paid for—and is well worth paying for.

The American people have made great sacrifices in payment for liberty.

But they have refused to sacrifice liberty for promised "security"...to trade freedom for the spurious "safety" of State Socialism.

This firm is proud to be part of a community and a country where each American is free to worship as he chooses—and grants that same privilege to his neighbor...where a business is free to create a better product, and to compete in the open market for patronage.

Unfettered by political controls, American medicine has made this the healthiest, strongest Nation in the world. Socialized medicine would endanger our physical health, our economic welfare and our political freedom.

With American medicine, we say...

Let's keep our right to manage our own lives... to earn our liberty...to keep America the

We are proud of this record and ask each member to continue to come back and help us to make this one of the best Sunday Schools in Chilton County.

Our MYF is doing some wonderful work. Our church received the MYF Banner last month. We have been given the record of receiving the banner the most of any other church in the Sub-District for the past year.

Sunday was our regular preaching day. Also the second quarterly conference of the Clanton Circuit was held here. Rev. Carleton Preer, District Superintendent from Selma, Ala., brought the 11:00 message. A large crowd from this church was present and a good representation of delegates from all of the other churches on the Clanton Circuit. A bountiful dinner was spread at the noon hour. A good fellowship was enjoyed by every one and a day was well spent together.

We just urge that each member continue to come on to Sunday School and let us increase our enrollment and keep this high percentage of attendance going and we will be proud of it and I know that God will award you for doing such. Remember to be at Sunday School and MYF each time you possibly can. — Reporter.

OBSERVE NATIONAL FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OCT. 8-14

U. S. farm fire losses amounted to ninety-five million dollars in 1949. Chilton County farmers lost their pro-rata share of this total. Case records indicate that 90% of all farm fires resulted from carelessness.

In observing fire prevention week in Chilton County, make a check of your farm habits and surroundings from the reminders listed below. A few repairs and corrected habits may save a building or even a life on your farm next year.

1. Kerosene and fuel containers and matches to be sure they are out of reach of children and never near open fires.
2. Check chimneys and flues for cracks, loose brick or mortar joints.
3. If you have a shingle roof, put a screen spark arrestor on top of chimney.
4. Check home and building electrical outlets for frayed wiring or loose connections.
5. Don't smoke in barn, in bed or near flammable liquids.
6. Don't refuel tractor with motor running or while hot.
7. Don't use gasoline or kerosene to hasten fires.
8. Don't operate or store tractor in the barn.
9. Don't locate gasoline or fuel tanks in main barn.

All Fires Start As Small Fires—

DO YOU?—

1. Have fire extinguisher or water spigots fitted for hose handy?
2. Avoid windy days for burning trash or grass?
3. Have necessary help when starting grass fires?
4. Keep a ladder handy to buildings?

The formation of crust on cornstarch pudding can be prevented by stirring occasionally while cooking, by not cooking too fast, and by placing a damp cloth over the top of the bowl when the mixture is cooling.

Place leftover egg yolks in a small jar, top with a small amount of water or milk, and cover tightly for keeping. A small milk bottle forms an excellent container for storing either leftover egg yolks or egg whites.

Campaign Week for Community Concerts in Chilton County will be the week of October 16th.

TOMORROW NEVER COMES

Today is here. I will start with a smile, and resolve to be agreeable. I will not criticize. I refuse to waste my valuable time.

Today has one thing in which I know I am equal with others—time, all of us draw the same salary in seconds, minutes, hours.

Today I will not waste my time, because the minutes I wasted yesterday are as lost as a vanished thought.

Today I refuse to spend time worrying about what might happen. I am going to spend my time making things happen.

Today I am determined to study to improve myself, for tomorrow I may be wanted, and I must not be found lacking.

Today I will act toward other people as though this might be my last day on earth. I will not wait for tomorrow. Tomorrow never comes.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

ONE OF ALABAMA'S LEADING WEEKLIES
DEDICATED TO SERVE THE CITIZENS OF CHILTON COUNTY AND CENTRAL ALABAMA

VOL. XXVIII THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1950 CLANTON, ALABAMA OPPORTUNITY EDITION

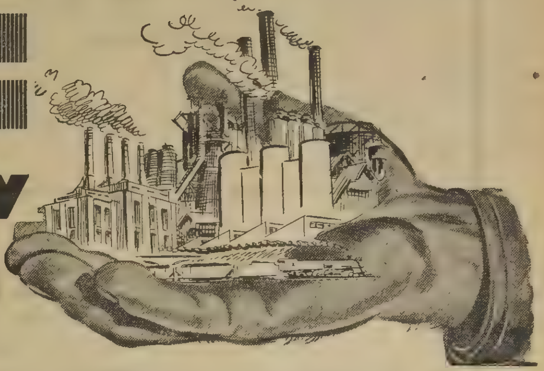
CHILTON COUNTY Opportunity Edition

From Chilton County's 3,000 rolling sandy loam farms comes 38 different food crops. They go into markets of the Middle West (Detroit, Cincinatti, Dayton, Cleveland) the East (Boston, New York City) the South (New Orleans, Miami, Jacksonville) and play a major role in supplying seasonal fruit and vegetables in Alabama cities and towns.

Chilton County farmers are cashing in on the opportunities afforded by favorable soil and climatic conditions for fruit and vegetable production.

Much expansion is still expected in this field when farmers acknowledge the advantages afforded in standardization of grades and orderly marketing methods.

The Chilton Area Horticultural Experiment Station is at work developing crops and cultural practices to lead the way in future food crop expansion in Chilton.



Chilton County's heavily populated farm areas are producing a bumper crop of children --- free from rabble rousing communistic ideas. This crop of willing workers, combined with cheap electrical power, nearness to iron and steel center, and favorable climate, makes Chilton County a desirable area for industrial expansion.

"There's No Place Like Home" --- particularly if it's a farm home equipped with all modern conveniences and a farm pond.

Forty odd Chilton farms now have a scene similar to the one above and many others are planning to add this valuable improvement.

Children so occupied will never show up in our courts as juvenile delinquents and are playing a major role in agricultural leadership in Chilton County.

Harvest scenes --- particularly corn harvest--- are becoming more important in Chilton County.

With farmer reports of over 75 bushels of corn per acre coming from all sections of the county, we know that the way is being paved for expanded livestock production in this Central Alabama county.

ALTOGETHER

Let no one tell you that the management and your interests are not intimately interwoven. Just as sure as the sun comes up every morning we are linked together. The management asks no favors that they will not grant to others. Those who have children going to school rightly want to see them educated to take their places in the future life of the state and nation. We will do everything we can to make that come true.

Whether you have a dollar invested in real estate or not still we must hoe a line together. No difference what status any one finds themselves in they still must cooperate with their neighbor for their mutual interest. The agitator and those who are continually stirring up trouble through false information have not your progress at heart. We want to see every worker go forward and obtain as fine a degee of living as possible.

The ladies associated with the Stremming Veneer Company have been most fine and loyal, in fact, we want to thank all the good women who in thought and good deed have lightened the load of the management. For them the green fields are at their very doorsteps. That's the way it should be! We wish we could take every one of them by the hand and tell them how much we appreciate their kindness and good will.

In Good Will & Patience Let Us All Work Together

SALUTATIONS

It is with a heart overflowing with gratitude and good will that we thank our loyal working associates for the splendid manner in which they have carried on and are carrying on for the good of Chilton County, Alabama, and the Nation. The finest word in the English language is said to be DUTY. Most certainly the personnel comprising the roster of Stremming Veneer Company have made their friends proud of the manner in which they are reflecting the highest tradition of all that is good in their daily lives. Again the Management says, THANKS!

There is not a finer lot of men and women on the face of the earth than those who come to Stremming Veneer Company each day to carry out their responsibilities. The Management is most desirous that every child and every youth who belong to the household of the worker should have an opportunity to go as far as their talents and ability will take them.

It is well understood and again we reiterate the statement that the latch string of our office hangs out to every worker. Make no error we are your friends and will go a long distance to demonstrate that friendship.

Today and every day we send each and every one of you all good wishes!

Most Sincerely,

Stremming Veneer Co.

Mr. Joseph Abel Jackson, President and Gen. Manager Clanton Drive-In Theatre

JOSEPH ABEL JACKSON

The Drive-In movies development business is revolutionizing moving picture industry. Last year the enormous sum of $150,000,000.00 was paid for admission. There are now in the United States more than 2,300 out-door movie theatres. The investments run into a gigantic sum of money.

It brings out patrons who, as a rule, do not attend the movies. But in the out-door movies they can see with comfort, diversion and satisfaction.

The Clanton Drive-In Theatre, from the stand point of an artist, leaves nothing to be desired. Joseph Abel Jackson is continually making improvements that are to the benefit of his patrons. The Drive-In makes it easy for workers and farmers who can come in their working clothes straight from the evening chores, and for the aged and physically handicapped. They are a boon to the hard of hearing and to invalids, many of who have never seen a movie before the Drive-In. The weekly attendance over the nation is estimated at 7,000,000.

Mr. Jackson has a character that impresses one He has spent quite a time at Birmingham and was high in the council of the Federation of Labor. Also one of the dominant factors in the moving machines operators and always working for the good of the employee, bringing them a better standard of living.

During World War II in the year 1943 the government and labor used his talent for raising money and at one labor rally the amount pledged was in excess of $600,000.00. In charge of one of the drives, Mr. Jackson and his organization went over the top with more than $500,000.00, something that those in charge did not think could be accomplished.

Joseph Abel Jackson put enthusiasm, zeal and imagination and raised this stupendous sum of money in a short period of time thus surprising everyone acquainted with the problem that confronted him.

The gentleman is well liked in this community. He was born only a short distance from where his home and theatre are now located He is affiliated with the York Rite Masons, Zamora Lodge, Birmingham.

He is a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and the Presbyterian Church. He was also a member of the War Price Ration Board for Jefferson County.

Mr. J. P. Lawrence, Jr. Owner And Developer Of Lakeview

J. P. LAWRENCE, JR.

The tendency of the times at home is to get away from the congested part of the community and go to where Nature can be of real assistance in daily living, in beautifying the surroundings and landscaping in a manner that is most attractive.

At Clanton we have a dandy little city. All the conveniences necessary to enjoyable living. The churches, schools, electricity, water power, transportation, civic clubs, women's clubs, pavements, sewerage, financial institutions and a nice shopping center. All of these are at the disposal, and many other modern conveniences, to those who live at Lakeview Sub-division. This development has an attractive lake, beautiful natural surroundings and later there will be parks for the grown ups and kiddies.

Mr. Lawrence possesses the temperment to carry on in a manner worthwhile as it relates to homes and surroundings. There are 42 lots now under unfoldment and later there will be one hundred. This will be one of the finest and most attractive sub-divisions to be found in Central Alabama. Five homes have already been constructed, and permit me to state, they are lovely and have everything modern to the last degree. It would be worth a visit to you to go over them and see how lovely an up-to-date home can be constructed. One of the good features about this is that it is within the corporate limits of Clanton and on a highway that can branch out to Mobile, Birmingham, Montgomery, Selma and any direction you want to go. We suggest you investigate this development that is now going on.

J. P. Lawrence, Jr., is one of Clanton's likable citizens. He owns the Lawrence Paint Company and is a member of the First Baptist Church and also the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Raymond W. Stremming, Pres. and Mgr. Stremming Veneer Co., Inc., Maplesville, Alabama

One of the most interesting characters the writer has met in many a day is Raymond W.. Stremming, the founder, president and general manager of the Stremming Veneer Company. He reflects those traits upon which foundation, great organizers and executives build not only for one generation but also for future prosperity. Raymond W. Stremming has risen by the might of his own intellect to the position of eminence he occupies in the manufacturing world.

With all his attainments he has not gone high-hat but has a friendly disposition and a cordial good will. When one enters the office there is good will and a welcome spirit that is most cordial and leaves a fine impression. Everyone of the employees and those associated on the working personnel, know that they have a friend in this gentleman. He will stand by loyally and faithfully whether in distress or sunshine. This is a trait his workers very much appreciate.

This gentleman was raised on a farm near Evansville, Ind. He began work at the age of fifteen in the plywood department of the Klamer Furniture Corp., at Evansville, Ind His natural bent found full expression in this work and at the early age of nineteen he was in charge of one of the plywood departments.

During 1933 Mr. Stremming commenced selling plywood to various furniture manufacturers, thereby gaining a knowledge of merchandising in addition to the manufacturing of plywood. He established a selling and wholesale warehouse distributing agency in Evansville, Ind. No difference what department and in what situation one of the workers find his responsibility he may know that Raymond W. Stremming also worked in that department. He started in a most modest manner and today occupies a vantage point peculiarly his own. On the payroll are three hundred and sixty men and women, ninety per cent of which are white employees and come from pure American stock. He also employs a good percentage of white girls who come from the best families in this immediate area. The payroll is $14,000.00 each week and his organiaztion purchases logs from farmers and small sawmill operators around $8,000.00 every week. This money finds its way either to the channels of merchandising among our merchants or is banked in one of our financial institutions.

This gentleman is always glad to notice that his friends in the organization are saving and thrifty. It pleases him to see their children go nicely dressed to school and have all the other advantages that similar children enjoy.

Stremming Veneer Company is equipped with most modern machinery and there is now being installed a new Coe Dryer which will make a total of three dryers operating at the Maplesville plant. There is now being operated two nine-hour shifts daily for five days each week. This is an interesting statement showing the scope of the industry. In addition to veneer cut at Maplesville, they also use the output of a plant at Selma, Ala., and a similar plant at Demopolis, Ala., thereby adding considerably to their production. They also use part of the production from W. E. Belcher Lumber Company at Centreville, Ala.

People of Chilton County and adjoining counties and in fact, the whole state of Alabama may take pride in this fact that Mr. Stremming has founded and developed one of the largest plywood plants in the Southland and certainly from the efficient and equipped plants it ranks among the top. There is a very fine eating place for the employees that is a model of its kind. The food is quality and furnished at cost.

A large percentage of the shipments are made by railway, but to facilitate the distribution of the output a considerable fleet of transport trucks is operated for less than car load shipments. The location of the factory at Maplesville is ideal. It is located between the G.M. & O. Railroad and the Southern Railway. This is a great convenience in the handling of raw materials as well plywood shipments.

In keeping with modern trend of humantarian advancement the management have housing facilities for many of their associates on the payroll. This is due solely to the fact that the organiaztion was unable to obtain sufficient housing from local interests.

This company was incorporated under the laws of Alabama, September 27th, 1943, with Raymond W. Stremming, President and Manager, age 44.

Edwin M. Krempp, Vice-President; Henry H. Kratz, Secretary and Treasurer.

Board of Directors comprise the above executives and E. C. Edwards, who is also one of the directors and has the responsibility of General Manager of the Sales Office in Evansville, Ind. Through his hands run the regular sales, which, during the course of twelve months, approximate $3,000,000.00.

Mr. Virgil Royster, who is production and personal manager of both the plants, has been associated with Mr. Stremming since 1924 when they were both employed by the Klamer Furniture Corp., at Evansville, Ind. They have been associated since that time except for the period Mr. Royster served in the Army during World War II. After being discharged from the Armed Forces in 1945 he joined Mr Stremming at Maplesville. He has worked his way up in the same way in the same manner as his "Boss."

Clanton Drive-In Theatre

An Expression Of Thanks To Our Patrons For The Past Year

On October 15, 1949, Your CLANTON DRIVE-IN THEATRE opened for business. On this past Sunday, October 15, 1950, we celebrated our first Anniversary. We wish to express our sincere appreciation to you, our Patrons, for our first year of successful business.

Where the Theatre is now, not more than sixteen months ago, there was a cornfield, we have now a Modern Drive-In Theatre. We are proud of this accomplishment, and hope that you are also. Because we like to feel that this is YOUR Theatre. We have tried and shall continue to try to add to the Beauty of the grounds. Our beautiful flowers are dying down, because Autumn is here. But with the arrival of another Spring we hope the grounds will be one riotous burst of color. For each day we are planting bulbs, seed, shrubs, etc., to bloom in the future Season. "A Thing of Beauty, is a Joy Forever," that is our hopes for this Theatre.

At all times we have trained, alert and courteous young men working on our ramps. These Employees are here to serve our Patrons and assist you in any way possible. The young ladies in our Concession Building are also trained to treat you at all times, with courtesy. There are two trained young men at The Box Office to assist in Ticket Buying. We are attempting, with the help of our Employees, to give our Patrons a safe, clean and up-to-date Drive-In Theatre.

We are attempting and shall continue to do so, to bring to our Audience the best in Movies. We shall continue to buy and maintain the best in Equipment. We shall continue to employ only the most courteous of Employees. We do appreciate your business and hope that you will visit YOUR CLANTON DRIVE-IN THEATRE OFTEN!

36 Years Of Education In Chilton County Schools

The story of the progress of the schools of Chilton County for the past 30 years is a story of a phenomenal growth of an important service to the people of the county. The value of educational services is hard to measure in dollars and cents but must be measured in the service rendered to the people concerned. This growth during the period mentioned is characterized by the consolidation of smaller groups into larger groups and the pooling of efforts and facilities of smaller groups in an effort to give the school child better opportunities. In his annual report to the people, the County Superintendent of Education of the Chilton County Schools of 1920 made the following observation: "One of the most significant features of this year's work has been the tendency toward consolidation. Consolidation can only be affected through the co-operation of the patrons of the various schools of the county and everyone knows that the one-teacher school with its crowded course of study and seven grades is unfit for the work that a school is supposed to do." He goes on, "Of course there are localities in the county where one-teacher schools must continue, but in such places as it is possible to do so, the consolidated school is the type that is going to become the center of our rural life." Thus begins the development of a comparatively new idea in education; the idea that by bringing more pupils together into fewer schools, the curriculum can be broadened and better facilities can be furnished for the instruction of our children. Not only are the facilities more adequate, but the housing is better and more comfortable.

Although there is some work to be done yet along this line, much progress has been made since the above mentioned report of 1920. At that time Chilton County had a total of 74 white schools and 19 negro schools for a total enrollment of 5,706 white and 1,137 negro children. The year 1950 schools to train future stenographers 5,398 pupils enrolled and 10 negro schools with 1,410 pupils enrolled. Thirty-four of the 74 white schools in 1920 were one-teacher schools, teaching 7 grades. Only one school in the county had as many as five teachers, while two had four teachers. (CC HS was not a county school at that time). Today, one of the 31 schools uses 29 teachers with others ranging from 5 to 24 teachers each. We still use 6 one-teacher schools; three white and three negro.

The advantages of such consolidation can best be realized by considering the change of curriculum within our county during this period. Seven vocational departments have been established. This phase of education teaches children the actual means of making a living. Boys are trained to farm, sell, manufacture, and other means of livelihood. The girls are not only taught trades but are trained in the very important art of homemaking. Almost 100 typewriters have been placed in the schools of train future stenographers and secretaries. Consolidation has made specialization possible; providing enough teachers in each school to enable a teacher to teach in her strongest field.

The next decade, 1930, saw another important type of consolidation become a reality. During this year, the 72 school tax districts of the county were organized into two districts. This consolidation of tax districts enabled the people of Chilton to follow another trend in better education; that of equalization of educational opportunities. As long as the county was divided into so many separate units, each unit found it necessary to vote its own taxes separately. The poorer sections found it hard to operate on their taxes while the wealthier sections had much better opportunities. School leaders realized that this system was contrary to Democratic principals and set about to try to remedy the situation. The result was the arrangement for only two tax units for this county. This was later revised to constitute the "A" and "B" districts we have today.

Consolidation of schools automatically brings on the need for transportation of the pupils from their small centers to the consolidated centers. Therein lies one of the most interesting and successful stories of development in public education in Chilton County. The Superintendent's annual report of 1921 gives the following information: "The greatest single factor of advancement of this year's work has been consolidation. Last year only one transportation route was run in the county, from the Shoemaker school district to Verbena, this being the first attempted in the county. This year we are running four wagons to Verbena, three to Isabella and one to Fairview." Thus we see rapid strides in the very beginning in school transportation. Then for many years we read in the Annual Reports and the Minutes of the Chilton County Board of Education accounts of arrangements and establishment of school bus routes. Along in '23 and '24 people began to get brave enough to send the pupils on "school trucks" instead of the "school wagons." In the middle '30's transportation had become such a vital part of the business of the School Board that specially built bodies were provided for privately contracted drivers to use on their trucks to make school transportation safer and more comfortable. The report of 1938 shows an expenditure of $2,478.75 for five all-metal bodies for Chilton County school buses, which represented the ultra-modern in school transportation.

The development of school transportation in this county reached its climax when the Board decided to go into full county ownership in 1940. During this year, 40 brand new complete units were purchased by the Board and made ready for the 1940-41 school term. In the Superintendent's Annual Report for that year, we find: "The most significant event in the history of Chilton County education for 1940-41 was the success of the county's ownership and operation of its own school buses. Approximately 300 more children were transported than ever before at a decrease in cost of $9,155.26. The service was far more satisfactory than it ever was under the former contract system. The people of the county continue to abandon the one and two-room schools, sending their children to the larger schools where their children can secure greater advantages. During the last three years, nine one-teacher schools have been consolidated." The greatest advantage of this new county-ownership arrangement was the service rendered rather than the saving in cost of transportation to the county. This new fleet, costing in the neighborhood of $60,000.00, was financed by the issuance and sale of warrants. These warrants were paid off in full in 1947 and the county has been operating "their own" since that date. Every single unit of the 40 purchased in 1940 is still in operation and is serving the children of the county very satisfactorily every day at present. Ten additional units have been added in recent years and 15 additional units are needed at present to do the job as it should be done. Chilton County citizens can feel proud of the fact that their school transportation system has been used as a model for many systems within and outside the state.

As has been pointed out, educational values cannot be expressed in monetary units. However, a comparison of amounts spent on education will give some idea of comparative efforts. The 1920 Annual Report gives the total expenditures for the year as $60,283.00. Total disbursements for the year ending September 30, 1950, will approach $638,000.00. Present inflationary costs must be taken into consideration while studying these figures. Thirty years ago the average man teacher received $317.70 for a term of 111 days while the lady received $272.20. Today, the man and woman alike receive an average of around $2,000.00 for a 175 day term. The number of teacher units in the county have increased during this period from 144 white to 181 and from 22 negro to 39. The estimated value of buildings and contents has climbed from $101,265 to $1,142,500 in 1950. Much of this additional property has been made possible through the cooperative efforts of the people of the communities and the County Board of Education and State.

In studying the records of the Chilton County Board of Education, one can find such indications of progress on every page; far too many to list in a brief report like this one. Probably one of the most interesting paragraphs is to be found in the report of 1922-23. It reads: "Realizing that the County High School could not take care of all the pupils in the county demanding a high school education, the Board assisted the people of Jemison in getting their school placed on the list of accredited high schools of Alabama. During the coming year we expect Verbena to be placed on the list of accredited high schools, thus giving the county three accredited high schools from which a boy or girl may enter any college in Alabama without examination. Another important addition to the school work of this county during the year was the establishment at Isabella of a Vocational Agricultural School." Probably the best indication of service rendered in our schools is the rapid development of high school work. During the year mentioned above in which new high schools were being established, only 252 of the 4,975 white children enrolled in the county schools are high school students; or about 5%. During 1949-50 term, 1935 of the 5,398 white pupils registered were in the junior and senior high school grades, or more than 34% of the total. Such an increase has been much greater in the negro schools. These figures indicate the greater holding power of our schools and the advantages enjoyed by longer terms and more efficient teachers and plants. Actual figures show that the number of high school graduates in the county increased from 79 in 1930 to 232 in 1950, or an increase of 293.7% in 20 years.

One important phase of the present day school that has developed in recent years is the school lunchroom. Although the first school-operated lunchrooms were first established in the county in 1939, the lunchroom has already become an essential function of the school. The first ones were established with the assistance of WPA and was partly under the direction of this agency. The meals cost the pupils a nickel. At present, the school lunchroom has become a business matter, involving approximately $180,000 annually in this county. This figure does not take into consideration approximately $30,000 in buildings and equipment. Practically all of the children in the schools get hot lunches every day. Every effort is made to see that those financially unable to pay get their lunches.

These facts and figures indicate beyond a doubt that great strides have been made in public education in Chilton County. It is important that we keep in mind that all other phases of life have likewise made great strides. We must keep in mind that in the year 1920, the year used most in this comparison, the Model T Ford was the auto-of-the-day, costing only three or four hundred dollars. Electricity was a scarce commodity. Although great strides have been made in education, our schools continue to come in behind, when it comes to keeping up with the times. Citizens tolerate conditions in their schools that are unheard of in their homes. If present day schools offer better opportunities, likewise much better education is required of the youngster who goes forth today to earn his living. The competition is much keener and the basic knowledge required is many, many times more than was required 30 years ago. If our civilization and democratic way of life is to continue to exist as we would like to have it, the American people must wake up to the fact that all depends upon the calibre of our schools. We would have to be optimistic, indeed, to believe that we can spend 1½% of our national income to teach Democratic processes more effectively than Russia can do with Communism, spending 8½% of its income on education.

When the people of our nation realize the scope and size of the project of educating its future citizens, we will be able to detect real progress in our schools and their product.

In the Choctaw Indian language, Tuscaloosa is compounded of two words—tusko, meaning warrior, and loosa, meaning black. The history of the city dates back to 1809, then known as Black Warrior Town, when a Creek chief, Occechemolta, established a settlement at the falls of the Warrior River. It prospered as a trading post under the guidance of George S. Gaines. But the Indians revolted against the whites in 1813, and American troops under Gen. John Coffee captured and burned the town. Davy Crockett, frontier scout, was with Coffee and wrote in his autobiography (1834) that the town was "wiped from the face of the earth."

Ozark, the seat of Dale County, was known as Woodshop until the present name was chosen in 1855. It was named by a Mr. Matthews, the postmaster, who was reading a history of the Ozark Indians at the time.

Chilton's Peach Festival Has Nationwide Publicity

(By BOB TABER)

Raising peaches in Chilton is an old game and so it was only natural that on July 16, 1947, the first Chilton County Peach Festival was conducted in Thorsby and that it has grown into one of the biggest annual affairs in the Southeast.

One of the most colorful and one of the biggest events of the year, the Chilton County Peach Festival has grown until it now enjoys the widest of publicity and advertising and is rivaled by very few other festivals in the great State of Alabama.

The idea was formed by a group of Chilton County business men, as well as by our County Agent, who wanted to pay tribute to the queen of all fruits, the peach, and to all the people who produce them. And today, through the idea born to that group of business men, Chilton County is known the world over for the fine peaches it produces.

The mammoth peach industry was not brought into being without the pains and sweat that accompany a new idea and a new industry. There was a time when the ravages of insects and disease so severely crippled the infant industry that it seemed impossible for it to survive. Yet it came back a few years later, only to again be stunted by poor markets and low prices. These difficulties of former years were overcome and today the beauty of flourishing orchards graces the landscape of every part of Chilton County.

In 1948 the second annual Peach Festival was conducted in Clanton and since that time alternated each year between Thorsby and Clanton. The second year the Clanton Chamber of Commerce reported that the yield of peaches was better than two and a half million dollars for Chilton's farmers. It's reported that there are now more than 700 acres of peach trees, comprising about 7,000 trees, and nearly that whole number now in production.

Raising peaches in Chilton County just seems to come naturally. The soil and climate are ideal for the fruit trees. It's further reported in the "History of Chilton County and Her People," recently published by Thomas [illegible] Wyatt, that peaches were grown here when the first white man settled in this county. Mr. Wyatt publishes proof that there were peaches in Chilton County some 410 years ago.

Since that time peaches have been cultivated and developed until now our farmers produce what have been termed the "best in the country" by many who know "Chilton County Peaches Are Tops."

Every year the Peach Festival gets bigger and better until this year, when it was held in Clanton, many have said that the parade was the best they have ever witnessed at the local festival, and it was more fun because it was moved from the airport to Clanton's huge City Park to better facilitate the thousands of people that attend the one-day event every year.

To herald the great event, newspapers from all over the state greatly publicize the event by giving graciously of their columns; a many-station radio network is set up for the day with radio stations from throughout Alabama carrying varying programs directly from the scene, while television and movie cameras grind away all through the ceremonies to record for the whole country what Chilton County does for her Queen. . . THE PEACH!

CLIFF JONES

"There is one feature about Chilton County, that is, it has practically all the elements that go with manufacturing. Most certainly we have a fine climate, labor is abundant, electric power, water, splendid highways. It seems to me the thing to do is to capitalize these advantages and call to the attention of those manufacturers who are dissatisfied with their locations in the north and east. There would be no labor trouble in this section and we have a multitude of advantages.

"In agriculture and in location Chilton County is tops. We could use canning plants for many different kinds of vegetables and thus afford our farming friends a ready market," declared Mr. Jones.

The Cliff Jones Milling Co. is growing and each year shows a greater growth from the previous years. The quality is of the best in feeds and also in corn meal. Mr. Jones has trucks to give prompt service to the customers.

This gentlemen is a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and a Steward of the Board of the Methodist Church of Clanton. The Jones family is a pioneer one and some of our most substantial people are of that name.

Mr. R. C. Williams President Clanton Kiwanis Club

R. C. WILLIAMS

"The coming of natural gas to Clanton, which we hope in the near future will be a reality, will do worthwhile things in the way of development of industry. It would be a great thing for Chilton County to get some small industrial plants such as the manufacturer of shirts, overalls and ladies ready-to-wear. The citizens of this community should make an effort to get a greater payroll. In so doing, that money circulating through the channel of paid wages, would stimulate every line of business and increase the value of every bit of real estate.

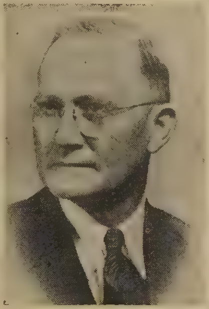
"When we take stock of our assets, with which nature has endowed us, we can go to the forefront in industry and agriculture. But like everything else in the world the effort must be made to build up a condition of that character. Fine labor, transportation, water, electricity joined with splendid churches and schools makes Clanton and Chilton County most desirable places in which to live and carry on business. With the coming of the automobile distances were eliminated. Anything that would bring a greater degree of prosperity to Chilton County should also receive our support," said Mr. Williams.

This gentleman is a well-known business executive in this area of Alabama. He is the wholesale distributor of the Shell Products in this and adjoining counties and has one of the finest retail filling stations to be found between Montgomery and Birmingham.

R. C. Williams is a member of the Methodist Church and Superintendent of the Sunday School. Clanton is fortunate to have him as one of our City Councilmen. In the latter responsibility he can do a tremendous amount of good by instructing our young people in the path they should walk. He is also President of the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

He is rated as having the fine public spirit and a most useful citizen.

Mr. John S. Thomas Manager Cooper Lumber Company



J. S. THOMAS

"In traveling through the various surrounding communities in Chilton County one is impressed with the undeveloped resources that await the magic touch of the agricultural and the industrial. We have opportunities in abundance. In manufacturing, natural resources abound. A splendid type of labor is available. The arteries of transportation both in highways and railways is sufficient for one to travel in any direction and that in a most satisfactory manner.

"Plenty of electricity, water power, and neighbors as fine a class of people as one may find anywhere. It would be a good business policy for this whole community to organize and set forth our attractive features for the investor, the home seeker and the manufacturer," declared Mr. Thomas.

The gentleman has a wide acquaintance in Chilton County and to his friends is known as the "salt of the earth." For the past fifteen years he has been engaged in his present responsibilities. The people of all this area know his, word is good as any bond.

The Cooper Lumber Company is located at Clanton. During the course of twelve months, . it distributes large sums of money to the farmers and timber growers. This money finds its way to our banks and a large part of it is spent with our merchants, which has a tendancy to make the good times. The Cooper Lumber Company is rated for its financial stability.

Mr. Thomas is a member of the Baptist Church.

Mr. G. O. (Buddy) Willingham, Manager Willingham Hotel, Clanton, Alabama

G. O. (Buddy) WILLINGHAM

This modern hotel at Clanton is a living vital example of how a hotel can be developed and gain a fine patronage through the energy and imagination of the management in charge. In the lobby, which is large and attractive, the colors are in harmony. Everything is spic and span. The rooms are neat and attractive. Mr. Willingham has brought to this development all the years of experience in the hotel business and today the result is that the Willingham Hotel is a dandy place in which to stop and live.

Possibly many people at Clanton do not recognize the advantages brought to their business by the Hotel Willingham. Through the year thousands and thousands of dollars are spent in this community due solely to the guests of the Hotel who drive out of their way to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willingham.

We cannot overlook that Mrs. Willingham has been an important factor in the unfoldment of this plan to its present attainment. She is lovely, attractive and reflects a most gracious temperment.

"My wife and myself have enjoyed our so-journ at Clanton. The citizens of this community have been very fine to us. The last few years one can notice the great possibilities of this region in industry and agriculture," remarked Mr. Willingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Willingham are members of the Methodist Church and he is also a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

Guiseppi Moretti, of Carrara, Italy, was the first sculptor of note of early Alabama. Moretti, living at Talladega in the latter part of the nineteenth century, is best known for his huge cast-iron statue of Vulcan, a difficult work surprisingly modern in conception, that stands on the crest of Red Mountain overlooking Birmingham. "Vulcan" claims the distinction of being the largest iron man in the world and the second largest statue in America. It typifies natural resources of the district, the only place in the world where coal, iron and limestone, the three essentials for making steel are found together in one mountain.

A model was cut out for the first State flag of Alabama in the front room of The Evens House, a simple cottage, painted gray situated on South Hull Street in Montgomery. It was built in 1853. J.W.A. Samford, III, designed the flag and it was adopted by a legislative act of February 16, 1895.

Mr. John Maples Cashier Bank Of Maplesville

JOHN MAPLES

This gentleman impressed the writer as having an intellectual reflection of good and honest thoughts. This is a state of affairs that we admire very much.

While conversing with Mr. Maples he said, "Chilton County has an abundance of opportunities, among which is truck farming, market processing, canneries. When the grower is prospering that happy state is reflected in the whole community; stimulates commercial activities and makes life more hopeful to many people. One reads almost every day of factories coming to the southland. Most certainly, in and around Maplesville we have many attractions especially for the industries in the North and Central States who are dissatisfied with the chaos and confusion now existing there. Maplesville is a fine community in which to live and carry on business."

John Maples has the respect of all this community. He is a courteous and considerate gentleman.

Mr. Maples is a director of the Bank of Maplesville, besides being cashier. He is a member of the Baptist Church.

Mr. John B. DeRamus Chairman Chilton Co. Board Of Education

JOHN B. DeRAMUS

To the writer's way of thinking this is one of the finest responsibilities to carry on and do good that one meets with. To influence youth for good that they may assume their correct place in the years to come is certainly most laudiable. Mr. DeRamus also serves as one of Clanton's city fathers, a position of trust he has occupied during three terms of office.

The gentleman has been a resident of Clanton for the past twenty-two years. He is a native of Chilton County and was born near Verbena.

Speaking to the Chilton County News he remarked, "Chilton County is noted for its agricultural resources. Now, if we can get small factories they will add greatly to our local prosperity. Such industry as overall factories, shirts, garments and for our farming friends, canneries. These things it seems to me, would add greatly to our advantageous situation. We have plenty of good transportation near the Port of Mobile and water shipping, close to Birmingham and within twelve hours of large markets. Labor is plenteous, there is an abundance of electricity and good highway and rail transportation."

John B. DeRamus is one of the partners and active in the Planters Gin and Warehouse which pays out approximately one hundred thousand a year for cottonseed. This money does a great deal for local trade in stimulating buying among our merchants.

Mr. Fred R. Smith Mayor Jemison, Ala.

FRED R. SMITH

This is one of the best-known executives of a municipality to be found in Chilton County. He served on the Council at Jemison for four years and was chairman of that Council. Since he was inaugurated as Mayor of Jemison he has given the best that is in him to this responsibility and takes a real pleasure in working to the best interest of this city all the time.

He has a natural trend of ability that equips him to give worthwhile service to the whole community. He is also a member of the Board of Education for Chilton County and takes a real interest in this constructive work.

Since becoming Mayor of Jemison the population has grown from four hundred fifty to eight hundred fifty-seven. Mayor Fred R. Smith is a daily booster for Jemison and Chilton County. He knows the values of a dollar and how to spend it economically. Under his administration as mayor and serving as councilman the water system, street paving, fire department, full time police, have been established, and this lovely little city is getting a good administration.

The auditorium at the High School at Jemison bears witness to his public spirit. Many people thought that it could not be built with the money that was appropriated, but Mayor Smith took every angle of it in charge and gave it his personal attention and it was carried on to a successful conclusion.

Many friends of the Mayor look for him to be called to higher political office in the future. He has the constructive ability. He is in the grocery and dry goods business and owns his store where it is located.

"Those communities that reflect growth and unfoldment in population and financial resources are as a general rule those that have payrolls and employment for the people of those various communities. In summing up the assets of Clanton and Chilton County, we find that we are most favorably situated for industry. We do not lack a single element that is necessary for management to make a success of industrial plants.

"Let us not forget our climate which during twelve months is one of the best to be found in the country. Our labor is descended from Colonial stock and of the best American working type to be found. We have plenty of highways and railway transportation. Like everything else we must set forth our advantages, what we have to offer, to those who are dissatisfied with labor conditions where they are not located. If the population acts as a unit we can swing some of those industries to Chilton County," remarked Mr. Studdard.

This well-known executive has been a resident of Clanton for many years and during those years has developed with the growth of the community. Speaking further about the growth of this area Mr. Studdard said, "One vital thing we need and that is canning factories, so that our farmer friends can find a ready market for their products here at home. Don't let us ever forget that up to date the farmer has been our friend."

Mr. Studdard is a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and of the Methodist Church.

Chilton County - Land Of Opportunities

(By R. E. Bisha, L. & N. General Industrial Agent)

Clanton, the county seat of Chilton County in the center of Alabama, is the focal point for a very rich agricultural area. Intelligent planning and community cooperation over a long period of years has resulted in the production of a great variety of agricultural products, such as cotton, watermelons, tomatoes, beans, cantaloupes, strawberries and many others, including, of course, the wonderful peach orchards which have achieved nation-wide renown for this area. Diversification of crops has aided materially in gaining a balanced agricultural program. Chilton County, located in the center of such an exceptionally fine farm and orchard section, has tended to place the emphasis on agriculture when thinking of develppent so that the industrial aspects of a community improvement program had been considered in a lesser light.

It is timely that Clanton is now considering ways and means whereby to balance its splendid agricultural production with increasing industrial production. Presently there are only three industries located in Clanton. While the total number of people these concerns employ is rather small, their loss would be sorely felt. Conversely, if more industries of various types can be induced to locate at Clanton, it would be the means of providing increased payrolls and enhance Chilton County's economic statute.

When confronted with a problem, one generally tends to analyze all aspects of it when seeking a solution. By applying this principle, one would soon determine that Clanton has many advantages for continued growth and advancement.

No community isolated from its neighbors because of inadquate transportation or communication facilities can expect to progress. Clanton is fortunate in this respect, being on the main line of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad which provides excellent freight and passenger service to all points of the compass through its connections with other carriers at many strategic points of interchange. The L. & N.'s free pick up and delivery service on less-than-carload traffic is important to certain classes of shipment. Certainly, without these service features, Clanton would not be considered attractive to an industrial prospect.

Since Chilton County is at the focal point of a good highway network, industry will readily recognize the possibilities presented for bringing in production of the field and orchard, and for the dealers and merchants to effect distribution of merchandise and services over a wide area.

Very high on the list of "musts" for healthy community growth is adequate and reasonably priced electric power. Through the services rendered by the Alabama Power Company, Clanton can compete with any town in the Southeast for an industry's consideration. From a long and pleasant association with the Alabama Power Company, not only at Clanton but at many other points in Alabama, it is known that their progressive outlook and the provisions they have made to provide good electric service equips individual communities with the ammunition needed to win the battle for new industries.

Fuel is also important. Being near Alabama's rich coal fields makes possible the delivery of this commodity at reasonable costs and this also can be considered an asset.

No review of Clanton's assets would be complete without considering the most important one it has. That is its people. The 1940 population figures for Clanton show the community proper as having 3,392 persons, with 27,955 in Chilton County. While there has not been any phenomenal growth since that time, that which has taken place is sound, as evidenced by preliminary Census figures for 1950 which places Clanton's population as over 5,000.

The merchant who displays attractive merchandise on the shelves is generally the one who makes the greatest number of sales. Clanton is a merchantable commodity and the more "saleable" it is made, the greater its chances are for attracting industry prospects to "buy" it for a location. A community face-washing job sometimes does wonders toward improving appearances to outsiders; likewise, it has a tremendous effect on the local residents once the movement gets going and its results felt.

New industry development comes by constant effort, not sporadic tries at it. The L. & N. Railroad is vitally interested in all the communities it serves—including Clanton, Jemison, Thorsby, Maplesville and Verbena the head of a thriving industry—and pledges the thorough cooperation of all of its departments—including those devoted to encouraging increased industrial and agricultural activity—to work with Chilton County and its people. In short, the L. & N. is and wants to be a "good neighbor."

School Lunchrooms

In September of 1939 the Chilton County Board of Education approved unanimously a resolution that would allow schools and P.-T.A. organizations to establish lunchrooms in the schools. This marked the beginning of a phase of school work that has grown in a very marked fashion since that date. The lunchroom is considered just as essential a part of the school in most of our schools as is the library or playground. The movement has been one of the most popular ones with the patrons of the schools; especially the mothers.

The early lunchroom was a product of the WPA. This organization used it as a means of employment for a portion of its clients. In other words, a person had to be eligible for WPA assistance in order to get a job in the school lunchroom. Many of the lunches were given free, while the most that could be charged was a nickel. (Eggs were 15c per dozen and bacon was 20c per pound.) Lunchrooms were able to get by on this largely because of donated foods by the Department of Agriculture.

Today, the school lunchroom has seen quite a development. The Federal Government, through the Department of Agriculture, makes a contribution of from 2 to 6 cents per lunch served to school children. In Chilton County, only two types of lunches are served; the Type A and the Type C. Six cents is received from the government for Type A when milk is served with it, while only four cents is received for the Type A without milk. The A meal consists of a complete hot lunch, providing 1-3 to 1-2 of the day's nutritive requirements, including milk where it can be had. The Type C consists of milk alone and brings 2c from the government.

One principal feature of the School Lunch Program of today is the fact that free lunches are provided those pupils from homes unable to pay. This constitutes a real problem for principals of schools and lunchroom managers. At the present prices of food, the number of free lunches given at the school is naturally limited. Like any other business, too much "outgo" and not enough income will naturally cause the lunchroom to fail, thereby penalizing the entire school. Today, the school principal must be a good business man in order to "make ends meet" in his lunchroom operation. The number of free lunches must be restricted and he must use the greatest care in the selection of this limited number of participants. He must be convinced that this is the only way that the child will be able to have any lunch.

The Federal Government also assists school lunchrooms by allocating to them certain surplus food commodities. These commodities come to the schools free except for the cost of distinction and sometimes the freight. Such aid enables the lunchrooms to serve an adequate meal to our children at prices ranging from fifteen to twenty cents per meal.

As is true with any public project, the success of the school lunchrooms depends upon the cooperation of the public. Like any business, participation is necessary and the more pupils participating, the better the meals will be. Parents are urged to study their lunchroom and use it as much as possible. School officials are always ready to explain matters concerning the lunchrooms, and are ready to accept constructive criticism. When the service becomes dissatisfactory, a talk with the school principal will accomplish more than adverse criticism or discontinuing participation. The school lunchroom is here to stay. It becomes the duty of the school officials and patrons to make it function to the best advantage of the child.

In the Chilton County Schools, there are 25 lunchrooms serving an average of around 4,000 pupils each day. Fifty-two workers are employed solely for the purpose of managing and preparation of lunches. Approximately $1000 per day is involved in lunchroom operation. The project has doubled the responsibility and greatly increased the work of the principal. The elimination of the cold sandwich and the provision of the adequate, warm diet are worth the effort.

Mr. C. O. Jones President First National Bank, Clanton

OTTO JONES

"When one looks over the agricultural resources of Chilton County we all may congratulate ourselves in living in such a wonderful area where nature does tremendous things for the farmer and the producer. Manufacturing is coming to the South. It is worthwhile for our people to set forth our many advantages for those who are now moving to the Southland. We have good schools, churches, and a fine spirit is reflected by those who live in Chilton County in their everyday affairs.

"Among our people thousands of them are descended from revolutionary stock. They are the good old American type. Such foreign things as socialism and communism do not find any root in our people. For the investor, the manufacturer who wants to get away from all the chaos and confusion up North Chilton County will be a paradise. We have plenty of power, plenty of labor, a splendid climate and everything that goes to make an ideal condition and especially to carry on the everyday affairs of life Let us put our shoulder to the wheel and tell the county, the state and the nation what we have to offer them," remarked Mr. Jones.

When one enters the First National Bank the air fairly radiates good will and worthwhile welcome. The interior impressed the writer as being most attractive and the harmony of colors is most pleasing to the eyes. The latest mechanical devices have been installed for the protection of the depositors. The bank is finely managed by capable men who are thoroughly conversant with banking. The directors are noted for their substantial mode of carrying on their own affairs.

C. O. Jones has been associated with the First National Bank for the past twenty-two years. The writer has always noticed that where a live and progressive bank is located, there you will find a live and progressive community. Mr. Jones is one of Clanton's city fathers, a position of responsibility he has held for the past ten years. He reflects a likable personality and is loyal to his friends. He may always be depended upon to do constructive work for the best interest of the general community.

The gentlemen is affiliated with the Shriners and is a member of the First Methodist Church.

Mr. Claude Craig Owner Western Auto Associate Store

One of the most interesting merchandising marts the author has visited in many a day is that of the Western Auto Associate Store at Clanton. When one enters the store there is an air of welcome and service. There are hundreds and hundreds of items handled and each in its place that may be placed before the customer in a few seconds. Those associated on the payroll are well-trained and active and alert to the customers request.

Claude Craig has a wide acquaintance in Clanton and the rural community. He has people trading with him who have done so from the day he first opened his store and the doors stood ajar to patrons.

Speaking to the Chilton County News we quote this well-known executive: "The passing years are bringing a development to this area that is most gratifying to those who expect to see this section grow and develop both in the city and in the rural regions. Our farming friends would no doubt be gratified to have small plants that could take care of their products and find a ready market of cash for them. We are close to Birmingham and the port at Mobile. Transportation is good. That will be something advantageous both to the farmers and the management of industry. The payroll stimulates the heart throb of commerce," declared Mr. Craig.

Each year Mr. Craig inaugurates a gala fishing event. During the fishing season each week it is announced the one that has caught the largest bass during that week. The disciples of Izaak Walton look forward to this event with joy and enthusiasm.

RATED ONE OF CHILTON COUNTY'S MOST PROGRESSIVE CITIZENS

Mr. J. D. (Jimmie) Bell

"It has been fifteen years since I became identified with commercial activities at Clanton. This community always appealed to me and for that, among other reasons, I believe that we have a great opportunity to offer small industries employing 100, 200, or 300 people. One of our biggest blessings may be summed up in the fine class of people comprising both men and women who would become associated on the payroll. Their acts and thinking are constructive and not destructive. Everyone is of the good old American stock.

"From the standpoint of agriculture we are sitting in the golden chair. To a greater diversity of production it would be possible to bring a greater income to our farming friends. We should all put forth an effort to obtain this desirable state," declared Mr. Bell.

The Chilton County News quite well knows that Mr. Bell believes in Clanton and this great area of Alabama. He has backed that belief with an investment of many thousands of dollars. He has given this community a good hotel by remodeling the Willingham Hotel which is a model of its kind. For one decade and five years he has owned and operated the Bell Hardware Company and it has grown with the passing years. There are names to be found on the ledger book that have been his friends and patrons since he first opened the doors. What endears this gentleman to a host of friends is his public spirit. Where the best interest of this community are at stake he gives both time and money.

Jimmie Bell is a disciple of Izaak Walton and at his camp on the Coosa River he maintains a charming home and delights in welcoming his friends to this lovely retreat. He has been past Worshipful Master of the Masonic Lodge No. 423. He is a member of the Shrine Temple of Alcarzar at Montgomery, and the Kiwanis Club at Clanton.

Bees are kept for the production of honey and wax, pollination of clovers and fruits, and production of bees and queens for sale.

Spiced pear halves filled with cream cheese and garnished with a dash of chopped candied ginger form a delicious salad combination. Serve on lettuce or watercress with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Mr. I. S. Levine One Of Clanton's Civic Citizens

I. S. (Doc) LEVINE

The Chilton County News knows the keen interest that Mr. Levine takes in our community, especially when it comes to doing work for children and those for whom disaster has overwhelmed. For this and many other reasons this civic minded citizen has endeared himself to our hearts. He has done real work as past chairman of the Chilton County Chapter of the Red Cross and is now serving on its Board of Directors. For many years he has been chairman of the Crippled Children's Society. During World War II, I. S. Levine was Chairman of the Truck-Tire Division of the Ration Board. Also Vice-Chairman of the War Bond Committee. He is a member of Clanton Kiwanis Club and affiliated with the Masonic Order.

This gentleman owns and operates Levine's, one of Clanton's well-known department stores. There are names to be found on the ledger book that have traded with the Levine Dry Goods Company since its organization. They draw trade from a wide radius.

"Clanton and Chilton County, and in fact all this area, have been endowed by nature wtih an extra-ordinary soil, fertility of land, water, climate, transportation that makes it an ideal place for small industries. For instance we could use different kinds of canning factories and there is a multitude of opportunities for those who want to start in a small way and develop business to a greater unfoldment," declared Mr. Levine.

Mr. R. B. Taber, One Of Chilton County's Constructive Citizens

BOB TABER

This gentleman is recognized as one of Clanton's greatest assets. He is civic-minded and his advice and suggestions are sought in movements for the public good. Robert B. Taber is manager of Radio Station WKLF at Clanton, which is the spoken word for one thousand watts voice, of this area of the state. Before becoming associated and accepting this responsibility R. B. Taber had developed newspaper sense which had placed him in a responsible position in well-known newspapers. He was with WSYR, the 5,000 watt station at Syracuse, N. Y.

When Uncle Sam called his sons to armed conflict, among others, Mr. Taber responded and with the coming of World War II he entered the armed forces during 1942, and served with gallantry for four years, and for quite some period within the European theatre. When he discontinued his association with the infantry he was appointed as program director of Radio Station WFEB, Sylacauga, Ala. Two years ago he came to Clanton as manager of WKLF.

"As chairman of the Peach Festival during 1950, I became better acquainted with the resources of Chilton County. They really abound in this area. We are close to the port at Mobile and only a short distance from Birmingham. We really are sitting on top of the world as far as opportunities are concerned. Nature has placed its signet of approval upon this area. Both in manufacturing and agriculture let us reflect the spirit of development. Let us work as a unit for the good of the whole population," remarked Mr. Taber.

IDEALS THAT TRANSCEND THE YEARS

The First National Bank at Clanton during the years has reflected the four cardinal principles of:

1. CONFIDENCE
2. RELIABILITY
3. INTEGRITY
4. RESPONSIBILITY

Physical aspects change --- people come and go --- improvements match the times --- but INTEGRITY goes on forever.

This financial institution has grown---step by step---ideas on idealism --- ever keeping pace with the exacting demands of strict banking principles. The depositors have given us a proud example of public confidence. The most precious possession we have is---the heritage of that confidence that you repose in us.

In marking the progress of the years our first thought is to express appreciation to our customers and friends. Their good will is not shown on our bank statement, yet this is the asset which places this financial institution on the high vantage point it occupies today. We pledge anew that the First National Bank in the future will carry out the above ideals.

To our customers and friends we extend---greetings, good wishes and sincere thanks.

Alabama Industries Giving Youth Chance To Remain In Alabama

The Problems And Rewards Of Industrial Development

(By THOMAS W. MARTIN, Chairman of the Board Alabama Power Company)

As more industries are established and more opportunities created in Alabama there will be more and more incentive and opportunities for our young people to stay at home and gain worthwhile employment.

We often hear the remark that we should strive to attain a better balance between industry and agriculture and no thinking man will take issue with that basic need, but we who are privileged to work toward that goal must ever be reminded that our religious, cultural and educational lives need balance and development and these considerations should be a part of our overall plan for industrial development.

In the broad sense, industrialization does not mean the location of a few vast enterprises or even of a relatively large number of industries employing people numbered in the thousands. Actually, when Alabama attains a proper degree of industrialization, a great majority of the industries will be so-called small industries employing 100 or less people in each plant, and there will be a diversity of products that presently is undreamed of—only in that diversification of plant sizes and products can we hope to have the stabilized economy that our State deserves. In working toward that goal, all of us should bear in mind that it is of the utmost importance that our industries produce end-goods — the consumer goods that supply the day-to-day needs of our people.

The creation of new wealth and wholly new standards of living will be attained when our factories, utilizing the resources and agricultural products available in Alabama, produce a great number of the consumer goods necessary to our mode of living. This means processing pine trees not only to paper, but to finished clothing and to the many other products that can be made from this lowly source. It means transforming our iron ore through the many stages to tractors or refrigerators or alarm clocks; bauxite to window frames or cooking utensils; coal to cosmetics and medicines; petroleum to automobile tires and plastics; corn cobs to fishing lines; sand to fruit jars; and peanuts to men's hats.

When these things have been achieved Alabama will rank high in average income per person.

In thinking of industrialization Alabamians should always remind themselves that a first obligation is to those industries already established here and already contributing to the State's welfare. There is obligation to develop an appreciation of these industries and to give them every cooperation and protection. The obligation is sometimes easy to forget, but it is just as real as the obligation of the employee himself in a plant, because without that plant's contribution to our economy a deterioration begins that can easily halt the splendid development that is taking place and that is in view.

Alabama now enjoys a very enviable reputation throughout the country as a good place to work and to live, a place where industry has a good chance to succeed, but that can be changed almost overnight by the failure of a few industries, due to a lack of the fullest local cooperation.

We are surely on the threshold of an era of development far greater than we have ever known. Whether or not this development takes place will depend almost entirely on the people of Alabama, and it is as much the responsibility of the working man as it is the merchant or the farmer and the banker. All of us are obligated to keep our heads together and feet on the ground, to maintain a situation here that will be attractive to investment capital.

All along the industrial development road we see abandoned wrecks of once good plans and intentions, born of enthusiasm and died in neglect. It is quite popular now-a-days to want an industry and in the first burst of enthusiasm it is pleasant to contemplate the fruits of your labor, but it may not be so pleasant to study and work and stay at the job for months and years, and then to have your prospect choose some other location and find that you must start from scratch on a new prospect.

We can't afford to lose interest in a prospect merely because he doesn't give us his answer after the first visit. The decisions he must make are of such importance that he must weigh each factor that has a bearing on the success of the proposed venture.

Our records show many instances of contacts and negotiations covering ten to 12 years before success and if we lost the plant to some other area we then started working on the next unit of the same company.

There are, of course, many reasons why industries locate where they do and almost none are located on wishes or on blue sky conversations. Certain industries locate in proximity to raw materials, certain others choose their location because of a consumer market or an industrial market for their products. One important factor in the location of still others may be labor, transportation, available building, climatic conditions, size of the community, a desire for isolation or for geographical decentralization, taxation, the attitude of the public officials, of regulatory bodies, of the opinion-forming agencies such as the press, the ministry, educational forces, and others, but in all of them economics based on facts are the ruling factors.

Securing new industries is a sales job, sometimes dealing with intangibles but never dealing in loose talk. An industrialist can see through that sort of thing very readily and is never impressed by conversations that do not have the ring of sincerity and which are not backed by facts. Our own experience, and yours, tells us that a man cannot talk convincingly unless he has a thorough knowledge of his subject.

Generalities about a town or surrounding area are not sufficient, one must know the correct answers to any question the prospect may ask and must give an honest appraisal in order to gain and keep his confidence.

A great part of the sales job is already accomplished when you have succeeded in getting your prospect to visit your town, but you have then reached the critical stage in your negotiations, for there is where the prospect will evaluate the information already given him, and compare what has been said with what he can see and hear. Of course, a clean, attractive town will make a much better impression than one whose citizenry has become lax and careless and obviously not well ordered, but the greatest impression that can be made on the prospect is the opinion he will form of the community based on the people he meets there.

First, a prospect must feel that he is wanted. The members of the reception committee must express the town's welcome with sincerity and conviction and, of course, must refrain from rash statements and promises that cannot be fulfilled; they should know their town thoroughly, the details of population, its churches, its schools, the utility services available, the transportation services available, its water resources and effluent conditions, its tax situation and possible exemptions, any available buildings and plant sites. They should be specific and concise in the event any unusual inducements are offered and should encourage the prospect to spend as much time as he can there in order to know the place and its people better. There are many ways in which a community can make a favorable impression on a prospect, but an alert responsiveness to the wishes of the prospect are usually most impressive.

More than likely the prospect has already visited several towns, and likely will visit more before he arrives at a decision. It is a local responsibility to convince him that in a given community his plant will have the best opportunity to succeed.

Our Industrial Development Division is glad to work with chambers of commerce or other similar groups, one of the goals of which is the industrial development of their community.

In anticipation of further development in Alabama, Alabama Power Company is building major additions to its generating plants and transmission system, and making other improvements at a cost of 63½ million dollars through 1952.

Mr. E. N. Bentley Popular Citizen Of Chilton County

E. N. BENTLEY

This gentleman reflects character. We can understand through his personality how he has become one of the outstanding farmers of Central Alabama and civic minded as it relates to the unfoldment as reflected in progress of this great area of Alabama.

As Chairman of the Board of the Bank of Thorsby he keeps his hand upon financial conditions as expressed in modern trends in Central Alabama. He has been president since its organization of the Chilton County Fruit and Truck Growers Association. They have five hundred and eighty members at their plant in Thorsby. Mr. Bentley has been one of the prime movers in organizing and bringing this concern to its present high attainment. He is consulted and suggests policies from time to time as it relates to the Chilton County Peach Growers Association of which he is president. In fact, the Chilton County News knows E. N. Bentley to be a fine man and a most progressive citizen. He always may be depended upon to do a little more than his share in movements for the public good.

This well-known farmer and producer is rated one of the best judges of peaches in the country. He owns and operates 300 acres of fertile land one mile out of Thorsby and has 75 acres in peaches. The Bentley Farms which he owns and operates are producers, packers and shippers of high quality peaches.

Speaking to the writer Mr. Bentley is credited with the following remark, "Chilton County is noted for its fertility of soil and extra fine production. If we were fortunate enough to have canneries for processing for vegetables it would be a great boon to all this area. It would give the farmer a ready market and the cash distributed would greatly enhance business," remarked Mr. Bentley.

Mr. C. R. Morrison Owner Morrison's Furniture Company

C. R. MORRISON

One of the best known furniture stores to be found in Clanton and we may say, in Chilton County and this section of Alabama, is the Morrison Furniture Company. It was established in 1946 and has made a host of friends and customers through square dealing. There is a wide variety to make choices from and the housewife may be assured that she'll get value received at Morrison's.

Mr. Morrison visits the markets from time to time and makes choice selections. He is thus in a position to pass these bargains on to his many buyers who comprise his clientele.

The gentleman is very favorably impressed with Clanton and believes it has a great future in store that will be developed during the coming years.

"Each year I am more impressed with the golden opportunities that awaits the small manufacturer at Clanton and in Chilton County. We have the labor, the climate, fine transportation, and what is very important, the right sort of pure American labor. Opportunities abound for knitting mills, shirt factories, overall factories, ladies garments and many other industries.

"We have a wonderful agricultural area and that co-joined with industry would do much for our community. We should be alert to the possibilities that Clanton and Chilton County have to offer," ermarked Mr. Morrison.

During World War II the gentleman served Uncle Sam. He was three years in the Air Force and 26 months of that time was in the European theatre. Mr. Morrison is a member of the American Legion and had the rank of Staff Sergeant while in the service.

He is a member of the Clanton Lions Club and First Baptist Church and affiliated with the Masons.

In Selma there is a Gingko tree 100 feet tall and 3 feet in diameter that extends through the roof of a cotton warehouse. The plant, brought to this country by a missionary returning from China, was presented to a Selma girl, who planted the tree in her yard in 1879. It grew and flourished. When a warehouse was built on the site, suggestions for moving the tree were rejected. The gingko is a rare tree of eastern China, where it is considered sacred.

The flagpole on the west lawn of the capitol at Montgomery was made from the mast of a Spanish cruiser sunk at Santiago in 1898. The flagpole was presented to the State through the efforts of Rear Admiral Richmond Pearson Hobson, of Greensboro, Alabama, naval hero of the Spanish-American War.

Mr. Bob Windham Owner City Grill

BOB WINDHAM

One of the most popular business men of Clanton is Bob Windham who has a gracious personality. He has been a resident of this community for the past six years and during that time he has been identified with forward looking movements for the public good. Speaking to the Chilton County News, he remarked, "To me Clanton and this area has some of the finest type of people as one will find anywhere. They are gracious, good neighbors, and at one's service during an emergency."

The City Grill is one of the finest to be found in this section of Central Alabama and owing to Mr. Windham's ability in choosing quality food he has built up a wide patronage. There are plenty of people who will not dine anywhere else.

Bob Windham has invested thousands of dollars in Clanton in his business and remarked to the writer, "Industry abounds in our community. There is no finer labor than what we have. There are markets amounting to billions of dollars within an overnight run of Clanton. That means we have the producing power and the consuming power. It would be a good policy to be active and alert where the best interest of this territory is concerned."

Notice To The MANUFACTURER

To those manufacturers who may be contemplating a change of location or adding a unit to their expansive program would receive a cordial invitation to investigate the many advantages of Maplesville, Chilton County and this area. We believe from a standpoint of location that we have many attractive advantages and due to the financial benefits and good will to the industrialist.

We have a plentiful supply of native American labor, of good original American stock, splendid schools, churches, highway and transportation, water and electric power. However, we believe that even greater than all this, is the kindly and neighborly spirit which is to be found among our people.

We want to take advantage of this opportunity and thank our many friends and those workers on the payroll for their kindness, efficiency and loyalty. These are things that we value most highly. We also believe that the future holds fine things in store for Maplesville and also the rural communities.

AGAIN WE THANK YOU

"I am glad of the opportunity to express my appreciation of the many courtesies and kindnesses shown me by the good people of Clanton and Chilton County and adjoining counties. I have now been in their midst four years and every one of those years has been an enjoyable year.

"To me it seems that Chilton County and Clanton have extra-ordinary opportunities for small factories such as garments, shirts and overalls, and canning factories. Most certainly we have the labor and the climate and the transportation and everything essential to growth and development," remarked Mr. Wade.

Mr. Clyde Liveoak Operator Marcus Flower Shop

CLYDE LIVEOAK

The writer cannot visualize a more charming way to pass one's time than to follow the raising of flowers. Flowers are a finer world within a world. Each contact with them brings an inspiration. The Marcus Flower Shop has a green house and developes the flowers under the right condition.

Mr. Liveoak is assisted by his lovely wife, Myrtice Liveoak. She does the designing and creating the striking combinations and can take care of the wants of the most exacting and presidious patrons. Mr. and Mrs. Liveoak have the natural ability that is required by those who devote their lives to the unfolding of the beautiful.

They will give you satisfaction and it will be to your interest to get in touch with them when you want flowers for any occasion.

Speaking to the Chilton County News, Mr. Liveoak remarked, "We congratulate you on publishing an opportunity edition setting forth the advantages of Chilton County. Most certainly opportunities abound in this area for manufacturing and every form of agriculture which would add much to the commercial activities."

Mr. J. H. Graham Most Constructive Citizen

J. H. GRAHAM

During July, 1939, this nationally-known organization was established as an individual ownership. In 1941 its form was changed to a partnership and on April 1st, 1949, it was incorporated. Mr. Graham started out in a most modest manner and today the concern which he manages and directs and of which he is president has attained a vantage point in the lumber industry that is most gratifying to the many friends of this company.

One hundred and forty workers are associated in the enterprise. The money spent each week, through the channel for labor and for logs and lumbering will approximate seven thousand, five hundred dollars each week. The great majority of this cash expenditure is either spent or banked at Maplesville. This payroll is a blessing to the whole community. It enables workers to educate their children, to live in better homes, to dress in a finer manner and it affects this area advantageously in many ways. Two million, five hundred feet of lumber are carried in stock.

J. H. Graham has a pleasing personality and one of his friends remarked, "He is as common as an old shoe." He doesn't high hat anyone. In movements of progress Mr. Graham and his two sons, R. C. and J. W., go along to the public good.

Speaking to the Chilton County News, the gentleman remarked, "Payrolls add great things to a community, especially when it is joined together with agriculture. At Maplesville and surrounding territory we have labor, transportation, power, and in fact, everything that executives require for success.

One son, R. C., is vice-president and active in the business. Another son, J. W., is secretary-treasurer and sales manager. He is a director in the Black Belt Grain and Elevator Company and also identified with the Forest Products Association. All three of these gentlemen are popular and well liked all over Chilton County and adjoining counties.

Before the War Between the States, slaves were auctioned from a platform put up for that purpose in Court Square, located in the heart of the downtown business of Montgomery. This was the main slave block; others were erected on either side of Market Street, which after the war was renamed Dexter Avenue.

Mr. Grady Heflin President Peoples Savings Bank

GRADY HEFLIN

"Chilton County is one of the choice counties of Alabama. It has fertility of soil and the climate to make it what it is, an ideal producing county, and a lovely place in which to live and carry on business. There is a great opportunity at the present for small plants in industries in which to carry on and do a thriving business. We have the labor, which by the way is American, and most of it descended from Colonial stock.

"We have splendid transportation in which to cater to agriculture and many other producing products of the soil which can be cultivated to the financial advantage of the growers. It is the part of good wisdom to set forth our many advantages," declared Mr. Heflin.

H.G. Heflin has been associated with Peoples Savings Bank for one year and three decades. He recently assumed the presidency. This gentleman has a wide acquaintance in this area and is noted for his sound banking principles. He has remained with the bank since he first became associated which was on July 1st, 1919. H. G. Heflin knows real estate values in Chilton County and adjoining counties. He is always glad to receive any of the depositors of the bank and give them his experience without cost and obligation in anything in which they are interested.

He reflects civic spirit and puts his shoulder to the wheel for the public good. For 20 years he was a member of the Clanton City Council. The Peoples' Savings Bank is a finely conducted financial institution.

Mr. Heflin is a member of the First Baptist Church.

U. S. Department Of Comm. Reviews Thirty Of Economic Development In Chilton

Thirty years of economic development in Chilton County were reviewed in information received here from Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce in Atlanta.

Mr. Lofton, whose office is a constant clearing house for economic data applicable to all sections of the Southeast, said in Chilton County between 1919 and 1947 the value added by manufacture of goods produced in the county went from $580,607 to $3,190,000, salaries and wages paid in manufacturing industries from $294,015 to $1,478,000, and the number of employees from 414 to 885.

Corresponding increases came in other divisions of Chilton County's economy, the Commerce Department official reported. They included the following from 1919 to 1948:

Sales in retail trade, from $3,816,000 to $9,534,000, number of employees from 189 to 522, and number of establishments, 192 to 268.

Wholesale trade, sales from $1,895,936 to $3,304,000, number of employees, from 40 to 45.

The effective buying income of residents of the county went from $1,676,000 in 1932 when the figures were first compiled to $14,911,000 in 1949.

Corresponding gains have also come in the agricultural field, it was stated. For instance, the number of farms rose from 3,553 to 3,786, the value of farm lands and buildings went from $5,213,863 to $6,979,500.

The value of all livestock on farms increased in value from $664,184 to $1,361,235.

Mr. Lofton suggested that any Chilton County business man interested in obtaining information which might be helpful to them in their business operations should write the United States Department of Commerce, 418 Atlanta National Building, 50 Whitehall St., S.W., Atlanta, Ga., and that his staff would be glad to be of whatever assistance they can.

The economic advances made in the county were part of a general industrial, agricultural and financial development taking place in the State as a whole in the past half century, the Commerce Department reported. Since 1900, bank deposits have increased from $15,667,272 to $1,142,273,000; the value added by manufacture of manufacturing industries, from $34,111,696 to $876,933,000; production workers in manufacturing plants, from 52,711 to 185,645; number of employees in manufacturing, from $54,970 to 206,136; and salaries and wages paid in manufacturing, from $16,971,074 to $444,647,000.

State tax collections, from $4,899,555 to $119,260,000.

Motor vehicle registrations, from 12,000 to 484,000.

Motor fuel tax collections, $2,141,000 to $27,758,000.

Life insurance in force, $154,800,000 to $2,130,670,000.

Electric power generated for industrial and other purposes, 11,616,707 kilowatt hours to 9,781,057,000 kilowatt hours.

Number of business and residential telephones in operation from 4,800 to 268,896.

Other divisions of the economy which reflected somewhat lesser increases, but which contributed to a great acceleration of the wheels of industry included the following:

Retail sales, which went from $527,101,000 to $1,794,593,000.

Wholesale sales, which advanced from $566,403,000 to $1,440,719,000.

Income to individuals, from $802,000,000 to $2,585,000,000.

Per capita income from $305 to $891.

Value of minerals produced, from $61,723,000 to $159,788,000.

Value of livestock on farms, from $112,824,748 to $119,594,746.

Pleasant Hill, Alabama, was named for a slave dealer, Pleasant Hill, who built one of the first houses in the settlement. Later, it became the haunt of so many disreputable characters that it was called Fort Rascal. The worst of these eventually left the region and the original name was resumed.

C. Fenn Jones Mayor City Of Clanton

C. FENN JONES

This well-known executive, and he is an executive of high caliber, is putting forth a tremendous effort to get natural gas for our community. And if we judge the future by the past, most certainly he will put it over. Mayor Jones first became Chief Executive of Clanton during 1934 for a two-year period. In 1936 for a term of four years, and in 1948 the voters recognized his constructive ability and what he had previously done for Clanton and recalled him to office. He is a worker and has great plans for this prominent city and may be found on the job every work day.

Mayor Jones came to this community on May 1st, 1902, and has the vision and the imagination to see what Clanton and the adjoining territory might develop into. He has put his shoulder to the wheel from the very beginning and has been a regular wheel horse where the best interest of Clanton have been concerned. He is a native of Coosa County and has been endowed from the beginning with natural leadership. He has a sixth sense that tells him and directs him what will be good for the community. During these more than 48 years Mayor Jones's life and activity have been intimately interwoven with the progress of Clanton.

During his three administrations the water department, sewerage, streets, paving, fire and every betterment for the city have passed through his hands. Right now the City of Clanton is putting in miles and miles of the sewerage system that will give conveniences of a high order to the good people who reside with us. That will increase the value of every bit of property within the limits of Clanton.

"Speaking to the Chilton County citizens the Mayor vouchsafed the following, "The next few years will be years of growth for Clanton. Agriculture is on the verge of great improvement. The Dairying industry should grow by leaps and bounds. The workers will become more and more engaged in industry."

It is very difficult to estimate the many benefits that Mayor C. Fenn Jones has brought to this community. It is well known that neither money nor social pull can influence him from a course which he believes to be right. He impresses the writer as having his whole heart set on the well-being of Clanton.

Mr. J. Archie Ogburn Well-Known Civic Citizen; Cashier Of Bank Of Thorsby

This well-known banker is an authority on the value of co-ops and the possibilities that they offer to the diligent and saving citizens who are associated with them either as officials or as individuals. This gentleman is given credit for organizing one at Thorsby of 580 members. Please believe me when I state that this is no mean attainment. The name of this organization is the Chilton County Fruit and Truck Growers Association at Thorsby.

Mr. Ogburn, as a banker, enjoys an enviable reputation beyond the state boundaries. He is recognized as a good judge of commercial paper. He has been associated in the banking business for 24 years with some of the outstanding financial executives of well-known financial acumen.

J. Archie Ogburn is rated as a wheel horse in putting on the Chilton County Peach Festival. This is doing a lot of good for Chilton County. He is former president of the Thorsby Civic Club, president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau, is now secretary-treasurer of the Chilton County Fruit and Truck Growers Association and a member of the agricultural committee. Mr. Ogburn is cashier of the Bank of Thorsby and a member of the Board of Directors. He is also a member of the Alabama Bankers Association and many outstanding organizations. He is chairman of Chilton County's Democratic Campaign Committee.

"Mr. Archie" has those qualities that are to be desired when it comes time to carry on. J. Archie Ogburn is a member and deacon of the Thorsby Baptist Church, Thorsby Masonic Lodge and is a member of the Thorsby Business Men's Association.

"My suggestion is to develop the agricultural resources of Chilton County to a greater extent than heretofore. All wealth is based on land, and we have some of the best in the world. The farmer is our friend. Let us help him," declared Mr. Ogburn.

Mr. Pope Payne, One Of Chilton County's Leading Merchants

POPE PAYNE

This well-known business executive entered the hardware business at Maplesville during 1923 and after living there for seventeen years and being identified with the community he came to Thorsby where he opened up a very fine store of hardware, dry goods and associated lines. There are plenty of people in this community who will go out of their way to trade with this well liked merchant. They know he will supply their requirements in merchandise at reasonable prices and furnish them exactly what they order.

While reminicising with the writer Mr. Payne expressed this thought, "It is a fact that agriculture has done great things to raise Chilton County and adjoining counties to the pre-eminence it occupies today. We should be most grateful to our farming friends. Along with the farms our golden opportunities are to attract industry and secure payrolls. That would make Thorsby just about the best town in the state. Most certainly we have all the elements necessary for successful industry. Plenty of electricity, good roads and American labor of the finest, are to be found in our midst."

Mr. Payne lives at Thorsby and enjoys wide acquaintance in both the rural communities and our little cities The gentleman has been a member of the Chilton County School Board since 1933 and the writer believes that this is one of the most important responsibilities that one may have. If you want people to follow the highway of the right it is necessary to let the sunlight of intelligence fall upon that highway.

Pope Payne is a member of the Thorsby Businessmen's Club and for many years a member of the Baptist Church.

Dauphin Island was called Massacre Island when Iberville established a base there for the colonization of Louisiana in 1699. When the Frenchmen landed on the island they found human bones bleaching on the sands, but these gruesome relics did not disturb them from settling the island. Settlers from Fort Louis de la Louisiana, on the Mobile River, joined the island colony in 1708 and it was renamed Dauphine in honor of Marie Adelaide of Savoy, wife of Dauphin Louis, Duke of Burgundy.

Bayou La Batre, west of Mobile Bay, received its name because Jean Lafitte, the pirate, kept a heavy battery mounted on its shore. Here his ships landed under protection of these shore guns, and the crews were allowed to go to Mobile and spend their gold.

W. F. MORROW

On Highway 31, 2½ miles out of Clanton.

Since April 17th Mr. and Mrs. Morrow have been engaged in the feed and grocery business at the charming spot where a building especially designed to carry on the merchandising they are now engaged in.

The gentleman for 30 years was associated with the Wood Fruitticher Grocery Company at Birmingham, Alabama, which were engaged in wholesale distribution. He understands the art of retailing and how and where to buy at the lowest prices. Morrow's Food Store carries a fine line of groceries and they specialize in hickory-cured ham, bacon and sausage, and the writer believes there are none superior to the ones they handle. Mrs. Morrow, wife of Mr. Morrow, reflects a lovely personality and is a distinct asset to him in the business and a splendid help mate.

"Plenty of labor employed by industry would stimplate every line of business. This section is an opportunity for industry to carry on business without the confusion and chaos now rampant in the northern and central states," declared Mr. Morrow.

The store is situated on Highway 31 and is 2½ miles outside of Clanton on the Birmingham Highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow are members of the Christian Church at Birmingham.

History has a way of repeating itself. When Jefferson Davis was inaugurated president of the Confederate States, he rode up Dexter Avenue in Montgomery amid thunderous acclaim. Again in 1904, fifteen years after his death, his body was again carried in procession up Dexter Avenue to lie in state at Alabama's capitol overnight. His body was being carried across country to its final resting place at the time.

Etowah County was originally named Baine County in honor of Gen. David W. Baine of Lowndes County who was a distinguished Confederate soldier. Etowah was created in 1866, abolished in 1867, and recreated the following year.

Before the legislature in 1911 passed a law establishing a Governor's Mansion, the governors had always had to furnish their own house of residence during their terms of office.

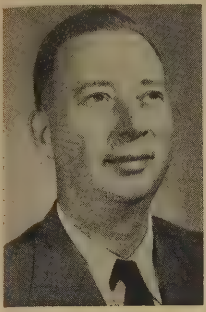
Mr. Lloyd Howard Manager Wayside Gardens



LLOYD HOWARD

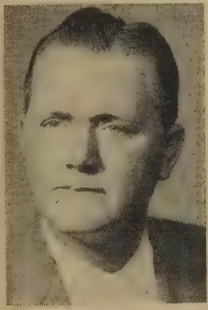
One of the most attractive nuseries in Central Alabama is managed by Lloyd Howard. To me the profession of nurseryman has always represented an ideal way in which to carry on as we go through life. To live with the trees, shrubbery and flowers and birdlife would just about be tops.

Lloyd Howard's face reflects the ideas that come to him from nature. He established the Wayside Gardens during 1937 and each year has witnessed its growth and unfoldment to its present attainment. The trees and shrubbery are most attractive of which he has a large variety. He has two green houses and eight acres comprise his nursery. He has customers not only in Alabama but outside of the state from whom he receives orders from time to time. It always gives Mr. Howard genuine pleasure to send an order on its way rejoicing as he knows that it will bring something finer into that family life.

While conversing with this gentleman he remarked, "Payrolls are what we need in this community. We have electricity, water, a fine lot of workers and everything that goes to make up and help in industry. It would be a good policy to set our many advantages before manufacturers."

Mr. Howard is a native of this section and his family is well and favorably known.

Mr. C. W. Ballard, Pres. Clanton Fertilizer Co.



C. W. BALLARD

"It is most interesting and pleasant to watch the growth of Chilton County and surrounding counties. Nature has given us a wonderful birthright and the next few years this community should show remarkable strides of growth. It is a pleasure to me to know that the Chilton County News is featuring agriculture in the forthcoming Opportunity Edition for the very simple reason that the farming land is the basis of all wealth.

"Our farmer friends have been loyal to this community and we should do everything we can to stand by them. Canneries for berries, would be something that would work for the financial benefit of the growers. We also have splendid opportunities for industry, especially for garments, dresses, shirts, and manufacturing lines of that character," declared Mr. Ballard.

The Clanton Fertilizer Company, Inc., is a very fine boom to this area. It furnishes employment to 25 workers and that number will no doubt be increased in the future. The product is a good one and known as the "Ballard Brand." There is a good demand for the product. The capacity is 250 tons per day. Associated with C. W. Ballard is his brother, H. D. Ballard, who is secretary-treasurer and outside contract man in the surrounding territory. Both of these gentlemen are experienced and the money spent in this territory for wages during the course of twelve months is considerable.

The plant is now being expanded in a general way and there is a store room being erected that will give a lot more space. This is a company that the people of this community may be proud of.

The investment approximates $100,000.00.

Both of these gentlemen are members of the Church of Christ.

Mr. Ralph Johnston Manager And Financially Interested Upchurch Drug Co.

"Believe me it's a genuine pleasure to return to Clanton and engage in business, especially in this community where I was born and was identified with the business interests for several years.

"Chilton County, it seems to my way of thinking, should be one of the finest manufacturing counties to be found in the Southland. The payroll develops the community. It is the life blood of development from a commercial and social angle. We have here agriculture, of which there is none finer. Our farming friends live well. They are a gracious lot of folks and give their family a fine living as one can find anywhere. It is always a pleasure to welcome every citizen of this area at the Upchurch Drug Company. We welcome their friendship and society," said Mr. Johnston.

This gentleman has been identified with the Rexall Organization for the past 23 years, all during his business and professional career. Before leaving Clanton for Montgomery that concern was the first with which he was identified and the present relationship has gone on for almost a quarter of a century.

Ralph Johnston is well liked at Clanton, and its outlying territory. His many friends were delighted when on September 8th he bought an interest in the Upchurch Drug and assumed the management. The Rexall Drug Company at Clanton is located in the heart of the commercial activity of this city. The gentleman is a distinct asset also from the civic standpoint. During World War II, Sgt. Johnston was with Unle Sam for three years. He is a member of the V.F.W.

Mr. O. P. Klinner, Owner O. P. Klinner Furniture Company

O. P. KLINNER

"There is strength in unity. Cooperation is a badge of sanity. When everybody in a city or a rural community work together for a given object they put that objective over. Diversification means a greater wealth. Pasturing is a money making objective. Dewberries, strawberries, peaches, peppers, when put to a more intensive development, produce increased wealth which not only benefits the grower but the whole community.

"There is scarcely anything that can be grown to which the soil of Chilton County will respond with greater output. Small industries such as shirt factories, garment factories, overall factories, dress factories, could be carried on profitably in this area because we have the labor, the power, and everything vital to its success," declared Mr. Klinner.

This gentleman has lived in Chilton County for the past sixteen years and has a wide acquaintance is both town and country. As owner and operator of the O. P. Klinner Furniture Company, his many friends and acquaintances know that when he makes a statement about the quality of the furniture, that it is a truthful statement. He keeps in touch with the large markets and notes the change in styles and variety.

Associated with him in the business is Charles Klinner, son of this gentleman. During World War II he marched under the colors of Uncle Sam and gave the nation the best that was in him. He rated as Lt., Junior Grade. He attended the University of Alabama and Georgia Tech where he majored in Aeronautical Engineering.

O. P. Klinner is affiliated with the Masons and a member of the Methodist Church.

Go to the polls on November 7th, and vote the Democratic Ticket. A cross under the Rooster does the job. Gives you men of proven ability who will serve all the people faithfully.

Mr. E. B. Allison, Owner The Bargain Store, Clanton, Ala.

E. B. ALLISON

"The fertility of the soil in Chilton County is tops. Our farmers are a credit to the farming fraternities. There is not a town in the county or in this area that has not been the beneficiary of the crops grown in Chilton County. Therefore it behooves us to do everything we can and cooperate in every way for a greater agricultural program.

"Canneries, especially for berries, would be a good thing for the community and it would give the grower a ready cash market and stimulate commercial activities with greater buying power," declared Mr. Allison.

During World War II he rated the rank of Staff Sergeant in the Counter-Intelligence. He marched under the colors of Uncle Sam for three years and two months and is a member of the American Legion. Representing the National Life Accident Insurance Company both in Chilton and Shelby Counties, Mr. Allison has a wide acquaintance both in town and rural districts. He is well liked and popular. The gentleman is a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

He has been a resident of Clanton for twelve years.

Mrs. Eunice Hagan Owner Murrah's Curb Market

EUNICE HAGAN

This well-known market was established two years ago and since its reception it has grown in the affections of a large number of housewives who look to Murrah's Market to supply their table requirements. Mrs. Hagan gives the selection of all her items exceptional care. She goes on the theory that nothing is too good for her customers and wants them to enjoy the best.

Mrs. Eunice Hagan is a native of Clanton and comes from a fine family. Speaking to the Chilton County News she remarked, "One sees many opportunities in agriculture in Chilton County. For instance, the tomatoes, green peppers, peaches and berries. We could open canneries that would be a splendid outlet for the growers and give them a ready market. And this cash paid for produce would be put into immediate circulation. From the industrial standpoint we sit in a top location as we have the labor, the products, materials, power and all vital elements necessary."

The many friends of Mrs. Hagan take a special pride in her success. She is a member of the Baptist Church.

Miss Elsie Barrett Owner Elsie's Shoppe

This charming shopping store is well stocked with beautiful things for the kiddies to set them off advantageously. Also certain lines are carried for the ladies who want to get something that is out of the ordinary such as lingerie, blouses and hosiery. Since the opening of the doors to Elsie's Shoppe she has done very nicely. The number of customers is increasing.

Miss Barrett has been a resident of Clanton for the past quarter of a century. She is well known in both town and country as being a business executive of tact and charm. She visits the market and chooses that which is both lovely and charming with the pleasure of her guests.

"Please permit me to express my appreciation to the ladies of this community for their kind reception of my business interest."

Clanton Makes Progress

Hand in hand. . .business people, professional people, educators, white collar workers, labor. . .all Clanton goes marching forward to greater and more substantial progress along every line of endeavor. Accomplishments of the past few years are but a spur to greater endeavor in the future. The entire community is on its way to a happier, more prosperous, stronger society.

The sewerage system is now being extended and developed. Several miles of City streets are paved. The Police Department is in excellent shape. The Water Department is as fine as one may find anywhere. The Schools and Churches reflect a good moral tone. Your city government is ever aware of the progressive spirit which drives Clanton on to achievement. Your City Council is anxious at all times to plan and work for a broader and more efficient existing services and the inauguration of new services. All functions of the city government are working in harmony and keeping pace with general advances made in the City in recent years. Park, recreation, sanitation and other projects are receiving constant attention for future development.

While your Council's policy is to do everything possible toward growth of the city advancement will be made only on the basis of sound and careful finances. The present financial condition of Clanton is good. We intend to keep it that way.

INDUSTRY

For many reasons Clanton is in a position to offer industry exceptionally tempting arrangements as it relates to the bringing of new industry and new units for expansion. We have all the elements necessary for successful management.

SOIL FERTILITY AND IMPROVEMENT

The fact that Chilton County farmers on the average produced only nine bushels of corn per acre a few years ago and in 1950 averaged near 25 bushels of corn per acre is ample evidence that a great opportunity lies in continued soil improvement.

The amount of labor required to prepare, plant and cultivate an acre is practically the same regardless of whether it is capable of producing 100 pounds of lint cotton or 600 pounds of ilnt cotton or whether it produces ten bushels of corn or 75 bushels of corn; but the net return to the farmer is many times greater if the yield is high. Our high yields invariably come from the improved fertile acres.

We improve soil and maintain soil fertility by using a combination of the following practices:

1. Protecting soil from erosion with proper terracing systems.
2. Growing and plowing legumes into the soil.
3. Growing sod or protective crops on the soil.
4. Adding organic material in the form of compost or litter.
5. By rotation of soil depleting and soil building crops.
6. Conserving water with ponds, contours, and organic material.
7. By correcting soil acidity with lime.
8. By adding needed minerals through commercial fertilizer.

Continued soil maintenance and improvement through the maximum possible use of the eight practices listed above is a must if any farm opportunities are to be realized.

A livestock production program and a soil improvement program go hand in hand and both will help realize more income through more land devoted to cash crop production.

BEEF CATTLE BREEDING OPPORTUNITIES

With the beef industry in Alabama and the Southwest rapidly expanding there is an opportunity for producers of foundation or breeding stock beef animals. Purebred animal breeding and selling is a specialty and is more or less designed for those that really love and take pride in fine animals.

The demand for quality bulls and foundation females will probably remain "bullish" for years. The essentials for success in purebred beef production are similiar to those commercial beef plus a lot of "know-how" in selecting blood lines and managing animals.

Individuals that are contemplating purebred cattle production projects have certain decisions to make. The problems of which breed is one of the first that must be made.

The selection of breed is entirely a personal choice. The breed that the individual cattleman likes best is the breed with which he will most likely succeed.

The breeds most popular in the Southeast today are Aberdeen-Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn.

Any breeder doing a "to-notch" job with either of the three popular breeds will have a wide path beat to his farm.

FLUID MILK SALES OPPORTUNITIES

In the school system of Chilton County and in the various towns of the county there is now a daily demand for bottled whole milk exceeding 3,000 quarts. Chilton County's ten grade "A" dairies are producing only 1,600 quarts. The remaining 1,400 quarts are being delivered into the county by Montgomery and Jefferson County, Alabama milk processing concerns. This 1,400 quarts of fluid milk represents a gross monthly income of over $800.00.

It is quite reasonable to assume that Chilton County milk users could be persuaded to use locally produced milk if the same grade and quality could be delivered at a competitive price. Further it is a certainty that a local producer or local producers can produce and deliver milk in the county as cheaply as an out of county concern can. Out of county processors must truck milk into their plants from Alabama's black belt, Central Tennessee or the Tupelo area of Mississippi, process that milk and redeliver it to Chilton.

Yes! There is an opportunity for a few farmers to recapture the market for the 1,400 quarts of milk daily that is now supplied by out of county concerns.

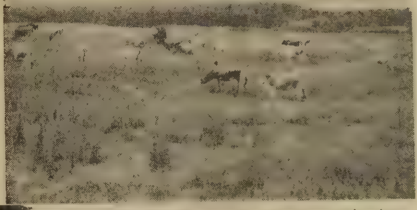
In addition to the "A" grade market possibilities within the county, local farmers can well consider the fact that our neighbor, Jefferson County, is still importing fluid milk from middle Tennessee and Lee County, Miss.

Chilton County farmers are as capable and as industrious as those in Birmingham's supply areas of Central Tennessee. Chilton County's grazing land is potentially better than the majority of the heavy wet lands in Lee County, Miss. The difference in transportation cost definitely gives Chilton County a slight edge in a competitive race for Alabama's maojr milk consuming area.

As cattle and pasture improvement projects continue to progress in Chilton, don't forget our local Grade "A" milk needs and our hungry neighbor that is now being fed by out-of-state farmers.

Don't jump at conclusions in this project. Mississippi and Tennessee farmers are not going to make a free will offering of their market. This is one that local producers will have to take by doing as good or better job of producing and by being a keen competitor.

Know you have a definite market before wading into graded milk production.



CHILTON COUNTY LAND USE

By referring to census summaries we will find that Chilton County has 252,547 acres in farms. We will also find that farmers annually plant only approximately 15,000 acres to cotton, less than 5,000 acres are producing peaches, and approximately 16,000 produce vegetables, melons, berries, and other food crops that go to market and earn cash income.

The above crops—cotton, peaches, berries, melons and vegetables—are Chilton County's only crops used by any appreciable percent of farm people and utilizing any volume of farm land that is producing market crops or cash.

It is quite true that a few farm people produce milk, beef, pork and poultry and a few more market some corn. But the farm families that depend upon these crops as a major source of income can be counted by tens in a county composed of over 3,000 farm families.

In a few words—it can be safely said that only about one-third of the land available to farmers is now earning income. As far as the farm family is concerned, two-thirds of the land is not now active in the game of supplying, farm and home needs or improvements. Two-thirds of Chilton County's farm land is not helping to build a comfortable home or helping adequately equip the farm. Two-thirds of the farm land is not contributing anything to building better cvhurches, schools or other community facilities.

The above facts point to one of Chilton County's most promising opportunities. More of the total of land now in farms must be devoted to earning money. Increases can readily be made in the production of a few of the row crops mentioned above. A few new field crops can and will be added, but, the major route available in putting more acres to earning income is through the establishment of increased grain and grazing production and the final utilization of this feed through some class of livestock or livestock product.

The class of livestock selected will vary by farm to farm according to acreage, productive ability, and operator's desires. There is a livestock project that will fit economically into the operation of practically every Chilton County farm. A well planned and carefully managed livestock unit will help use more acres and will increase the total cash earning of the farm family.

"Clanton and Chilton County, to me, are the top of the world. The people are friendly and courteous and most kind. I believe that the next few years will be wonderful years for the development of this lovely little city. For manufacturing, we are ideally situated. We are within millions of people during an overnight by motor or train. One of the things that impresses me about our opportunity is the fine class of labor we have. It is native, that means it is constructive. We have plenty of electricity, lots of power and good highways. Let us all go after small industrial plants and each of us become a booster for Chilton," declared Mr. Easterling.

This gentleman has owned the Dixie Cafe for more than two years. He gives his personal attention to every part of the business and especially the buying and the menus. Dixie Cafe is sanitary and the writer knows what good food it serves, and that most properly prepared.

J. E. Easterling is a firm believer in the future possibilities of Clanton and this area. He is affiliated with the Shriners, Alcarzar Temple at Montgomery and a member of the Clanton Lions Club. Each week the Lions Club holds their weekly meeting at the Dixie Cafe.

I can say this pledge because I am an American. As an American the freedom that we in the United States of America love so well is mine, and I will guard it in every way that I can. The churches invite me to worship in my own way that I may know the true meaning of the "abundant life."

Isn't it wonderful to be an American and be able to belong to the 4-H Club here in Chilton County. We have approximately thirteen hundred members and Alabama has more members than any other state in the United States. Soon this group of young people will be adults and the training they receive as youngsters will greatly determine their success or failure as farmers, business men and women, teachers and many types of occupations. As 4-H Club members they are taught scientific methods of farming, improved methods for management of livestock such as swine, beef cattle, poultry and dairy cattle.

All these things go together for making better homes, higher standards of living and more cooperative communities for a better America.

All parents and adults will help greatly by showing interest and giving words of encouragement to the youth about us today.

THERE'S AN OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL FARMERS IN PROCESSING MILK SALES

The average Chilton County farm is composed of under 25 acres of crop land. On practically every farm there is an acreage of idle land. In most cases land is idle because it is rough, eroded, and limited in productive capacity for row crops. All the rules of good land use, soil management, and common horse sense indicate that this land should be devoted to some permanent close-growing crop. This means a grass or a legume.

To use a sod crop area productively, the introduction of cattle is practically mandatory. On most of our small farms the acreage limit does not make beef—which is marketed once a year—an attractive project. The annual income derived from a limited number of beef calves would not materially increase family income.

In most cases, a small dairy unit—four to six or eight milch coks—will utilize the roughage that can be produced on the now idle land. The addition of a family sized processing milk unit is a practical project. The experience of 60 Chilton County producers during the past 18 months will effectively prove this to be true.

In July 1950 Chilton County's 60 milk shippers earned an average of $50.00 per family. This is no attractive income figure. Yet, considering the fact that these same families are milking only four producing cows per family and further, considering the fact that the $50.00 per month was in addition to previous farm incomes, it is an attractive figure. The 60 farm families that are now producing processing milk have not reduced cotton, vegetables, berry, or other cash earning crop acres to add the milk project.

Looking at processing milk another way, producers all along the route report that better than average milk cows, on a good grazing system, has consistantly produced $20.00 milk income per month. Or, Chilton County's better cows, on Chilton County grazing, have produced $200.00 milk income per cow in the ten month lactation period.

Another very attractive feature about processing milk production and income is the fact that it produces year-around income. Milk checks are received by producers the first and fifteenth of every month. It is a family project. In many cases the school children milk before catching the school bus and again after it returns in the evening. With cotton, fruit, and vegetables it is often necessary to keep the children out of school or not get the assistance of the children in row-crop farming.

If Chilton County had as many farmers producing milk as we have producing cotton, the 1950 farm income picture would be entirely different.

The present and potential market for processing milk seems unlimited. The processor now receiving Chilton County milk has machinery geared to handle four times the areas present production and indicates a willingness to expand if the production volume should increase.

The opportunity to put more land to earning cash with processing milk is not "just around the corner"; it is with us today. Many farmers should take advantage of this opportunity this year.

Mr. Sam F. Mims, City Father, Thorsby, Alabama

SAM F. MIMS

"It is most gratifying to know that Chilton County is waking up to its many advantages. We have a multitude of resources that only require the magic hand of development. In agriculture our lovely little city of Thorsby is surrounded with farms of which there is none better. The soil returns four fold to those who put forth an effort to cultivate it. We need canneries for dewberries, blackberries and vegetables.

"At Thorsby for the manufacturer we have a fine community and especially tip top labor. Our home life is most pleasant. The people most hospitable. Good electric system, fine sewerage, in fact, we are sitting pretty for the manufacturer who would better his condition," declared Sam F. Mims.

This well known merchant carries a fine stock of general merchandise. He takes an active interest as a good citizen in the development of town and country life. As one of the city fathers, he sets a good example to the whole community by seeing that every dollar spent the full value is received.

VARNEY WYATT

For close on to two decades Mr. Wyatt has been in the drug business. His place at Thorsby is most attractive. He is located in the heart of the business district, easy access and has plenty of friends in town and country who come to him for their drug requirements and also associated lines that go to make up this dandy store.

Speaking to the Chilton County News we quote the gentleman: "The past twenty years have shown remarkable development in this community. Today the spirit of advancement is abroad in this territory. New and more attractive homes are being erected. The citizens of this area know that we are ideally located for growth in the future. Our people are imbued with what we can do with our undeveloped possibilities.

"Agriculture is our main wealth, but to develop that to a greater extent and to put forth our advantages for a small manufacturing plant and thus be the beneficiary of a payroll would do wonderful things to develop trade."

Varney Wyatt was born in Coosa County and is a member of the Baptist Church and affiliated with the Masons. He reflects an affiable personality. My secretary says that everybody likes him.

PUREBRED HOG PRODUCTION

As with other classes of livestock there are a few specialty opportunities in hog breeding. It is generally recommended that commercial hog producers breed their sows to a purebred medium type boar of a different breed from their sows.

Some producers must maintain pure lines of breeding to supply these purebred boars and replacement sows.

In hog production the type is the important factor. A purebred hog producer should select medium type animals of the breed that he likes best.

Green grazing and grain grazing along with protein supplement, minerals, and clean water kept before disease and parasite free animals will insure profit in a purebred hog breeding project.

Go to the polls on Nov. 7th, and vote the Democratic ticket. A cross under the rooster does the job. Gives you men of proven ability who will serve all the people faithfully.
(Pd. pol adv. by Democratic Campaign Committee.)

DAIRY CATTLE IMPROVEMENT

Chilton County milch cows produce an average of less than 4,000 pounds of milk annually. A number of the selected animals are known to be producing over 8,000 lbs. in a lactation period and a few of the better ones are producing 10,000 lbs. and over in one year.

The 4,000 pound producer is creating only $140.00 (milk valued at $3.50 per 100 pounds) annually while the 10,000 pound producer is creating a marketable product at the rate of $350.00 per year. The high producer and the low producer consume approximately the same amount of feed and require approximately the same amount of time to maintain.

The big difference in the average dairy cow and the high producing one is largely ancestry or breeding and a little care in managing. The better dairy animals are usually heifers out of high producing cows that were bred to "Production Bred" bulls. Chilton County farmers in all sections of the county, and in every case, should breed their high producing dairy cows to "Production Bred" bulls and save the heifer offspring for future milchers.

The practice of breeding quality dairy cows to "nondescript" or beef type bulls is certainly a misappropriation of an opportunity to improve and is rapidly depleting the county's stock of high producing dairy animals. The demand for high quality milchers in commercial dairies continues to be strong and the demand for processing milk for surpasses Chilton County's expected production for years to come.

Fortunately through the untiring efforts of the Chilton County Jersey Cattle Club members, the county is reasonably well supplied with "Production Bred" Jersey bulls. These bulls are out of cows that have produced 8,000 pounds to above 12,000 pounds of high butterfat milk annually and sired by proven bulls. Heifer calves sired by these bulls should substantially increase average per cow production of milk in Chilton County.

These bulls are owned by the farmers listed below and are located in the following communities. These quality animals should be used to the fullest possible degree:

O. H. Lawrence, New Cedron.
J. W. Hand, Mt. Creek.
E. Edwards, Enterprise.
Ben Brinker, Laurie Ann Dairy, Clanton.
W. A. Williams, Baker.
Harry Higginbotham, Maplesville.

Chilton County Jersey Cattle Club bull kept by Clarence Baker, Concord.
D. E. McRae, Minooka.
Calvin Moody, Oak Grove.
J. G. Heida, Thorsby.

Other reputable sires may be located in the county and not brought to the writer's attention. These listed have known high production records back of them and some have daughters in milk that are high producers.

Go to the polls on November 7th, and vote the Democratic Ticket. A cross under the Rooster does the job. Gives you men of proven ability who will serve all the people faithfully.

Agricultural Opportunities

(By M. R. GLASSCOCK, County Agt.)

Any overall discussion of the many and varied agricultural opportunities of Chilton County should begin with a brief discussion of goals that can be attained when the opportunities are recognized and put into effect by Chilton County farm people. In other words, what will the grasping of our agricultural opportunities mean to Chilton County, to its citizens and its important institutions, (schools, churches and commerce other than agriculture.)

Through years of research, application of research, and recorded experiences of farmers we have gradually developed basic knowledge that accurately designates our real opportunities. These opportunities have been described in rather detailed form by farm leaders from all sections of the county and are annually reviewed by members of the "Chilton County Agricultural Council." In reviewing annually and after consideration of available facilities and the production needs of the time; an "annual plan of work" is agreed upon for development of a given group of opportunities. Marked progress is now being made in developing the agricultural opportunities of Chilton County; yet, a greater farmer participation is needed to speed realization of our many farm advantages.

The fundamental principal that agriculture should be self-supporting is constantly kept in mind in pointing out our opportunities. Self-supporting agriculture means that agricultural production and the price of farm products should be based on a level that will yield incomes to farm people comparable to those received by the remainder of the population.

A self-supporting agriculture must provide for improvement and maintenance of soil-fertility. It should provide the maojr food and feed needs of the county. It should provide comfortable homes and healthful living conditions for all the farm people. It should support schools, churches and medical and recreational facilities comparable to those available to city people.

In the various articles in the farm section of this publication a number of the more important agricultural opportunities are briefly described. It is hoped that more farmers will grasp more of them and will ultimately help themselves make this a county of better fars and homes, producing a higher standard of living and supporting churches, schools, and service institutions as fine as our best city cousins maintain.

The appplication of an improved farm practice, however, must ultimately depend upon action by farm people themselves.

OPPORTUNITIES IN CORN PRODUCTION

"Morn Corn Per Acre" has been the campoign slogan of extension workers ment in Chilton County. It must be in promoting corn production improve- a good one for Chilton County farmers have responded by more than doubleing their average per acre corn yields.

This is a basic step in developing the county's agricultural program. By increasing per acre corn production a basic necessity — grain feed — is now available around which farmers can build economical livestock projects.

"More Corn Per Acre" successes are a direct effect of six simple production recommendations:

(1) Hybrid corn (2) planted on legumed land (3) planted near May 1, (4) fertilized adequately (5) plowed shallow (6) layed by early.

Chilton County now plants above 45,000 acres of corn annually. The yield in recent years has been increased more than ten bushels per acre.

The annual crop value of Chilton County corn has been increased by three-fourths million dollars through the "More Corn Per Acre" program.

If more farmers will apply the six simple rules to more acres the opportunities of increasing income through corn production have just begun.

Appreciation

Through the columns of the Opportunity Edition of the Chilton County News I want to take this opportunity of thanking all the good people of both Clanton and surrounding communities for their loyalty and kindness to me.

It is my purpose to serve you as faithfully in the future as in the past. We have a splendid community.

WITH ALL GOOD WISHES

C. FENN JONES,
MAYOR

Clanton, Alabama

Mr. W. A. Jones, Owner Jones Furniture Co., Clanton, Ala.

W. A. JONES

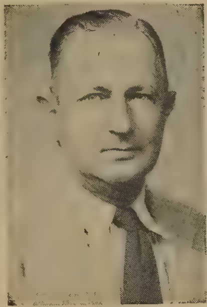
"One can feel it, figuratively speaking, that the spirit of Clanton is abroad not only in Chilton County but in adjoining counties. When we come to sum up our assets and opportunities they are many and varied. Clanton is located in the commercial heart of a fine trading center. Our farming friends have been most loyal to this city and we should do everything to promote their interest.

"If they believe, and we believe they do believe, that canneries would be a fine advantage to them and stimulate trade. We should make an effort to obtain them. This is a policy that has been inaugurated in other counties. In industry, no position could be finer, than the one in which Chilton County has to offer. All labor is pure American stock. Our transportation, excellent. The power in abundance and everything that goes to make up a good place for industry to develop and carry on," declared Mr. Jones. "I am behind this move 100 percent."

This gentleman owns the Jones Furniture Company. Its location is in the center of the business trade at Clanton. He was born and reared in Chilton County. He visits the large manufacturing markets from time to time and is rated as a good judge of furniture in a general way and also period furniture. Knowing the requirements of this community, he offers, through the medium of Jones Furniture Store, an exceptional fine line of furniture.

W. A. Jones is a member of the Temple Church.

Mr. W. E. Huddleston, Distributor Texaco Products



W. E. HUDDLESTON

During the years that are in the immediate past agriculture is receiving a closer study by many citizens on how production may be increased. Speaking to the Chilton County News we quote Mr. Huddleston, "Our farming friends should receive the cooperation of all our citizens and assist them to organize and be in a better position to market their products. If every farmer had ten cows the living condition picture would change and that for the better. In all this great section of Alabama we have fertile soil, and a climate during the twelve months that leaves very little to be desired. More and more cattle raising is being taken up and consequently an effort should be made to improve pastures. The wealth of a nation is based on production that comes from the earth. Therefore it behooves us to do everything possible to assist the farmers."

W. E. Huddleston owns 3,700 acres of land in Macon County. He has cattle, corn and cotton and a diversification program. He knows the why and wherefore of farming and the problems that come to growers from day to day.

Mr. Huddleston maintains offices at Clanton for the wholesale distribution of Texaco Products in Chilton County and in parts of Elmore, Autauga and Shelby Counties.

He is a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and the Methodist Church.

Mr. J. C. (Rip) Burnett Manager Clanton Motors, Inc.

"The day has arrived when unity of effort is most desirable when accomplishing the purpose that means worthwhile things for a community. It is generally conceded that Chilton County is an ideal County for manufacturing to locate and develop. One very important feature is they would get away from trouble and unrest and the chaos and confusion which is now rampant in many northern parts of the country.

"At Clanton we have an abundance of labor; that labor in many cases is directly descended from colonial stock, and the pioneer spirit is within them. Take the matter of climate, we have one of the finest to be found in the state and in fact, all over the southland. Plenty of electric power and in the rear future we expect natural gas. Transportation leading to every part of the nation. Let each and everyone of us become enthusiastic about the possibilities of Chilton County," declared Mr. Burnett.

Mr. Burnett is vice-president and general manager of the Clanton Motors, Inc., which has the Ford Agency at Clanton. Twenty-three employees are associated on the payroll and during the course of a month, quite large sums of money are paid out through the payroll. These are skilled workmen and draw top wages.

"Let us not forget our good friends, the farmers, who have stood so loyally by Clanton. Let us do everything we can for them," said Mr. Burnett.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett have two children, who are the apples of their eyes. The son, Bill, is attending Tulane University and Miss Barbara attended Stephens College. They are a couple of youngsters that anyone can be proud of.

Rip Burnett is most popular with the home folks. He reflects public spirit of a high order. He is affiliated with the Shriners and a member of the Baptist Church.

Mr. James Q. Wade Public Spirited Citizen

"There is a spirit abroad at Clanton and Chilton County which in my opinion means worthwhile things to the community. That spirit is reflected in more good citizens becoming interested in the progress and unfoldment of this area. Surely we have the soil, the climate and everything that goes to make up a great agricultural community.

"From the viewpoint of labor we have some of the finest workers to be found anywhere All white and many of them descended from revolutionary stock, representing the best citizens to be found anywhere. Those manufacturers in the north and central states who have a large labor turnover, would profit by coming to Clanton and Chilton County. We might add that we have plenty of electric power, fine highways, and every essential element that a manufacturer needs It would be profitable for every citizen to work as a unit for the good of the whole community," remarked Mr. Wade.

He has recently constructed a building for Watson's Store that will give that organization much added space. Mr. James Q. Wade owns considerable property in Clanton and he devotes his time to its management. One well-known citizen remarked to the writer, "Money hasn't gone to the head of Jim Wade. He is liked by our people, most popular and his hat hasn't grown to extra sizes."

Mr. Wade has been a member of the City Council for the past eight years. It is executive of this type, who should look upon serving the city as a public responsibility and the citizens should go out of their way to express their thanks.

He owns and manages the Clanton Ice Company and is a member of the Methodist Church.

Mr. M. R. (Red) Glasscock, County Agt. Chilton County

It is generally conceded that "Red" Glasscock is more popular than the town pump in Chilton County. He reflects an affable personality. After majoring at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, class of 1941, with a B.S. degree, he came to Chilton County where he has been ever since.

There is no doubt that during the decade in which he has been associated in his present responsibility that he has added to the wealth of the farmers and shown greater productivity according to his plans and outlines.

He has done much to promote the Peach Festival during the past four years and worked without stint for the best interests of the grower.

M. R. Glasscock is a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and the Baptist Church.

Mr. J. B. Tiffin, One Of The Best Known Executives In Central Alabama

HE HAS HAD A LONG AND SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS CAREER WITH MOST HONORABLE RECORD

One of the names to conjure with in Chilton County is Mr. J. B. Tiffin, who for the past twenty-one years has been part of our progress and his council has been sought in the development policy of both Chilton and rural communities. He has taken an active interest in civic affairs where the best interest of this city and Chilton County have been the objective. He has always done a little more than his share in community efforts.

The Tiffin Furniture Company is one of the most substantial stores of its character to be found in Central Alabama. The management keeps in close touch with the large furniture markets and manufacturing centers and the Tiffin Furniture Company is stocked with a large variety from which to make selection and fit the budget of any housewife.

The Tiffin Furniture Company at Clanton is a pioneer in the furniture line in all this great area. This well-known gentleman, J. B. Tiffin, has spent his whole career in studying and becoming acquainted with furniture as it relates to every unfoldment of various periods. For forty-four years he has been identified with real progress. He came to Clanton during 1929 and established the Tiffin Furniture Company.

Speaking to the Chilton County News we credit Mr. Tiffin with the following: "To me there is no finer location than Chilton County for manufacturing plants. Industry and agriculture both can grow and expand for the benefit of both parties and the labor situation is most attractive. When industry comes to a community it furnishes employment to our young people and thus we keep them at home. The money flows into all the channels of trade and professional life and brings a better way of living in that particular place. Our farming friends who also be the beneficiaries of an unfoldment of this character. By the way, those who live on the farms in Chilton County are as fine a lot of people as one will find on God's green earth."

Mr. Tiffin entered the furniture business during 1906 at Red Bay, Ala., where he had a very large store and during 1929, moved to Clanton. This well-known family is as fine a lot of folks as one will find anywhere and that type that the whole community may take pride as having them in our midst.

Associated with Mr. Tiffin in the Tiffin Furniture Company is James Tiffin, a son, in charge of the radio department and conversant with all makes and has taken special training to equip himself as he attended the Cohen-Electrical School in Chicago and Wake Forrest at Wake Forest, N. C. He made a record of which his many friends are proud of in both baseball and football sports.

Mrs. Mary Lou Foshee, daughter of Mr. Tiffin, is in charge of the office and keeps in close touch with the management. She is rated as having excellent business acuman. She attended the Al[illegible] College and equipped herself for future responsibilities.

J. B. Tiffin is a member of the Methodist Church at Clanton.

Mr. W. A. Kemp, Pioneer Merchant, Clanton, Ala.

W. A. KEMP

"What Clanton and Chilton County needs, in my impression, is new industry. The payroll is the life blood of a community which stimulates all the channels of business. When a dollar once starts in circulation, it revolves many times. In those communities in other states where management is dissatisfied with conditions, there is a golden opportunity for them here. It behooves us to present our advantages.

"The farmer could utilize canning industries that would give them a ready market for their products and stimulate them to greater growth and activity," remarked Mr. Kemp.

This well-known merchandising gentleman founded the Kemp Dry Goods Store fifteen years ago and his two sons are now associated in ownership along with their father. He has been a resident of Chilton County for seventy-eight years and has been an active witness in marvelous changes and the part he took in those changes was most creditable.

For sixty of those seventy-eight years he has been associated actively with the merchandising life of Clanton. He is one of the pioneer merchants of Central Alabama and we know him to be a very fine man.

Arthur L. Kemp and W. L. Kemp are interested in ownership and they are very fine merchants and believe in future possibilities of this city.

W. A. Kemp, the founder, is a member of the Baptist Church at Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Popwell, Pioneers In Cleaning And Pressing Clanton

During the past twenty-one years Mr. and Mrs. Popwell have been associated with the commercial life of Clanton. They are both likeable.

The plant is installed with the latest mechanical features and good service is maintained all the time for the accommodations of the customers. Both of them are natives of this community and imbued with the spirit of honesty, they want every garment that leaves their place to be exactly as it should be. There are people who have been trading with them every since they first opened the doors of the business which is clear cut proof that they go out to satisfy the customer.

Speaking to the Chilton County News, we quote Mr. and Mrs. Popwell, "Since we started in business it has been remarkable the many improvements that have been made in our city. We feel that the future has great prospects and we have opportunities abounding for manufacturing plants that would give employment to our people."

Mr. and Mrs. Popwell are members of the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Popwell owns the Ideal Cafe and through the death of her son who managed it, it is on the market. It is one of the best buys in which to make money with a small investment to be found in this community.

Hon. W. L. Parrish, Probate Judge Of Chilton County

The writer has an impression that whoever fulfills an office of this character has a sacred mission to perform. Most certainly he must have a sense of justice and know how to mete that justice out without fear or favor. We believe that Judge Parrish fits into that plan of life. His whole career is known to the people of Chilton County and many adjoining counties and we believe him to be an honest man.

One may get enmeshed in political intrigues especially if he is a babe in the wiods and not actually know what's going on. Judgde Parrish's whole life is an open book. He is a native of Chilton County, a veterinary surgeon, and active in civic affairs both in the town and country district. There has never been a time in which he has been called upon to act in a civic manner that he has not fully responded. As a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club this sense of community responsibility has been unfolded to a splendid degree.

Speaking to the Chilton County News Judge Parrish remarked, "Chilton County is the salt of the earth. It's people are fine and their good neighbor spirit reflects an abundance of good thought. We should give our farmer friends unqualified support as it relates to greater production in the process of canning their products. In industry we have many opportunities for small and large manufacturing plants. There is none finer than our laboring men who reflect the colonial spirit.

TRANSFERRING PERSONNEL . . . United States soldiers are transferred from an LCVP to a hovering helicopter near the U.S.S. Mt. McKinley, anchored in Inchon harbor during operations by United Nations forces there.

Mr. H. M. Linton Manager Watson's, Clanton

"We should do everything possible to encourage more dairying in Chilton County, for the very good reason that it gives our farming friends ready cash with which to carry on and it also affords a finer living for them and gives them an opportunity to educate their children. A productive market of that character joined to a greater payroll would be the lifeblood of the community. After a dollar starts in circulation, it revolves 13½ times and stimulates every phase of commercial and professional life.

"Truck farming has many advantages and we should go into that and demonstrate its possibilities. We have good highway transportation and large markets are within a few miles of Clanton. In other words, an overnight run. It would be a very good thing if we diversified and grew less cotton with greater money crops," declared Mr. Linton.

Watson's at Clanton is a most attractive merchandising store. It is worthy of a city of 50,000 people and enjoys a large patronage. Nine employees are associated on the payroll except in the holidays seasons when a greater number is identified. Watson's have in mind an addition to their present store which is a feature very much appreciated by our people. Mr. Linton has been with the Watson's organization for the past 20 years. He is well liked in this community. The gentleman is a member of the Lions Club, affiliated with the Masons and a member of the First Baptist Church.

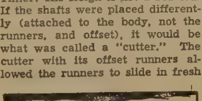
"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following contribution, from J. Risor Camryn of Seattle, Wash., is addressed to the conductor of this column. It refers to a picture of a sleigh similar to a "cutter" which was passed off as a picture of a bobsled in illustration of an item from Mrs. James Montgomery of Blackwell, Okla., recalling when folks would hitch old Dobbin to a bobsled to go to a neighbor's for the evening. Mr. Camryn's item is properly illustrated (we hope!).

From J. Reisor Camryn of Seattle, Wash.: Your artist should be coached on his drawings by some real old-timer like me, Mr. Old Timer! His sleigh is not a bobsled. If the shafts were placed differently (attached to the body, not the runners, and offset), it would be what was called a "cutter." The cutter with its offset runners allowed the runners to slide in fresh snow not cut up by wheeled vehicles. Bobsleds were fundamentally a regular farm wagon with four short runners made to fit the axles instead the wheels. The wagon boxes, filled with straw and young folks, off for a ride in the moonlit and snow-plated countryside, all made an institution. It was the forerunner of today's hay ride parties. Incidentally, your artist has the sleighbells around the horse's mid-section. They usually were around the horse's neck, where they got more shaking up.



From L. Joan Kahr of Cincinnati, O.: I remember when the Ohio river would freeze so solidly during the winter that boats could not haul the freight and two horses hitched to wagons was the only means of river transportation.

A. B. Foshee Able Solicitor

Now campaigning for the office of Solicitor of Chilton County A. B. (Buster) Foshee has served for eight years in this important office.

During these years Chilton County has enjoyed efficient service from this candidate and stands high in the counties of the State in conviction of cases. When Foshee took office there were three honky-tonks operating in the county—now there are none. Where neighboring counties are continually harassed with slot machines, (one-arm bandits), and other gambling devices, Chilton is clean as a hound's tooth.

With a Democratic Circuit Judge, Democratic Circuit Solicitor and a Democratic Attorney General, more harmony of purpose can be attained in our law courts with a Democratic County Solicitor. This fact is well established.

His has been an administration of faithful, efficient service to the people of Chilton County and this service should be rewarded with a generous vote of confidence on November 7th.

Buster Foshee was born and reared in this county. Married Mary Lou Tiffin, and they are the parents of one daughter, Margaret. He started the practice of law in 1933 after graduation at the University of Alabama.

Mr. Foshee is a Mason and a member of the Clanton Baptist Church.

AN ORCHID TO A LADY

Sunday night, October 15th, was the first anniversary of the Clanton Drive-In Theatre. This first birthday party was a great success. The crowd seemed to get the spirit of the occasion, everyone was smiles and happiness predominated. But most especially for the winners of the $25.00 cash prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Baker, Clanton, Ala.; Route 3, married 66 years, won the $25.00. Mrs. Baker, just 85 years young, stole the show.

Mr. Paul Reid, assistant manager of Radio Station WKLF, acted as master of ceremonies. Mr. Reid conducted the program with all the finesse of which he is capable of doing on any occasion. There were about 12 couples present, who had been married over 50 years. But all were eliminated and Mr. and Mrs. Baker were winners. They were both born and reared in Chiltin County, have lived here all their life. Sunday night they saw their first picture show. Mrs. Baker did most of the talking, saying she enjoyed the show and "thought it real pretty." When asked by Mr. Reid what she intended to do with the prize money, she replied. "If Bud doesn't take half of this money, I am going to make a trip to Louisiana." Ann of Ann's Flowers, Clanton, presented Mrs. Baker with a lovely orchid. This was the first orchid that Mrs. Baker had ever received. This was a happy night for a little old lady

Mr. Simmie Scott, photographer, made pictures. A tape recording of the presentation of the prize and interview of contestants, was made. This was played over Station WKLF Monday, October 16th

Each lady visiting the concession building were presented with a beautiful red rose by Ann of Ann's Flowers. A professional clown rigged in all his finery, gave the children balloons and candy.

YEA FOOTBALL

Get ready for a good football game Friday night when Jemison and Clanton meet on the local field. Coach "Bull" Spicer's team has won four games out of four starts this year and are tough opponents for any team.

The following week Selma comes to Clanton to attempt to put a stop to the Tigers winning streak. Maybe Selma will be fooled this year.

GAS ASSURED

Signatures have been obtained at City Hall of between four and five hundred residents of Clanton who want natural gas when it is piped in. That is approximately half of the home owners. Many more will rush to sign up when they learn that natural gas is a reality.

HARD WINTER?

Our local weather profits say we will have a hard winter this year. According to the old-timers when the shuck is heavy on the corn and the persimmons are plentiful there will be a cold winter. They claim those signs are true this year, so get ready.

Let us hope their reasoning is sound. A good freeze or two would do wonders for our crops next spring if we are to believe those in the know. A mild winter is all well and good in some localities perhaps, but here where we need a good crop of strawberries, and a heavy yield of peaches, to say nothing of our hundreds of acres in produce for the market and our thousands of acres in cotton and corn, we need a good cold winter to get the bugs killed and the ground right.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY

There will be a big Democratic Rally at the courthouse on the evening of Thursday, October 26th.

Hon. Edward deGraffenried will be the main speaker and State Senator-elect Tom Phillips of Siluria will be there. The meeting will be open to the public and all loyal Democrats are invited.

THE NATIONAL SPORT

Sure were glad to see the local baseball team get such fine cooperation in the game they sponsored the other week. Our local baseball team is not appreciated enough. Perhaps you or you, don't especially care for baseball. Still there are hundreds and hundreds of others who do and attend the games at every opportunity.

If the local boys are willing to sacrifice to give Clanton a team, the least we can do is to give them our support.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Don't know where you get your pork sausage and we haven't eaten pork sausage from every market in town but we will bet a pair of pink chinchilla ear muffs against a stale beer that A. D. (Red) Smith at South Clanton makes the best pork sausage in town. Red has a formula all his own and when he finishes with a "batch" it's right. What we mean it's "Just Right."

Somebody told us that vacation time was that time of year when a man stopped doing what his boss told him to do and started doing what his wife told him to do.

We call our Girl Friday "blotter," because what we tell her soaks in, but she gets it backwards.

It's not that we have become a woman hater. A salesman just left and they always come in with half a dozen corny gags to get you in a good humor so you will listen to their sales talk. Some just come cornier than others.

We want to thank the public-spirited citizens of the county who gave their assistance in producing our "Chilton County Opportunity Edition." Without their cooperation it would have been impossible. We just hope it serves to let the outside world know that the people of our county are ready, willing and cooperative when it comes to welcoming new people and new industry to our midst. Again we thank you each and every one.

Are you working to get the voters out on November 7th for the four-mill tax? You know it means a new hospital for Chilton County and we honestly believe it is our golden opportunity. After next year our nearest hospital will be nearly fifty miles distant and in many cases that can mean the difference between life and death for our loved ones. Be a booster; go out and work for the four-mill tax to build Chilton County a hospital.

Hon. Ed deGraffenried was a visitor to Clanton Friday night. He met with the Democratic Executive Committee and the Democratic Campaign Committee in a joint meeting at the courthouse. Hon. Ed is looking fine, and feeling fine. His two years in Washington have been good for him and he has been good for the Sixth Congressional District in which Chilton County is located.

That new addition to Watson's is fast becoming a reality. Went around to look at it the other afternoon with H. M. Linton, store manager. The new building will just about double the floor space now occupied by the store. According to Mr. Linton, if the weather continues as fair as it has been the past few days, before Thanksgiving they will have celebrated their expansion.

Today's Prayer

Jesus taught that men ought to always pray, and not to faint. The apostle Paul taught that men should pray without ceasing, and pray everywhere, lifting up holy hands without wrath and doubting. There is a story of a little maid who told a group of preachers one day that it was easy for her to pray without ceasing. That when she awaked in the morning, she prayed that God would help her to awake to righteousness and sin not; and that as she clothed herself, she prayed that God would clothe her with the garment of his salvation, and with his robe of righteousness; and as she would wash her face and hands she would pray that God would keep her cleansed from all defilement that day; and as she ate her breakfast, she would pray that God would feed her soul that day with the Bread of Life, that she might eat of it and live forever; and as she dusted and swept the house she prayed for God to keep her soul free from the dust of evil and the cobwebs of sin that day. In fact, she said—"The more I have to do, the more I can pray." In all things that men do lawfully they can find something to inspire them to pray.

A. T. HICKMAN

A few days ago I met one of my good friends in the post office of Clanton, Mr. Grover Walker, an attorney in this city. He had just received a letter from an old classmate of his, J. A. Morgan, of Anniston, Ala. In this letter he had enclosed a copy of a prayer for the day. This "Today's Prayer" was his own. He thought it so good that he passed it on to his old friend, Grover Walker. Grover thought it good enough to pass it on to me; and I take pleasure in passing it on to my many readers. Here you will find many good things to include in your own prayer for the day:

"Father God, as Thou has taught us that life consists not in the abundance of things which a man possesses; so may we seek not the goods, but the good of another. A bit of our bread to the hungry, our coat to the naked, comforting words to those who mourn, a leading to the path to the physical lost child, a leading to the eternal path to the spiritual lost child. When we, Thy creatures, do these things, we have done it unto Thee, and have heaped up the imperishable gold of abundant living. Amen."

I hope to have the pleasure of meeting Mr. Morgan some day and thanking him for "Today's Prayer."

DALE CARNEGIE

Don't Be Self-Conscious

WHEN IRVING J. VELEN, Chicago, Ill., was 12 years old a catastrophe occurred that it took him years to recover from; and up almost to the time of his recovery it looked as if he never would recover.

One cold night, he went to sleep in the kitchen of their home. When he regained full consciousness he was in the hospital. You see, there had been a kettle of water setting over a flaming gas jet, and someone in turning off the gas from under the kettle hit the pilot light accidentally and then left the room. Of course, the gas soon filled the room with the sleeping boy lying near the stove. When he became partially awake, he had a terrific headache and a pain shot through his body like a needle being injected. He thought he was going to die.

Carnegie

Well, he got over the gas fumes, but he didn't get over his fright. When he heard a song in school with the word heaven in it, he became faint. Anything remotely connected with death terrified him. Soon he began to stutter; this gave him an inferiority complex; the inferiority complex made him stammer more and more and to a great degree. He couldn't say "eighth" when he wanted to leave an elevator at the eighth floor; he had to say "nine" and then walk down a flight. He became so self-conscious that he hated being around people, while to talk to them was torture.

Then one day he noticed that he could talk to a dog with never a stammer. Why was this, he asked himself. It came to him all of a sudden that he wasn't afraid of what the dog was thinking about him. That thought was a revelation; it seemed almost to be a miracle shot. He could also talk to children and not be afraid. He wasn't thinking of himself at all when he talked to children. So he began going in for sports, played ball and basketball—and won championships in time. But he still stuttered when talking to adults. Even in college he had not conquered himself. So he forced himself to join a public speaking class. He worked on just a few sentences the first time. Everyone was kind, seemed not to notice his stammering. After a few weeks, he had gained so much confidence that his stammering amounted to practically nothing. He told himself that it didn't matter. He got better and better; now he has almost brought about the cure that he knows will come in a very short time.

I am sure of it, too, Irving, you plucky guy!

Your Health

SLEEP

There is no hard and fast rule to govern the number of hours required by individuals for sleeping. Actually, the quality of sleep, not the amount, is what counts. It is generally conceded that a person engaged in physical labor requires less sleep than the one who expends mental effort. In sleep all actions of the body are slowed down. Breathing is less deep, and pulse is less frequent, and the conscious mind is quiet. All muscular systems tend to relax. The process acts much like the recharging of a battery and serves to restore energy.

The ability to relax is the secret of restful sleep. Emotional tension contributes to muscular tension. The person who takes his problems of the day and those of tomorrow to bed with him is not able to relax. Instead he mentally wrestles with himself, accomplishing nothing by his staying awake. When he finally falls asleep, he is emotionally tired and sleeps fitfully; for if the emotional unit remains "keyed up," there is no relaxation which is the essential factor in real rest.

The use of sleeping pills to induce sleep is to be frowned on, except when under doctor's orders. People having difficulty in going to sleep should learn to prepare themselves by ridding their minds of all emotional conflict of the day. Every effort should be made to relax mentally and physically well in advance of bedtime.

Remember it is the quality of sleep that counts. Nervous fatigue, involving work, frustration, anxiety and similar emotional attitudes, causes a tiredness not easily remedied by sleep. If this condition persists, a physician should be consulted to ascertain the cause. Don't take your troubles to bed with you. Learn to relax. If your mind is calm, it will ease you gently into restful sleep.

"Just One Vote"

WHITE SUPREMACY

FOR THE RIGHT

Here are given a few examples of how "Just One Vote" changed the course of history:

Frequently, especially around election time, you hear this question,

"What good will one vote do?"

Of course, hundreds of elections, small and large, have swung on a single ballot.

Here is some really big stuff when just one vote turned the tide.

The Declaration of Independence

Our American charter of liberty, the Resolution of the Declaration of Independence, was passed by the Continental Congress, July 2, 1776, when Caesar Rodney, delegate from Delaware, rose from a sick bed and rode 80 miles on horseback through a stormy night to cast just one vote—putting his state on the side of freedom and helping assure unanimous approval of all the colonies.

Saves a President . . . Elects a President

Andrew Johnson, only U. S. President to be impeached, kept the Presidency by just one vote. The U. S. Senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, voted 35 for conviction and 19 for acquittal—just one vote less than the two-thirds majority necessary to convict.

Rutherford B. Hayes was elected President by one vote. His election was contested, and it was referred to an electoral commission. The commission gave the contested electoral votes to Hayes by just one vote, 8 to 7. Whereupon, Congress declared Hayes elected by just one vote, 185 to 184.

Incidentally, the man who cast that deciding vote for Hayes, an Indiana Senator, won his place in Congress by just one vote. And that one vote was cast by a man who, though desperately ill, insisted on being taken to the polls to cast that one ballot.

Votes for Women by Just One Vote

In 1918, woman suffrage in the U. S. passed the House of Representatives with just one vote to spare. When the bill went to the Senate, it failed to pass by just two votes. (It passed both houses of Congress the next year.)

In World Affairs Today

But don't think the importance of just one vote, or a few votes, applies only to the past.

This very year, the present Government in England is maintained in office by just three votes. They must hold 313 seats in Parliament for an absolute majority—it has barely enough for day-to-day business with 316.

Yes, friends, you can check the present or dip into the past and turn up a lot of cases where just one vote tipped over or up-set somebody's applecart.

Every Vote Is Equal

"My vote doesn't count" is pretty silly stuff, isn't it? Your vote counts just as much as the President's. Your vote is the equal of anybody else's in hiring or firing a man in public office. If your vote is used. Yet in the last Presidential election, 45 million qualified voters failed to go to the polls.

Doesn't it give you a pretty good, red-white-and-blue American feeling when you've marked your "X" under the Rooster and step out of that voting booth?

"WHERE YOUR DOLLARS HAVE MORE CENTS"

MINUTES OF THE COURT OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF CHILTON COUNTY, ALABAMA, OF OCTOBER 2, 1950

The Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County, Alabama, met in adjourned regular session at the county courthouse at Clanton, Alabama, on October 2, 1950, at 10:00 o'clock A.M., in adjournment and continuation of the regular meeting held on September 11, 1950. The following were present: W. L. Parrish, Judge of Probate and Ex-Officio Chairman of said court, and the following members of said court: Hoyt Freeman, V. O. Lenoir, J. M. Dunlap and Neal H. Harrell; absent: None. Judge Parrish presided as chairman of the meeting and, a quorum being present, declared the meeting open for the transaction of business.

Discussion was had of the proposal that an election be held in the county for the purpose of submitting to the electors the question of whether or not a four-mill tax should be levied for hospital purposes pursuant to the authorization contained in a constitutional amendment adopted at the general state-wide election held on November 2, 1948. After such discussion the following resolution and order, together with the preambles thereto, were introduced in writing by Commissioner Harrell:

WHEREAS, it appears from information submitted to the Court of County Commissioners (herein called "the court"), and it is a matter of common knowledge among the residents of Chilton County (herein called "the county") that the hospital facilities in the county are wholly inadequate to meet the needs of the citizens of the county, and in order to meet such needs it will be necessary that a county hospital be erected and equipped, and the county is without funds with which to pay the costs that will be incurred in that connection; and

WHEREAS, under the provisions of an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama of 1901 (which was proposed by Act No. 357 adopted at the 1947 Regular Session of the Legislature of Alabama) adopted at the general election held on November 2, 1948, the governing body of Chilton County was authorized to levy and collect, in addition to all other taxes authorized by law, a special county tax not exceeding four mills on each dollar of taxable property in the county, to be used solely for acquiring, by purchase, lease, or otherwise, constructing, operating, equipping, or maintaining county hospitals, or other public hospitals, non-profit hospitals, and public health facilities, provided that such tax shall have first been authorized by a majority of the qualified electors of the county who participate in an election called for that purpose; and

WHEREAS, a large number of citizens have requested that the court call an election as contemplated in said constitutional amendment for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of the county the question of whether or not such additional tax shall be levied;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED by the court as follows:

(1) The facts set out in the foregoing preambles are hereby found and declared to be true and the said preambles are hereby adopted as a part of this resolution and order.

(2) A special election is hereby called to be held in the county on the 7th day of November, 1950, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of the county the question of whether or not the county shall be authorized to levy annually, in addition to all other taxes authorized by law, a special county tax, not exceeding four mills on each dollar of taxable property in the county, to be used solely for acquiring, by purchase, lease, or otherwise, constructing, operating, equipping, or maintaining county hospitals, or other public hospitals, non-profit hospitals, and public health facilities.

(3) The sheriff is hereby directed to give notice of said election by publishing in the Chilton County News, a newspaper published and having general circulation in the county, once a week for three successive weeks, the first publication to be made not less than thirty days prior to the date fixed for said election, which notice shall be in substantially the following form and may be signed with the printed signature of the sheriff.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL COUNTY TAX ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held in the County of Chilton in the State of Alabama on the 7th day of November, 1950, during the regular hours for the holding of elections, at the regular voting places in the several beats of the county, at which there will be submitted to the qualified electors of the county, for their determination by ballot, the question of whether or not the county shall be authorized to levy annually, in addition to all other taxes authorized by law, a special county tax, not exceeding four mills on each dollar of taxable property in the county, to be used solely for acquiring, by purchase, lease, or otherwise, constructing, operating, equipping, or maintaining county hospitals, or other public hospitals, non-profit hospitals, and public health facilities.

By order of the Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County.

J. A. NIVENS,
Sheriff of Chilton County.

(4) The Judge of Probate is authorized and directed to give notice in writing forthwith to the Judge of Probate, the Circuit Clerk, and the Sheriff of the county, notifying them of the call of such election, and requiring them to appoint the necessary officers for the conduct of said election and to take such other steps as are required by law to be done for the holding of said election. The said election shall in all respects be held, conducted, and canvassed in the same manner as elections are required by law to be held in the county on the question of the issuance by the county of its bonds.

(5) The form of the official ballot to be used at said election shall be substantially as follows except there shall appear at the end of the ballot for absent voters an affidavit equivalent to the form of affidavit prescribed in Section 62 of Title 17 of the Code of Alabama of 1940:

STATE OF ALABAMA
CHILTON COUNTY
SPECIAL COUNTY TAX ELECTION
NOVEMBER 7, 1950

Shall the County of Chilton be authorized to levy annually, in addition to all other taxes authorized by law, a special county tax, not exceeding four mills on each dollar of taxable property in the county, to be used solely for acquiring, by purchase, lease or otherwise, constructing, operating, equipping, or maintaining county hospitals, or other public hospitals, non-profit hospitals and public health facilities?

Make a cross mark (x) before the proposition you vote for.

AGAINST Proposed Taxation

Commissioner Harrell moved that the foregoing resolution and order be adopted and spread upon the minutes of this meeting, which motion was seconded by Commissioner Lenoir and upon the motion being put to vote the following vote was recorded: Yeas: Judge Parrish and Commissioners Freeman, Lenoir, Dunlap and Harrell; Nays: None. The chairman thereupon announced that the motion for adoption had been unanimously carried.

Commissioner Lenoir offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Commissioner Harrell:

If said hospital tax is ratified by the qualified electors the court agrees to pay Watkins, Morrow & Company the sum of 3% of the principal amount of the bonds issued. In the event said tax is not ratified by the qualified electors then the county is to owe nothing to Watkins, Morrow & Company for their services.

CONCRETE STREETS are safer

You may owe your life to the built-in safety of concrete. At night its surface reflects more light, makes pedestrians or obstacles visible farther, helps reduce accidents. Day or night, wet or dry, concrete's gritty surface is uniformly skid-resistant. It grips tires and permits quick stops. Remember, concrete is the safety pavement.

Miss Barbara Burnett Wed To Algert S. Agricola—

One of the loveliest of the early fall weddings was that of Miss Barbara Burnett and Algert Swanson Agricola of Gadsden, Ala. The ceremony was solemnized at the First Baptist Church, with Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson officiating at the double-ring ceremony, October 14th, at half after eight in the evening.

Miss Burnett is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Caldwell Burnett and Mr. Agricola, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Theodore Agricola of Gadsden.

The church was beautifully decorated with white floral arrangements, Southern smilax, palms, and candlelight. A sunburst arrangement of gladioli, chrysanthemums and white lilies in a silver urn was placed in the front of the chancellery. On each side were smaller arrangements of the same floral pattern interspersed with cathedral candelabra of wrought iron holding seven burning white tapers each. In the background were palms and Southern smilax. The pews were marked with clusters of white lilies tied with velvet ribbon falling into a shower of velvet streamers. White cathedral candles garlanded with Southern smilax burned at the stained glass windows. At the entrances the same white and green floral patterns were repeated.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Erle Ellis, assisted by Mrs. John Deramus. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Ellis played a medley of traditional wedding music. Accompanied by Mrs. Deramus, Mrs. Ellis sang, "I Love Thee"—Grieg and "Calm as the Night"—Carl Bohm. During the ceremony "Claire de Lune" was played. The traditional wedding marches were used to announce the approach and departure of the bridal party.

Miss Burnett was given in marriage by her father. She was lovely in a gown of white bridal satin fashioned with a tight fitted bodice having a v-shaped double satin bertha extending off the shoulders forming another V in the back. The neckline was filled with chantilly lace with a standing lace collar. The gown had long fitted pointed sleeves and small satin buttons extending from the bertha to the pointed bodice front. The full underskirt was made of chantilly lace. The satin over skirt was fashioned with a peplum falling into soft folds that extended into a cathedral train. A full length veil of imported illusion fell from a white satin tiara studded with orange blossoms designed of seed pearls. She carried an exquisite bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with white orchids.

Miss Burnett was attended by Miss Helen Hayes as maid of honor. Other attendants were Miss Peggy Ramsey, Miss Melba Studdard, Mrs. James L. Forman and Mrs. Walter Wood of Birmingham.

Their American beauty velvet gowns were fashioned on identical lines featuring a deep neckline portionately filled with Venise lace and a full skirt. The matching bonnets were of American Beauty velvet having ostrich plumes across the back and caught at the side with a small bow. Their bouquets were of Briarclift roses and lilies of the valley tied with matching velvet ribbon.

The junior attendants were Kathie Wade and Carol Popwell, cousins of the bride. Their dresses were of shell pink velvet fashioned with a bertha collar and a full skirt. The matching bonnets were of shell pink velvet identical with those of the bridesmaids. Their bouquets were of American Beauty roses and lilies of the valley tied with ribbon of the same shade.

Mr. Frederick T. Agricola served as his son's best man. Ushers included Dr. Frederick T. Agricola, Jr., of Birmingham and Otto Agricola of Gadsden brothers of the groom; and William Burnett, brother of the bride. Other ushers were Richard Reynolds, Walter Wood of Birmingham, and Roger Thompson of Gadsden.

The bride's mother was attractively attired in a lovely gown of shell pink lace and chiffon. Her corsage was a pink orchid.

The mother of the groom was lovely in a gown of lilac net over taffeta. A white orchid was her corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception in their home, which was beautifully decorated in arrangements of white flowers and luminous cathedral candles. The receiving line was formed in the living room. The mantel was banked with white lilies and tube roses and on each side brass candelabra were placed. About the room were arrangements of pom-pom chrysanthemums, gladioli and tube roses.

The bride's table was covered with a handsome imported linen cutwork cloth bordered in lace. The three-tiered spun sugar cake, embossed with confectioner's hand molded roses and valley lilies and topped with orchids, formed the centerpiece. On each side were five-branched silver candelabra with burning tapers and matching silver compotes containing hand embossed mints.

Mrs. James Q. Wade and Mrs. Omar Reynolds assisted in cutting the cake with miniature sabres of Victorian silver. Guests were served by Mesdames John Reramus, Julius W. Hayes, John Hollis, Grady Heflin, Samuel E. Johnson, Milton Mims, Charles Moore, Joe Moore, John Mullins, Hughes Kennedy of Birmingham, and Dyer Shackelford and Miss Mary Courtney Jones. Music was rendered throughout the evening by Mr. and Mrs. Milton Barth.

THINGS WE SAW AND HEARD

(By "TUCK")

Our good friend, Myron Levine, was evidently mad at some one a few days ago. He came busting out of the music room and rammed his fist right through the glass in the door. Myron, old boy, please be more careful. It seems your muscles are costing Mr. Hicks a lot of money. You shouldn't go around breaking people's windows.

It looks like more people are having MORE trouble with Miss Griffin's class this six weeks than ever before. I don't know exactly what it is, but I do know if something doesn't happen I'm going to fail English.

Looks like we've got to have an unlucky student this week as a "mystery person." Well, here he is: He is about 5 ft. 11 in. tall, weighs about 145 pounds, he has dark hair and it's kinda short, he really goes in for sports, especially basketball, and he wears glasses. (That shoull be easy).

Boy, that shirt Buddy Burdette has been sporting around looks like a fugitive from an African Jungle, doesn't it, keeds? Oh well, I guess he can wear a leopard skin if he so chooses. I guess he's getting primitive. Better look out for that guy, Dorothy.

It's sort of getting to be a habit about that staying in with Miss Griffin every evening. She claims the fellas love her, they crowd around her desk so. Well, that could be it. (I wonder?)

Those Senior I students that are getting to go on field trips this year are really hitting it easy, aren't they guys? While we sit and wrack our brain they're out having a good time of it. Oh well, you can only be a Senior once (or can you?) I was almost one twice!

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

You Can't Build A Better Mousetrap!

"They're not the best-looking boarders a man ever had," Hack Turner said one day, "and they've got awful tempers. But I've found it pays to have 'em around."

Hack was talking about a family of barn owls, nesting in his silo this year. Some folks believe those little white-faced screechers kill chickens—and ought to be shot on sight. But Hack disagrees.

"College professors studied barn owls for years—and have never known one to eat a chicken. On the other hand, a daddy owl will clean up around 300 mice a month. Farmers that kill barn owls are throwing away the best mouse-traps known to man!"

From where I sit, when someone shows a prejudice against any group of animals or humans—it's usually just based on misunderstanding. For instance, some folks are plumb intolerant about those of us who enjoy an occasional quiet glass of beer. Get to really know us and you're liable to find we're pretty good birds at that!

Community Concerts—

Its "Community Concert Time" in Chilton County again. Those of us who have been fortunate enough in attending the concerts that have been put on by the Chilton County Community Concert Association the past three seasons, know what a treat we have had in every concert that has been heard. Again we are to have a series of these concerts.

On Monday night at the high school lunchrooms in Clanton, a banquet was held, at which time a group of people from the entire county were gathered together for the purpose of making plans for the membership drive which is on in full swing this week. Mrs. H. S. Peterson and Miss Naemi Turnquist were present at this banquet, representing Thorsby. They will head the drive here, assisted by Mrs. Herman Robinson. So if you wish to obtain your membership cards, you may contact either of these three people in case they have not been to see you. Adult tickets for the three concerts are the same price of $6.00, but student tickets can be had for $3.00 this year. We are proud to be a part of this Concert Association, since it brings to us the highest type of entertainment, worth any one's time and the small sum it takes to become a member.

Death of Dr. Edward Day—

Maplesville and surrounding communities suffered a great loss in the death of Dr. Edward Day last Thursday morning, October 12th, at his home here in Maplesville. He would have been 66 years of age Sunday, October 22nd, and for the past 12 years was the only practicing physician at Maplesville. He was widely known and loved in this and other sections of Alabama.

Born October 22, 1884, at the old Day home on the Alabama River near Orrville, Ala., Dr. Day was the son of Ed Day and Margaret Kelley Day, his family having come to this section in the frontier era. He received his classical education at Howard College and his medical degree from Tulane, New Orleans, and practiced for a time in the old Presbyterian Hospital, New Orleans, La. His early professional experience included practice at the Episcopal Nursery and Child Hospital in New York, N.Y.

Entering practice at Orrville, Ala., he was widely loved in that community. In 1938 Dr. Day moved to Maplesville, established a clinic which was widely recognized. He was a member of the Chilton County Medical Society; the Maplesville Civitan Club, and at every opportunity was active in all the church and school activities of Maplesville. Many times he neglected his physical welfare while administering to the needs of others both day and night.

Dr. Day's death occurred only a few weeks after that of his twin brother, J. K. Day, of Selma, both having been under treatment for illnesses suffered at the same time, in the Vaughn Memorial Hospital, Selma.

Funeral services were held from the Maplesville Baptist Church of which he was a member. The Rev. Evan Johnson, pastor of the church, officiated; interment in the Maplesville Cemetery.

Servicing as pallbearers were: J. H. Graham, Dr. H. M. Nix, Perry Thomas, Hershel Shanks, all of Maplesville, Ellis and Clinton Seale of Orrville, Ala. Arrangements by Breslin Service Funeral Home.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Beasley Day; two children, Ed Day, III, 13, and Cassandra, 10; a nephew, Lt. Col. Edward Lea, who arrived by plane from Miami, Fla., Friday, and a niece, Mrs. George Kenfield, of Lauderdale, Fla.

Mrs. Day stated that she plans to make Maplesville her future home and wishes, through this paper, to express her deepest thanks and appreciation to all for their deeds of kindness, their gifts of flowers, their visits and all their acts of sympathy shown her and the children during the illness and death of her husband.

We pray God to assuage the anguish of their bereavement.

School News—

The Maplesville "Red Devils" defeated the Plantersville team here last Friday night by a score of 56-6. The Plantersville team was outclassed from the start. Maplesville's Coach Kelley used every boy he had in uniform in chalking up their victory. It was while the B team was in action that the Plantersville team were able to score. They proved to be no match for the superior striking powder of the Maplesville "Red Devils."

A victory next Friday night when Maplesville plays Billingsley here may not be so easily won. However, we know our boys have what it takes to win.

The Maplesville School and the towns people are very grateful to Mrs. Ethel Royster for making it possible for the school to have a loud speaker system on the football field. This put life into game here last week. Also was a great help to the record crowd of spectators and the music was enjoyed.

Everyone remember the date—Friday night, October 20th, at 7:30, at Maplesville; football game between Maplesville and Billingsley.

The P.-T.A. will serve all kinds of food and drinks in the lunchroom Friday night during the football game.

Parents, remember the P.-T.A. meeting next week, October 25th, at 7:00 p.m., at the school.

These days you can't tell from the price tag how much quality a car holds. Ford, for example, is still priced with the lowest . . . yet in other respects it's in the fine car class. Take its styling, for example; for two years in a row Ford has been the recognized fashion leader.
Like America's finest cars Ford offers you a V-8 engine. No other low-priced car does. Nor does any other car at any price offer you a choice of V-8 or Six engines. And remember, Ford's V-8 costs hundreds less than most sixes—Ford's Six costs even less.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

ONE OF ALABAMA'S LEADING WEEKLIES
DEDICATED TO SERVE THE CITIZENS OF CHILTON COUNTY AND CENTRAL ALABAMA

VOL. XXVIII THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1950 CLANTON, ALABAMA NUMBER 43

To the Voters of Chilton County:

A Letter from W. G. Shaw

I am an old time Republican. I cut my political teeth way back in the good old days when our county was one of the best managed counties in Alabama under Republican control for many years.

Now I notice there is a so-called Republican campaign going on and the people are asked to elect the Republican candidates. The leaders of the present Republican campaign are hollering turn the rascals out of office, meaning the Democrats who have run our county for the past few years.

Let me recall to you a little political history, and with it I will express, as I have done before, some of my own opinions, and I will wind up by telling you what I think of the present campaign.

As I said above, we once had a good government for a long time by Republican officials and Republican leaders. What happened; Some Republicans got sore and discontented. They wanted more power personally. They got tired of being followers of good leaders and they thought they should do the leading.

You remember the time when Zeb Mims, Joe Cobb and Walter Gillespie and some others decided that Judge Reynolds and all his followers should be destroyed politically. Some of these same folks are posing as leaders now of what they call the Republican party. They finally succeeded in their rebellion against the leaders and by their false doctrine they got enough Republicans to follow them to result in wrecking the Republican party and turning our county over to the Democrats. I do not see how they can cuss the Democrats for what has happened, because they, themselves are the ones to blame.

There are many young voters now who were born and came to voting age since the days I speak of when the Republicans were running this county. These present leaders of the Republican party are urging those young voters to follow them. I say they betrayed us old-timers and it is dangerous for young voters or old ones to follow their political leadership.

What did they do four years ago? They would not even let us put out a candidate for Probate Judge. They were determined to hush the vote of anyone who might want to vote against the Democratic candidate. They do not have any right to criticize what the Democrats have done as far as politics is concerned.

Therefore, I do not feel that it is now a choice between Republicans and Democrats. One party is as much to blame as the other. It is simply a matter of the voters choosing good, competent, honest and reliable men for officers. As for myself I am going to vote a straight Democratic ticket.

Up here in the First District we have Mr. Cobb and Mr. Lenoir as candidates for our Commissioner. Let me tell you what I think about them.

Mr. Cobb came up the same way I did as a Republican. He got elected and served as Commissioner as a Republican. When he got to feeling his oats politically he joined in with the wrecking crew that destroyed the Republican party. He is no better nor more reliable as a political leader now than he was then.

Mr. Lenoir has been our Commissioner since Mr. Roper died. Knowing the two men as we do, having had a chance to sample both of them, it is my opinion that Mr. Lenoir should be elected, and I believe most people of the district feel that way about it.

The worst situations we can imagine are less terrible than the actual experiences of these uprooted people. How can we make Christian Fellowship a reality while so much suffering and injustice prevail?

We must give evidence of our Christian brotherhood through the prayers of our hearts, the understanding of our minds, our offering of money, and the material gift of our hands.

Plans are being made for the observance of World Community Day here in Clanton.

CLANTON TIGERS LICK JEMISON PANTHERS 32-0

(By BOBBY TUCKER)

The Clanton Tigers met the Jemison Panthers Monday night at the local ball park in a rather one-sided football game.

In the first quarter of the game Royce Seales plowed through over his own left guard after the Tigers blocked an attempted punt by the "Panthers." Derrel Bannister kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter, Jemison's Jack Busby almost broke away, but failed to tally even though he did make a nice gain.

Royce Seals and James Paul Easterling made two T.D.'s for Clanton in the second quarter, one on a pass play and the other an end around run Tom Frank Scott also played a good game for the "Tigers" and almost got away one time with a 22 yard gain.

At the half the game was 20 to 0 in the "Tigers" favor.

In the third quarter Coach Spicer for Clanton put in most of his second string and some of his "B" team. The Panthers tried harder in the third quarter than any but they just couldn't do it. Also in the third quarter Royce Seales made a touchdown by a pass from Easterling and Easterling made a beautiful run of about 80 yards.

No one seemed to try very hard in the last quarter and no one scored, although Jemison came mighty close two or three times when most of the substitutes for Clanton were in.

This makes the "Tigers" fifth up and fifth down game, but they are looking for some tough opponents this coming Friday.

Tuscaloosa, Alabama.
October 19, 1950.

Honorable Charles F. Brannen,
Secretary of Agriculture,
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I was very glad to read your statement of October 16th in which you promised your recent cotton export quota ruling would be adjusted later and in which statement you indicated the ruling would be relaxed completely by next spring. I take this opportunity to urge you to not only "adjust" this ruling, but to cancel the same at the earliest possible date, as next spring will be too late to help the cotton farmer if he is to get the fair market price for this year's crop. As you know, the small cotton farmer must sell his cotton in the fall of the year in order to meet his current financial obligations and to make adjustment of any indebtedness incurred in producing his crop and to plan his next year's farming activities.

As a Member of the House Armed Services Committee, I have been keenly interested in the stockpiling of strategic materials in this country, particularly in view of the present emergency, and for this reason have hestitated to write you with reference to your recent ruling on cotton exports, as I gathered from your original statement that this action was being taken to prevent dangerous shortages at a time when the needs of our armed forces might be increased many fold should the present conflict spread and ultimately involve our nation in a third World War. However, since your announcement I have checked into the cotton situation very carefully and find that the present supply of cotton in this country is estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at 16.6 million bales. If we use 10 million bales in this country this year, which is about twelve percent more than we used last year, and close to the spinning capacity of our mills as presently geared, then 6.6 million bales will be left for export and carryover. When you add to this figure the four million bales which has recently been sold by the Commodity Credit Corporation and is now in the hands of the mills, you have a total of 10.6 million bales left for export and carryover. If we only export two million bales, as recently mentioned in your ruling, we would have on hand a total of 8.6 million bales for carryover, which would be entirely too large and much more than sufficient to keep our mills running at full capacity until the 1951 crop is available. If we export four million bales, this would leave 6.6 million bales that would remain for carry-over and even if we do not include the amount of cotton which has recently been sold by the Commodity Credit Corporation, we could still export four million bales and still have 2.6 million bales remaining for carryover, which would be ample to keep our

Dewey-Hanley Scandal Big Blow To Republicans

National Damage Forecast

EISENHOWER BOOST SEEN EFFORT TO OFFSET EXPOSE

Washington political observers believe the publication of the story of how the political backers of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey pushed the aged and ill Lt. Gov. Joe E. Hanley out of Dewey's path to candidacy for a third term as Governor of New York has dealt the GOP a national blow that will still be felt in 1952.

The disclosure of how Hanley had been assured "financial security" to step out of the Governor's race and run instead for the Senate, political leaders of both Parties believe, has reduced to shambles the careful Republican national buildup that Dewey, regardless of his personal charm, was the epitome of the honest politican and efficient public servant who always "forced" his Party to nominate the best man available on any ticket headed by Dewey.

But even more important nationally, observers believe, is the obvious fact that the financial arrangements to get Hanley out of the race must have been made by the Dewey supporters in the GOP who have been posing as "enlightened" Republicans and staunch supporters of "good government."

See Link to Eisenhower Backing

Observers believe that these Dewey backers were aware that the letter from Hanley admitting that he had been "bought" out of the Governors race was soon to be published, and that this was the major factor in Governor Dewey's speech renouncing Presidential ambitions of his own and throwing his support to General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This move, of course, provided Dewey's New York big business backers with a name behind which they could mass their forces after the public revelation of the Dewey-Hanley scandal made Dewey useless to them in their plans for 1952.

Democratic leaders in New York centered their fire on the Dewey-Hanley scandal on the Governor and those who helped him to force the aged, ill and indebted man whom Dewey used to call a part of his "team" into a political "sell-out" which Hanley wrote caused him to be "humiliated, disappointed and heartsick."

How The Scandal Broke

The events which made Dewey and his "wing" of the GOP a national albatross to their Party occurred in this sequence:

1. On Sunday, Oct. 15, Dewey announced he would not be a Presidential candidate in 1952 and threw his support to General Eisenhower, who apparently knew nothing of the reasons for Dewey's action.

2. On Monday, Hanley called a press conference to denounce what he called "smears" against him. Shortly thereafter, he released all but the address and the first part of a letter to Congressman W. Kingsland Macy (a GOP political foe of Dewey), expressing his shame at the "deal" he had made with the Dewey forces.

3. Hanley's action was followed by the revelation in the press that the existence of the Dewey-Hanley scandal and the letter to substantiate it was widely known.

4. The Democratic State Committee of New York released photostats of the full text of the damning letter from Hanley to Macy. Hanley wrote:

"After further consultation with my occulist and another who was called in for consultation, I have been forced to the position that I dare not gamble on my future.

Assured Good Living

"Today I had a conference with the Governor in which certain unalterable and unquestionably definite propositions were made to me. If I will consent to take the nomination to the United States Senate, I am definitely assured of being able to clean up my financial obligations within ninety days . . . I am assured of an adequate living compensation if elected, in a perfectly legal and unquestionable way. Also I have an iron-clad, unbreakable arrangement whereby I will be given a job with the State which I would like and enjoy (I have been told what it is) at sufficient compensation to make my net income more than I now have. This removes all the gamble from the picture. . .

". . . I have reached the conclusion that I cannot afford to gamble with my future, as things now are. Therefore, tomorrow morning I am going to announce that, if the delegates will nominate me for the office of United States Senator, I will accept. . .

"I am humiliated, disappointed and heartsick, but in fairness to myself, to you to whom I am indebted, and to my family, I can do nothing else. Please try to see this in the fairest light possible."

What with all the false rumors flying about the Democratic candidates, obviously started by their opponents, wonder if it doesn't clearly indicate the Republicans see the handwriting on the wall and realize they are "heading for the last roundup?"

* * * *

Wise voters will compare the men in each race. Their ability. Their records of getting things done, and their affiliations with their State and National leaders. Only those office holders who have access to the state and national "roundtable" will be able to "bring home the bacon." Only the Democratic candidates will be able to do this.

DOMESTIC ISSUES

We are approaching an important national election at a time when world affairs seem of paramount importance. The rapid and dramatic course of events in Korea commands our daily interest and attention. Beyond Korea, our deepest aspirations and hopes are for the attainment of security and peace in the world.

But we cannot ignore the real domestic issues that are at stake in the November elections. In fact, we cannot separate the domestic from the international issues even if we attempt to do so. Our hopes for security and peace are inextricably bound up with our efforts to preserve a strong and stable economy in our own country.

For the past seventeen years we have had national administrations which have believed that the power and authority of the people, operating through their government, can and should be used to "promote the common welfare."

Under Presidents Roosevelt and Truman the powers of government have been used in the interest of farmers, workers, businessmen and consumers.

Our natural resources have been developed and conserved through programs of reclamation, reforestation, soil conservation, and the public development of hydro-electric power.

Our human resources have been protected by increased governmental activity in the fields of education, health and housing by the adoption of the Social Security system.

Farmers have been assured of reasonable prices, and workers have won the right of collective bargaining.

All of these measures have helped us to achieve the greatest and most widely distributed prosperity and the most stable democratically ruled economy that the world has ever known.

Some have watched this progress with misgivings and alarm. We have been warned of the danger of bankruptcy and against trends to socialism; communism, statism and bureaucratic domination. Yet our schools, our churches, our individual freedoms, have never been more secure than they are now.

One of the things that is at stake in this election is whether we shall continue to go forward along this well-charted road of progress or whether we shall become afraid and turn back.

We had a sample of retrogression during the 80th Congress, and the verdict of the voters in 1948 was emphatic in favor of going forward again along the course that the people of America have overwhelmingly chosen and approved. We cannot afford another experiment with reaction.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Grover Walker was telling Rev. J. M. McKinney and the writer the story about the fellow who went to the horse trader to buy a fine horse. The horse trader was a deacon in the Baptist Church and the buyer was a steward in the Methodist Church. The man bought the horse and told the horse trader: "I am a steward in the Methodist Church and I will bring you the money for the horse Saturday." Saturday came and past and the horse trader saw nothing of the horse, the money, or the man. Monday morning he went down to see what he could find out about the man. "He told me he was a steward in the Methodist Church. What is a steward?" "Well," answered his friend, "You know what a deacon is in the Baptist Church. A steward in the Methodist Church is the same as a deacon in the Baptist Church." The horse trader stopped him right there. "Good Lord," he groaned, "I've lost my horse."

Ewart Corley says he has a 1930 Buick for sale. He also says it's in good condition except it won't run. He burned out a bearing the other week and has decided to sell instead of having it fixed. He says it's a bargain. You can see for yourself by taking a look at it out at Kelly Gillespie's. Ewart is asking seventy-five bucks.

In conversation the other day Joe Jackson who operates the Clanton Drive-In told us that his uncle, A. A. Jackson, was the first man to make a deposit in the Peoples Savings Bank when it was opened in 1901. Joe says his uncle had just come to Clanton and had quite a bit of money on him and wanted to get it in the bank. A lot of money has flowed through those vaults since that first deposit. We got a buck down there—we think.

There is no doubt in the world that the guy who wrote the following lines was a newspaper editor. We took the lines from L. & N. Magazine:

Mistakes Will Hoppen—Or See What We Mean?

The typographical error is a slippery thing and sly.
You can hunt till you are dizzy, but it somehow will get by.
Till the forms are off the presses it is strange how still it keeps;
It shrinks down into a corner and it never stirs or peeps.
The typographical error, too small for human eyes,
Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size.
The boss he stares with horror, then he grabs his hair and groans,
The copyreader drops his head upon his hands and moans—
The remainder of the issue may be clean as clean can be,
But that typographical error is the only thing you see.

Earl O'Neal of Stanton brought us a sweet potato this week that weighed in at 17 pounds and two ounces. He says he has had it on display at his cotton gin for the past three or four weeks. It's as big as a pumpkin and would make an awful lot of sweet potato pies.

You citizens of Alabama's best county better get out tonight to hear your Congressman, Hon. Ed deGraffenried, make his talk to the voters of Chilton County. Hon. Ed is shock full of information you would like to hear from Washington. He is an interesting speaker and you will miss a bet if you miss him.

October's bright blue weather didn't turn out so bright blue this year, did it? The latter part didn't anyway. But that isn't what we wanted to remind you of. Four weeks from today is Thanksgiving. Had you thought of that? Yep, another year is about gone. Just a very short time now and we will be reminding you that it is time to do your Christmas shopping.

We want to congratulate Mrs. John Smith and Mrs. Herbert Klinner on that wonderful job of getting memberships to the Clanton Elementary Parent-Teachers Association. We understand that more than 500 memberships have been sold to date. That's nearly a membership for every child enrolled at the school. When you take into consideration all the other obligations a homemaker has plus her homemaking that is some accomplishment.

Bob and Alma Sellers have a nice, new, baby girl. She arrived last Tuesday week, October 17th, and we don't suppose she knows it but she came here with just lots and lots of friends in Chilton County. Her mother and "old man," have been popular in this neck of the woods since way-back. They have named the new baby Elizabeth Alma, but Bob has her already tagged, "Betty."

Mean What You Say

Often times a person says one thing and means another. Not meaning what you say may get you into trouble. Not saying what you mean may cause trouble also. The better way is to say what you mean, and mean just exactly what you say.

A. T. HICKMAN

Out in San Diego, Calif., some time ago, a used car dealer placed this sign on a 1939 model car at the front of his sales lot: "You Can Steal This One From Us." Some one came along, read the sign, and did just that. They thought only in terms that the dealer meant what he said. But afterward the dealer complained to the police. The dealer could have said, "I said it, but did not mean it." Perhaps the idea of taking the car came into the person's mind after seeing the sign and reading it. What the car dealer said on the sign suggested stealing the car.

People may not mean half they say, but there is One who says only what he means, and always means exactly what he says. That One is the Lord Jesus Christ. He says, "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God." Jesus means exactly what He said. There is no way around His truth. Again He said, "Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven." These words are meant by Jesus, our Saviour. He would not have said it if they were not true. Again he said, "That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the Kingdom of Heaven." All of these sayings of Jesus are strong words, but they are full of life and strength. What could be more gracious words than these, "Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." When we learn to take Jesus at His word, and believe in His with all our heart, it is then that we receive the life and strength that His words produces. Life for the soul, and strength for body an dmind.

Let us learn to say what we mean, and mean what we say. Friends are worth more than money. But to have friends, one must show himself friendly. We can prove our friendship by meaning what we say. When we speak, let it be truth, truth direct from an honest heart. "For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned." (Matt. 12:37).

Your Health

THE FIRST BABY

When the first baby arrives, the new parents are often confronted with fears that they will do something wrong in caring for the infant. This is a natural feeling, but it is the physician's job to render adequate advice to the mother so that she will have assurance in handling her baby.

With the new baby being the center of things, very often it is difficult for the mother to adjust herself to the change in routine. This is an emotional affair and can be worked out effectively, once the mother recognizes that she should not be too concerned about small disturbances in the old well-managed routine of her previous life.

The baby's cry is an important signal, since this is the only way of expressing himself. For this reason the mother must understand the infant's need, whether he is hungry, wet, cold, frightened, or whether his arms and legs are restrained forcibly in any one position. Very often, the cry will indicate sheer boredom.

Many new mothers are inclined to feed the baby every time it cries. This is not wise, for the baby's gastrointestinal tract becomes distended with air and food, and the result is a constant colic.

In general, most mothers are inclined to overdress their babies. Actually the clothing varies with the season, but the infant should not be kept too hot. Cotton garments next to the skin are advisable, regardless of the season.

Most babies are born with rather long hair, yet many infants of three months seem to have a sparse amount. Even though the regrowth is gradual, there is no need to be alarmed if the baby is well and developing normally.

The baby's eyes will change, too. The change in color is noted about the third month; so when the infant reaches from six to eight months, parents can usually say whether the eyes are gray, blue or brown.

Give the baby comfortable surroundings, proper food and love. A calm and happy environment will do much not only for the baby, but for the parents, too.

Maybe You Haven't Lived

HERE'S A TOUCHING STORY from A. R. Murfotan, New Plymouth, New Zealand. It is the kind of story that makes me want to make this column better and better. You will know why as you read. I quote Mr. Murfotan:

"If anyone had asked me a few weeks ago, what sort of a man I was, the reply probably would have run something like this: 'I am a normal sort of a chap who makes the best of things, and though my wife and I have our differences, we have managed to stick together for nearly 30 years.'

Carnegie

"Yes, that is what I would have said a few weeks ago, but that is not what I say now. I thought I was trying to make the best of things, but it is as if I were doing so with my eyes closed. After serving in the last war, I managed to carry on at my pre-war occupation for two years, then I was sent to the hospital with acute coronary thrombosis. It was a bad show and when I left the hospital I was told I'd never work again. From the past two wars, for I served in both, I have collected disabilities amounting to 145 per cent.

"Then I read some of your columns and learned how other men suffered and how they pulled through, under a great variety of difficulties, and I realized that for all these years I haven't been living at all. I was either living in the past, worrying over lost opportunities, or else wondering and worrying about what the future held for me. I certainly had not lived.

"But now I have begun to live. I sleep like a log. One morning when my wife brought my breakfast to bed, I realized that she was virtually a stranger to me; that for nearly 30 years I had taken her for granted. Suddenly I decided that I was going to make her acquaintance, that what time remains for us to be together, is going to be real. There is only 'today' and every today is going to count.

"I once wrote of my experiences and called it 'And Things Came Right.' I now see that things never would have come right if I had continued to face them as I had been doing. But things are started right now."

If Mr. Murfotan has made even one of you readers know the value of living for the day, of looking yourself over and deciding to live not only for yourself but for others, what he has written will be so valuable that one couldn't afford the space in this paper to tell about it.

JEMISON JR. 4-H CLUB NEWS

The second meeting of the Jemison Jr. 4-H Club met in Mr. Johnson's room. We talked on hogs and how to feed them. One of the most important things we talked about was how to feed the sow the best feed to make strong and healthy pigs when they are born.

The vice-president, Jimmy Northcutt, had the program planned for some boys to sing. The song leaders, Herbert Scott and Jerry Wright, led us in some songs.

Lowell Smith, our president, carried on his part as president. Mr. Sellers, assistant County Agent, had the materials for making protein supplement and mineral mixture and showed us how to mix it. There was only one boy in the club whose father used tankage for his hogs.—Billy Cofer, Reporter.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

By Joyce Lee

THIS WAS the end. Martha Lake couldn't stand any more. She had come to teach Slocum Prairie School because there was a teacherage beside the school, a house with four rooms, completely furnished. The teacherage stood for peace, quiet, time to write the history text book she had dreamed of.

She had felt she was getting something easy in School District Four with its 15 pupils. In the city she had 45. There were but six families in District Four—Laswadowski, Jorgenson, O'Brien, Schultz, Van Matre and Brownstetter. Instead of lessening the work it had been increased, and this, her birthday, was the worst day of all.

Some birthday!

She would resign, slip away this week end, forget the teacherage with its pine floors, rag rugs, gingham curtains, blue dishes and quiet.

Ignacio Laswadowski, Jorgen Jorgenson, Gus Schultz and Mickey O'Brien were too much for her. The three big girls, Katje Van Matre, Madeline Brownstetter and Carla Jorgenson liked to bicker, brag and call names. Madeline would say: "I will be a nurse and give orders to generals on battlefields."

"Nurses TAKE orders," Katje would say. "You are bragging again."

"Bragging again," Carla would say.

"I have something to brag about," Madeline would answer.

"And so have I!" Carla would say. "My mother is the best cook in Slocum Prairie. She won all the prizes at the county fair."

"For Norwegian lutefish, lefse and waffles!" Madeline invaribly answered.

"For pie and cake, too!" Carla would roar and burst into tears.

It would take a woman with iron nerves to cope with the 15 youngsters here. Even the first graders: Sonja Jorgenson, Kathleen O'Brien, Mattie and Lucy Van Matre, Irving Laswadowski, Phillip Schultz—all the students—bickered. Sometimes it was the size of their barns. Again it was their hybrid corn or big hay crop. Fifteen children, against 45, sounded like an old maid's paradise, which it hadn't been.

The day drew to a close. The children called their good nights, stomped out, banged the door. Martha would write her resignation now. She lay her head on her arms and slept.

Katje Van Matre awakened her. "Teacher, come with me to the teacherage and see what you shall see," the little girl urged.

Martha went with her. The six mothers and all the pupils were standing in the kitchen. They called; "Happy birthday, Teacher! SURPRISE!"

"We hope you have many happy birthdays," said Mrs. Jorgenson. "You are the best teacher we ever had, and you stay with us. The others stayed a month, six weeks, maybe two months. You teach good lessons and good manners. Carla and Jorgen like school now, and Jorgen is going to the university to study farming."

"Such a good school you made of District Four," said Laswadowski. "My Ignacio studies his history for you, and he says he will be President someday. He does his chores good, Miss Lake, since you told him Lincoln did chores when he was a boy."

Mrs. Schultz spoke up and said Gus was going to study law, and Mrs. O'Brien said Mickey wanted to be a doctor.

"Other teachers slapped my hands when I drew," Carla Jorgenson said, "and you tell me I draw beautifully. I am going to study art."

When they had all spoken there were tears in Martha's eyes. RESIGN? What had she been thinking of? "Thank you for coming," she said. "You have helped me more than I can say. I will treasure your gifts and appreciate your kindness."

She stood in the doorway until the shadows swallowed her guests, then turned to the table, piled high with parcels, some wrapped in newspaper and tied with binder twine. She opened them slowly, touched them reverently. The teacherage wrapped loving arms about her. The mischievous Slocum Prairie children assumed cherubic form. This was her home, these were her people, and their children must grow into good men and women—into nurses, artists, doctors, lawyers, farmers—and PRESIDENTS!

MY VISIT TO THE TURNAROUND

(By LINDA WADE)

Few classes have had the privilege that ours had last Tuesday. We had been studying rocks in science. We would discuss the different rocks and their minerals and crystals. One day Mrs. Thomas and the class decided to visit Turnaround, where wonderful rock formations can be seen.

On the way down there some classmates and I had a jolly time telling jokes we had read. We also talked of different things that were happening round about.

When we arrived at the Turnaround each boy and girl signed his or her name. We walked about Mr. Pitts's home through the paths and saw several different kinds of rocks. The most interesting to me was mica.

Alum rock is the most beautiful rock I have ever seen. Picture frame rock is also attractive. My mother took a picture of my group in picture frame rock. We also went to look out rock. There we saw a beautiful view, for spread out before us were the varied colors of autumn on the leafy trees below us, and on all the mass of foliage across the huge mountains beyond us. We also went to the overflowing well, where we got a drink of water. I have never enjoyed a field trip with my class as much. When we returned to the picnic area, we had delicious refreshments awaiting us.

On the way back my classmates discussed what an enjoyable time they had had. When we reached the school room, everyone's mind was filled with thoughts of a pleasurable trip.

VERMONT BOYS 4-H CLUB MET

The Vermont Boys' 4-H Club met on Monday, October 9th. There were 34 boys present. The minutes of the last meeting were read. Two boys gave the demonstration on how to care for a sow.

Mr. Sellers told us how to mix the minerals and to keep them before them all the time. We sang some songs and said the pledge.

We are looking forward to our meeting next month.—Ernest Sansom, Reporter.

Marion, Ala. — Benjamin Douglas (Buddy) Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Roberts, 406 Fifth St., N., has been named to the dean's list and to the superior conduct list at Marion Institute for the month of September. The dean's list was announced recently by Dean L. H. Crowe Recommends Kendrick For Sheriff

I wish to use our good county papers as a means of explaining my action in our past spring Democratic Primary.

Numerous citizens from various parts of the county came to see me in the spring before the Primary and expressed surprise at my not being a candidate for Sheriff again as I had previously been four years earlier. At which time I tried to explain to them that at the time I was a candidate and even before I qualified as such I was in conversation with Mr. E. H. Davis who voluntarily came to me and insisted that I qualify as a candidate for Sheriff and also voluntarily offered me his every support, all of which he did to the utmost of his ability. At which time I agreed to qualify to run in the Primary of which I was in and upon my agreeing to enter the race I voluntarily suggested to Mr. Davis that regardless of the outcome of my race as candidate for the Sheriff's Office, if after a period of four years he (Mr. Davis) should elect to qualify and run for Sheriff that I would not hinder him in any way unless there was no other opposition. But that I felt that in a primary of any kind in our county that it was only fair play with the voters of the county that they have a choice of one from a group of two or more people to choose from. I, as you well know, qualified and ran in the Primary of the spring of 1947, at which time nearly 2,000 voters in the county expressed their confidence in me by voting for me. However, I was defeated, which was well and good because as it was I was privileged to learn to suffer defeat in what I hope was an honorable manner.

As each of you well know, Mr. Davis was a candidate in our spring Democratic Primary and I was enthusiastically interested in his being nominated, however, he, too, suffered defeat in a very commendable and honorable manner, having lost the nomination to Mr. Luther Kendrick, a man with every seemingly qualification that Mr. Davis or myself either may have. It has been my privilege to work with Mr. Kendrick both in law enforcement and in court and I am happy to say that I have found him to be a very honorable, truthful and smooth person in his everyday life. He is a man who cannot be led around by political persons or parties and will not sell truth or justice for political prestige. Yet, anyone of you, or either I, can talk to him about the law and justice in our own terms of thought.

It is therefore a pleasure to me to be privileged to recommend Mr. Kendrick to any of you who may not know him as thoroughly as I feel that I know him. I am very anxious to see the people of Chilton County privileged to use the much needed qualifications of Mr. Kendrick for the next four years. He neither will have to learn or run the risk of hiring an unexcelled leadership in law enforcement.

Thanking you and hoping that you go to the polls and vote for Mr. Kendrick.

Respectfully,

IRA S. CROWE.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank Bro. Stuckey and all the many nice people around Concord Church for all they did for me during my sickness at my father's, Mr. J. L. Penton. I've never met such nice people. I'm leaving here soon for my home in Mobile, with such a beautiful remembrance of each one; also Dr. Joe Hall Johnson and nurse.

May God pour out His richest blessings upon them is my prayer. — Mrs. Minnie Nummy.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

AS THE NOVEMBER ELECTION draws near and United Nations successes in Korea removes the issue of early reverses, Republicans are shying away from the Korean war as a campaign issue, while Democrats are taking up the cudgel and attempting to make the war there a refutation of earlier Republican charges of unpreparedness.

Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, taking up the earlier GOP charges of military unpreparedness, charged that our military successes were definite proof that the department of defense was not nearly so unprepared as Republican orators would have us believe, and Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York, following through, declared the GOP attacks on foreign policy and the Korean situation fit in "with Moscow's plan."

Chairman Owen Brewster of Maine, of the GOP senate campaign committee, switched from Korean war charges and said that "confusion, corruption and communism" are now the fundamental issues, and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, campaigning for his political life in Ohio, also switched from his attacks on the administration "blunders" in Korea to a denunciation of the Brannam farm plan.

• • •

In the meantime, it appeared that as soon as the congress reconvenes on November 27 the house and senate armed services committees will outline additional money and manpower needs. They said that inflation is hiking the cost of the rearmament program already underway and outlined plans for building up each branch of the services to maintain at least three million men under arms for some time to come. And General Lewis B. Hershey, head of the draft, called for a reduction of draft standards, longer service, induction of veterans and a tougher policy on dependency and other deferments.

• • •

There was every indication that moderation or repeal of the McCarran Communist control law will be sought when the congress reconvenes. Ten Democratic senators who backed President Truman's unsuccessful veto, have signed an appeal in which they said the law would endanger individual freedom and would not safeguard the national security. The 10 are Senators Douglas, Illinois; Lehman, New York; Kilgore, West Virginia; Kefauver, Tennessee; Humphrey, Minnesota; Murray, Montana; Graham, North Carolina; Green, Rhode Island; Chavez, New Mexico and Leahy, Rhode Island.

• • •

Unbiased observers here put the latest bid of Harold Stassen, President of the University of Pennsylvania, for an interview with Joseph Stalin down as a form of "publicity propaganda." There is some question as to whether Stassen has violated a federal statute which prohibits individuals from taking such action which is clearly within the province of the federal government. GOP leaders are disclaiming any responsibility for Stassen's action.

• • •

Wesley Powell, executive assistant to Sen. Styles Bridges, New Hampshire, has been ruled off the ballot as an independent opponent of Sen. Charles W. Tobey in the November election. Powell came within 1,300 votes of unseating Senator Tobey in the primary and had announced he would seek election as an independent.

• • •

Also of interest politically is the Pennsylvania election wherein the liberal James Henderson Duff, Pennsylvania governor, and victor over the Grundy political machine in that state, is the GOP senatorial nominee against Senator Francis J. Myers, Democrat. On the face of it, it would appear that the redoubtable Duff would be an easy winner over Senator Myers. However, the political dopesters declare that the bitterness between the Duff and Grundy-Pew factions of the Pennsylvania Republicans is so deep that the Grundy machine may throw its strength to Senator Myers rather than see Duff come off the winner.

• • •

With limits on cotton growing lifted, it appears that this commodity will be the first to be brought under government controls under the new war powers act.

LETTER FROM J. Z. MIMS

Dear Editor:

Just a few words to the voters of Chilton County:

My fellow citizens, I desire to say to you that your citizenship is a sacred obligation and Christ teaches you to assume it.

Tuesday, November 7th, 1950, will be the first opportunity you will have had to speak by your vote for servants and clean, efficient government for two long years, and it will be two long years before you will have another opportunity to so speak.

Now, if you endorse the present regime which has brought our county, state and nation to shame, disgrace and debt, which leads to poverty, you may so speak by voting for it, but if you believe in honest, clean and efficient government, you may register your voice and influence for same by voting the Republican Ticket.

I am not attempting to make Republicans out of you who are consciencously a Democrat, but for the sake of our county, state and nation, I do beg you to vote the Republican Ticket this time, as a good Democrat, if you please.

For the last 12 or 15 years there has been quite a number of our Republican friends gone away into a foreign country, so to speak, to such a one, I, as chairman of the County Executive Committee, hereby invite you and call upon you to come back into the fold and help us win the victory for efficient government in our county.

Yours truly,

J. Z. MIMS.

(Pd. pol. adv. by J. Z. Mims, Clanton)

Go to the polls on November 7th, and vote the Democratic Ticket. A cross under the Rooster does the job. Gives you men of proven ability who will serve all the people faithfully.

CHILTON COUNTY SEES INCREASE IN NUMBER OF DWELLING PLACES IN 10 YEARS

An increase in the number of dwelling places in Chilton County in the past 10 years is reported by the Atlanta regional office of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The report, based on current figures released by the Commerce Department's Bureau of the Census from its 1950 census of housing, showed that in April of this year there were 7,550 dwelling places in the county, compared with 7,012 in 1940.

The number of dwelling places recorded for the county this year represented an average of 3.6 persons per dwelling place based upon the recent census of population issued by the Census Bureau which gave Chilton County a total of 26,839 residents this year compared with 27,955 in 1940, a decrease of 4.0 per cent.

The term "dwelling places" has been defined by the Census Bureau as "the living quarters occupied by, or intended for occupancy by, one household."

Merrill C. Lefton, Commerce Department regional director in Atlanta, has advised residents of Chilton County to write his office for copies of the Census Bureau's preliminary release on dwelling places in the county if they are interested in receiving them. Only one release will be available to a request, he said. Such requests should be addressed to the U. S. Department of Commerce, 418 Atlanta National Building, Atlanta, he stated.

"Jefferson County shall have power to levy and collect an additional tax of 50 cents on each $100 of taxable property therein for public school purposes in the same manner and subject to the same election requirements as are now provided in the Third Amendment to this Constitution with respect to county school taxes; provided that in any incorporated municipality where special or additional taxes are being levied and collected for public school purposes, including the servicing of debts incurred for public schools, the additional tax herein provided for shall be reduced by the amount of such special or additional municipal public school taxes in the corporate limits where such special or additional municipal public school taxes are being levied and collected and during the time such taxes are levied and collected; and provided further that only qualified electors residing within the area in which the additional tax herein authorized is proposed to be levied shall have the right to vote at any election held for the purpose of voting such additional tax, and qualified voters residing in incorporated municipalities which are levying and collecting a full tax of 50 cents on each $100 of taxable property for public school purposes shall not be entitled to vote at such election. "All vacancies in the office of judge of the circuit court holding at Birmingham which shall occur subsequent to January 15, 1951, shall be filled in the manner and for the time as herein provided.

"The Jefferson County Judicial Commission is hereby created for the purpose of nominating to the governor persons for appointment to such a vacancy. The members of such commission shall be (a) two persons who are members of the Alabama State Bar, and (b) two persons who are not members of the Alabama state bar, and (c) one judge of the circuit court holding at Birmingham.

"All members of such Commission must reside in the territorial jurisdiction of the circuit court holding at Birmingham.

"The two members of such commission who are required to be members of the Alabama state bar shall be elected by the members of such bar who are regularly licensed and qualified to practice law in this state and who reside in the territorial jurisdiction of the circuit court holding at Birmingham. The executive committee of the Birmingham Bar Association or its successor body in such capacity, is authorized and directed to make rules, not inconsistent with this amendment, for the election of such members of such commission as are required to be members of the Alabama state bar. Such executive committee shall certify in writing to the probate judge of Jefferson County the names of the persons elected as members of such commission by such members of such bar.

"The Senator and Representatives in the Alabama Legislature from Jefferson County shall elect the two members of such commission who are required not to be members of the Alabama state bar. Such senator and representatives shall certify in writing to such probate judge the names of the persons elected by them as such members.

"The judges of the circuit court holding in Birmingham shall elect the member of such commission who is required to be a judge of such circuit court. The judges of such circuit court shall certify in writing to such probate judge the name of the circuit judge elected by such circuit judges as such members.

"The terms of office of all members of such commission shall be six years, except that the terms of office of the two members of the state bar first elected shall be for one and two years respectively, and of the two members first elected by the senator and representatives in the Alabama legislature from Jefferson County shall be for three and four years respectively, and the term of the circuit judge elected by the circuit judges shall be for five years; the length of such terms of office of the members of such commission being indicated by the respective electing bodies. The terms of the initial members of such commission shall begin on January 16, 1951. A vacancy in the office of a member of such commission shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as such member was originally chosen.

"The probate judge of Jefferson County shall record all such certificates of election and shall safely and permanently keep the original certificates. Forthwith upon his receipt and recordation of every such certificate, he shall send to the governor a certified copy of every such certificate.

"No member of such commission shall be eligible to succeed himself as such member or for nomination to the governor for appointment as judge of such circuit court during the term of office for which such member shall have been selected.

"The members of such commission shall not receive any salary or other compensation for their services as such members. No member of such commission other than the member required to be a judge of the circuit court shall hold any public office, and no member of such commission shall hold any official position in any political party.

"If, subsequent to January 15, 1951, a vacancy occurs in the office of judge of the circuit court holding at Birmingham, such commission shall nominate to the governor three persons having the qualifications for such office. Such nomination shall be made only by the concurrence or a majority of the members of such commission. The governor shall appoint to the office in which the vacancy exists one of the three persons so nominated for such office. The appointee shall hold such office until the next general election for any state officer held at least six months after the vacancy occurs and until his successor is elected and qualified; the successor shall hold office for the unexpired term and until his successor is elected and qualifeid.

"This amendment shall be self-executing."

"Any provision of the Constitution or laws of the State of Alabama to the contrary notwithstanding, any municipality in Marion County, or any one or more of them, shall have full and continuing power and authority, without any election or approval other than the approval of its governing body, to do any one or more of the following:

"1. To purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind.

"2. To lease, sell for cash or on credit, exchange, or give and convey any such property described in subdivision 1 above, to any person, firm, association or corporation.

"3. To promote local industrial, commercial or agricultural development and the location of new industries or businesses therein.

"4. To become a stockholder in any corporation, association or company.

"5. To lend its credit or to grant public moneys and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation whatsoever.

"6. To become indebted and to issue and sell interest bearing bonds, warrants (which may be payable from funds to be realized in future years), notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness, to a principal amount not exceeding fifty percent of the assessed value of taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in order to secure funds for the purchase, construction, lease or acquisition of any of the property described in subdivision 1 above or to be used in furtherance of any or the other powers or authorities granted in this amendment. Such obligations or evidences of indebtedness may (in addition to any pledge or pledges authorized by subdivision 8 of this amendment) be issued upon the full faith and credit of the municipality or may be limited as to the source of their payment.

"7. To levy and collect annually, in addition to all other taxes now authorized or permitted, a special tax or taxes of not exceeding two percent on the value of all taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in the same manner as other county or municipal taxes are levied and collected. Such tax may be upon all property in any municipality in Marion County or upon all property in any district the boundaries of which the governing body of such municipality shall describe and which it shall determine to be specially improved and benefited by any proposed use or expenditure of the proceeds of such tax.

"8. To pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any such special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full and to pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased or sold by it.

"9. To create a public authority or corporation having such powers, managed and governed by such board or governing body and subject to such limitations as the governing body of any municipality in Marion County may impose, by approving and filing a certificate to that effect in the office of the Judge of Probate or the Secretary of State, or their respective successors in function, and to delegate to such public authority or corporation and its board or governing body all powers and authority conferred in this amendment upon any such municipality.

"The recital in any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness that they were issued pursuant to this amendment or that they were issued to provide funds to be used in furtherance of any power or authority herein authorized or that any special tax herein authorized has been pledged to the payment thereof shall be conclusive; no purchaser or holder thereof need inquire further; and the levy and collection of such tax shall continue until the principal of and interest on such obligations or evidences of indebtedness shall have been paid in full. The bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness issued hereunder shall not be considered an indebtedness of any municipality in Marion County for the purpose of determining the borrowing capacity of such municipality under Sections 224 and 225 of the Constitution; and the taxes herein authorized shall be in addition to those provided for or permitted in Sections 215 and 216 of the Constitution and all amendments thereto.

"This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature shall have the right and power by general, special or local act to adopt laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes and objectives herein above set forth."

Memorial Service At Capitol Heights Methodist Church

Of interest to many Chilton Countians will be the Cassady Memorial Services held Sunday at the Capitol Heights Methodist Church. Mr. T. C. Cassady was a former pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church.

Mr. Cassady was for many years pastor of the Capitol Heights Methodist Church and the church made great strides under his leadership. For 18 years he conducted a weekly radio program over Station WSFA at Montgomery and during that time he organized a quartet who were featured on the program last Sunday.

At the ceremony a life size portrait of the pastor was unveiled by his youngest son and granddaughter, Susan Cassady. A new church annex was also dedicated and named in his honor.

Rev. Cassady was loved and respected by all the good people who knew him and a remarkable feature of the dedication ceremony Sunday was a transcription of a Christmas Message that Rev. Cassady had made in 1935.

Rev. Wilbur L. Walton conducted the Memorial Service. From Clanton attending the ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bazzell.

Mr. Robert Holley, a young Christian with talent and unusual abilities, is serving as chairman of the program committee. He is assisted by pastors and interested lay people.

The youth of Chilton, Unity associations have much talent and in this type of program can use their talents for the Glory of God and the good of all mankind as they witness for Him.

The first meeting will be at Jemison Baptist Church on Saturday night, October 21st, beginning promptly at 7:30 o'clock. We urge all young people and other interested friends to make a special effort to be present. The programs will be recorded on Saturday nights in the churches where they meet and will be broadcast the following Sunday afternoon.

Since the announcement of the limit of exports of cotton to two million bales to all countries other than Canada for the eight-month period, August 1, 1950, to March 31, 1951, there has been a continuing decline in the price of cotton in the United States. During the same period, it is my understanding that the price of cotton in foreign countries has greatly increased, selling for fifty-five cents a pound in Brazil and fifty-six cents per pound in Pakistan, while cotton of like quality was selling here for less than forty cents per pound.

The Sixth Congressional District of Alabama, which I represent is primarily agricultural, and while great strides are being made to diversify our agricultural economy, cotton is still the principal money crop for the farmer. As you know, we have had a very short crop of cotton, the expense of producing it has been great, weather conditions have been unfavorable and the insect damage most severe. The farmers of my district have cooperated to the fullest in the allotment program which was set up for this year's cotton crop, which together with a much smaller acreage and unfavorable weather conditions and loss due to the boll weevil, has reduced to a drastic extent the amount of cotton he will have for the market, and thereby his subsistence for the coming year will be seriously reduced, if he doesn't get the very best possible price for his cotton this fall.

Another serious objection to your recent ruling is the fact that we will need to produce more cotton next year and the Government is asking that we do it. Nothing could contribute more to prevent the necessary increase in production next year than deliberate action by the Government to lower the price. Lowering of the price of cotton by officials of the Government, who are at the same time asking farmers to produce more cotton is amibuous and detrimental to any program for increased production. It is interesting to note that the Federal Government through the Commodity Credit Corporation disposed of large quantities of its cotton before the low export limit was placed on cotton, thereby receiving a higher price than the individual farmers of America are able to receive today. This appears to me to constitute a rank injustice.

The cotton farmers of this area feel that the Government has deliberately set out to depress the price of cotton at the very time it is being marketed. This feeling is caused by three things. First, the sale of four million bales of cotton by the Commodity Credit Corporation and this being placed on the market; second, the removal of our cotton acreage restrictions; third, the recent ruling restricting exports. Farmers actually feel that the Government sold its cotton, thinking this would reduce the price and when this failed, they then lifted acreage restrictions, thinking this would reduce the price, and when this failed, that the Government issued the last drastic ruling on a restriction of exports.

I, therefore, on behalf of the cotton farmers of my Congressional District and the State of Alabama, urge you to cancel your export quota ruling at the earliest possible date.

Thanking you for your consideration of this matter, and with kind regards,

Yours sincerely,
EDWARD deGRAFFENRIED.

THIS PETTY PACE

BY

BROWN LEE YATES

FRAGMENT OF GUNTHER-SAGA, a vivid epic of Homeric Brooklyn, circa the fall of Troy and rise of the Dodgers:

Now, when it would be cucumber pickling time at Gunther-house, Gunther-wife had dolorous trouble keeping Gunther from sprawling in the big earthen jars used for salting down the dills. For he was always pickled, albeit he was not a cucumber. Nothing pleasured Gunther more than making like a recumbent cucumber in the cool earthen crocks and betimes sleeping one off.

In Gunther-land were evil men, sorely trying to a great warrior able to empty a flagon in a trice. But they soothed their gripe until the hero would drop from his sinewy thigh great Gunther-axe and pass the warm hours of short shadows in the shade of the big wine cask, letting fall his heavy eyelids after imbiding deeply of the liquid lullaby.

But he would always spring up, battle cry upon lips, in bounteous time to hack and hew with great Gunther-axe and lay the cowards alongside their dismembered arms and legs.

Again, at times of dill making, they would see auspices fair to find Gunther asleep in the briney deep of the pickle crock. One ill-fated day, they crept close behind Gunther-henhouse, awaiting Gunther's rest among the warty vegetables.

But they underestimated the power of Gunther-woman, did not reckon with the eagle eye of Gunther-child, awatch behind Gunther-pigsty. This youth of strong heart espied the cravens and fled to mama. Gunther-wife had a butcher knife with new edge anent pickling time and anent Gunther-philandering.

She met the bloody onslaught, matching blade against spear and shield, and the struggle filled the air with great din and divers noses and ears. The subsiding battle left the pickle jars full of chopped cucumbers, chopped Gunther-foe and chopped Gunther. Few dills graced Gunther-table that winter, but much chow-chow relish was devoured.

VETERAN FARMERS HAVE GOOD HOG PROGRAM

The veteran farmers in Chilton County have shown much progress in establishing a good hog program during the past year. Since last spring hog projects have been established in nine of the Veteran Classes in the county. Five of the projects have registered O.I.C. sows and four are using Durocs. Since the projects were started 92 pigs have been farrowed and all the gilts are being kept for breeding stock. Some of the gilts have already been bred and will farrow soon.

Valuable training is received in grazing, fencing, proper feeding, value of minerals, and improved breeding through these projects.

In addition to the registered gilts in the hog projects, 47 others have been placed on individual farms of the veterans.

Chilton County's hog program should be very much improved by bringing in the purebred gilts and boars on the Veterans' Training Program

Growing Through Reading and Meditation.

Lesson for October 29: Acts 17: 10-12; Philippians 4: 8-9; I Timothy 4: 12-16; II Timothy 2: 15; 4:13.

Memory Selection: Philippians 4:8.

THE PEOPLE of Beroea, in the synagogue there, heard Paul and Silas "with all readiness of mind," and they examined "the scriptures daily, whether these things were so." "The scriptures" were those of the Old Testament. And "Greek women of honorable estate and of men, not a few" believed.

The memory selection is a beautiful verse. It shows the power of thought to attain unto Christian graces and virtues. Men tend to become like that on which they constantly look. As Ernest looked through a lifetime upon the Great Stone Face, he bore its image by and by. Christians who meditate upon good things will attain unto them in due time. And they who look ever to Christ will become like him.

Paul wrote Timothy to study the scriptures that he might be able to handle "aright the word of truth." And Paul's own dependence upon the scriptures is indicated in his request that Timothy bring him the books, "especially the parchments." These parchments were doubtless those of the Old Testament and one or more of the Gospels which had been recently written.

Our lesson is designed to show that spiritual growth comes through reading and meditation upon great books.

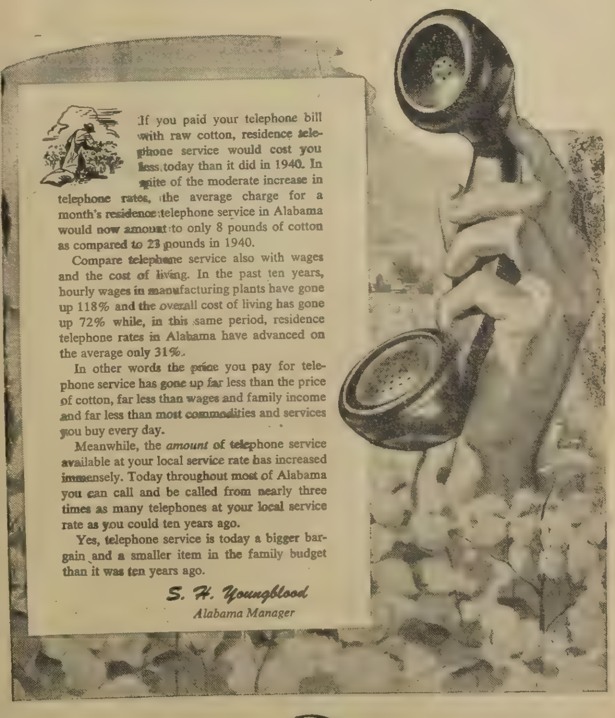
It takes less cotton

to buy residence telephone service today than it did 10 years ago . . .



If you paid your telephone bill with raw cotton, residence telephone service would cost you less today than it did in 1940. In spite of the moderate increase in telephone rates, the average charge for a month's residence telephone service in Alabama would now amount to only 8 pounds of cotton as compared to 23 pounds in 1940.

Compare telephone service also with wages and the cost of living. In the past ten years, hourly wages in manufacturing plants have gone up 118% and the overall cost of living has gone up 72% while, in this same period, residence telephone rates in Alabama have advanced on the average only 31%.

In other words the price you pay for telephone service has gone up far less than the price of cotton, far less than wages and family income and far less than most commodities and services you buy every day.

Meanwhile, the amount of telephone service available at your local service rate has increased immensely. Today throughout most of Alabama you can call and be called from nearly three times as many telephones at your local service rate as you could ten years ago.

Yes, telephone service is today a bigger bargain and a smaller item in the family budget than it was ten years ago.

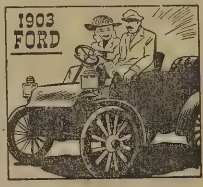
"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From B. L. of Chicago: I remember when father used to pile the family into the automobile and take "long" drives out into the country to sights of interest each Sunday.

From Mrs. Ella Bates of Salina, Kan.: I remember the days of the horseless carriage, later called the "gas buggy." Some of the earliest makes of cars were: the Mier, Mitchell, Brush, Rambler, Gleason, Stevens-Duryea, Orient Buckboard. These were popular in the first decade of the century. Then came the Stoddard-Dayton, Mercedes Roadster, National, Overland, the Flanders Twenty, the Empire. In the 1920s there were such makes as the R. V. Knight, the Franklin, the Gardner and the Maxwell.



From J. Risor Camryn of Seattle, Wash.: I remember when "newfangled" things began to interest me and when my father brought home an unbreakable lamp chimney. He dropped it on the floor to demonstrate. The next test was to flip drops of water from his fingertips on the heated lamp chimney. It burst into a hundred pieces and it was right over the butter dish on the dining room table!

He is the only veteran in the Sheriff's race, having served more than a year with a combat force in Europe during World War II.

He is the only nominee for Sheriff that has been selected by a vote of the people.

He has not and will not promise anyone a job until after November 7th, 1950. If elected he will make every effort to select men that will be a credit to the interest of Chilton County.

If elected he will:

1. Put the Sheriff's Office on a business basis and will keep that office open during business hours to serve the people of Chilton County.
2. Fairly and impartially enforce the laws for the interest of our county, state and nation.
3. He will not hire any relatives as deputies or jailer.
4. He will bring a school to Chilton County for the purpose of training all city and county police officers in modern methods of law enforcement. This school will not cost the taxpayers a cent.

He sincerely asks your vote and support, which will be greatly appreciated.

If honored with this office he will endeavor at all times to prove himself worthy of your confidence and will at all times strive for a bigger and better Chilton County.

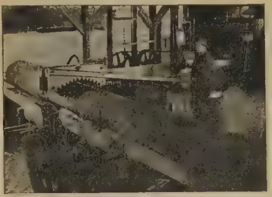
Production Picture-

Illustrating in sequende how logs become plywood in Maplesville, Alabama

PLYWOOD is a big business built upon a widely used product. Over 10 billion square feet (surface measure) of veneers and plywood are being produced annually in the United States. This production consumes about 2 billion feet (log scale) of logs, mostly the hardwoods like southern gumwood, mahogany, birch, maple, and yellow poplar. Its applicability to furniture, flooring, walls, piping, masts, housings of a great variety, molds, and other construction uses is due in great part to the strength and performance of the resin glues that weld its plies together. Excellent glues, such as the Plaskon line of powdered and liquid glues, used by experienced manufactures like Stremming Veneer Co., produce fine plywood by a process shown here step by step.

No. 1
Logs wait in the Alabama sun for the move from yard to plywood mill and their transformation into the ubiquitous produce—plywood.



No. 2
Logs are cut according to the use for veneers later cut from them. Long logs are used for face and back veneers on the final plywood panel, short logs for center plies.

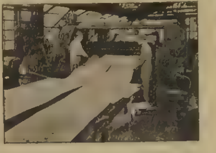
No. 3
In the steam vats, the logs are soaked to soften and clean. Bark is removed in foreground, and the softening will also facilitate later cutting at the lathe.

No. 4
A back view of the lathe. Logs are swung up (foreground), placed on lathe, and turned against large knives that slice off thin sheets of wood (veneers).



No. 5

No. 6
Left, the sized veneers are placed in the dryer, which removes excess moisture. The veneers must be grouped according to the direction and figure of their grain on some jobs, so that when glued together in panels there will be a uniform grain pattern.

No. 7
Here, the veneers, after drying, are being clipped to the size of the ultimate plywood panel when assembled and glued. The dry sized veneers can now be glued and placed with other veneers or lumber to form the plies. If fancy faced (decorative grained) plywood is to be made, a different method of cutting veneers is used

No. 8
Two gluing operations take place in a plywood plant—splicing (gluing veneers edge to edge) above, and panel gluing, below. Plaskon glues form permanent bonds with only fraction of an inch edges to join in splicing The line of gluing where the veneer edges are joined is invisible to all but experienced plywood men.

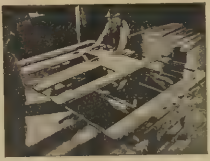
No. 9
Two methods of bonding the assembled plies follow the glue spreader's application of the Plaskon glue (last picture). The glue plies of veneers, sometimes with lumber as a core, are placed together with the grain of each ply running perpendicular to the next ply. The assembly is then placed in the hot plate press (above), which under heat and pressure causes the resin glue to form an infusible bond with the wood. The cold press (above) exerts heavy pressure on the plies to cause the same reaction of the glue The additional heat of the hot press forms somewhat stronger, more permanent bonds, however.



No. 10
Here, the bonded plywood panel has uneven edges trimmed, and reaches the size to be used by the furniture maker or other plywood user who ordered it.

No. 11
Panels are sanded to minute correct thickness before shipment. This also prepares surface for any later finishes Being sanded here are planks of lumber to serve as center ply or core of a plywood panel.

No. 12
Banded plywood panels are here being loaded for shipment to Stremming customers. Stremming maintains its own fleet of trucks to deliver orders as well as using rail transportation.

The plant of Streming Veneer Co., Maplesville, Ala., produces veneers and plywood for a mostly midwestern and southern market. The plant began operations in 1947.

R. W. Stremming heads the plywood company as well as a lumber company in Indiana. He is responsible for the company's outside contacts, including sales, leaving the on-the-spot supervision up to Virgil Royster (above), who handles the company's administrative problems. Production supervision is in the hands of Chester Gerlach, third member of the Stremming triumvirate.

Sunday the State Championship Motorcycle Run was put on by Mr. Folsum Henderson and Mr. Leon Gillis of Selma, Ala. Mr. Russell Shoults and Mr. Willard Shoults assisted these two in marking some of the course through this section, Lawley and Centreville. Riders from all over the state entered. Many spectators followed the run. The noon-day check was held at Centreville where a delicious dinner was served them. This run started and ended in Selma, Ala.

Mr. Willard Shoults won the State Championship Trophy. This was indeed a beautiful Trophy. Mr. Millard Reynolds having won the Club Trophy. Other winners of trophies in this run were Mr. Clarence Gray of Montgomery, Ala. Mr. Delmas Meears of Montgomery, Ala., Sgt. Ken Ingle of Montgomery, Ala., two fellows from Dothan, names unknown. A trophy for the 125 class (name unknown) and the Sportsmanship Trophy—the highest honor of all—was won by Mr. and trophy. He is a good sport in all Tommie Odum of Montgomery, Ala.

Tommie really deserved this honor that he does and always has a very pleasing, smiling expression. He rode many miles of this run with a flat tire and finally ran miles on just the rim. On the last 10 miles of the run some of the spectators knowing of Tommie's misfortune in the run met him with a wheel and tire.

Much credit is due the fellows that put on this run. It was a well marked one and a run that the fellows really enjoyed.

Mrs. Folsum Henderson worked hard and tirelessly to make this run the success that it was, and she, too, deserves much credit. The score card was kept neat and up to the minute as each fellow checked in, thereby, making the awarding of the trophies much sooner to the winners.

Things We See And Hear

(By "Tuck")

Well, keeds, looks like we've got some football team this year, doesn't it? Five up and five down; that's not a bad average in my book. Is it possible that we might go through this year undefeated? Yeh! It is possible, but not very probable.

Looks like "Bounce" (Richard Muncher) is getting up in the world, doesn't it, sport fans? In the game with Jemison he got to kick off for the home team about twice and I might add they weren't bad kicks at that. (Nice going, "Bounce," maybe you can take Derrell's place.) Nope! Then we might not have a tackle.

Last week's hero was David Maddox, Keeds, and this week it's. . . . Well, she's about 5 ft. 7½ inches tall, weighs about 120 lbs. (Has cat eyes, I do believe.) She was a brunette, only she peroxided her hair and it hasn't all come out yet. And. . .she's a Junior this year. (That one's kinda difficult, isn't it?) Well, I'll make it easy. She's very fond of animals and boys, so I've heard.

Well, the report cards have come and gone. (Thank goodness!) And I must say. . .well, it was like the coming of the white man; not very welcome. You know how it is. See, I do know a little American history.

I'm like the fella that went to Mr. Hicks and ask him why the teacher could give him an "F" just because he hadn't got up all of his assignments. Mr. Hicks said he asked him if he got up all his assignments, and he said, "Well, most of 'em. The trouble is, I got all my assignments. It was just that my history book and I did not see eye to eye on who died, when, where, and why, etc."

Lots of people seem to be worried about the ball game this Friday night with Selma. And then again other sources tell me that we shouldn't worry. Well, personally and frankly, I don't know, but I do know that the "Tigers" are out to win that game (and I might add, it'll be about time, 22 years is a pretty long winning streak and the Clanton boys are out to do something about it.)

ONE OF ALABAMA'S LEADING WEEKLIES

DEDICATED TO SERVE THE CITIZENS OF CHILTON COUNTY AND CENTRAL ALABAMA

VOL. XXVIII THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2nd, 1950 CLANTON, ALABAMA NUMBER 44

Notice To Voters In Beat 11-1

All those voters who vote in Beat 11 will go to Mt. Springs Church to vote next Tuesday instead of Cane Creek, as has been the custom in the past.

In Beat 1, those who are accustomed to voting at Mt. Zion will go to Lay Dam schoolhouse next Tuesday. This information was released by Probate Judge W. L. Parrish Tuesday morning.

TEACHER SITUATION IMPROVING

In general, the teacher situation for the State and Chilton County has shown a definite improvement, according to information received from the office of the local superintendent of education. Increased salaries of teachers have encouraged better trained teachers and have encouraged those in the profession to continue their study. Recent summers have witnessed large numbers of local teachers in attendance at teacher training institutions. This attendance was for the purpose of obtaining higher ranking certificates which would lead to better pay.

As a result, the superintendent pointed out, the average training for the Chilton County teacher has increased considerably within the past few years. For instance, in 1947 we began the year with 53 of the 161 white teachers in rank V (the lowest rank.) This year we started school with only 14 of our 170 teachers in this rank. During the same period the number of teachers with four years of college training increased from 49 to 78. This is a very encouraging improvement in the profession, and is an indication of a desirable improvement in the brand of instruction going on in our public schools. As is the case in all types of work, the better trained the worker, the more efficiently the work is done. Fifty-four and six-tenths percent of the county teachers have college degrees.

Due to increased enrolment, the number of teachers employed in the county is up this year. The Board employs 170 regular white teachers and 11 vocational teachers. There are 37 regular negro teachers with 2 vocational, making a grand total of 220 teachers in the county earning an average of approximately $47,500 per month over a 10-months period. This year, the average classroom teacher in Chilton is drawing approximately $201.50 per month for 10 months.

LUTHER KENDRICK WRITES VOTERS OF COUNTY

To the Citizens of Chilton County:

The time is very near for the voters to select the sheriff for our county. This is a very important office, and I think you voters should consider seriously the qualifications of the two candidates from whom the selection is to be made. As I have said before, the kind of peace and protection that is had in each community depends on the kind of sheriff we have in office. Too, just suppose the hideous crime that was committed in Shelby County a few days ago had occurred in your family. Wouldn't you want a sheriff who had been trained and experienced in law enforcement to handle the case? I say again the sheriff's office is no place for amateurs with the crime wave sweeping our country as it is today.

If you were building a house, would you hire a blacksmith or a carpenter?

You may have heard numerous rumors as to who my deputies or jailor would be. I assure you they are unfounded and without truth. I won't name any one or promise any one a job until after November 7th. In fact, the present jailor is working against me because I wouldn't promise him a job.

I invite your attention to my ad elsewhere in this issue.

If I have failed to see you personally and ask your support I would like to take this means of asking you for your vote and influence, asking you to keep in mind that I served our country honorably during the last World War and I assure you that if I am given the chance I will serve our county honorably as your sheriff.

I would like to thank my many friends throughout the county for the fine cooperation you have given me throughout the campaign.

I am sincerely yours for a better Chilton County.

J. LUTHER KENDRICK.

SCHOOL MUSIC PROGRAMS ON WKLF

The schools of Chilton County invite everyone to tune in with Radio Station WKLF on Sunday afternoons at two o'clock for a series of musical programs being produced by the various schools of the county.

The series began last Sunday when the Chilton County High School Glee Club put on a very interesting program under the direction of Mrs. Lois T. Mims. The series will continue on the following schedule:

November 5 — Chilton County Training School.
November 12 — Isabella.
November 19 — Cooper.
November 26 — Baker.
December 3 — Collins Chapel.
December 10 — Jemison.
December 17 — Jemison Colored.
December 24 — Chilton County High School.
January 7 — Enterprise.
January 14 — New Convert.
January 21 — Concord.
January 28 — Stanton.
February 4 — Thomas Jr.
February 11 — Clanton Colored.
February 18 — Clanton Elementary.

More programs will be added to the above schedule, since many of the schools have not been contacted.

These programs will not represent the finest in musical entertainment, but will represent the efforts of our own average boys and girls. They are not presented as examples of musical perfection, but are presented to give the people of Chilton County some knowledge of the talent in our own children and the efforts being made to develop this important element in the lives of our future citizens. Be sure to listen every Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

Celebrates 7th Birthday Party

The home was decorated with fall flowers.

Edwin Carter and Laura Gay entertained the children with games on the lawn.

Editor of Chilton County News:

Because of the fact that so much has been published in the press of Chilton County and Alabama concerning the alleged missing funds of our county and because it has been made to appear that to be a democrat is to be a thief and to be a republican is for that fact a paragon of virtue, I feel moved to say that the history of the conduct of both republicans and democrats is, that there is so much bad in the best of them and so much good in the worst of them that it ill behooves any of them to speak evil of the rest of them. If one is a crook it is his individual perversity and if one is honest and upright it is likewise his individual character, be he republican or democrat. Therefore, I feel that in casting our ballots in the coming election, we should look to the record of the candidate for whom we vote; and if that record is one of honesty, integrity and efficiency, the fact that he is of either political faith should not be held against him. I believe the record will show that many of those charged with fraud in the recent examiners report of the Commissioners Court, were formerly, if not now, voting the republican ticket and some possibly worked for and dealt with the county during republican administrations. So, I say, let's quit charging one with crime or with being criminally inclined because he is of some political affilliation or because he belongs to some one of the religious faiths or lodge, club or society and regard every individual by his individual character.

CLANTON BEATS SELMA FOR FIRST TIME IN 22 YEARS

(By BOBBY TUCKER)

Well, folks, you might say it was just anybody's game; but me. . .well, I guess I was too much for the home team. Anyhow, the Tigers beat Selma and it took the whole A-team to do it. And, I might add, Selma is far from a pushover.

The Tigers kicked off to Selma in the first of the game and Derryl Bannister got off a long beautiful kick to put Selma deep in her own territory. Crane made Selma's first T.D. by snagging a long pass from Tabby Beatty and ran all the way, which was about 50 yards. Also in the first quarter of play Royce Seales went over his own left guard for Clanton's first T.D. Derryl Bannister kicked the extra point for Clanton and kicked off to Parrish.

In the second quarter of play both Clanton and Selma scored, but neither team could convert the extra point. Royce Seales made a beautiful run for Clanton over his right guard and went through the whole Selma team for a 55-yard touchdown. Franklin Chester plowed over his own left tackle for about five yards. This ended the scoring for both teams but it was still an exciting ball game all the way to the alst second of play. The game ended with a scor of 13-12 in favor of the underdogs for the first time in 22 straight years.

I never saw the Tigers fight like they did Friday night, but I sure hope to see them do it many more times this season.

VOTE FOR HOSPITAL TAX AMENDMENT ON SPECIAL BALLOT NOVEMBER 7th

1. The amount of the tax is only 4 mills. This is levied on taxable property only. This tax will be self limited in a period of three or four years time and is for construction and maintenance of the hospital.

2. Under the Federal grant the county is only to furnish one-sixth of the total expense of construction and the remainder is furnished by the State and Federal Government.

3. This hospital will be owned and operated by the citizens of Chilton County. It will be modern, up to date in equipment and personnel for all needs.

4. This hospital will serve the needs of both white and colored and all reputable hospital insurance will be accepted by it.

5. A new hospital is badly needed for Chilton County as the present hospital cannot continue to operate later than 1952 because of existing laws governing hospitals and Chilton County will be without any hospital facilities if this amendment is not passed.

6. The exact site of the new hospital will be determined by the State Planning Board.

Natural Gas Revenue Bonds Sell For 3.077 Percent

The Clanton Water Works and Gas Board and City officials sold the $540,000 Natural Gas Revenue Bonds last Thursday to the best bidder for 3.077 percent.

Bidders from New York, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Cincinnati, Nashville, Birmingham and Montgomery were represented. The sale was at auction and the last and best bid was a net interest cost to the City of 3.077 percent. A bond bidder who was present at the sale stated: "This is the best price received by any municipality with the population of 15,000 in the State." Such is the confidence in the growth and possibilities of Clanton as shown through the bond buyers who were present here last week.

Mayor Jones in a statement said: "The low interest rate shows conclusively that the bond buyers have great faith in the soundness of the project, and in the future of the City of Clanton."

Five carloads of pipe from Bethlehem Steel have already been shipped to Clanton for the natural gas mains and a representative of the Transcontinental Gas Line is here ready to join the local system to the cross country pipe line, which crosses the county just north of Verbena.

It is hoped the project can be completed within four months under good weather conditions.

Bob Windham Wins Decision In Tax Fight

In the appeal to the Supreme Court as to whether restaurant owners were obligated to the state for sales tax on meals consumed by employees, the Supreme Court decided with the restaurant owners. This case was filed by Robert L. Windham who operates the City Grill here.

Mr. Windham asked for a declaratory judgement against the State Revenue Department on grounds that food given employees should be considered as operating expenses.

His case was backed by the Alabama Restaurant Association.

I am for Old-Age Pensions, first, last and always.

I am for 12 months pay for school teachers.

I am for free lunches for school children.

I am for putting the sales tax on the wholesaler to collect instead of the merchant. That would take the tax agents off the road and save the taxpayers two to three million dollars annually.

I am for exempting everything that is a necessity of life from sales tax.

I will not pass any local bills without first submitting them to the people.

I will not vote any increase in taxes.

I am for exempting wives of Veterans from poll tax.

These things I promise to work for if you will send me to Montgomery to represent you in the State Legislature.

DEMOCRAT PROSPERITY

The American people have known more prosperity and the conveniences that go along with it for the past years under the guidance of the Democratic party than ever before in history.

It is not by accident that we have better roads in Chilton County, better schools, better bridges, better law enforcement, etc. It is because we have enjoyed better leadership. Government by the people and for the people.

Our forefathers fought for Freedom in 1776 and American freeman's votes have kept Freedom ever since. This Freedom and what we are prone to call "the American way of life," has reached a new high in abundant living during the Democratic administration of your Government. Thinking men and women will go to the polls November 7th and vote the Democratic ticket to keep this way of life.

Be not guided by idle rumors scattered about by weak and rundown politicians. Study the candidates who will administer your government for the next four years. Look at their records. Then vote for the man who you think will be able to accomplish most for our county.

HUMANITY FREE, NEED NOT FAIL

We are living in a time of decision; whether we shall live in an organized society ready for peace and to be mentally and morally alive is yet to be determined.

This cannot come unless our children are educated to such an extent that they will understand how to become members of a world community and fitted to grow up and become good citizens. Only in a free world can science, education and culture bear their finest fruits. This freedom is not just freedom from aggression, but includes self-confidence, initiative, character and an eternal desire to be free and self-sustaining.

As we celebrate National Education Week, November 5-9, let us think in terms of improving our spiritual, physical, and mental standards as well as our economic welfare. Educational opportunities must keep abreast of economic opportunities; if not, "the inventor would become the victim of his inventions, the conqueror of his conquests."

Wisdom was the conditioning factor in formulating the principles in which a Free America became great, and it is one of the supporting pillars of our bid for freedom today.

The time has come for us to redouble our efforts to support this, our basic tool of construction. Each dollar spent on training the mind of a child is worth about one-hundred dollars in the economic world.

How can a child grow up to understand and cope with the problems of an atomic age? Public schools have the greater part of the responsibility, while the home, the church and the community share the rest. In some cases the school must overcome some of these factors because of a deficiency in the envvironment. A child from a home of "understanding parents" makes greater progress than a child from a home of adverse conditions.

Education is not just acquiring facts, but learning to make use of the abilities, which are God-given.

Parents and friends of school children are urged to visit the schools and see what their children are doing, how they are doing these things and to become aware of the problems which are facing the leaders of this enterprise.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Wonder what Burke Allison and Mrs. Nuss who run The Bargain Store had for lunch last Wednesday. All afternoon a sign hung on the door: "Out To Lunch."

One of our favorite hobbies is gathering similies. Don't know why but a pretty simile fasinates us. We didn't hear or read this one but one who did hear it told us about it and we give credit to Mrs. Joe Mullins. "A blend of humanity, like God's autumn colors." Now doesn't that provoke thought? Just thought we'd pass it along to you.

We have seen this story in several publications lately, but here is a version taken from Hy Vance's Cold Bin:

THE CHIEF SHOVELER sometimes gets into trouble by repeating an A. Godfrey gag that's an antique. This one had to do with a counting of votes in Alabama following an election. The committee suddenly came upon a Republican vote and debated for a time on what to do about it. The final decision was to let it ride. After several thousand more ballots they ran across another Republican vote, whereupon the old judge who was chairman of the committee spouted: "Throw 'em both out—the son-of-a-gun voted twice."

Cafe owners can give Bob Windham, Clanton's City Grill, credit for a well done in his fight with the State Revenue Department against restaurant owners paying tax on meals served to employees. The Alabama Supreme Court ruled last week with Bob that under a 1947 amendment to the sales tax law that restaurant owners can't be held responsible for tax on meals given employees. Bob was backed by the Alabama Restaurant Association.

Mr. Robert E. Head of Route 2, Verbena, wants to pass along some information that may be of value to some old people who have had trouble with their Old Age Insurance benefits. Mr. Head had tried for a long time to get his old age benefit check coming but with no results. This week he received a letter from Mr. M. C. Folmar he now can receive benefits and has only to fill out a blank that was mailed him. Mr. Head wants others to profit by his experience so we're passing along to those who have tried and failed—try, try again.

Ed Bowden Grocery and Service Station at South Clanton can claim a "First" in one thing. They are the first to have a drive-in bell attachment at their place of business. When a customer drives up in front of their place and no one is out front to see them a bell rings in the building announcing the visitor. We couldn't tell you how it operates—maybe with mirrors or something. But it's a fact you can't slip up on the Bowden's these days without them knowing it.

Hey! Why wouldn't that work in homes? When the bell rang you could run to your favorite peep-hole and see if it was friend or foe. If it was foe you could lay low and make like everyone was away from home except the cat. Wonder if Ed hasn't given us an idea there?

Received a card this week from Red Sherrod. He's been to Santa Claus, Ind., again. The postcard had a picture of the big Santa Claus statue, the only fully colored statue of Santa Claus in the world. It stands in front of the main lodge at Santa Claus, Ind. Hope Red tells Santa Claus about us.

On this page this week is the first of a series of articles on the Ten Commandments. The articles are by A. T. Hickman, well-known and popular pastor of the Temple Church. Rev. Hickman has endeared himself to thousands of our readers through his articles in this paper and we hope you enjoy the series beginning today.

No Other Gods

The first commandment in the "Decalogue" is, "Thou shalt have no other gods before Me." (Ex. 20:3). The reason for this is that God is to be first and supreme in our lives. There is no real God beside Him; all other so-called gods are idols. They are the works of men's hands. Having eyes, they see not; having ears, they hear not; having hands, they handle not. Why then would men worship that which has no power to save or help in any way? When the apostle Paul went to Athens he found an altar erected to every known god, and also one with this inscription, "To The Unknown God." Paul was ready and happy to declare unto the Athenians the God whom they knew not.

A. T. HICKMAN

Besides all of the idols in the world that are considered as gods by those who worship them; there are other gods people hold dear too. Some people make a god of themselves. Their own evil and selfish heart become the god of their whole life. With them, self is first in everything. No consideration given to anything else. King Saul listened more to the voice of his own heart than he did the voice of God. Pride and self-will was his god. The time came that he cried to the True God, but He would not hear him, for he had listened too long to the voice of his own proud heart.

Many people allow their work or business to become first, last, and always in their lives. They have other gods before them. Parents often make idols of their children; and other kinfolks also become idols to some. It is no wonder that Jesus said, "He that loveth father or mother more than Me; and he that loveth son or daughter more than Me is not worthy of Me. And if any man forsake not all, even deny himself, he cannot be my disciple." . . . The dollar that one has, or the one he wants has become the god of millions. But we should keep in mind the words of Jesus, "No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." To thousands, sports, fame, the desire for the glory of mankind are gods.

Friends, all of these things must be put aside, and the true God accepted if we are to be saved. "Look unto Me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else." (Isa. 45:22).

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

It has been well said that there are no illegitimate infants, only infants of illegitimate parents. It has been said of delinquent juveniles that children are delinquent only because parents or environment have made them so.

One of the world's leading psychiatrists, earnestly endeavoring to find out why bad boys are bad, exhaustively studied hundreds of cases. The doctor collected a vast amount of data on each case — past history, family, home conditions, and by way of personal interviews. The conclusion of this eminent psychiatrist was that a delinquent breakdown is an escape from an emotional situation which for the particular individual becomes, temporarily at least, unbearable. This intolerable emotional situation, declaredd the doctor, almost always arises within the boy's own home and centers around his relationship with his parents.

Five main motives for juvenile crime were listed by the doctor. The most frequent, and present in about half of the cases, is the avoidance-excitement motive in which the boy throws himself into a round of escapades to keep away an anxiety too poignant to be faced. The second motive is spite or retaliation and usually directed against the parents. The noncooperating motive is an attempt, often deliberate, to secure removal from the home. Delinquent behavior also begins, in some cases, as a somewhat perverse method of attracting the notice of unaffectionate parents and testing their loyalty. The final motive listed, found in about one case in five, is the compensating - for - inferiority type.

"The problem of delinquency is in great measure the problem of the unsatisfactory family," declared the psychiatrist. In other words, it is not juvenile delinquency but parental delinquency that is responsible.

FARMERS UP AGAINST REAL PROBLEM

Chilton County farmers know they are up against a real problem on their farms—finding a way to get cash income out of land not in cotton, fruit, or truck crops.

One of the best ways of using this land is to produce pastures and corn for livestock.

Green grazing in winter will help use more land and at the same time improve it. The goal of every farmer should be to put to use all productive acres — those in row crops, pasture crops, feed crops, and forest.

In making plans do not overlook the help of P.M.A. practices. As never before, farmers in 1950 should study their entire farm carefully and make sure that fullest possible use is made of P.M.A. practices to improve the land use program.

Give more attention to those practices that will help establish permanent farm programs—such as pastures.

Criticism of Others Is Depressing

DO YOU GET a certain kind of enjoyment out of criticism—the criticism you expend on others? Well, you may think you do, but check up on yourself a little later. Your emotional attitude will compare to that of the man who takes a drink to stimulate him. Sure, he feels stimulated momentarily. But since alcohol is really a depressant, he feels even lower before the effect really wears off than he did before he took the drink.

Carnegie

Mrs. Mary Ellis, Carthage, Missouri, says three years ago she was not a particularly happy young woman. She didn't know why, for she had a good husband, two nice youngsters that any parent could be proud of, good-looking, good in their studies and the picture of health. They could live as well as anyone in their community. There was nothing to make her unhappy so she should have been very happy. But the fact remained, she wasn't.

One day she attended a lecture in her church. The speaker made a remark that stayed with her after she got home. He said that people who criticized others, just as a matter of conversation, were jealous people.

That evening she sat on their porch with her husband. Friends, neighbors and casual acquaintances passed. She remarked on every one of them. Not one escaped her criticism. Yes, she found some fault with every passerby that she knew anything at all about. She thought then that she was merely acquainting her husband with those people, as he didn't mix with people as much as she did.

Did I say she criticized everybody? Well, there were two who passed that she didn't criticize. She knew them as well as the others, but she knew, too, that they were a bit lower in the so-called social scale than she was, and she knew that they had much less in the way of material things than she did. No doubt they had faults, but she passed up these people.

All of a sudden, she recalled what the speaker had said about criticism and jealousy. Her remarks were jealous remarks, and they did not increase her happiness. She could see that plainly now. She suddenly became bereft of conversation. The next evening as they sat on the porch, she called her husband's attention to meritorious traits of the people who passed. Not one jealous remark did she make. She went to bed a much happier young woman, and she awoke much more refreshed than she usually did.

OUTSTANDING VETERAN FARM TRAINING

Dan Owens, veteran trainee has done an excellent job of farming since he entered training in December of 1947. He has set out 300 peach trees, sown 12 acres sericea, 12 acres kudzu, two acres alfalfa, and two acres crimson clover for his livestock.

This year he has netted $800.00 from the sale of hogs, and $802.00 from beef cattle sales. He also has five acres cotton which is expected to yield one bale per acre and bring in about $1000.

He has three brood sows and 25 head of cattle on hand, and, by January of 1951, he plans to be ready to change from general farming to beef farming.

One of the natural characteristics of cranberry jelly and other tart fruit jelly is to "weep" after the mold is cut. To prevent this, place cranberry jelly in smaller molds so that all of it will be used up at one meal. Then none will be left to stand and "weep."

This PETTY PACE

By Brown Lee Yates

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT

JUST RETURNED from 10 crowded weeks in Europe—the hotels were full of Princess Margaret's fiances and left-over channel swimmers. It was a whale of a trip—I shared a stateroom with Moby Dick. I covered 30 countries, looking for a ruler willing to talk peace with Stassen.

Here are some of the high spots of my trip: the Alps.

World War III, far from being inevitable, is not even likely—provided we can jump into World War IV and skip III.

I saw practically everyone I wanted to see. I missed Gorgeous Gussie, but Wimbledon is a bit too frosty these mornings for lace panties, and she might have been nipped in the bud. Had short chat with Shaw. He quipped, from his hosptial bed: "Modern medicine is a miracle. Shame to waste it on sick people."

In England, I talked with cabinet and opposition members. Opinion ranges from "Labor stinks!" to "The Tories stink!" Couldn't get odds on either side next election, so kept my money in my pocket. But they took my pocket to stabilize the currency. I predict Labor will win, followed closely by the Tories and the St. Louis Cardinals.

In the Netherlands, Prime Minister Drees told me what his country will do for North Atlantic defense, but he didn't know I was there, under the table, and spoke in Dutch. In Belgium, I stumbled into the royal riots and found myself on Leopold's throne. I got up to get another cushion and someone else sat down. Just then, a stately gentleman who had befriended me 10 years ago in Antwerp—Prime Minister Paul-Henri Spaak—swept into the room, embraced me, and threw me out of the palace.

In Germany I talked to a lot of Germans and in France I talked to a lot of Frenchmen. Note the prevalence of Germans in Germany and Frenchmen in France. Each is outnumbered in his native land by only the Americans. Under astute questioning, Charles de Gaulle unbosomed himself to me. "Keep your shirt on, Charles," I advised.

Italy's foreign minister, Count Carlo Sforza, had me to lunch at his villa. Things look better in Italy than I had anticipated. I hadn't expected lunch.

* * *

SOME PERSONS are cheered no end by all the gruesome details. Count the folks you know whose conversational lore is smack up to date and replete with accounts of all the broken legs, colic and contagion, wife beating, strangulation, blood letting, mortuary proceeding and moral deviation of the town. Count them, and concede the championship to my Aunt Gee-Gee.

So preoccupied is she with others' bereavement, business bamboozlement, and amorous skulduggery that she has no time for consideration of self, especially concerning romance, which has bypassed Gee-Gee. She had a swain once who kept her mouth stuffed with popcorn to prevent her rehearsing the local agonies. She was busting to tell him how Effie Spindleshanks trapped the traveling snake oil salesman into marriage by pretending the public library was her palatial home, only to find he had two other wives.

Gee-Gee finally threw herself upon her beau's lap, anchored a foot to a rung of the chair and hastily recounted every bone fracture in the county. The young man never came back, for her description of Mr. Steepbelly's fractured skull was pretty graphic and gory.

Gee-Gee keeps book on the sick. The bedridden she sends stacks of sympathy cards. Outpatients she corners with little clucks of regret and extravagant words of sorrow. All the ailing get magnificent publicity while Gee-Gee sympathizes.

When someone dies, she beats the body to the undertaker's so she can sign the register and observe the deceased first. She can't see to write as well as formerly and signs her name with a rubber stamp which she wears on a ribbon around her neck. Ofttimes she sits in the funeral parlor awaiting completion of an embalming. She has been known to "set in" before rigormortis.

Such a busy dabbler in distress is Gee-Gee that if pity and rapt attention to affliction ever pay off, she'll be ripe to turn professional. If the town council should create a new office—misfortune recorder—she's well qualified for the job. She minds other people's mishaps as diligently as the devout mind their beads. The crack of a collar bone would sound as sweet to her as the crack of DiMaggio's bat on horsehide to a baseball fan.

SOW DUTCH AND LADINO CLOVER FOR HOGS

Farmers grow with Dutch or Ladino Clover, alone or in mixtures, or crimson clover, vetch and oats for hogs to graze while eating corn in the field. In the summer they may be on kudzu, alfalfa, or otootan soybeans.

If hogs get the right green grazing and proper mineral supplements, about 100 pounds of pork are produced for each seven bushels of corn they eat.

Producers report that they are getting from 500 to 1,000 pounds or more of pork per acre from corn when hogs have good green legume pastures to eat along with the corn.

THREE WOMEN sat on the summer hotel porch.

"Yes," said one of them, "I can hardly wait now to see Mr. Bascom. He's coming tonight to take me home. I hardly know how I've ever managed to remain away from James all this time. Really James and I are a ridiculously devoted couple."

A little self-conscious laugh rippled over her full face and gently shook her plump shoulders. "I'm awfully dependent upon Mr. Bascom," she went on. "Indeed, he quite makes a baby of me. It's really beautiful isn't it, how a great strong man loves to pet the little woman who belongs to him?"

She glanced at Miss Winters, the only unmarried woman in the group, who being thus appealed to, said, "Yes, I suppose it's beautiful," but her tone was not one of conviction.

"Dear me, Mrs. Bascom, you shouldn't complain of your brief separation from Mr. Bascom," remarked the woman with a little girl in her lap. "You have been here only two weeks, and I've been away from home nearly all the summer. I never have done it before, and wouldn't this time, if Mr. Collins hadn't just insisted that baby and I needed the country air. But thank goodness, he's coming tonight too."

"Edward's the most unselfish man that ever lived, I do believe. I know he's been absolutely desolate this summer. I really think the loneliness of our apartment has effected his health. He expected to take a vacation and come up in August, but he simply couldn't get away. He's a remarkable business man. No one in the office can take his place."

She hugged her little girl and turned to Miss Winters with a smile. "Isn't it wonderful how some men will work for their wives and children?"

"It certainly is," responded Miss Winters, mechanically.

"I often say to Edward, that I can't understand why some rich girl didn't marry him for his good looks. He's the handsomest man, Miss Winters! Sometimes I wonder how ever he happened to pick out poor little me."

"My husband is extremely fine looking too," said Mrs. Bascom, "and he has such a brilliant mind. Indeed, his intellect quite overshadows mine, and to tell you the truth, he's a bit masterful in his way now and then. But we women need some one to lean on. We realize that our husbands know better than we do about many important matters, so we ought to defer to them. Don't you think so, Miss Winters?"

"I do," agreed Mrs. Collins, before Miss Winters had time to frame an answer. "I say to Edward, that he must decide everything for baby and me. He's the captain of our little family craft. Dear me, Miss Winters, it must be hard for you sometimes not to have a man to assume responsibilities. But, of course, unmarried women are quite independent nowadays," she added with patronizing kindness.

"Oh I manage to rub along," returned Miss Winters, but she rose from her seat and strolled away. Although she knew herself to be a busy and happy woman, she could not help feeling solitary in the presence of such enthusiastic wives.

A brisk tramp around the lake brought back her usual good spirits and it was with only a mild envy that she saw, as she neared the hotel at dusk, one of her companions of an hour or two earlier, hurrying down the driveway to meet the village motor-bus. She paused in the shadow of a tree in order not to intrude upon what she felt would be a tender reunion between husband and wife.

She was startled to see a fat baldheaded man alight from the bus and give Mrs. Collins a most casual kiss. "Well, I got here at last," he said jovially. "I thought I'd run up and see if you'd like to stay during autumn. You can just as well as not. I'm getting along tiptop."

Was this the devoted husband who was pining away in the city for the wife of his bosom? Miss Winters asked herself this question with inward laughter.

Then she saw Mrs. Bascom striding down the path with a red headed little man following her as meekly as a pet lamb. Could that be the intellectual giant upon whose wisdom his wife depended for her guidance? Miss Winters sank upon the grass and rolled about in a paroxysm of mirth.

"And I was almost sorry for my state of single blessedness," she said to herself as she rose and went toward the hotel in joy and thankfulness.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

By Mrs. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

WHEN A BABY IS BORN far from his grandparents' home, often one of the big events of his first year is the trip to visit relatives. Considering that a new husband usually quails at this introduction to the family of which he has become a part, one might think a baby would be overcome by it. Well, some babies don't take it too well, but others seem to thrive on meeting a lot of strange and admiring adults. But whether or not the visit is a delight for all or a trial to the baby and his parents depends as much on the months that have preceeded this first away-from-home adventure as on the actual circumstances the baby encounters.

Recently we saw for the first time a little fellow of eight months who seemed to make each person he met feel specially liked. "I'm glad you're my relative," Johnny's smile seemed to say and then he'd go off into the gayest chatter about the delights of his baby world which he wanted you to share. In a succession of calls from relatives, neighbors and friends he greeted at least 25 different persons in this joyous fashion. He took it for granted that everyone meant well by him and was frightened only once.

What was back of this assurance? Perfect health and intelligent care had been his good fortune, and a whole lifetime, even though it was only two thirds of a year in length, of being loved by his parents and of feeling enormously important to them. There wasn't an ounce of apprehensiveness in Johnny's mind, so far at least. This expectancy of good showed particularly in the way he accepted discomfort as being just part of the adventure. A borrowed little cart proved much too large so that his body was jostled fantastically — but Johnny thought it was fun. "Oh, well, these folks aren't used to babies but they mean well," he seemed to be thinking, then he'll give you an enchanting simile, like an "A" for effort.

But now to more practical aspects of taking a baby visiting. A lot of learning will be an inevitable part of this new experience, so try not to make any radical changes in his personal life. For example, it was about time when Johnny left home for him to change from his formula to cow's milk. But this doctor suggested that his mother wait until after they were back home again to introduce any diet changes.

The amount of his food was kept the same, too. That is, Johnny had been for some time on a self demand four hour schedule. This was maintained, though the actual time of feedings varied considerably from day to day. He didn't have food offered as a pacifier, as used to happen when several adults were looking after a baby. Naps, too, were undistrubed, no matter who might call, though Johnny obligingly took several short sleeps during the day instead of two long ones as had been his custom at home. In other words, there was give and take—Johnny adapted himself to strange surroundings and the adults adapted themselves to a baby's basic needs.

FARMERS URGED USE LIME

Lime is a "shot in the arm" to white clover pastures. The A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station found that clover and grass growth were stimulated by the following rates of lime: Two to three tons per acre on heavy-textured acid soils, one to two tons on creek bottom, and one and one-half tons on sandy soils.

Lime applied to pasture plots fertilized with phosphate and potash increased the amount of forage by an average of 63 per cent. Increases ranged from 11 to over 100 per cent.

Lime improved pastures on acid soils in many ways and on some soil has proved to be necessary for the establishment and good growth of white clover, the station found. Lime neutralized soil acids, stimulates the proper rotting of organic matter, and supplies calcium for the growing plants. It generally increases the efficiency of fertilizers and improves the feed value of forage. Clovers on limed soils usually release more nitrogen for use by the grasses in the pasture.

Practically all pasture lands in Chilton County need lime.

SOW DUTCH AND LADINO CLOVER FOR HOGS

With green pastures and corn many farmers are growing more hogs.

Farmers grow with Dutch or Ladino Clover, alone or in mixtures, or crimson clover, vetch and oats for hogs to graze while eating corn in the field. In the summer they may be on kudzu, alfalfa, or otootan soybeans.

If hogs get the right green grazing and proper mineral supplements, about 100 pounds of pork are produced for each seven bushels of corn they eat.

Producers report that they are getting from 500 to 1,000 pounds or more of pork per acre from corn when hogs have good green legume pastures to eat along with the corn.

GREEN GRAZING NECESSARY IN HOG PROGRAM

Green grazing is necessary for a money-making hog program. Green grazing is important because it makes hogs healthier and cuts the amount of concentrated dry feed needed for cheapest gains.

With the exception of cholera, brucellosis, and other contagious diseases, probably more than 90 per cent of all hog troubles are caused by faulty feeding and management. Plenty of good green grazing from birth to market will do away with most of these troubles. You hardly ever see sick hogs where they are carried continuously from birth to market on good green grazing.

Research has shown that 10 to 15 per cent of the corn and 40 to 50 per cent of the protein supplement can be saved when market hogs have plenty of green grazing.

Just as growing boys need more meat and milk and eggs in their diet than do mature men, so do growing pigs need more protein supplement in their ration than older hogs. The rate of gain will be stepped up by the supplement.

If pigs are brought to weaning in vigorous condition from a balanced ration, which included animal protein and green grazing, they will make reasonably good gains from weaning to market on a full feed of corn, mineral mixture, and plenty of tender succulent green grazing. But when protein supplement is added free choice, pigs will average gaining about one-fourth pound more daily and average going to market at about three weeks earlier. On an average they will eat 25 to 30 pounds of protein supplement per 100 pounds of gain.

In short, for fastest and most economical gains, pigs on a full feed of corn, minerals and pasture should have a protein supplement until they reach a weight of 75 to 100 pounds. From then to top weights most economical gains can be made by hand-feeding supplement at the rate of one pound to about 20 pounds of grain eaten. From about 75 to 100 pounds on to tops, cheaper but slower gains, with some lack of uniformity of finish, will be made on a full feed of corn, pasture and minerals. It is emphasized, however, that the legume pasture must be young, tender, succulent and plentiful.

Pigs are not choicy about their green grazing. Alfalfa, Ladino and white clover, crimson clover, kudzu, and other legumes are considered the best. Young tender green oats are almost as good for pigs as alfalfa.

ESTABLISH SAFE TERRACE OUTLETS

During the coming weeks, many farmers will be turning their attention to terracing for control of surplus run-off water on their farms.

"The most serious weakness in many terracing jobs," says S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist, "has been the failure to provide enough outlets for safe disposal of the water from the terrace ends."

He adds that terrace outlets may be either meadows, disposal areas, woods, or well sodded pastures. All major draws should be used for outlets since it isn't usually a good practice to run terraces across them. The bottoms of these draws should be established to meadows of perennial legumes or grasses to carry off all surplus water coming from terraces.

The little honoree was so very cute and happy dressed in a majorette suit of satin material in the Chilton County High School colors of Orange and blue. The suit was a birthday gift from her parents. One of the highlights of the party was when each guest had the thrill of taking a horseback ride on Toby. Toby is owned by Mr. Jarrett and he was there to enjoy the fun with the children.

BY..... HELEN HALE

IF YOU FEEL that your hose don't give you the long wear you feel they should, then start giving them judicious care which will keep them going to a gallant old age.

Three pairs of hose purchased in the same color will give the same amount of wear as nine pairs, each in a different color. One stocking always wears much longer than the other, and it can be teamed with several other hose, if they're alike in color.

Remove all rings, bracelets and ornaments from hands and fingers before putting on hose. Smooth fingernails with an emery board, too, so that there can be no catches in the hose.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Chicken Yorkshire
(Serves 6)

2 cups diced, cooked chicken
2 eggs
½ cup drippings, melted
1 cup milk
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspooin salt
Leftover gravy

Place chicken in bottom of greased casserole and set in moderate oven to heat. Beat eggs, drippings and milk together. Sift dry ingredients together and add to liquid ingredients. Beat until free from lumps. (Batter will be quite thin.) Pour over chicken and bake in a moderate (350 degree F.) oven for 30 minutes. Serve from baking dish with leftover gravy.

If the back garters come at the opening of the double hem, sew this up.

When drawing on the stocking, roll down to the toe and draw upwards easily. Before attaching the hose to garters, check seam line and straighten, if necessary.

For darning thread, choose a thread which is a little darker than the hose. The thread works in slightly lighter when you use it.

Your darning egg will be easier to use if one half of it is painted light, and the other dark. Use the dark side on light stocking and the light for dark stockings to enable you to see better.

CLANTON PLAYS LAST HOME GAME

The Clanton Tigers covered themselves with glory last Friday night when they defeated Selma by the score of 13 to 12, but this distinction is all in the past as one of the hardest games of the season is coming up this Friday night. Thompson High School of Siluria comes here for the last football game of the season on the local field.

Thompson has won from Clanton for the last few years, and again this year they have another strong team. Clanton will be out to hold the score to a reasonable low figure.

Tickets on sale at Calloway's, Alred's and Upchurch Drug Companies.

HOMECOMING AT ISABELLA

The annual homecoming day will be observed at Isabella High School on Friday, November 3, 1950. All friends and former students of the school have a cordial invitation.

The Harvest Queen, who will be selected on Hallowe'en, will reign as "Miss Homecoming."

The football team will play Plantersville High School.

Alvin B. Foshee Writes Voters

To the People of the County:

I am a candidate for the office of County Solicitor of your county in the General Election next Tuesday on the Democratic ticket. You elected me to this office eight years ago.

It is the sworn duty of this officer to prosecute and to aid and assist the Circuit Solicitor, and the Attorney General of the State, in prosecuting all violators of the Criminal Laws of the State. He represents the State and the people of your county in all criminal matters. This is no small task in a county as large as ours.

During my term of office I have handled the prosecution of 3,111 cases in the Inferior Court, or the Chilton County Law and Equity Court. I have handled, with the help of the Circuit Solicitor, Mr. Huddleston, 683 criminal cases in the Circuit Court over which the Circuit Judge presides. I have presented and assisted in presenting more than 600 cases to the grand juries. I have represented the State in numerous condemnation cases of automobiles transporting whiskey. I have represented the State in all Habeus Corpus cases in the courts to set bonds, and I have been called on by various county officials for legal assistance and advice from time to time. I have closed and kept closed honky-tonks within the borders of the county and have kept the gambling devices eliminated from our county.

I have endeavored at all times to be kind and considerate of all I found in trouble. My office has always been open, and I have been ready and willing at all times to council and to advise all who called upon my office. I have tried to be the Solicitor and friend of all whom I met. This will be my policy if reelected to this office.

I have personally called upon many of you in your homes, your businesses, and about the county, asking and soliciting your vote and support. Many have openly expressed themselves as confident and satisfied with the service I have rendered as your Solicitor. This has been greatly appreciated.

I make only one promise to do my best with my experience to continue to make you an able, fair and impartial Solicitor, if you see fit to vote for me, and to keep the county a good one in which to live and to raise your family.

Your continued confidence, good will, support and vote will ever be appreciated.

Respectfully,
A. B. (Buster) FOSHEE

CABBAGE AND LETTUCE FOR FEBRUARY SETTING

An outdoor plant bed or row will eliminate the trouble and uncertainty of trying to grow cabbage and lettuce plants indoors.

"However," says J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service garden specialist, "protection from the cold will probably be necessary for an outdoor bed in the central and northern parts of the state."

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From J. Risor Camryn of Seattle, Wash.: I remember when every family had its own little coffee mill and roasted and ground coffee at home. A favorite dish was parched field corn, ground in the cofee mill and eaten cold with milk or cream. I can also remember the first packaged coffee—already roasted. It was put up by a firm called Arbuckle Brothers, and the name was "Ariosa Brand."

From Mrs. O. M. Edwards of Elbert, Colo.: I remember going to school in the Indian territory where there were no school boards to hire a teacher—nor were there any books to buy. Those who went to school paid a dollar a month for the privilege. We took what we could get in the way of books—any kind would do. We "larned" to cipher by doin' it. 'Ritin' was copied on slates from a form on the blackboard. For our lunches we had a 'hunk' of corn bread and a hard-boiled egg. Sometimes we had biscuits spread with wild plum butter. In the fall we had fried quail. By butcherin' time we had hog meat. Some doin's!

RAYMOND MIMS WRITES VOTERS OF COUNTY

RAYMOND P. MIMS

To the Voters of Chilton County:

May I take this means of soliciting your vote and influence in my candidacy for county solicitor. I have made an effort to cover the entire county and see every one. I have not seen you all; it is difficult to catch every one at home during this busy season.

I have had the honor of serving the people of Chilton County for more than three years as judge of the Inferior Law Court from 1939 to 1943. During that time I rendered decisions in more than 1,300 cases. In the capacity as judge I endeavored to render decisions according to the law and evidence in the case. If the voters will make inquiry into the manner in which I conducted this court I am confident you will not find any criticism, or that I favored any person in my devisions.

When I returned to Chilton County at the end of World War II after 34 months service in the Army, I was selected to serve the veterans of Chilton County and their dependents as service commissioner with the State Department of Veterans Affairs. I served in this capacity for three years. I invite any person to examine my record with that department. At all times I endeavored to give the best service possible and those that I served will tell you that I was subject to call at all times.

Since graduating from the University Law School I have practiced law in Tuscaloosa and Clanton, with the exception of the time spent as Judge of the Inferior Law Court and as service commissioner.

I am fully qualified and capable to serve you as county solicitor, and since my worthy opponent has served you for eight years without opposition, I do not hesitate to offer myself as candidate and request that you now give me this opportunity. Your vote and influence in your community will be appreciated.

RAYMOND P. MIMS.

CHILTON COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL (COLORED)

Dear Readers:

Activities for the week of October 16-20. We are using this method to thank the many patrons and friends for making the plate supper a success that was given by the P.-T.A. Tuesday night. After paying off all expenses the P.-T.A. will make a profit from this one affair of $111.34. Special thanks are given Mrs. Maggie Darby, vice-president, and her daughter, Mrs. May Bell Williams, secretary, for preparing all the food except that the patrons sent ready prepared.

The faculty and student body were very fortunate to have our own County Superintendent of Education, Mr. J. H. Boockholdt, be our guest speaker in assembly Wednesday. After telling a few jokes to place his audience in the proper frame of mind for his address he spoke from the subject, "Is My Education Worth While?" This address was enjoyed by all.

We are very happy to make known to you the children enrolled in the Chilton County Training School who made honor roll for the first six weeks, are as follows:

Tenth "A" — Annie B. Bethel, Kay F. Browder, Mattie L. Caffey, Mary L. Sunn, Rosie Lanier, Mary E. Persons, Virginia Singleterry, Odessa Waters and Nina F. Wilson.

11th — Elzenia Bethel, Paralee Pasley, Rebecca Smitherman, Fannie Underwood, and Annie M. Williams.

The basketball team, under the direction of its New Coach, Mr. W. H. Bell, will launch a drive to finish paying May and Greene for some equipment. The friendly spirit between the classes is very encouraging.—Virginia Browder, Reporter.

SOCIAL SECURITY FOR FARM WORKERS

Auburn, Ala. — Beginning next January 1, farm workers who are employed 60 days or more in a three-month period by the same farmer will be included in the new Social Security Law.

J. T. Gaillard, A.P.I. Extension Service specialist in farm mechaniaztion, explains that the farmer-employer will deduct social security payments from the wages paid to his employees, add them to his deduction, and pay the combined employer-employee payments each quarter. Other businessmen use this same system under the present law.

"In a few weeks, a general campaign to give farmers full details on the new provisions of the Social Security Law will get underway," reveals Gaillard.

THE N.F.A. FROM CHILTON COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL ATTENDED NATIONAL N.F.A.

(Colored)

The National N.F.A. Convention was the most interesting convention that our group has attended.

There were so many features that offered so much information that can be used around the home and on the farm. There were 1,100 boys attending the convention. We were welcomed to the City of Atlanta, Ga., by a representative of the Mayor of the town. The address of welcome was filled with inspirational and challenging expressions.

The following were the boys who attended the convention:

Arthur Smith, Edgar Browder, Arthur Parker, Paul Moss, Redius Price, Wilbert Price, Lapolean Hicks and Odell McDaniel. These boys made a very interesting report in chapel with songs and short talks.

The N.F.A. is a very broad and fast growing organization for boys taking Vocational Agriculture. There are some of the country's biggest business concerns taking part in helping to make the New Farmers of America more tangible and inviting to the public at large. When we think of a group of on coming young men who will stand at the head of our homes, our schools, our communities, our churches and our outstanding farms, we must help to fit them for the jobs that will fall to their hands. Our work must not fall short of guiding them to GOOD CITIZENSHIP. Help us to support and encourage our New Farmers in doing their very best.—B. T. Whittington, Teacher of Vocational Agriculture.

Go to the polls on Nov. 7th, and vote the Democratic ticket. A cross under the rooster does the job. Gives you men of proven ability who will serve all the people faithfully.

THE CONFEDERATE MONUMENT

Montgomery was "The Cradle of the Confederacy." Delegates from six seceding states met, and organized the Government of the Confederate States of America in 1861. During the Civil War, the troops from Alabama fought, and died gloriously, and it is said that she lost more troops in service in proportion to population than any other state in the South. The Confederate monument was unveiled in December, 1898. It stands on the north lawn of the Capitol grounds.

F.F.A. Report—

Maplesville F.F.A. with Mr. Carlos Owen teacher. The Maplesville F.F.A. chapter is still on the march to better farming and better living.

The club has a full program planned for this year, with the major emphasis put on the livestock farming. Recently five more purebred Duroc gilts were put on the pig chain which brings the total number of registered gilts to nine. Our plans call for a purebred hog on every farm in the Maplesville area.

The boys that have a gilt from the pig chain are: Carter Davis of Stanton, Raymond of Stanton, Billy Perry of Maplesville, Argel Mayfield of Cox Chapel, Leo Hamrick of Maplesville, Wilmer Mathis of Moplesville, Neal Stough of Merchant Crossing, Horace Wilson of Co xChapel and Donald Hayes of Stanton.

Let us not get too busy growing good beef animals and hogs to forget our dairy cows. Milk is one of the most important products in the family menu. So we have got to continue to improve our dairy cows. One purebred Jersey bull has been placed with Donald Hayes of Stanton for public use, and J. W. Bone of Maplesville Route 2, also has a purebred Jersey bull calf from the J. G. Heida Farm, Thorsby, which will be available for public use when it is old enough.

The enrollment in the vocational classes has 61 this year. All boys have joined the F.F.A. Club and are demonstrating that they are ready to do anything that will be of service to the community. The F.F.A. officers this year are: Hillard Smith, president; Walter Taylor, vice-president; Carter Davis, reporter; Leo Hamrick, treasurer; Downey Chappell, secretary; and Donald Hayes, assistant advisor.

All adults are urged to attend the evening school at the vocational agricultural show each Monday night at 7 o'clock. We have a well equipped shop and would like to see everyone in the community use it.

James N. Dennis Awarded Diploma

James N. Dennis was awarded a diploma for the successful completion of a training program of scientific farm management, feeding and sanitation practices, at a graduation ceremony held this week at the New Albany Hotel in Albany, Ga.

Presentation of the diploma was made by J. E. Hinshaw, Sales manager of Purina's Southeastern Division who pointed out that Dennis is now a Graduate Feeding Advisor and for his outstanding work during the course was presented with a class ring by the Ralston Purina Company.

Dennis, who is employed by Dennis Farm Supply, feed dealer, began this specialized training program about 14 months ago, during which time he attended classroom sessions and made several field trips with the instructors where practical demonstrations were made utilizing the latest methods in feeding livestock and poultry. In addition, Dennis was required to complete field work of his own between meetings.

Comparable to on-the-job programs conducted by many industries, the Feeding Advisory Council is directed and sponsored by the Ralston Purina Company for employes of Purina dealers to enable them to serve livestock breeders and poultrymen by assisting them on problems of efficient and economical feeding practices as well as counseling them on sound management and effective farm sanitation methods.

SWINE MANAGEMENT ERRORS ARE COSTLY

Auburn, Ala. — A few mistakes in swine management are costing Alabama hog producers thousands of dollars a year in reduced productivity, according to G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. Extension Service hog production specialist.

He points out that research has proved and many good hog raisers have found to their own satisfaction that pigs raised on rotated pastures always make the fastest and cheapest gains. Yet, many persons still try to raise pigs in old lots that have three to five million worm eggs per square foot.

"Farmers who are making hogs a real cash income crop are definitely planning the operation," asserts Phillips. "They fit their feed production in with the number of brood sows kept to produce pigs to consume the feed. They breed the sows to farrow in late February and early March and in late August and early September. They make a special effort to have green grazing as near the year around as possible."

The specialist adds that raising hogs is a relatively simple form of livestock production, but errors in management can be costly; they may even put hog raisers out of business.

ALFALFA IS KING OF HAY CROPS

Alfalfa, king of the hay crops and a leading grazing crop, is now grown on practically all of the better well-drained soils of Alabama.

On the basis of its results and numerous experiments now underway at several locations in the state, the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station makes the following recommendations for the successful growth of alfalfa:

Time of planting is very important. Spring plantings usually fail in Alabama. Best results are obtained when the land is fallowed for at least six weeks before alfalfa is planted. In Chilton County planting should be completed by late September.

The fertilizer recommendation is two tons of lime, 500 to 600 pounds of super-phosphate, 200 to 400 pounds of muriate of potash, and 15 to 20 pounds of borax per acre prior to seeding the alfalfa. Annual applications of phosphate and potash at the above rates and 15 pounds of borax should be made in the spring before growth begins. These amounts of plant food may be obtained by applying an 0-12-20 fertilizer that contains 40 pounds of borax per ton. The rate of application should be from 800 to 1,200 pounds per acre, depending on the section of the state.

WATCH BLOAT IN CATTLE

As farmers increase their grazing crops, they will have more trouble with bloat. Death due to bloat can easily halve the profits in a cattle herd.

To prevent bloat:

1. Never turn cattle on a green grazing crop until they are full of dry feed.
2. Always plant some kind of grass with legumes that are to be grazed.
3. Have a stack of pasture clippings or other dry feed in each field to be grazed so cattle can balance their diets.
4. Watch animals late in the afternoon every day they are on succulent grazing. Nearly every case of bloat occurs between 3:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. Immediately move animals that become bloated to a dry lot and treat them.

Egg whites whip best at room temperature—about 70 degrees F. They should therefore be taken out of the refrigerator at least a half hour before they are used.

SOW WINTER LEGUMES

By growing winter legumes on all fertilized crop land, farmers can save about one-fourth of potash they buy annually.

Winter legumes save a high percentage of crop potash normally lost by leaching. Legumes cannot add potash to the soil as they add nitrogen, but by cutting potash loss they accomplish the same thing as far as succeeding crops are concerned.

Under cropping systems that do not include winter cover crops, an average of 20 per cent of the potash applied to cotton and corn in eight years was found in the subsoil—where plants cannot use it. When winter legumes were included in the same cropping system, however, an average of only three per cent of the potash applied was found in the subsoil.

These facts were learned from studies conducted by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station on eight experimental substations and fields in Alabama covering a wide range of soil conditions.

Without winter legumes the loss of applied potash was much greater on light sandy soils than on heavy clay soils. Losses on sandy soil amounted to as high as 34 per cent of the potash applied, as compared with six per cent on a clay soil. When a winter legume was added to the rotation, the loss on all soil types was reduced to a very low level.

In a cotton-winter-legume-corn rotation, the annual application of potash needed to keep up the level of available potash in the topsoil was only one-fourth to one-half the amount needed when legumes were not used.

A soft custard is done when it coats the spoon. Longer cooking will not thicken it; it will cause it to curdle. If a thicker custard is desired, add more egg.

ALABAMA BUILDING STRONGER AND HEALTHIER YOUTH THROUGH THE SCHOOL LUNCH PROGRAM

(By A. R. MEADOWS, State Superintendent of Education)

Figures recently released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture on the federally aided school lunch program for the year 1950 show that:

1. Only 11 states in the Nation have a greater number of children in the lunch program than Alabama, the number in Alabama being 232,822.
2. Only 13 states served a higher percentage of the type meal highest in nutrition value (Type A) than Alabama, the percentage being 79.7 for Alabama and an average of 64.9 for the Nation.
3. Only eight states received a greater amount of cash in Federal Funds for the school lunch program than Alabama, the amount Alabama received being $2,334,543 out of a total of $62,120,000 to the 48 states and the District of Columbia.
4. Only 4 states in the union received more in cash and food from the Federal Government than Alabama, total estimated value of foods plus cash received being $4,753,000 for Alabama and $115,405,000 for the United States.

This program is administered through the Alabama State Department of Education and local school boards. The State establishes minimum standards and local schools operate the lunches under the administration and supervision of county and city superintendents of education and their delegated representatives.

This program is used as a laboratory for education in proper nutrition, good eating habits, proper standards for lunchrooms, and in producing health-giving foods. Alabama boys and girls will be stronger and healthier because of this state-wide program in the public schools.

Chilton County spent $47,238.23 on school lunches for children during 1949-1950.

A small quantity of lemon juice or a dash of cinnamon or nutmeg will help the flavor of applesauce. But remember—too much flavor of any kind will hide the flavor of the apple.

SILURIA BEATS CLANTON 33-7

(By BOBBY TUCKER)

The Clanton Tigers got their first whipping of the season last Friday night when they tangled with the Siluria Warriors who beat them by a score of 33-7.

When the "Tigers" do get beat they really go in deep.

In the first quarter of play the Warriors did the only scoring by taking the lead by 7-0, Gerald Bradgen going over for the T.D. and Billy Durrett kicking the extra point.

In the second quarter of play Bobby Lee and Gerald Bradgen went over for 12 points and Billy Durrett made one extra point, making a total of 13 for the Warriors.

The "Tigers" started to fight back in the second quarter by a long pass from Royce Seales to James Paul Easterling. The T.D. was good for about 65 yards and 7 badly needed points after Derald Bannister kicked the extra point. At the half the game was 20 to 7 in favor of the "Warriors."

In the 3rd quarter the "Warriors" racked up 7 points by Bragden and Durrett.

In the fourth quarter Billy Durrett went over for 6 more points.

Otis Deloach and Chester Little played a wonderful game for the "Tigers" even though they did get discouraged at the high scoring and high odds of the Siluria team.

This would have made the "Tigers" seventh win but as it was they now have won six and lost one. They still have three to go and let's hope they don't look like they did Friday night for the next three weeks.

SAVE OR OBTAIN AMPLE SUPPLY OF COTTON PLANTING SEED NOW

Farmers planning to increase their 1951 cotton acreage are urged to save or obtain an ample supply of good planting seed as soon as possible.

Jadie N. Cofer, chairman of the county PMA committee, points out that most farmers will save enough seed from their 1950 crop to plant the crop next year. "But with smaller supplies of good planting seed available due to a short crop this year we hope all farmers will make plans to have a planting supply on hand far ahead of actual planting time."

The Secretary of Agriculture recently announced that cotton marketing quotas and acreage allotments will not be in effect on the 1951 crop. This means farmers can grow all the cotton they like.

"A cotton crop of at least 16 million bales is needed to supply expected domestic and export demand. To build up our reserves we probably will need more than 16 million bales," Mr. Cofer said.

In order to reach the 16-million-bales total farmers must grow more than 6 million bales more than was grown in 1950. They will need to expand acreage in 1951 considerably about that planted last year.

"While the availability of good planting seed, fertilizer, insecticides, labor, and machinery is important in realizing a 16-million-bale, or larger, crop, a good plantng seed supply is probably the most important at this time," the chairman pointed out.

He urged farmers to:

1. Determine the acreage of cotton they will plant in 1951 and the quantity of good seed needed for planting that acreage.
2. Save an adequate supply of seed from the 1950 crop if the seed is of good quality and of the best variety.
3. Locate and obtain a supply of the best seed if unable to save good seed from the 1950 crop.
4. Contact the local county agent or other agricultural leaders, who know the best varieties to plant and how to treat, clean, and properly store cotton planting seed.

PRICE SUPPORT RATES ON 1950-CROP CORN ANNOUNCED

Alabama's 1950 corn crop will have price support protection at $1.23 per bushel for corn grading No. 3 or better, or No. 4 solely on the factor of test weight.

Jadie N. Cofer, Chairman of the Chilton County PMA Committee, states that the above price only represents 75 percent of the 90 percent of parity level. Last year acreage allotments were not in effect for corn and the support rate averaged 90 percent of the parity price, such level being mandatory for all producing areas. However, according to Mr. Cofer, this year, with acreage allotments in effect in the commercial area but not in the non-commercial area, support at a 90 percent level is available only to the commercial area.

Mr. Cofer states that loans and purchase agreements will be available to producers on corn stored on their farms or stored in approved commercial elevators. These will be available through the office of the county PMA committee and will be available to farmers from time of harvest through March 1, 1951. On farm stored loans corn may either be shelled or on the ear. However, it must be shelled at the expense of the producer before Commodity Credit Corporation will accept delivery next year. For ear corn, placed under a farm stored loan, the moisture content may not exceed more than 20.5 percent and for shelled corn 13.5 percent. The loans and purchase agreements will mature July 31, 1951. However, said Mr. Cofer, deliveries may be made to CCC during the first 10 days of April, providing a borrower notifies the county PMA committee at least 10 days prior to April 1 of his intention to deliver.

The support program is not for the purpose of buying corn but to assist farmers in obtaining a satisfactory price for their corn. Mr. Cofer says the loan program provides farmers with an opportunity to obtain cash for their corn now and later to dispose of the corn through orderly marketing

BEN POPWELL REENLISTS IN AIR FORCE

Sgt. Ben E. Popwell of Clanton, Ala., has reenlisted in the Air Force for six years, Col. Leslie G. Mulzer, Maxwell Commanding Officer, announced today.

At Maxwell he is assigned duty with the 3805th Maintenance Squadron.

Sergeant Popwell served with the Navy from April, 1945, to October, 1947, when he originally enlisted in the Air Force.

The son of Horace G. Popwell of Clanton, he is married to the former Edna L. Porter of the same place.

Prior to his entry in the service, Popwell attended the Chilton County High School.

The fossil beds of the Alabama River, around Claiborne, supplied the material for a colossal hoax performed by Albert C. Koch, German geologist, in the year 1844-45. Using the bones of several prehistoric whale-like creatures, he reconstructed a skeleton 114 feet long, and weighing 7,500 pounds. He claimed to have discovered this intact in the fossil beds. He exhibited his sea serpent to wondering crowds in the United States and Europe before his trickery was exposed.

NAVY RECRUITER TO BE HERE MONDAY AND TUESDAY

A navy recruiter will be at the Army Recruiting Office at the New Wade Building in Clanton Monday and Tuesday, the 13th and 14th of November, for the purpose of accepting applications for enlistment in the Navy, Chief A. W. Bishop, recruiter from Montgomery, announced today.

All male persons between the ages of 17 and 31, who have not received their pre-induction call for physical examination, may make application, and all women between the ages of 20 and 26, who have completed high school and have no dependents, may also apply, Chief Bishop stated.

For more detailed information, contact your Navy Recruiter at the Army Recruiting Station on the 13th or 14th —Monday and Tuesday—between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

The Exchange Hotel in Montgomery has been a center of political and social life for over a century and a gathering place for lawyers, lobbyists, and legislators. From the hotel balcony on the Commerce Street side W. L. Yancey presented Jefferson Davis to the citizens of Montgomery, and the first Confederate cabinet met here. President Cleveland also spoke from the hotel balcony.

CHANGES IN THE SOCIAL SECURITY LAW

World War II veterans, it seems, may now be able to disprove the belief that "you can't be in two places at the same time."

This comes about because of recent changes in the social security law giving World War II veterans credit on the social security records for each month of their war service. Even though they may actually have been in far-away places, the veterans get social security credit as if they had been in civilian work in the U.S.A. at the same time they were in the armed forces.

M. C. Folmar, Manager of the Birmingham Social Security office pointed out today that World War II veterans now receive credits on the social security books for wages of $160 for each month of war service. "This applies," he said, "even to veterans who have never had a social security card."

"These wage credits," Mr. Folmar explained, "represent valuable protection to veterans and their families. For example, we recently began making payments to the young widow and children of a veteran who was killed in action. He had never worked at all on jobs covered by social security, and had been in service about two years at the time of his death. Under the new law, he had enough social security credits, based on his war service, to make his family eligible for survivors insurance benefits. Dozens of such families in this area, who were unable to qualify for benefits before, can now begin getting regular monthly payments. They should get in touch with our office promptly and make application. The address is 18-25 First Avenue, North, in Birmingham.

"These war-service social security credits may be used by veterans themselves toward Old-Age benefits at age 65 or later. They cannot be added to a veteran's record for either retirement or survivors benefit purposes, however, if his military service is counted toward other Federal benefits or annuities. Dishonorable discharge is a bar. Otherwise, the credits apply general to veterans who were on active duty sometime between September 16, 1940, and July 24, 1947, and who either had 90 or more days active duty, died in service, or were discharged because of service-connected disability."

For the convenience of the people in this area, Mr. P. J. Adamson, representative from the Birmingham Social Security office, will be at the Employment office in Clanton every Thursday at 1:30 p.m.

NOTICE!

Mrs. Zora Guy Smith, Clerk Local Selective Board No. 11, announces that her office is now located upstairs over Mullins and Scott. This is the same office the draft board occupied until January, 1950.

UNENDING ANGUISH?

SHOULD BE PROUD

The citizens of Clanton should not take lightly the fact that the City Officials sold the Gas Revenue Bonds at the low rate of interest of 3.077 percent.

It is a high compliment to the Mayor and Council. The fact that representatives from New York City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Cincinnati, Nashville, Birmingham and Montgomery, all bid on the bonds and the fact that so many large bonding companies were anxious for Clanton, Alabama, bonds is a high compliment to the people of Clanton.

Chilton County News commends the City Officials on the fine state of affairs of our city government and feel confident that we are building on a firm foundation when men of great and wide business experience show such faith in our little city.

HOUSES OR BARNS FOR OUR KIDS?

November 5-11 is "American Education Week," sponsored by the American Legion, the National Education Association, the National P.-T.A. and the Federal Office of Education.

Here in Alabama, we are squarely faced with the issue of whether we want our children to be schooled in school buildings or barns; whether we prefer to save a few miserable dollars, or give our children the priceless heritage of an education.

The observance of "Education Week" should help to focus attention on what probably is Alabama's greatest need.—Montgomery Examiner.

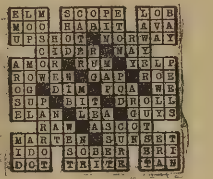
Answer to Puzzle No. 106



Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Bigwigs at the Legion Dance at Thorsby Saturday night. Cooper Green, Chief Eddings and Sgt. Kicker, no less. Bet those Thorsby folks give them a real welcome and show them a real time.

People are funny. Billy McDonald, who sits in the county jail charged with the murder of Dr. Price, does beautiful chochet work. Occupies most of his time making pretty pillow cases, scarfs, etc.

Scores of folks in Chilton County will regret to learn of the death of Jack Fuqua. Jack was located here with the Farm Security Administration before the last war. After serving in the armed forces he returned and went to Wetumpka where he operated a quick freeze plant. He married Josephine Barrett of Verbena, and they have one son, Jack, Jr.. Jack had many friends throughout Chilton County who will be shocked at his untimely death.

Button, button. Who's got the button? Now, we have heard just about everything. The other night at the P.-T.A. Hallowe'en Pary—but wait. Let's start at the first. Some of the ladies who are members of the P.-T.A. went to Levine's for a donation for one of the booths at the Hallowe'en Party. Mr. Levine gave them a box of buttons and told them to do as they wished with them. If they could use them all well and good. Well, they didn't exactly find anything to do with them so they opened the box at the party and sold the buttons at a penny each. Lo and behold, the children bought them like hot cakes. For what, we'll never know. The only possible use of a button is for something practical and we never heard of a child being practical at a Hallowe'en Party. Maybe they bought them because they were so cheap.

Now would be a wonderful time to proclaim a Clean-Up Week for Clanton. The street crew is doing a fine job as far as they go, but the alleys and behind the stores (and printing office) are in bad need of attention. Maybe if the Mayor would set aside a clean-up week things would look better for our coming holiday season.

Census Bureau's Current Population Survey

Information on the number of part-time workers who are currently available for full-time work will be developed in the Census Bureau's Current Population Survey in November, it was announced today by District Supervisor Mary L. Griffin from her office at Clanton. In the Current Population Survey, the Census Bureau each month interviews a representative cross-section of 25,000 households throughout the country, including many in the Chilton-Perry area, in order to obtain up-to-date information on employment conditions in the nation, Miss Griffin said.

About 1¼ million persons with jobs which normally provide full-time work were working only part time in August because of slack work and various economic factors, according to a similar study conducted at that time. In addition, there were about 5½ million persons in the labor force in August working at regular part-time jobs—mostly housewives and school-age youngsters who were either working short hours from choice or were limited to part-time work because of home or other responsibilities.

The current survey, in addition to measuring the nation's part-time labor force, will provide the official government figures on employment and unemployment. In September, according to estimates developed from the Current Population Survey, employment was the highest on record for that time of year. Estimated at 61.2 million, employment was 2 million higher than in September a year earlier and about 1 million higher than in September of 1948. Unemployment, on the other hand, was at its lowest in 21 months—2.3 million.

The survey will be conducted in the Chilton-Perry area during the week of November 13 to 18. Supervisor Griffin emphasized that all individual information reported in the survey is held in absolute confidence and that only statistical summaries are ever published.

Make No Image Or Likeness Of God

"Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth. Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, or serve them." (Ex. 20:4-5. The first commandment asserts the unity of God, and does protest against the doctrine of many gods, or polytheism. The second commandment proves the spirituality of God, and is a protest against idolatry in the form of materialism. Jesus taught that God is a Spirit, and he that worships God must worship Him in spirit and in truth.

A. T. HICKMAN

This commandment may not be a prohibition against arts of sculpture and paintings, and the use of them in religious work; and again it might be a warning, less we allow such to detract our mind away from the higher principle of the true and living God. We do know that it does disallow the worship of God under any form of materialism. And there is too much a form of worship and form of godliness without the power of God manifested today. Too many have substituted rituals, ceremonies, and cut-and-dried programs for worship today. True worship comes from the heart, and not from a program on the printed page, or kneeling before the finest work of art of sculpture or painting. Oh, let us keep in mind that our God is a Spirit, and no image or likeness can be made of Him; and He is to be worshipped in spirit and in truth.

The protest raised by this commandment is as necessary as ever. For in some places there exists a superstitious regard for images, and likeness in the form of pictures, which is not only irrational, but which absorbs the religious feelings that should be directed to the higher principle and object of God. In the heathen countries they have idols of wood, clay, stone and other materials. Every outward sign of honor is given to these images. They are not just regarded as emblems, but as actual embodiments of diety. The heathen pray to these gods; worship them on bended knee, sit or stand before them for days and nights; and offer to them sacrifices. But how much better off are we if we substitute forms, rituals, ceremonies, and have not the Spirit and power of God in our worship.

"Little children, keep yourselves from idols." AMEN.

Your Health

ACNE

Acne is a semi-chronic inflamatory disease of the oil glands and hair follicles of the skin, occurring most often in boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 25. Because the condition may cause emotional strain as well as leave physical scars, parents would do well to take their children to a doctor immediately on the first appearance of the pimples and blackheads of acne.

Unfortunately, parents are prone to think of this skin condition as essential to the process of "growing up" and lean to the erroneous belief that the child will outgrow it. Acne is a part of "growing up" in the sense that the glands of the body working normally to maintain the young child's growth now increase in activity to bear the burden of the "change-over" to maturity. When acne occurs, it is because the glands are working faster than the skin's ability to regulate its oil supply.

It is unfortunate that the person with acne usually fails to visit the doctor before the condition is well established on face, chest and the back. Correction then takes months and it may be too late to avoid scarring.

While cleanliness is a factor in the care of the skin, acne does not mean that the person with it has unclean habits.

Treatment consists of special training in cleansing the affected parts of the body to help in removing the excess oil. Attention is also directed to improving the general health and living conditions. In severe cases, ultraviolet ray and x-ray are used, a procedure that must be done by a competent physician. Important is the manner in which the blackheads and pus from the pimples are removed. Every effort must be made to avoid lasting damage to the skin.

Diet is also important in the treatment of acne. Sweets, particularly chocolate, should be avoided. Strict attention should be given to the bowels, for accumulation of waste and toxins in the body can be averted. Plenty to sunshine and outdoor exercise is essential in the care of the disease.

Acne is no longer a major medical problem and the wise parent will help his child over the so-called tragedy of youth, one which is responsible for many emotional maladjustments.

Don't Fear Failure

HERE'S THE STORY of a young man who was so afraid of failing that all he could do was to fail.

He is Wiltham M. Brass, who has told me this story in the hope that it will help someone else who is beset by nervous fears.

He awoke one morning nervous and ill at ease. Perspiration was actually pouring from his body before he had done anything to warrant it. He had failed at his first job, and felt he would do no better in another. And he had a family to take care of.

Carnegie

This morning, with his nervousness at an all-time high, he went to the kitchen for a cup of coffee to bolster his morale. His father was visiting him at the time and as Bill entered the kitchen, there he stood. "Bill, what's wrong?" he inquired.

Bill told him he was afraid to tackle the job ahead of him, for since he had failed at the other one, there seemed little hope for this one.

"Bill," said his father, "you had to fail, first because you have had no experience; second, you're too young, but, third, and far more important than the other reasons, you were so darned afraid of failing that it was the only thing you could do. Now knowing this, it's up to you to figure out what to do."

Bill's new job was selling. He decided he'd lick it, and this is how he won:

1—He placed himself in the position of meeting and talking with a lot of people.

2—He made up his mind to use youth as an asset. He had the strength of youth, and could do more than some older people who hadn't his physical stamina.

3—He would not think about failure and he wouldn't worry.

That was two years ago. Just now Bill is leading his firm in a sales contest.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

AS THE NATION MOVES NEARER to complete economic and military mobilization, Washington is again taking on the appearance of war capital, although we are still technically at peace with the world.

Thousands of business representatives are streaming into the city taxing the capacity of hotels, conferring with heads of the new control agencies, receiving poker-faced answers and little information, and departing empty handed insofar as plotting the course of their business is concerned.

As a matter of fact, the national production authority, which handles most allocations and priorities, is merely issuing tentative and preliminary orders, since they do not yet know the full extent of the military and stock-piling needs. It is expected that these requirements will not be known before another 60 days, and only then will full defense spending get under way.

• • •

Thus far, the military has spent only a small portion of money available, which has had little impact on the nation's productive economy, and it is this argument administration leaders are using against those who want immediate inauguration of price, wage and ration controls, along with tightening of the priority on raw materials.

• • •

In the meantime, Alan Valentine, Rochester university president and industrial director, has set up shop temporarily borrowing about 25 people from other government agencies to get the new economic stabilization administration under way. It is expected this agency will be housed in one of the many temporary buildings erected during the war. During this preliminary era of setting up these and the other control agencies in interior and agriculture, there is a battle under way for hiring of more personnel, probably at least 18,000 within the next few weeks, and the finding of some 1,600,000 square feet of additional office space.

• • •

On the political front, newsmen who attended the Wake Island meeting between President Truman and General MacArthur, are unanimous in their belief that the President's stock has soared politically, although he had no political motive in mind when he made the trip. They report that the prestige of the United States in the far east has risen considerably as a result of this meeting and the brilliant military victories in Korea, and this has knocked the props from under GOP criticism of the handling of the Korean situation as a campaign issue.

• • •

Even Republican political dopesters here admit privately that it will take at least an international or domestic crisis before November 7 to prevent the Democrats from retaining control of both house and senate. Statistically Republicans need 46 seats to win the house. Actually they need 48, since Democrats are scheduled to take the seats of Vito Marcantonio, the American Labor party member in New York and the lone Republican seat in Texas. Battleground for house control will be in the middle west where Democrats won 35 seats in eight states in 1948, and the North Atlantic states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, where they picked up 24 seats. In November, 29 of the doubtful Democratic districts are in these 12 states.

• • •

No one here is willing to predict what will happen in New York now as a result of the damaging letter in which Joe Hanley, lieutenant governor and senatorial nominee, disclosed his political-financial deal with Dewey. They say it certainly cannot hurt the Democratic ticket and may prove extremely hurtful to the GOP cause throughout New York state.

• • •

Cotton states are aroused over the agriculture department action to limit cotton exports by two million bales under the 1949 export. While these protests are largely from the few big growers and not from the many smalls, both W. Stuart Symington, national security resources board chairman and top man in the controls set-up, and Ralph Trigg, PHA administrator, declare the order provided only interim allocations and is subject to review.

Saltpeter Cave, located about eight miles from Sauta Bottom, is one of the many caverns along the Tennessee River in this section. During the War Between the States, the Confederates worked the cave extensively for saltpeter, a vital ingredient in the manufacturing of gun powder. The old wooden rails of the mule-car tramway built at this time and an immense evaporation kettle, in which the leached solution was boiled, are still in the cave.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From J. Risor Camryn of Seattle, Wash.: I remember an annual chore right after Halloween. It was moving the back house. It was my job to dig the new hole. I got so good at it I could have qualified for membership in the grave-diggers' union. A new coat of whitewash inside and out completed the job. It smelled sweet and clean — better than some modern bathroom installations, for there was no odor of disinfectant. We always did it after Halloween for pranksters upset it for us on Halloween.

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: I remember when these remedies were used: flax, honey and lemon syrup for colds, paregoric for stomach ache, a hot salt bag for earache, tea leaf poultices for sore eyes, a live leech for a bruise or black eye (leeches were sold in drug stores), pitch and resin poultices for backaches, onion poultices for bronchial coughs and brown sugar and soap for a boil or carbuncle. How many other old-timers can remember remedies used in the old days? Let's hear from them.

GIMME A DOZEN LEECHES.

From Mrs. Camile Culotta of Melrose Park, Ill.: I remember when the streets in Melrose Park were made of cedar wood blocks and the sidewalks were made of planks. The fields were full of wild flowers such as goldenrod, Shooting Stars daisies. Those were the good ol days!

From Mrs. Emma Howell of Angola, Ind.: I remember when these songs were popular: "After the Ball," "Beautiful Katy," "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," "The Maple on the Hill," "Red [illegible]"

In a window of the courthouse in Carrollton is the Ghost's Face. It is claimed that the face is an exact likeness of Henry Wells, Negro, who helped the Federal troops burn the old courthouse. He escaped and was not found until the new courthouse was nearly completed. As a mob surged toward the entrance of the courthouse where the prisoner was put for safekeeping, the terrified Negro watched from a small window in the garret. An unusually bright flash of lightning illuminated the courthouse square and the accompanying rain made the mob scatter. When the sheriff returned to the garret, he found the prisoner slumped beneath the window, dead!

Next morning a passerby glanced toward the garret window and saw the clear outline of an agonized face leering down. And it has remained there ever since.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

By Mrs. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

DO YOU REMEMBER that deflated feeling when a day's bright promise of fun became clouded over with boredom? It usually happened, when we'd be playing house, after all the furniture was in place, our dolls dressed for the day and we suddenly ran out of make-believe. It wasn't much fun just to sit and look at our play living room—we had to be doing something about it in order to enjoy it. At this point we usually began to wrangle.

Then mother would appear, not to scold us for quarreling, but to suggest a new occupation. Perhaps she'd been sewing and would bring us some pretty scraps with the remark that our dolls needed new dresses for a neighbor child's birthday party to which we were invited. Or she might produce the makings of a mid-morning lunch to be served on our doll dishes—"elevenses" we called these morning snacks, since the dull feeling used to hit us around 11.

Although children are naturally inventive and should be left as much as possible to dream up their own ideas for play, they can be spared a lot of fruitless kitters if you anticipate the dull stretches in the day by providing creative outlets. Of course, there are times for passive outlets too—an hour of radio or television or being read to. These usually come, however, at the end of the day when the child is more or less ready to let go and think that tomorrow is another day, full of wonderful possibilities. The really difficult times to bridge are the ones, such as we have described, which happen while the morning is still young and cheat the child of his expectations of a happy day. Then something the child can make or do, some activity into which he can pour his energy and forget his disappointment, is imperative.

The year, too, has arid spots in it that are particularly hard for children to get through on their own. There's that stretch between Halloween and Thanksgiving—school has entered the long haul, the excitement of beginning weeks has died down and there is no vacation close enough to beckon.

That is the time one family we know begins working again on its electric train. We used to wonder why the parents were willing to spend so much money on a project that lay, dusty and unnoticed, for at least nine months of the year. But once the boys take it up in the late fall, the fever of creative activity that the train provides lasts through mid-January. Last year the track ran through a little village and many a Saturday was spent at the dime store buying lamp posts, grass and flowers. Houses and stores were fashioned of cardboard and viaducts built for the safety of imaginary townsmen. This year bags of plaster of paris, paints and brushes are transforming the right-of-way from village streets to mountain country.

Why go to all this trouble to encourage creative play? Because employing a child's capacities as they gradually unfold will result in an alert, responsive, productive human being, while experiencing too much of life's inevitable boredom in childhood is apt to fasten fretfulness and disinterest on the personality.

Fellowship With Other Christians

Lesson for November 12: Acts 11: 11-18; Philippians 2: 1-5

Memory Selection: Philippians 2: 4-5.

THE RACE PROBLEM in the first days of the Church was intensified by Jewish pride and exclusiveness. Jewish Christians did not see that Jesus came for all men. The vision of Peter helped him, and through him, to save Christianity from extinction in a Jewish sect.

The vision of the unclean beasts, with its implication that the men of all races are worthy, and the result of Peter's ministry to Cornelius and those with him, as he afterward appeared before the church in Jerusalem and told of those things, led even the most conservative among the Jews to agree that God had granted unto Gentiles "repentance unto life." Thus did they learn of the fellowship they should have with men of other races.

Writing the Philippians, Paul urges fellowship among the members of a church. Instead of strife and dissension, there must be harmony through love, and a lowliness of mind by which every man will respect the opinions and seek the good of others.

And this will be possible with the "mind of Christ." We may learn of the mind of the Lord through his sacrifices for men and his will to serve. If we would serve our fellows through him, we must be lowly in heart like him, and be willing and ready to be spent freely in doing good.

Rooster Bridge across the Tombigbee River was built during World War 1 with funds from an auction of roosters. Among the many famous persons who bought Marengo and Sumter County fowls were President Woodrow Wilson, British Prime Minister David Lloyd George, and French Premier Georges Clemenceau. Helen Keller sent a little blue hen that was sold for $5,000.

LEGISLATURE VOTES PAY HIKE FOR FOUR STATE OFFICIALS

Montgomery, Ala. — One of the bills passed during the fifth special session of the legislature was to raise the salaries of four elected state officials.

The secretary of state, auditor and treasurer had their salaries raised from $4,800 to $6,000. The state superintendent of education was raised from $5,700 to $7,500.

During the regular session of the 1949 legislature, the governor's salary was increased from $6,000 to $12,000. This raise does not take effect however until Gov.-elect Gordon Persons takes office, January 15th.

Sauta Bottom, Alabama, used to be known as "Hell's Half Acre" because of its rowdy inhabitants, but the turbulence has been eliminated and it is now known as "House of Happiness." The House of Happiness is a social welfare project begun in 1923 by the Episcopal Church. School work through the sixth grade is given to about 75 pupils.

Things We See And Hear

(By Tuck)

Well, keeds, looks like our winning streak finally broke out. Boy, when we do get beat, we go at it in a big way.

You know, Siluria ought to go play Notre Dame; after all what has Purdue got that the "Warriors" haven't?

Oh well, Sylacauga comes up this Friday night and Mr. Hicks says if we're not still playing Selma or moping over the Siluria game we can take it from them. Let's hope that if they do beat us it won't be like Siluria did. Man, that was murder!

The "it" last week was Grace Lawrence, Keeds. But there seems to be a discussion about how tall she is. I guess I just haven't seen her in the light enough to know just how tall she is. If you really want to know, why don't you ask her?

I've heard some very warranted criticism about the school paper this year. It seems there are certain people that don't like the way in which it is run: They think there is too much gossip for one thing, and. . .well, we won't go into detail and I'm afraid that I couldn't print smoe things they said anyway. No one asked for my opinion but I'll give it to you straight: I think the paper is okey in a lot of ways and they could also make a great many improvements. It seems to me that any school paper should be run the way the student body should want it run and let them make a few of the decisions toward making it better themselves. I'll have to admit the paper this year is about the neatest one we we or any other school ever put out, but the contents are of not much interest to the students. I was asked to say something about this in my column this week and I think it's a good idea that someone is finally taking interest in the paper besides the staff.

Next week we'll hafta have a boy so I guess the following one will do: He's about 5 ft. 9½" tall, weighs about 135 pounds; is in the band and he's just crazy about females.

It takes less peanuts
to buy residence telephone service today than it did 10 years ago...

If you paid your telephone bill with peanuts, residence telephone service would cost you less today than it did in 1940. In spite of the moderate increase in telephone rates, the average charge for a month's residence telephone service in Alabama would now amount to only 29½ pounds of peanuts as compared to 74½ pounds in 1940.

Compare telephone service also with wages and the cost of living. In the past ten years, hourly wages in manufacturing plants have more than doubled and the overall cost of living has gone up about 74% while, in this same period, residence telephone rates in Alabama have advanced on the average only 31%.

In other words, the price you pay for telephone service has gone up far less than the price of peanuts, far less than wages and family income and far less than most commodities and services you buy every day.

Meanwhile, the amount of telephone service available at your local service rate has increased immensely. Today throughout most of Alabama you can call and be called from nearly three times as many local telephones as you could ten years ago.

Yes, telephone service is today a bigger bargain and a smaller item in the family budget than it was ten years ago.

STATE CHICK CROP TAKES BIG HOP UPWARD

Montgomery, Ala. — Chicken business is strutting in Alabama. Figures from the Alabama Co-Op Crop Reporting Service show that during September 1,570,000 chicks were produced in Alabama.

This marked an increase of 88 per cent over the 834,000 produced during September a year ago. The September production was also a 21 per cent jump over August. The reporting service said that there is an unusually good demand for broiler production, and that most of the chicks are used for that purpose.

Mr. Johnson

By John Goodwin

MR. JOHNSON edged up to the black tomcat that daintly lapped a breakfast of bread and milk from a sardine can. The cat's ears were flattened against his forehead as he kept a weather eye on Mr. Johnson. He was hungry and very reluctant to give up his breakfast.

Walking with his stiff-legged strut, Mr. Johnson glared at the sleek feline disdainfully. The tomcat knew the attack was coming; but even while he was in the act of drawing back from his breakfast, Mr. Johnson flew into the air, kicked the cat with both his sturdy feet, threshed the frightened animal with powerful wings and pecked at the scampering ball of black fur. The cat streaked past the cellar door and past the grindstone in the Fullers' back yard. Not until the tomcat scooted through the wire fence did Mr. Johnson give up the chase. Then he stretched his head into the air and gave a loud triumphant crow.

"Confound that rooster!" Bert Fuller roared. "I don't see any sense in keeping that rascal any longer. He's been overdue in the stew pot ever since the hatching season was over." Bert morosely eyed the magnificent white cock with red-streaked wing feathers that had been given the pompous name, Mr. Johnson.

Mrs. Fuller, though her husband pooh-pooed the idea, had stubbornly insisted their hens would be more contented and lay more eggs if they enjoyed the love and companionship of a rooster. She never would consent to Mr. Johnson's decapitation. What if Mr. Johnson one day had leaped up into an agent's face and knocked off his glasses? The glasses didn't break, did they?

Mr. Johnson was no respecter of persons; he even slipped up and spurred the preacher in the shins. Unhappily, Mr. Johnson, an egoist supreme, just didn't like anybody except himself.

As husbands and wives go, Bert Fuller and Mrs. Fuller got along reasonably well. They squabbled over little things like whether or not they should eat Mr. Johnson, and Mrs. Fuller fussed about Bert's keeping his savings in the tomato can under the loose board in the kitchen floor.

Mrs. Fuller's ample form appeared at the kitchen door. "Breakfast's ready, Bert."

Bert stood with muscular bare arms akimbo; he ignored the call to breakfast, his gaze sweeping along the graveled road winding the short mile into town.

Bert's eyes followed the cloud of dust kicked up by an approaching automobile. "He's turning into our drive." Bert Fuller jerked his chin towards the open kitchen door. "Car's coming!" he called out.

The fat rear tires dug into the gravel. Leaving the motor running, the single occupant of the dark sedan slipped out from behind the steering wheel and approached Bert Fuller with mincing, quick steps. The eyes above the young man's smile were dark and menacing and mean—and afraid.

At that instant Bert Fuller found himself looking into the muzzle of a very ugly automatic. Mrs. Fuller, standing in the doorway, screamed. "None of that, lady! You're makin' my trigger finger unsteady.

"Mister, you and the lady stick yer hands up in the air and march into the house! You tell me where you got yer money hid—not fergettin' meantime t'keep the hands high."

At that moment a fourth character entered the scene. Mr. Johnson came trudging very importantly up to the mean-looking young man with a gun. Mr. Johnson's attitude was that of a very disgruntled executive who has found things in the office not to his liking. Mr. Johnson's eyes glared angrily; his comb and wattles were beet red; his hackles rose alarmingly. Mr. Johnson took a few tentative steps forward. Anybody acquainted with Mr. Johnson could easily guess what would happen.

An explosive ball of feathers struck the unwelcome caller smack in the chest. The automatic cracked sharply as it was knocked out of the man's hand. A cloud of white feathers floated around like a miniature snowstorm.

In the instant of the thug's confusion, Bert Fuller grasped his opportunity: he swung a heavy-knuckled fist to the visitor's chin.

When the sheriff arrived, he found the would-be holdup artist firmly trussed to a kitchen chair with a portion of Mrs. Fuller's clothesline.

Mr. Johnson, who was now minus most of his gorgeous tail feathers, watched the sheriff's automobile move out of the Fuller driveway onto the graveled road with the handcuffed prisoner. Then Mr. Johnson spread his legs wide apart, stretched his neck and gave the loudest crow of his whole career.

A peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

"KUKLA, FRAN AND OLLIE" recently celebrated its third anniversary in television along with the 33rd birthday of their genius creator, Burr Tillstrom . . . Being a veteran in an infant industry is certainly unique, but the fact remains that Burr and his lovable Kuklapolitan players were in TV long before the medium caught the nation in its visor grip . . . They'll be here for many moons to come — the only show of its kind we can honestly say this about . . . And all the credit goes to Mr. Tillstrom who has made such endearing personalities out of his creations . . . Incidentally, the gang has made its first record album and it's a honey for the kiddies . . . On RCA Victor (what else?), it's entitled "Happy Mother Goose" and we take this opportunity to nominate Ollie the singer of the year for his stirring baritone rendition of "Sing a Song of Sixpence."

PLATTER CHATTER

COLUMBIA: Edith Piaf has recorded "La Vie En Rose," which she popularized, and it fits her like a glove . . . The other side has "Three Bells" . . . Dick Jurgens has a lovely number in "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight" with "Under a Polkadot Sky" on the flip . . . "Autumn Leaves" is given an excellent send-off by Mitch Miller . . . "Song of Delilah" backs it . . . Jimmy Dorsey revives two oldies which were popular once and threaten to repeat . . . "Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella" and "In a Little Spanish Town" . . . New, pert Rosemary Clooney has two winners in "I'm the One Who Loves You" backed by "Where Do I Go From You" and "Wobblin' Gobblin" backed by "Punky Punkin."

CAPITOL: Stan Kenton returns with a sizzler, "Be Easy, Be Tender" with "Love for Sale" on the reverse . . . Peggy Lee's latest is "Life Is So Peculiar" with "Once in a Lifetime" on the flip . . . Jan Garber does a fine job on "Rainy Day Refrain" and the bright new "So Long, Sally."

IT'S WISE to have two types of pressing cloths for keeping clothes in good condition. One should be of muslin, while the other should be a drill cloth.

When you need moisture in pressing a garment, as in some silks and rayons, cover garment with a dry drill cloth, then with damp muslin cloth. Steam penetrates the drill cloth but does not leave sheen on garment.

If you press woolen garments until they're completely dry, you will undoubtedly have sheen on them. If they're left slightly damp, the garment looks better.

Keep a small sponge in a dish of water right on the ironing board. When parts of fabric dry before they're pressed, they can be dampened readily without you're moving away from the board.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Raisin-Peanut Clusters

⅓ cup dark molasses
½ cup corn syrup
1 teaspoon vinegar
3 tablespoons butter
2 cups shelled peanut
1 cup raisins

Cook molasses, corn syrup and vinegar until hard ball stage is reached (250°F.). Remove from heat and add butter. Stir until blended with syrup; add nuts and raisins. Drop by spoonfuls on greased pan. If candy hardens while you work with it, put pan over low heat and stir vigorously until it softens.

To prevent seam marks on the right side of the fabric when pressing dresses and suits, slip a narrow strip of carboard between seam and garment while pressing.

Does the garment you have possess lots of gathers? They'll look more perky if you lift the clothing as the point of the iron goes into the gathers.

All seams should be pressed up from the bottom or in towards the center of the garment. Keep the iron moving as you work; never let it rest on the material.

Darts on light fabrics should be pressed to one side, either up or towards the center. On heavy fabrics, slash the darts and press open.

Tuscalodsa's years as State capitol (1826-46) were the proudest in its early history. A highly cultured society developed and the planters continued to build huge columned mansions, for cotton was bringing in enormous profits. The citizens did not neglect to beautify the city itself. Under the guidance of Thomas Maxwell, an Englishman, who had come to Tuscaloosa in 1826, rows of water oaks were planted along the streets, and Tuscaloosa came to be known as the "City of Oaks" and the "Druid City."

SPORTS CORNER

Paul Richards, Seattle manager and former Tiger catcher, has been signed to a two-year contract as manager of the Chicago White Sox. This is the first top major league assignment for Richards, now 41. He once managed Buffalo.

All in the Game:

THE YANKS hit 163 home runs in 1950 to lead all teams . . . This year the Yanks and Tigers evenly divided 22 games . . . An army measuring gadget timed Bob Feller's fast ball at 98.6 m.p.m . . . The '49 Arizona eleven limited opponents to less than two yards per offensive try . . . Walt Dropo is the tallest player in the American League—6'5" . . . Phil Rizzuto is the shortest—5'10" . . . Both were named on the U.P. American League all-star team, along with four other Yankees . . . Johnny Mize has been playing pro ball since 1930 . . . Hank Greenberg batted in 87 runs his first full year in the majors, hit 12 homers and batted .301 . . . A first down is recorded now whenever a touchdown is scored from a distance of 10 yards or more . . . Baseball's bonus rule appears to be doomed . . . Haywood Sullivan may develop into one of the greatest passers Florida has ever had . . . The Big 10 this year is enjoying Notre Dame's humiliation to the greatest extent imaginable.

FOUNDATION STONE OF OUR DEMOCRACY "RELIGIOUS FREEDOM"

"Religious Freedom" was the theme for November 14th P.-T.A. meeting at Chilton County High School. The devotional message was given by Mrs. W. C. Golden. Passages of Scripture from Psalms 103:1-12 was used reminding us to be thankful in our praise to God for all our blessings so bountifully bestowed upon us.

Caution passages found in Jeremiah 2:32 should probe deep into every heart for we each have failed at times in this respect. Mrs. Golden and Mrs. John R. Smith left memory passages that are to be recorded for future generations.

The P.-T.A. members are happy to make this report public. P.-T.A. Fun Fair produced in laughter an abundance of joy; in money the following amount:

Total amount received October 13th $530.73.

Expense — $32.29.

Total — $498.44.

To be divided as follows:

60 percent of this amount for piano, $299.06; 20 percent to be used for other causes, $99.69; 10 percent to be used for operating expense, $49.84; 10 percent to be used for scholarship, $49.75.

Mrs. John R. Smith was in charge of the Scholarship Fund and the amount she received for this cause was $292.99, plus $49.75 (amount from Fair) leaves a total Scholarship Fund of $342.74.

Sale of three aprons from Mt. Pleasant Community amounted to $1.50 with five aprons to be sold yet. his amount added to piano fund makes a total piano fund of $300.56.

he combined total was $840.18.

We are deeply thankful for this, yet, we did hope we could make $1,000 that night, for we do need that new piano for our Glee Club students to use. Could it be that somebody forgot to help us?

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Adair from New York read our paper, saw our plea and responded with a check for $25.00. hank God for the generosity of great souls who expend themselves in gifts of service.

MRS. RUSSELL A. WILLIAMS,
P.-A. President.

TURKEYS, DEER BECOME TARGETS ON NOVEMBER 20

Season Limit On Antlered Bucks Cut To Two; No Change On Wild Turkey Gobblers

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama's "big game" seasons gets under way Monday, November 20, when the deer and turkey seasons open in designated areas. Seasons on both species will close at sundown, January 1, 1951.

Special seasons will prevail in the state's three national forests: Stalk hunt, November 20-21, in William B. Bankhead, and the Talladega's Oakmulgee and Choccolocco Divisions; dog-drive hunt, November 24-25, William B. Bankhead National Forest; stalk hunt. November 24-25, Oakmulgee and Choccolocco areas, Talladega National Forest. Hunting in these areas is by $2 permit for each hunt.

Conservation Director Phillip J. Hamm reminds nimrods that the season bag limit on antlered buck deer has been reduced to two. Inroads on herds made by the recent screw-worm infestation caused the drop. One antlered buck (must have at least one forked horn) may be bagged daily. The turkey bag limit remains unchanged, one per day and five for the combined fall and spring seasons.

Deer hunting will be legal in the following areas: Baldwin, Choctaw, Clarke, Conecuh, Covington, Escambia, Greene, Marengo, Mobile, Monroe, Pickens, Sumter, Washington and Wilcox counties; that part of Hale County West of Highway 13 running from Moundville to Prairieville; in Tuscaloosa County except that part east of Highway 13 from Tuscaloosa to Moundville and south of Highway 6 from Tuscaloosa to Centreville; also for a period in Jefferson County West of line running north and south of Bessemer.

TURKEY HINT

There is no better finishing ration than a good growing mash and plenty of grain kept before birds. For cold weather fattening, corn alone will do the job and it gives a quicker finish.

Methodist Youth Have Banquet

The officers and members of the Centrala Sub-District are busy making plans and preparing for their banquet to be held in the social department of the First Methodist Church Tuesday evening, November 21, at 7 o'clock.

This organization, composed of six churches, has a meeting once a month, but we feel we should have some special event to create more interest. Some of our adults do not know what the Sub-District really is. We hope that some of these people will attend our banquet.

The last banquet of this organization was November 8, 1948. We hope to make this banquet an annual affair. And we feel sure the officers and members of the Centrala Sub-District will carry out this plan throughout the coming years.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Glenn have as their guests her father, Mr. A. L. Langley and Mrs. Langley of Camp Hill, Ala.

A committee consisting of local business men, members of the Medical Association and County Commissioners, met Wednesday morning in the offices of the Probate Judge to determine the next step in securing a hospital for Chilton County.

EDITOR'S NOTE: On the Editorial Page will be found this week an editorial relating to the new hospital. This was written before notice of the meeting in the Probate Office Wednesday was received, and too late to be stopped. We are glad however, those most interested in the building of the hospital for Chilton County were thinking along the same lines as Chilton County News.

At the November 7th election the people of the county voted overwhelmingly in favor of the new four-mill tax to be used for the building of a modern hospital. This vote assured us between 40 and 50 thousand dollars annually for its construction.

The present hospital cannot continue to operate later than 1952 because of existing laws governing hospitals passed by the last legislature

At the Wednesday meeting it was agreed that in the near future, probably next Tuesday, a Hospital Board will be appointed by the Probate Judge and County Commissioners for the purpose of carrying forward the movement. At that time Mr. Clay Dean of Montgomery, who is a member of the Hospital Planning Division of the State Health Department will meet with the County Commissioners to assist them in any way possible.

The hospital as now planned would be owned by the people of Chilton County and would be modern and up to date in equipment and personnel. It would serve the needs of both white and colored patients and all reputable hospital insurance would be accepted by it.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

ELECTION NEWS, action on the control front, and international news held the spotlight in Washington as the city settled back and readied itself for a lame-duck session of the 81st congress.

It was expected that a continuation of rent-control which expires Dec. 31 will be rushed through in the nature of a 30-day extension, and hearings are about to get under way in the senate finance committee for an excess profits tax.

• • •

On the control front, it is expected an attempt will be made to amend the defense production act of 1950 with reference to wage and price control. According to bureau of labor statistics, prices are going up faster than wages. Under the new act, the administrator of the economic stabilization administration is tied by the provision of the law which provides there shall be no price control without wage control, or in other words, Mr. Alan Valentine, the new ESA administration could not set ceilings on commodities without setting a ceiling on wages. Organized labor is fighting this provision of the act. Attempts already are being made by the larger labor unions to open up wage contract discussions before present contracts expire on the theory that the living cost index already has passed them up.

• • •

Insofar as the farmer is concerned, whatever controls or ceiling prices are placed on farm commodities or produce, the farmer will not be hurt for he is protected under the law by the provisions that farm produce prices cannot be fixed under parity, or under the price of commodities between May 24 and June 24 of this year. This means that ceilings on farm produce cannot be much, if any, under present prices. At the same time, the outlook for farmers for the coming year indicate that his 1951 income will be possibly 10 percent higher than in 1950, even though production goods, family living and taxes will cost him more. From outbreak of the Korean war, prices received by farmers made a 10 per cent jump by mid-September. Much of the expected increase in the farm income is expected to come from meat animals and cotton with smaller increases from other commodities.

• • •

The increased stature of the United Nations, as a result of the Korean war and reports of successful operations of many of its commission functions, such as the food & agricultural organization (FAO), now supported by 64 nations, is winning strong support for UN throughout the free world. In addition, history is being written by the North Atlantic military committee, composed of the military representatives of the member nations of the North Atlantic pact, which has been in session here. For the first time since the Crusades European nations have joined together, agreed upon a common armament and a combined army for mutual protection, under a unified command, with probably General Ike Eisenhower, as the commander in chief.

It is the second time within a few weeks, the nations of the world have turned to the United States for military leadership, for United Nations was unanimous in selecting General Douglas MacArthur as commander-in-chief of the United Nations armies in Korea.

• • •

Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, in an important speech this week on "Agriculture and the National Defense," urged the nation's farmers to even greater and greater production of food. Pointing to the wonderful condition of the nation's farms he said:

"We're in good shape. Our food production this year is about 38 per cent higher than the average for the years just preceding the recent war, and about the same as in our recent years of record and near-record production. Our field crop production is bigger than in any year prior to 1946. Our total supply of livestock feed for the coming year will be nearly as large, in bushels and per animal, as the record supplies of the 1949-50 season.

. . . Our superb food production rules out any need at this time for drastic food controls. The family market basket can still be filled at prices lower than the lowest ceilings that could be put on under the defense production act."

WHY WAIT?

Last Tuesday, November 7th, the people of Chilton County stated in no uncertain terms they were ready and anxious for a good, modern hospital.

By a vote of three to one they announced that whatever it took to secure an up-to-date hospital they were ready to co-operate.

Now, what we want to know is why should we wait for the government to lend us money under the Hill-Burton Bill to finance a hospital. It is true we could get a loan for approximately five for one, or say we pay one-hundred thousand and borrow five-hundred thousand. Remember this is only a loan and has to be repaid. Then we wait our turn which could be years. Then, too we are under government control and bushels and bushels of red-tape.

So, what's the answer? With the authority of the people which was so overwhelmingly given at the recent election, the Commissioners Court of Chilton County could appoint a fact-finding committee to investigate all angles and determine the best steps to take to secure a hospital.

Upon good authority we understand the new tax will bring in $40,000 to 50,000 per year which would easily finance bonds at a low rate of interest for its construction. It would also place the new hospital under the direction of local authority.

We have the opportunity to go forward now. The people have spoken. Let's do something about it.

FAITH IS SHOWN

The people of Chilton County showed faith in the Democrats of the county in the General Election Tuesday 7th. This should inspire each and every candidate who was elected to office to do their utmost to justify this confidence.

We firmly believe that each of the candidates are capable of serving their county well and will listen to the will of the people in all of their actions.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Little Glenda Kendrick, age 4, was riding to the grocer's the other day with her dad, Luther Kendrick, Sheriff-elect. Her dad told her not to be asking for things when she got to the store as she could not have anything. After following her dad for awhile and seeing all the goodies about the store she made this remark; "Dad, if you don't buy me something, I won't let you go to the football game with me tonight."

Certainly it cannot be said that the candidates on the Republican Ticket in the general election last week were not all fine capable men. Their campaign was clean and they all took their defeat gracefully. We would say better luck next time if it were not that we still believe more good can come from, and more improvements be made through our Democratic Party than any other party.

If the war news, hard times, high taxes, and things in general have you feeling low make your plans now to attend the Kid Minstrels at the City Hall in the near future. There's a laugh in every line and a warm feeling of pride in knowing that it's our own youngsters doing the job. And too, they'll be looking for you to lend them your support.

Al Haack has left Station WKLF to accept a position at Columbus, Ga. He will continue the same work there that he was doing at WKLF. He and his family left last week end for their new home.

M. T. Holliman, manager down at the Yellow Front Store, is a native of Carrolton in Pickens County and he doesn't agree at all with the story sent out last week as to the "face on the courthouse window" of the Carrolton courthouse. The story came from the State Department of Records and Reports. According to Mr. Holliman the story, which he has heard all his life, went something like this: The negro was tried and convicted of murder and was hanged in the courtyard. During the hanging and at the exact time the trap was sprung a bolt of lightning struck and the negro's likeness appeared on a window pane in the building. The negro had maintained from the first that he was innocent of the murder for which he was hanged. Now, when the new courthouse was built the likness appeared in the window pane of the new building also. Mr. Holliman also tells that many years ago a hail storm knocked all the windows out at the courthouse with the exception of one—you guessed it, it was the window that held the likeness of the negro that had been hanged for a murder that he swore he didn't commit many, many years ago.

The State Highway Department is fast finishing the two new bridges in the county on U. S. 31. Construction on both the one north of town and the one in South Clanton is progressing rapidly and before too many moons we will be able to drive with comfort and safety across the new bridges.

Retail Sales Show 14.2 Increase In Chilton

The preliminary retail sales index for September showed an increase of 0.4 per cent over August's near-record mark, the Retail Trade Report of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Alabama showed today.

Dollar volume of net retail sales in Alabama in August increased 5.1 per cent over July, the report showed. The final unadjusted index of 106.5 was 21 per cent above the year-ago mark, and eight per cent above the August, 1948, level.

Alabama's net retail sales in the first eight months of 1950 were seven per cent above sales in the corresponding period of 1949.

Thirty-five of the state's 67 counties reported an increase in sales at retail over July, the report said. Of these 23 had their highest index of the year. Seven counties recorded their highest index since the series started. They were Calhoun, Chambers, Choctaw, Covington, Houston, Monroe and Morgan.

Sales by retail food stores increased two per cent duringg August. Sales at retail by wholesale grocers increased 6 per cent. The retail food store sales index was 11 per cent above August, 1949. Food prices in Birmingham increased 1.5 per cent from mid-July to mid-August, and had increased an additional one per cent my mid-September. In Mobile, the index increased five per cent from mid-June to mid-September.

The net retail sales for Chilton County in August showed a 14.2 per cent increase from the previous month.

In the city of Plateau there is a settlement of Negroes known as Africky Town. All who live in this settlement are descendants of the last shipload of slaves brought to the South. The Negroes of Africky Town have remained pure Guinea stock and still have many customs and beliefs brought from Africa. The last of the original slaves, Uncle Cudjo Lewis, died in 1935, when according to his record, he was 105 years old.

Take not God's Name in Vain

"Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His Name in vain." (Ex. 20:7). This is the third commandment of the Decalogue; and is against false swearing, blasphemy, and irreverent use of the name of God. It forbids all false oaths, and all common swearing where the name of God is used, and includes all light and irreverent mention of God, or any of His attributes. Furthermore, it is against the modern speech of profanity which we hear on the streets and everywhere so common among some men and women, and even small children. Such corrupt speech is a disgrace, not only to God's Name, but to the user. It is the one sin that offers nothing in return, but remorse of conscience, and eternal damnation.

A. T. HICKMAN

Profanity and blasphemy is so common that I feel that all ministers should lift up our voices against the taking of the Lord our God's Name in vain. We would not stand by and allow our mother's name pulled down in disgrace, or used so lightly and in vain; then why not arise with all the spiritual power within us, and fight the corrupted speech that is used by so many which does irreverent to the Name of our Saviour. It is to be regretted that even among some church members, and professed Christians, you will hear profanity and blasphemy. But I, for one, do not believe that any true born again Christian can or will take the name of the Lord his God in vain. Surely every one taking the name of the Lord in vain is guilty before God. It shows weakness on the part of the one so guilty. It is not a mark of manhood, but is a sign of mental and moral weakness, and spiritual depravity. It does not matter what the person himself thinks or hopes, or how much he may plead in his own behalf, and say he intends no evil, God will not hold him guiltless, but will judge him guilty before His great White Throne, and will pronounce upon him divine justice.

Friend, if you are guilty of this sin, let me warn you and plead with you, that confession of sin, and repentance before God with a determination to turn from evil, and turn to God is the only thing that will spare your life and soul of the divine wrtah of God Almighty. "He that covereth his sins will not prosper, but he that confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy." (Prov. 28:13.) There is deliverance from all sins in the atonement made of Jesus Christ. Amen.

MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

The formation of hard, patchy scars in the central nervous system of the body characterizes a disease known as multiple sclerosis. Why they form is not known. While accurate statistics are not yet available, the disease is widely prevalent and is believed to cripple twice as many persons as does infantile paralysis.

The disease does not seem to localize, but is likely to be manifest in any part of the body, resulting in interference with function of nerve tissue, that is, difficulty in vision, in gait, in movement and speech.

Characteristic early symptoms, depending on nerve tissue damaged, are inflammation of the optic nerve with blurred vision and partial blindness and weakness or numbness of arms and legs. Other characteristics are involuntary or uncontrollable movements of the eyeball, tremors in the arms or hands, disturbed speech, bladder disturbances and general weakness.

Multiple sclerosis seems to occur most frequently in persons between 20 and 40 years of age and is apparently associated with a severe infection, extreme emotional tension, marked fatigue and, occasionally, with pregnancy. Poor nutrition, chilling, respiratory infections such as the common cold, and minor injuries causing damage to nerve tissue are other factors identified with this strange disease.

Since loss of muscular control is the factor that reduces victims of multiple sclerosis to helplessness, special exercises to reeducate muscles and restore voluntary function are essential.

Because of its misleading, recurrent nature, prolonged rest is advised for patients with multiple sclerosis. The victim may seem greatly improved for a long period, only to lapse again into the helpless, nervous state characterizing the disease.

DALE CARNEGIE

Strange Sense of Honesty

A FRIEND OF MINE NAMED GEORGE, who doesn't want his name used, but who lives in Hackensack, N.J., works for the telephone company. It is his business to see that people who damage the company's property pay for it, as they should. But it is amazing says George, how many people who will be honest otherwise, will try to squirm out of a bill due a big company, though they wouldn't think of trying to cheat an individual.

Carnegie

Recently he had a case in which a doctor's wife was learning to drive and hit a telephone pole, causing considerable damage. George followed the usual procedure in making collections. He called the husband of the woman, a doctor in good standing, and got all the information required by the legal department of the company.

A few days later his telephone rang. It was the doctor, much wrought up. He had learned that someone else had hit that same pole some weeks before so he didn't feel he should stand for all the damage that had been done. He was very indignant about it all.

There was just one thing to do, stave off the doctor until he cooled down, and in the meantime get information on what he claimed. He checked the police department, made a thorough inspection of the pole. Everything indicated that the doctor's wife had done the damage. The doctor's claim seemed so unjust that George's own indignation was aroused. He felt like calling up the doctor and expressing that indignation to a man trying to get out of a just bill.

Then he stopped to think what would happen if he did. A fight, of course.

He thought it over and this is what he actually did:

He called the doctor on the telephone and said, "Doctor, you have a good argument. Here's what I suggest that you do: get all the information about that other accident you have heard about, and when our legal department comes to collect, give the information to them. If someone else should pay for that damage, they will see it at once."

To George's surprise this was the response the doctor made to his suggestion:

"Well, really, I don't want to shirk any responsibilities that are mine."

Church News—

The church was decorated with F.H.A. flowers, red roses, which is symbolic of vibrant, glowing health, a necessary attribute for happiness and efficiency in home and group life. After the F.H.A. program, the pastor, Rev. Evan Johnson, preached a wonderful sermon on, "A Mother's Wage."

Rev. Golden preached at the Methodist Church last Sunday night, and was happy to have five new members to unite with the church. They were: Mrs. Clint Gandy and little daughter, Betty, Minnie Evelyn Williams and Mr. George D. Gillespie. Everyone rejoiced to see them come into the church.

Christmas Seal Sale Opens Monday

The annual Christmas Seal Sale opens throughout Alabama and the nation Monday.

For more than 40 years the Seal has made possible the far-flung fight against tuberculosis, according to Roy D. Hickman, Birmingham, president of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association.

Hundreds of volunteer tuberculosis association workers, representing every county in Alabama, are behind the move to pep up a program of TB prevention and control. They have been working for weeks on mailing lists in an effort to see that every person who can afford a dollar or two will receive Seals in the mail Monday.

This is one campaign in which the urge to give or refuse to give is left entirely up to the individual. No high-pressure methods will be employed to insist on a contribution, Mr. Hickman said.

Tuberculosis leaders, instead, are stressing the use of Christmas Seals on all holiday mail and packages. They believe the little Seals are the foremost missionary in reminding the public of a disease that kills needlessly—a disease that can be prevented.

In spite of this scientific knowledge and know-how, nearly 1,000 Alabamians died from TB in 1949 alone.

To stop this needless dying is the message of the Christmas Seals. Funds from the sale are used to treat and hospitalize patients, as well as educate the people on ways to prevent the spread of this contagious disease.

Every person who receives Seals next Monday is urged to look at them carefully, and then resolve to use them so their message can be spread. What the receiver gives for the Seals is a matter for each to decide, Mr. Hickman said.

Our community was saddened by the passing of Mr. Charlie W. Rush, age 62, in a Selma Hospital last Wednesday morning at 4:40 after a very brief illness. Funeral services were held at the Stanton Baptist Church at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, November 9, 1950. The church was filled to capacity and numbers of persons stood outside during the services. The flowers were many and beautiful. They alone spoke of the love and esteem for this good man.

Mr. Rush loved his home, his family and never failed in his duty to his church and community. He was always ready to lend a helping hand to those in need and believed as his ministers said, "In Old Time Religion." He loved good singing and certainly in death at his funeral services no sweeter music could have been played and no songs sung that would have pleased him more. The Liberty Hill Quartet of Clanton, Ala., had full charge of this part of the services.

Miss Ruth Hicks, Mrs. John O'Neal and Mrs. W. L. Ruddick had charge of the flowers and their arrangements were lovely.

Mr. Rush was a member of the Weslyn Methodist Church here. He was born in Dallas County, Ala. Connected with the State and County in the Highway Department for approximately 30 years. He had a large family connection and certainly he couldn't number his friends. Everyone respected and loved Charlie Rush. He was well known in both Chilton and Dallas counties.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Verna Davis Rush; three daughters—Misses Gladys Fay and Mary Charles Rush and Mrs. Irby Hastin Harrison (Mildred), all of Stanton, Ala.; two sons; Mr. Owen Meigs Rush, of Selma, and C. W. Rush, Jr., of Stanton, Ala.; three brothers—B. C. and Judson Rush of Selma, and Will D. Rush of Stanton, Ala.; two granddchildren and a number of nieces and nephews.

The loss of this man in our community leaves a gap that can't be filled. His family have the love and respect of all who know them. They have lived good lives. Our deepest sympathy goes out to them in the loss of their loved one.

Pallbearers were men that he worked with: Mr. Lee and Earl Ousley, Mr. Ense and Carlos Klinner, Mr. Pete McCraw and a Mr. Calfee; Breslin Service of Selma directed.

Officiating at the services were: Rev. Edmund Crowe, pastor of his church here; Rev. S. D. Herron of Pell City, Ala.; Rev. Verlon Agin of Horton, Ala., and Rev. J. L. Averett of Heiberger, Ala.

Many people from all parts of the State were here to attend this service and I will not attempt to name all of them.

Our deepest sympathy to the loved ones of Mr. Jim McGee.

Spending the day with the Wheeler O'Neals in Montgomery, Ala., Sunday were Mr. W.M.D. O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Neal, Bobby and Judy; Mr. and Mrs. John T. O'Neal and Peggy Rose; Miss Dorothy O'Neal and Mr. Junior Sherrer. During the afternoon this group also visited Oak Park.

The family of Mr. Charlie W. Rush wish to take this means of thanking all of you for every thoughtful deed, the visits to their home and the hospital, the food you sent or brought, your every expression of sympathy, your kind words and for the beautiful flowers you sent during his illness and death. They especially want to thank each and every person of District No. 1 and 2 of the County for the flowers they sent. It is with humble hearts they say, "Thank You!"

They're "Cleaning Up" In New York!

See where a couple of young fellows in New York City are making a nice business by keeping sidewalks clean in front of big hotels and department stores.

They go to work with a motor-driven broom and a detergent cleanser right after business hours. Make a cement sidewalk like new in five minutes flat!

Now our town doesn't really need such fancy sidewalk cleaning—still, somebody might do the same thing on a smaller scale. He'd make some pocket money—the whole town would benefit.

From where I sit, anyone going into this business should see Andy, over at the Green Gardens. Andy not only keeps his sidewalk clean, but he's in on the Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. Under this voluntary program retailers selling beer cooperate by keeping their places of business clean, bright and orderly. Andy's motto is "Look clean, feel clean, be clean!"

A large sawmill once operated at Vinegar Bend, Alabama. Bringing liquor to the company's property was strictly forbidden, and smuggling "moonshine" into the lumber camps from the deep swamps became a profitable, though risky, business. Whenever a person was observed carrying a jug or can, its contents was immediately questioned by the guards. So frequently was the claim made that the container held vinegar, that the place became known as Vinegar Bend.

Nurse Tells How Hadacol Was So Helpful To Her

Supplied Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin Which Her System Lacked

Mrs. Jennie Lee Adele, 412 N. 27 St., East St. Louis, Ill., a nurse, says she wishes she had found out about HADACOL sooner because since taking HADACOL she feels so good. Mrs. Adele was suffering a deficiency of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Adele's own statement: "I have been a nurse for over 14 years. My food never seemed to agree with me. I heard one day how so many folks were being helped because of HADACOL. I tried it and after 3 bottles I could tell a big improvement. Now I eat anything I want—sleep well and I am full of energy."

Why HADACOL Gives Such Fine Results

HADACOL does not bring just symptomatic relief. HADACOL now makes it possible to actually relieve the cause of aches and pains in the shoulders, legs and arms, certain nervous disturbances, and a general run-down weakened condition due to deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron in your system.

HADACOL not only supplies deficient systems with extra quantities of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron, and Niacin but also helpful amounts of important Calcium and Phosphorus—elements so vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

Why These Vitamins and Minerals Come In Liquid Form

There's a very good reason why HADACOL comes in special liquid form. These precious Vitamins and Minerals are more easily and quickly absorbed into the blood stream this way—ready to go right to work. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days.

Don't Be A 'Doubting Thomas'

After reading Mrs. Adele's wonderful experience with HADACOL—how can you doubt that this great new nutritional formula will help you if your system lacks Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron, and Niacin?

What HADACOL did for Mrs. Adele, it can do for you if you're troubled with aches and pains in the shoulders, legs, and arms, certain nervous disturbances, insomnia when due to an upset stomach, stomach distress and a general run-down weakened condition due to such deficiencies.

So what are you waiting for? Don't you see that HADACOL is the kind of product you need—the kind you should buy and the kind you should start taking immediately!

Sold On A Strict Money-Back Guarantee

HADACOL even helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to course through your body, carrying these great health-building elements to every body organ. No wonder HADACOL helps you feel wonderful.

Be fair to yourself! Give yourself a break if you have such deficiencies! Why continue to drag yourself around—a burden to yourself and your family—when relief may be as close at hand as your nearest drugstore if you suffer a defiiciency of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron. This great HADACOL is inexpensive, too—costs only a small amount a day. Trial size, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

15 FROM CHILTON ARE INDUCTED INTO ARMY

Fifteen men from Chilton County were inducted into the Army on November 13th, it was announced by Mrs. Zora Guy Smith, Clerk of the local Selective Service Board.

They were:

Floyd D. Glass, Edwin Ezell Holley, Wiley Thamar Bean, Dallas Aubrey Campbell, E. W. Walker, Jr., Thomas Marshall Williamson, Truett Lloyd Bearden, Billy Frank Klinner, Julious Marlon Chandler, Claudie Paul Gentry, Osie Lee Johnson, Marshall Edgar Green, Marvin O'Neal Hilyer, Elvin Vernon Baker and Doyle Leonard Culp.

The Site of Huiliwahli, below Tallassee on the north bank of the river Tallapoosa,, is one of three points agreed upon by historians as being definitely on Hernando DeSoto's route. It is believed that his expedition stopped there on August 31, 1540.

BABIES FOR ADOPTION SHOW BIG DROP

Welfare Director Broughton Lamberth this week said there are three reasons why it is getting harder and harder to adopt a baby in Alabama. They are: 1. The Welfare Department receives less than one-half of the adoptable babies for handling. 2. A large number of the children cannot be placed due to mental and physical defects. 3. There are five times as many homes seeking babies for adoption as there are babies available.

During the past year the department received 112 children for adoption purposes and placed 106 in new homes.

There are now 568 homes on the approved list awaiting children for adoption.

At the present time the department has 108 children who have not been placed. Of these, 40 are infants under two years of age; and 60 are older children who are physically and mentally normal.

Lamberth said that it is much harder to place older children, adding, "Prospective parents may express a willingness to consider an older child and still be unable to adopt one. An older child usually cannot love new parents right, and this requires an unusual amount of patience and understanding. It isn't easy to take a youngster who has had difficult experiences and slowly win his love and confidence."

Lamberth especially urged couples over forty who are interested in making adoptions to consider these older children. He said it takes from six months to three years for adoptions to be made.

SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR VETERANS NEWS

Veterans of the Spanish-American War, Boxer Rebellion and Philippine Insurrection are now eligible for outpatient medical care without regard to service-connection, the Veterans Administration announced today.

This care is provided under provisions of Public Law 791, 81st Congress, explained Harley A. Smith, Alabama Regional Manager of the Veterans Administration.

To be eligible, Smith said, a veteran must have served some time between April 21, 1898, and July 4, 1902 (or July 15, 1903, if the service was in Moro Province, Philippine Islands), and was discharged other than dishonorably.

Between 800 and 1,000 Alabama veterans have thus become potentially eligible for full medical and dental care in VA clinics, or at home by fee basis phyisicians and dentists for any illness or disability. This, however, does not include payment for treatment of non-service connected disabilities in private hospitals.

Full information on Public Law 791 may be obtained from any VA office, service officers of veterans' organizations, or by writing to the Veterans Administration Regional Office, 400 Lee Street, Montgomery 4, Ala.

DR. GORGAS PLACED IN NEW YORK HALL OF FAME

Dr. William Crawford Gorgas, one of Alabama's greatest citizens, this week was voted a permanent place in New York University's Hall of Fame for Great Americans. Dr. Gorgas won fame for ridding the Panama Swamps of the yellow fever, thereby clearing the way for the building of the Panama Canal. Six Americans were added to the Hall of Fame, and Gorgas received the top vote—four more even than Woodrow Wilson. Dr. Gorgas, born in Toulminville, Ala., in 1854, served as surgeon general of the U. S. Army from 1914-1918.

The House of Two Cities, 8-10 North Jackson Street, in Mobile, was built in 1820 at Blakely, Alabama, across the Mobile River in Baldwin County. In 1829 the house was taken down, brought to Mobile in rowboats by slaves, and reerected on its present site. It took over a year to bring the material from Blakely to Mobile and a much longer time to reassemble the house. It is a two-story structure of brick cover with a smooth grey stucco. A driveway through the center divides the ground floor into too buildings.

GOV. FOLSOM SIGNS MANY NEW BILLS INTO LAW

When the fifth special session ended October 25, the legislators left a whole stack of bills on the governor's desk, awaiting his signature. Most of those have now been signed into law. The more important ones include the following:

1. To raise the salary of the state superintendent of education from $5700 to $7500.

2. To exempt tuition charges at all state colleges for the widows and children of veterans who are killed in the Korean conflict.

3. To exempt certain colleges properties from taxes.

4. To make it unlawful to any person to handle, display, or exhibit a poisonous or dangerous snake or reptile in such a manner as to endanger the life or health of another.

4. To amend the city-county merit system law to allow temporary employees to be hired in emergencies.

5. To air-condition the second floor of the capitol building.

6. To raise the salaries of the state auditor, treasurer, and secretary of state from $4800 to $6000.

7. To appropriate $9400 for painting the exterior of the capitol.

8. To restore the ten per cent cut, amounting to $40,000, which the legislature in 1949 sliced from the Examiner of Accounts appropriation.

PRICE SUPPORT ON COVER CROP SEED

Auburn, Ala. — The U. S. Department of Agriculture has recently announced a basic support program for winter cover crop seeds produced in 1951.

Prices announced are as follows: Hairy vetch, 14.7 cents per pound; common vetch, Williamette vetch, and Caley peas, six cents; crimson clover, 1.5 cents; common ryegrass, 6.75 cents; and blue lupine, four cents.

Ralph R. Jones, A.P.I. marketing specialist, says that while the price support program does not fix the market price of the seed, it does have some significance in determining the price.

Jones further states that farmers in Alabama who plan to produce blue lupine seed next spring can expect a minimum price of four cents per pound for them, or that a farmer planning his 1951 winter cover crop program can not expect to buy hairy vetch seed for less than 14.7 cents per pound.

During the year 1886 the City of Montgomery replaced its horse-drawn street cars with the first electric trolly car system in the world.

"I heard a voice at evening softly say,
Bear not thy yesterday into tomorrow,
Nor load this week with last week's load of sorrow.

Lift all thy burdens as they come, nor try
To weigh the present with the by and by.
One step and then another, take thy way,
Live day by day.

Though autumn leaves are withering round thy way,
Walk in the sunshine; it is all for thee.
Push straight ahead, as long as thou canst see;

Dread not the winter whither thou mayest go,
But when it comes be thankful for the snow.

Live day by day."

W.S.C.S. Annual Banquet—

The third annual bazaar and dinner given by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church of Clanton was held on Tuesday afternoon and night in the basement of the church.

The overall idea of the decorations was "The Harvest Time." Each window was filled with a different and artistic arrangement of fall flowers, fruits and harvest of the fields. "The Horn of Plenty" was placed in one corner with baskets of flowers filling in at intervals at the walls. There were booths filled with home-made candy and cakes, white elephant packages, the "sewing basket" booth with hand-made gifts of many kinds. Most attractive was the doll booth, with the bride, bridesmaids, sweater girl, rag dolls and Miss Maid of Cotton, with her wardrobe of cotton. The plant booth with many lovely house plants and bulbs.

Mrs. Luther Clayton of Millbrook has a booth of her famous "Nursery Rhyme Dolls," which caught the eye of the young and old.

Mrs. Corbett Carmichael of Verbena generously offered her beautiful collection of antiques. With all profits from the sales to go to the W.S.C.S.

The twelve tables arranged in the center of the room where dinner was served represented each month of the year. Each table was covered with a white cloth and centered with a very attractive scene of that month.

A very popular place for all was the "Fish Pond."

A home-cooked meal, cooked and served by the ladies of the church, was served at 5 o'clock until 8:00 p.m.

These ladies are to be greatly commended on the work they put forth to make this such a beautiful and successful affair.

LEADER APPOINTED FOR STATE 4-H CLUB GIRLS

Auburn, Ala. — Miss Ann Barr has been appointed state 4-H Club leader for girls, it was announced recently by P. O. Davis, director, A.P.I. Agricultural Extension Service.

She succeeds Miss Mary Dell McCain, who recently resigned to join the Missiouri Extension Service.

Born in Jefferson County, Miss Barr received her B. S. degree from Alabama College. Upon her graduation in 1936 she taught home economics in Tuscaloosa County for two years, and she served as vocational home economics teacher in Crenshaw County where she remained four years.

In 1943 she joined the WACS and during her tour of military duty served a year in Italy.

Since 1945 she has served as assistant home demonstration agent in Talladega.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barr, Birmingham.

FOLSOM SENDS NOTE OF GRATITUDE TO TRUMAN

The following telegram was sent by Gov. James E. Folsom to President Harry Truman, shortly after the president escaped assassion's bullets:

"We in Alabama are thankful that a great American and a great Democrat has been spared from those who would destroy our American system of government.

"You have the sincere prayers and best wishes of us all."

WINTER CARE FOR WASHING MACHINE

Auburn, Ala. — Washing machines kept in a cold place, such as an outside porch, should be brought into a warm room several hours before using.

Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, warns that if this precaution is not taken, the oil or grease in the machine may be so stiff that the starting load will be heavy enough to blow a fuse in the circuit.

Also, she emphasizes the fact that porcelain enamel tubs need to have the chill off before using. If hot water is poured into a very cold tub, the enamel may crack.

To protect washing machines, buy or make a plastic or rubberized hood to cover machine when it is not in use. The cover should be used even if the machine is kept in the house at it prevents scarring.

FALL FRESHENING

To avoid a milk surplus in the spring, large numbers of Alabama dairymen bred cows to freshen in the fall. As a result, dairymen have positive proof that fall freshing is better than at other times of the year.

TURKEYS

With about 44 million turkeys coming to market, most any time will be turkey time for those who want to enjoy this prized meat.

First Community Concert Monday Evening, November 20th, At 8 p.m.

CHLOE OWEN

A rising star in the concert world is the young Southern soprano, Chloe Owen, who will appear in Clanton on Monday, November 20th, at 8:00 p.m., in the First Baptist Church under the auspices of the Community Concerts Association. Her program will reflect the range of her unusual voice which, in professional circles, is known as "lirico spinto"; in lyaman's words, as a soprano equipped to sing operatic roles from the lyric Mimi to the dramatic Aida. Miss Owen, however, devotes her rare vocal gifts largely to song literature where her unusual repertoire ranges from Bach and Brahms through Debussy and Ravel to contemporary young American composers, many of whom are her good friends.

Chloe Owen was born in Raleigh, N. C., spent her early years in Savannah, Ga., and was educated at Chattanooga, Tenn. She comes of a long line of musicians. Her great-grandfather, Robert Dale Owen, took the first concert orchestra west of the Mississippi in the days before railroads were built. Her father, Blynn Owen, was organist, choir master and dean of the Music Department of the University of Chattanooga for many years. Her mother was a dramatic soprano who confined her post-marital career to church singing and vocal teaching.

Brought up on music, Chloe Owen started lessons as a child, studying violin and dancing before she was old enough to concentrate on her voice. When she was a little girl she was allowed to do "bits" in her father's Gilbert and Sullivan productions and she remembers dancing the hornpipe in "Pinafore" and carrying the Mikado's umbrella.

While at college she sang in the glee clubs and was soloist with the Orpheus Club, the male glee club, with which she toured the South as soloist. After being graduated with a B.M. degree from the University of Chattanooga she went to the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore where, on scholarships, she studied two years—voice with Frank Bibb and opera under Ernst Lert. When the former came to New York she followed him to continue her studies and prepare seriously for a career, earning her living singing from churches to night clubs. Since then she has also studied with Pietro D'Andria and with Fern Sherman and is now studying with Galli-Curci's teacher, Frantz Proschowski.

The young soprano has recently filled a variety of engagements. They range from appearances with the Schola Cantorum of New York and the Hartford Oratorio Society, to a soloist engagement over CBS. She has done Isadore in "Cosi Fan Tutte" with the Carnegie Opera Guild, has sung recitals throughout the East and Middle West, and has appeared twice in the American Festival of Music over New York's municipal radio station WNYC.

Chilton County music lovers are promised a rare treat in music when they hear Chloe Owen sing on Monday evening, at 8:00 p.m., in the First Baptist Church of Clanton.

GIVING FURNITURE AN OILED FINISH

It just takes a little work to give a piece of furniture an oiled finish that won't show spots or scratches.

First, remove all dust and dirt. Then brush on a coat of finish made by mixing two parts boiled linseed oil and one part turpentine. Wipe off all excess oil with a clean cloth. Remember to clean all crevices, otherwise the oil will harden and will have to be removed with varnish remover.

Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, says that after this job is done, rub finish for five to 15 minutes, or until a hard lustrous surface results. Do this at intervals of not less than two days until all dull spots disappear.

NOVEMBER 10 HONORS MARINE CORPS TROOPS OF ALABAMA

The Marine Corps service men had their day in Alabama recently when it was proclaimed by Governor James E. Folsom in their honor.

On that day, the governor said, "The United States Marine Corps will celebrate its 175th Anniversary as a fighting force for liberty and justice under our American government." The governor said that the Marine Corps has "served its country well and faithfully throughout its long history extending from the American Revolution in 1775 to the battlefields of Korea in 1950."

The governor asked the citizens of this state to call to mind the motto, "Semper Fidelis" — Always Faithful— while honoring the Fighting Marines on November 10, United States Marine Day in Alabama.

"PLUG THAT GUN" IS WARNING FROM HAMM

Montgomery, Ala. — Conservation Director Phillip J. Hamm warns hunters to check and see if their shotgun are properly plugged. Regulations require a one piece metal or wooden plug that cannot be removed without disassembling the gun and which reduces the gun's capacity to one shell in the firing chamber and two in the magazine.

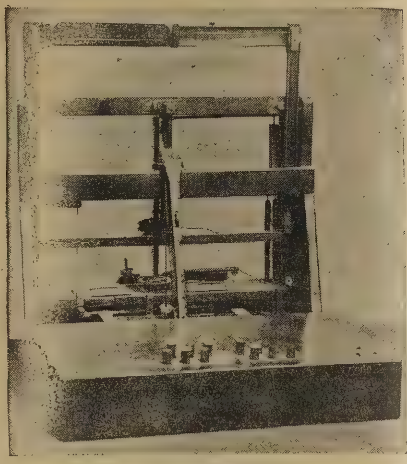
INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT ALABAMA



FIRST TYPEWRITER

The first typewriter was invented by John Jonathan Pratt of Centre. Records show that his machine was completed in 1864, and a patent was granted him in London, England, in 1866. Pratt did so much writing as Register in Chancery at Centre that his fingers became cramped and one night he jokingly told friends, "I am going to invent a writing machine, so my fingers won't ache so much when writing." Finally in 1860, a crude appearing machine was completed. The inventor could not get financial backing in this country but after proving his machine practical to British scientists, he was given a British patent.

CHILTON COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL

Activities for the week, November 6th-10th:

The Athletic Association, under the direction of it's new Coach, Prof. William H. Bell, launched a drive for two weeks and two days. The home rooms entered the drive on a friendly competitor basic; with the understanding that the home group raising the highest amount would be compensaed by having the King and Queen for the Athletic Association coming from the group. The expiration of the drive ended at noon Wednesday, November 8th, with Miss Lee and Mr. Whittington, not home room teachers, receiving the money from the home room teacher making known to the school the winning group. The 12th grade having the principal, Mr. E. D. Sledge, as its sponsor and $71.05 to report, thought they knew in advance who had won the drive, but when Mrs. Ruth C. Sledge, who is the sponsor of 10 B division, turned in $86.00 as the highest aount and winning group. The 12th grade especially was a disappointed group.

Ten A having Mrs. Mitchell as it's sponsor, turned in $53.38, the third highest amount; the 11th grade having Prof. W. H. Bell as it's sponsor, turned in $31.91, the fourth highest amount, making a grand total of $245.34. This money will be used to pay off the indebtedness of the Athletic Association to May and Green, and toward purchasing warm-up suits for the

"TOE-PINCHING" TIPS FOR ALABAMA TRAPPERS

Auburn, Ala. — Alabama trappers may obtain valuable information from the new publication Toe-Pinching for Profit," Circular 5, just released by the A.P.I. Extension Service.

The well illustrated publication describes various methods of trapping each fur bearer found in the state. In addition to details of widely used and approved sets for trapping, a brief description of each fur bearer is given Sections are also devoted to home tanning of skins and home manufacture of lures and baits.

Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. Extension Service fish and wildlife specialist, believes that the new trapper will find the publication most helpful and the veteran trapper will be able to add to his trapping knowledge by reading it. The information on trapping beaver should prove more beneficial in the 22 counties where trapping for "old paddletail" is legal. Any game warden has complete information on laws concerning trapping.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Valle B. Kirkham of Colorado Springs, Colo: I remember, at my grandmother's old home, the hakle, a comb for dressing hemp. And the candlestick molds with which candles were made to light the homes.

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: Here are some more old-fashioned remedies I remember: castor oil on warts, cobwebs (out of the attic or barn) for fresh cuts, sulphur and molases for spring tonic, slippery elm bark made in a poultice and applied warm to remove a thorn or needle from hand or foot, a cold steel knife on a bump. How many other old-time remedies can you old-timers remember? Let's hear from you!

YOU TASTE IT FIRST!

From Mrs. A of Bristow, Okla.: I remember when William McKinley and William Jennings Bryan were running for President, their pictures were on lamp chimneys. My father purchased what he supposed to be a picture of McKinley for our lamp chimney. The storekeeper, it seems, slipped in Bryan's without father's knowledge. When Father arrived home he placed it on the lamp, but then noticed the mistake. Bryan was quickly thrown out the door — and did Dad blow his top!

From Mrs. Ma Kittleson of Mt. Horeb, Wis.: I remember when my grandmother used to put a yoke on her shoulders, go to the well, break the ice on the water, dip in the pail, carry it up to the kitchen, then put it on the stove to warm for her two cows and also for her own use. Such were the pioneer days.

PEANUT REFERENDUM IS SET FOR DECEMBER 14

The Nation's peanut growers will vote in a referendum on December 14, 1950, to decide if they want to extend marketing quotas to the 1951, 1952 and 1953 crops.

Mr. Crawley, chairman of the state PMA committee, states that polling places will be established in each community in which peanuts are grown, and that voting will be by secret ballot. Any farmer engaged in the production of peanuts in 1950 is eligible to vote in the referendum. Results of the referendum are determined on a national basis. If approved, quotas will apply to all growers.

A CLOTH OVER PLANTS STOPS OLD JACK FROST

Many gardeners have learned that a cloth spread over vegetables when the temperature drops below 20 degrees F. gives considerable protection.

"Any kind of cloth can be used," says J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service garden specialist. "Mill ends or feed sacks, opened up and sewed together, are very good. A second cloth laid over the first adds more protection. A much greater degree of protection is secured if paper, one or more sheets thick, is spread between the two cloth covers. Of course the wind needs to be shut out at the edges."

Sixth Grade Entertains During Education Week

Last week was American Education Week and all classes in all the schools throughout the United States celebrated by having their parents and friends visit with them in their classes to observe their methods of learning.

The pupils of Mrs. Curry Thomas's sixth grade acted as hosts to some 29 visitors last Thursday and Friday.

They gave a brief presentation of each subject in a day's school work with maps, pictures, writing, specimens, music and verse.

Those taking part in this most interesting presentation included: The devotional in Scriptures memorized by the class and led by Charles Allen Jones arithmetic illustration, led by Mayblane Butler; social studies, led by Linda Wade; writing or penmenship papers presented by Myrna Vines; Science illustration with an exhibit of specimens of rock formation, shown by Kenneth Messer; spelling, led by Jimmy Martin; language illustration by Patsy Barnett; reading lesson by Mavis Wyatt; physical education discussion by Glenda Faye Robinson; health talk by Jimmy Cox; music illustration, led by Billy Parker, with group singing and piano solos.

The president of this class is Ralph Vines and he most graciously introduced the program and welcomed the visitors.

The class hostess, Carolyn Tucker, met each visitor at the door and introduced them to the class after which she escorted them around the room showing them some of the work the class had been doing.

All the visitors were guests of the class for lunch in the school lunchroom and enjoyed a picture shown by the teacher immediately following lunch.

BETTER HEALTH FROM A BETTER CORN MEAL

Auburn, Ala. — Corn meal is a basic food in Alabama, and good corn meal can be made only from sound, clean corn free from weevil and rat contamination.

"Corn should be harvested before it is damaged in the field," declares John P. Bell, A.P.I. Extension Service corn products marketing specialist. "It should be stored in buildings and bins so constructed or repaired to keep rats out and tight enough to fumigate for weevils."

Bell adds that over 500 grist millers located in every county in Alabama are equipped to enrich the meal they grind. Clean corn meal, when enriched with vitamins, makes a good food better.

Ask your miller or groceryman for enriched corn meal. Look on the bag to see if it is marked "enriched" before buying.

DALLIS POISONING MUST BE WATCHED

Dallis grass is one of the best pasture grasses in Alabama, yet it often poisons cattle during the late summer and fall

W. H. Gregory, A.P.I. Extension Service livestock specialist, explains that the seed-heads are poisonous when infected with a disease called ergot. The disease is very common and causes the seed-heads to turn black.

Since the poison is located only in the seed-heads, most of the trouble can be avoided by mowing the pasture.

Gregory further states that poisoning by diseased Dallis grass can be prevented if cattle are removed from infected pastures. Cattle poisoned by Dallis grass will usually recover if given good care.

HOME DEMONSTRATION NEWS FROM MINOOKA CLUB

The club met with Mrs. Myrtle Virgin as a surprise spend-the-day, in honor of Mrs. Virgin's 86th birthday. Each one brought a dish and a delicious plate lunch was served. There were two cakes, one with candles and Happy Birthday, the other had inscribed the number 86.

Twenty-one were there and Miss Sara Sue Barnett, great-granddaughter of the honoree, assisted in displaying the gifts.

Mrs. Virgin is the first president of H.D.C. in Chilton County and the oldest member, having been a member for 36 years.

In the afternoon the club took up the regular work, and Miss Brown gave an interesting demonstration on cake making.

Faulty spark timing, improper valve tappet setting, leaky valves, or a partially plugged radiator can cause high fuel consumption.

Here's a tip on removing the shell from a coconut. Open the eyes of the coconut with an ice pick or with the sharp point of a knife and drain out the milk. Then put the coconut in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until it cracks—about 30 minutes. Remove from the oven and allow the shell to cool. Then the coconut can be easily removed.

Things We See And Hear

(By "Tuck")

Romeo last week was Joe Douglas Grooms and I do believe I calculated his measurements in correct proportions. I'm usually way off the beam, but by some great misfortune I hit him just right. Oh well, you can't be wrong all the time, I hope!

Looks sorta like we got beat again, folks. I don't know exactly what's happening to us, but I sure wish it would stop. Twice in succession. Man, that's gettin' bad. If we could just connect more often with the Seales to Easterling team we'd do okay. You know, some people seem to think our school spirit doesn't show enough. Well, it has occurred to me, and others, I might add, that a student body cannot support a team when they can't even see what's going on. By that I mean the bleachers and their present location on our local field that the cheering section and the band now occupy. Whoever heard of a cheering section on the far end of a football field, in a high school anyway? It seems to me that the supporters of the team should get the best seats in the stadium next to the reserved ones. Maybe if the student body got a better location for their cheering section they would do a little more of it and a little louder. So instead of sticking them up in one corner of the field that won't really hold all of them anyway, they ought to be seated directly behind the football boys bench so they can tell when to yell and what to yell and how to yell it.

Well, keeds, looks like all we have left to this season is to whip the Loretto Saints and Prattville. Prattville has gone undefeated for 22 games now and we're going to try and break their winning streak.

Next week our girl friend is going to be about 5 ft. 6½ in. tall, weighs about 115 pounds, 16 years old (That's a bad thing to tell on a girl, isn't it?) Well, I guess she is still young enough not to be offended. She sings in the glee club and has a good voice for it, too, and she has a sister about the same age she is.

CLASSROOM SHORTAGE IN CHILTON COUNTY

Figures recently compiled by the Superintendent of Education of Chilton County show that 26 classrooms are needed today in the county in order to have one for each teacher that should have one.

Twenty of the number have no classroom of any type. Many of them are teaching in dining rooms while others are teaching in small spaces intended for offices, libraries and storage rooms Some classrooms have been improvised by partitioning large rooms. Six are teaching in classrooms that have been converted from old lunchrooms or that were built a number of years ago to be temporary. These rooms are very poor substitutes.

The above number does not include the many classrooms in the county that should be "retired" because of old age. Several of the larger buildings are 27 to 28 years of age.

To build 26 classrooms now, it would cost the county around $130,000, since the average, well built classrooms cost $5,000 or more to construct. Revenue funds for such construction are totally lacking.

VERBENA WANTS NATURAL GAS

Mayor C. Fenn Jones received correspondence recently to the effect that Verbena was interested in securing natural gas for their community under the same contract negotiated recently with Clanton.

Under the conditions of the contract the Mayor and Council are obligated to first supply Clanton and the residents on U. S. 31 South before obligating themselves elsewhere

However, the Mayor stated Tuesday that should all residents of Clanton not want the natural gas and after mains were laid here to fulfill all contracts with customers, then with any finances left for building and maintaining gas lines, Verbena could be supplied.

The officials at City Hall are anxious for all would-be customers to sign up if they want natural gas so that it will be known how many customers are to be served.

FOUR BAD GIRLS LIKE FEMALE "DEAD END KIDS"

What the "Dead End Kids" were for wayward boys, the "So Young, So Bad" teen-agers are for delinquent girls.

Four brilliant young actresses make their screen debuts as the "bad girls" in the new United Artists film, "So Young, So Bad," showing next Monday and Tuesday at the Clanton Drive-In Theatre. Their names, which undoubtedly will be heard more often in the future, are: Anne Francis, Anne Jackson, Rosita Moreno and Enid Pulver.

They were selected for leading parts in the dramatic new picture about a Corrective Home for Girls after an intense search by Producers Edward J. and Harry Lee Danziger. Almost 300 young thespians were tested for the roles. The outcome was the casting of the Misses Francis, Jackson, Moreno and Pulver.

The average age of the four actresses is just a few months over 17. Yet their talent is so unusual, so sensitive and understanding, that they accurately run the whole gamut of emotions in "So Young, So Bad."

As the "four bad girls," they will not be quickly forgotten.

LIVE COMMUNITIES NOT ACCIDENTS

Only Consistent Cooperation of the Merchants and Buying Public Can Accomplish Desired Results

When you find high class public schools located accessible to your children; when you find a community of fine churches; when you find all the conveniences of modern life at your elbow, just stop and think that this is the result of successful home trade, which has made it possible to create a splendid center of civilization in your locality. If everybody had decided to trade away from home these things could not exist in your neighborhood. They might exist in some remote city where your welfare is never considered, and you might as well be in the wilds of Africa, for all those who had profited by the money you sent them would care.

A safe and sound bank, a live mercantile establishment, or an industry that is commanding business in the community is a great asset to every person in that community. It is the thing that decides the stability of the town, and determines the growth of the place and its desirability as a place in which to live. No person cares to locate in a town where business is uncertain and shaky, or where conditions are so uncertain that investments in real estate would be a doubtful venture. And all of these conditions depend in the final analysis on what you are doing with your money and whether the town is receiving the business to which it is entitled.

In home trade, however, you are dealing with neighbors and friends. You are dealing with those who sorrow with you when your loved ones are taken. You are dealing with those who are ready to chip in and help as far as their means will allow them when you and your family are in distress; you are dealing with those who are your joint partners in the joys and sorrows of your home community. Disaster to you is disaster to them.

The welfare of the people of a community is inseparable. Selfishness and shortsightedness exist but it's the liberal broadminded spirit of live and let live that makes your home community an abiding place worth while.

Very few of the country towns of the state offer better opportunities than they did twenty years ago, are not so promising as they were at that time. One reason for this perhaps, is the growing tendency to patronize mail order houses and stores located in the larger centers. It is worth noting that farm values depend in some measure, at least, on the proximity of the property to a good town. Eliminate the country town, and land values surely will drop. We believe the small town is needed, and that farmers and townspeople are exceedingly shortsighted when they fail to patronize home merchants and their home institutions.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

A most appreciated visitor to the Chilton County News office this week was Mrs. Belle Wade. She was visiting about town and saying hello to her friends and making small purchases. The weather was perfect for such a trip and we are sure that the friends Mrs. Wade visited enjoyed the call as much as she enjoyed the calling.

And speaking of callers. We just wouldn't know Mr. J. G. Heida of Thorsby if he wasn't smiling and ready with a joke—and usually the joke is on himself. He came by this week to tell us of his accident and that he was recovering nicely. According to Mr. Heida there is nothing worse than a broken bone. By his own statement he chewed up all the pills in Thorsby trying to get a little relief from his pain. Cause of the whole thing was a horseback ride a few weeks ago near his home. The horse threw him causing the broken bone, the bruised back and the injured leg. Says he thinks he will make it now, but he doesn't feel nearly so smart as he did.

Some horse thief stole Harold Smyer's automobile. That pretty yellow convertible. It was a Ford Convertible (now you can quit twisting, Rip). Anyway it was taken from in front of his home the other night some time between bed time and getting up time. Harold tells us that not a word has been heard in regards to its whereabouts since it was stolen. Harold says another automobile was stolen here recently. You know, it's a dirty shame, for so long as we have been free from such worry in our county and now to think one can't go to bed nights without wondering whether his car will be where he left it the night before or not. Things like that don't sound good for our county where we are used to living a carefree life.

This Week In Washington

WHILE OFFICIAL WASHINGTON sought to digest the results of the off-year election which went largely as anticipated, there were several up-sets which will change the outlook for 1952 and indicates how the American people are thinking along several issues.

• • •

The unexpected defeat of Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland after 24 years in the senate and the political defeat of scholarly Elbert Thomas of Utah by Wallace Bennett, former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, provide the two biggest upsets in the election. Tydings' defeat, more than any other incident, reflects the results of "McCarthyism" in the minds of the American people and proves conclusively that the people took to heart the fight made by Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin against alleged Communism in the state department. For it was Tydings who, as chairman of the senate investigating committee hearing the McCarthy charges, found them irresponsible and unfounded, and it was McCarthy who stumped the state of Maryland on that direct issue resulting in the defeat of the Maryland veteran Senator.

• • •

These other factors are giving Washington politicians food for thought—the strength of labor, as directed by the CIO and AFL political committees, proved much weaker than expected, and those marked for defeat by labor, particularly Senator Robert A. Taft, piled up whopping votes in labor centers. Also advocates of the Brannan farm plan took a sound licking, the outstanding sections being in Colorado, in Iowa, in Wisconsin and also in Ohio.

• • •

There were also spotty tests of strength by advocates of the Fair Deal program of President Truman—one in Utah, where Senator Thomas was defeated running on a strict adherence to the Fair Deal, and in Colorado where Representative John Carroll, Democrat, was soundly licked by Republican Senator Eugene Millikan.

• • •

In industrial Illinois, where again organized labor was expected to turn out a record vote, Senator Scott Lucas was given the run-around in Chicago and in other industrial cities of that state. While most predictions were that Senator would squeeze through, his opponent, the former Congressman Everett Dirksen, Republican, ran his 20-month campaign right down to election day to win by a reduced majority.

The defeat of Senator Lucas, the Democrat leader in the senate, and also of Senator Francis Myers of Pennsylvania, the Democratic whip in the Senate, leaves the Democrats, with their paper control of the upper house, a tough task of reorganization. The talk heard is that Senator Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming likely will be heard as majority leader when organization of the new senate takes place early in January.

• • •

The vote piled up by Senator Taft in Ohio is regarded as a personal triumph for "Mr. Republican," while the same thing is true for both Senators Brien McMahon and his Democratic colleague, William Benton, in Connecticut where the two Democrats held on to their seats while the governorship went over the the Republican candidate.

Defeat of Senator Forrest Donnell of Missouri by his Democratic opponent, Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., was not unexpected, although the size of the Democratic vote there was larger than had been anticipated. Aside from Missouri, however, the mid-west is safely back in the Republican column, with Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa returning Republican victories.

While the Democrats maintain nominal control of both houses of the congress, which some declare is a "moral" victory in an off-year election, there is little question that there is more of an anti-administration trend than was evidenced in pre-election polls. As a matter of fact, however, the administration has not had control of the congress except in name, due to the southern-Republican coalition and this next congress will definitely be an anti-adminstration congress.

Giving Thanks

This week the people of our nation are asked to give thanks unto Almighty God for His natural and spiritual blessings upon us. This giving of thanks can, and should be done by everybody; by the rich and poor, sick and well, alike. For every one has something for which to be thankful. We can be thankful that we are living in the greatest country in all the world; and even though our freedom in some ways may be limited, yet we Americans enjoy the greatest freedom of any people in the world. The business man can be thankful that he is in a country of free enterprise; the education system of our nation is far from being perfect, yet, it is the greatest on earth.

A. T. HICKMAN

Our Church life is no way what it should be, but we are the most religious people on earth, and have the greatest religious liberty and freedom of any people. America has the best churches, and the best preachers, and more of them, than any country in the world. Were it not for America's missionaries in foreign lands, all the world would be in spiritual darkness. There is not a country in the world but what in some way or another receives a blessing from the most blessed country, which is the U.S.A. If Americanism dies the whole world will die with it. The United States is the hen that lays the golden egg for all the world; to destroy our way of life is to destroy civilization from off the face of the earth. So let us be thankful that we are Americans in America.

Let us not forget the immortal words of Abraham Lincoln in his Gettysburg's address spoken 87 years ago. It is for us living today to dedicate our lives to maintain the new nation which was conceived in Liberty. And may this nation, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that this government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Don't Fight the Uncontrollable

WHEN J. B. Ogle, Owings Mills, Maryland, was serving under Admiral Ted Chandler he was ruffled every time he stood before the Admiral's desk—and those occasions were frequent. The thing that annoyed him was a beautifully inscribed and colored phrase on the wall over the Admiral's desk. When he reported to the admiral these words glared at him: "I care not a damn what the weather be, did you bring in the ship?"

Carnegie

"You'd care about the weather if you had to be in it," rose to his tongue. But you don't say things like that to your admiral. The only relief he got was in talking it over with a fellow officer who agreed with him and said the sentence irritated him, too.

One day it became the painful duty of his fellow officer and himself to report to the admiral, that what was left of their convoy was safely anchored in the harbor. J. B. Ogle was so worked up that nothing mattered, and he blurted out "What is left of those fine ships is just so much junk, but they are still afloat and I want to tell you that sentence over your head didn't help in any way."

To his surprise, the admiral didn't get angry. Instead, he smiled and replied in calm, even tones: "Ogle, I've known for a long time that that statement bothered you and I expected you to blow up about it before this. It has annoyed you because you have worried about it, and you haven't taken the trouble to think about it. I do not care about the weather, and if you face the facts, you don't, either. You or I can do nothing about it, but we can do something about the ship. You can take all the necessary precaution to weather the storm, you can make preparations for facing the enemy—the rest remains with God. You'll find, Ogle, it will be like that all through life. Don't torment yourself about things you can't control but use your ability on what you can control—and then have faith."

Later the admiral was mortally wounded in the Lingayan Gulf and Mr. Ogle's former fellow officer was with him. The officer sent Mr. Ogle a simple card on which he had written: "Joe, he cared not a damn about the enemy, but he brought in the landing force—successfully."

Your Health

THE UPSET STOMACH

"Indigestion" is a common complaint, which sometimes takes long and careful study by a physician to find the cause. In some persons, indigestion is caused by eating rapidly so that food is insufficiently chewed. In others, certain foods are not well accepted by the stomach, causing belching, distention or other discomfort. Spicy, highly seasoned foods are especially likely to cause this reaction.

In many patients, however, indigestion is of nervous origin and traceable to an anxiety of some kind. Usually the patient wrongly blames some food, but this type of indigestion may be accompanied with symptoms indicating nervous influences, such as palpitation, cold hands and feet, sweaty hands or unusual forms of headache.

Overwork, insufficient relaxation and haste in eating may all combine in a stomach upset. Worry is a frequent factor. When the mind is disturbed, the processes of the body are often also affected. Tranquillity and mental poise are necessary to good physical health.

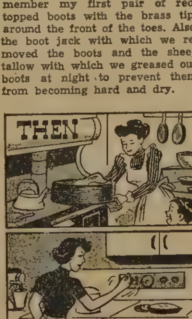
If symptoms resembling indigestion develop and persist, however, the wise person will consult a physician. Distress signals such as belching, bloating, nausea, and a feeling of fullness even after a few mouthfuls of food might suggest more serious ailments as well as the mild indigestion. They may be the forerunner to an ulcer, for example, a condition which is far more difficult to cure than to prevent. The same symptoms may be a warning that cancer or one of certain heart conditions is present. The possibility that "indigestion" is really one of these diseases is the best reason why the habitual use of "anti-acids" and other self-administered "belly-ache" postrums should not used. They only veil symptoms and delay accurate diagnosis until too late.

There are so many ailments that may be symptomized by "indigestion" that all stomach disturbances should be carefully studied by a competent physician. The stomach and other organs making up the gastrointestinal tract form a mighty machine, but they can stand abuse just so long before sending out warning signals. Don't say, "It's only indigestion." See your physician instead.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Valle B. Kirkham of Colorado Springs, Colo.: I remember my first pair of red-topped boots with the brass tips around the front of the toes. Also, the boot jack with which we removed the boots and the sheep tallow with which we greased our boots at night to prevent them from becoming hard and dry.



From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: Here's another addition to our list of old-fashioned remedies: I remember when people really believed that a hair of the dog that bit you should be laid on the wound to prevent rabies. And also when they believed dog fat was a cure for consumption. Let's hear from some other old-timers who remember such old-time remedies.

Let us give thanks!

Dear Lord, how can we thank Thee half enough
For all Thy gifts to us this fruitful year!
For spring's bright promise gloriously fulfilled
This harvest-time; for these that are more dear
Than bread assured; all the sweet joys of life —
Home, work, love, friends — that gild the passing days;
And children's laughter on the evening air —
For all, dear Lord, we give Thee grateful praise.

But most of all, O God, we thank Thee for
Our cherished heritage of freedom. Here
Where men walk safely, surely; speak and pray
As each one wills, and freely, without fear,
Lord make us strong to hold and spread this boon!
From our abundance help the weak to raise
Their hearts and come to share our brotherhood,
And join with us in songs of thanks and praise!

ALABAMA CONGRESS OF PARENTS AND TEACHERS

"World Peace with Freedom" was chosen as the theme for the 1951 Convention, Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, Jacksonville State Teachers' College, April 23-24-25, at its fall Board meeting in Birmingham November 7-8. Mrs. A. O. Haislip, president, announced that this theme would be developed throughout the three-day sessions and that several prominent speakers would address the group.

Another important action of the Board was the organization of groups within the Board of Managers, composed of the councils' presidents' conference, patterned along the lines of the National Congress Board of Managers plan and the State Chairmen's Conference on similar procedures. Mrs. J. T. Killian, president, Sheffield City Council of Parents and Teachers was elected chairman of the Council Presidents' Conference and Miss Melissa Emory, Wetumpka, was elected Chairman of the State Chairmen's Conference. Both groups brought recommendations to the general Board for consideration as neither group can take action or pass regulations. They meet to discuss and study and bring recommendations and ideas to the Board.

As a result of these groups and their discussions, important action was taken in the form of resolutions, with a special request that it be released to the press and sent to every local within the state through the medium of the Information Bulletin, the state publication which goes monthly to the 910 units in membership with the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The resolution adopted by the Board of Managers and so released by its approval, is as follows:

"The Board of Managers of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers deplores the local practice of converting local parent-teaher organizations into fund-raising organizations. Especially do we deplore and condemn P.-T.A. sponsored raffling, bingo, and other games of chance that are detrimental to character building of our youth; also exploitation of youth through fund-raising popularity contests, such as King and Queen elections.

The turning of Hallowe'en programs from wholesome fun activities into fund-raising affairs is deplored.

Parent-teacher associations throughout the State are urged to avoid constant solicitation of merchandise from merchants for fund-raising programs.

Such fund-raising is a complete violation of State and National policies. These policies were carefully studied and are of long standing. They were adopted because past experience proved that such fund-raising activities destroy the purpose of P.-T.A.

Local P.-T.A. members are urged to include the public reading of the P.-T.A. policy statements on "Proper Use of Parent-Teacher Funds," page 55 of the Manual, to be read at three regular meetings.

Rather than use questionable fund raising practices, it is urged that P.-T.A.'s support school boards, school leaders, the Governor, and legislators in their efforts to secure adequate school facilities and programs for all children."

Committee members were: Mrs. Wm. J. Rosser, Birmingham City Council, Chairman; Mrs. Frances Durham, president of Mobile County Council; Miss Fay Kirtland, Monroeville, Vice-president, District I, Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers; Dr. A. R. Meadows, State Supintendent Schools and member Advisory Board of Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The Board of Managers of the Alabama Congress is composed of the elected officers, chairmen of state standing committees and presidents of the 51 organized councils, within the cities and counties of the state. There were seventy-one Board members in attendance and four members of the Advisory Committee.

Try this on your morning pancakes. Mix one-half cup of strained honey with three tablespoons of soft butter; cream thoroughly, and then fold in one-half cup of whipped cream. Serves six.

USE AN ELECTRIC FAN TO THAW FROZEN BIRDS

Poultry may be thawed in the package just before cooking, or the outside wrapper may be removed and the bird thawed more rapidly in front of an electric fan.

A 3-pound bird requires about six to eight hours per pound to thaw in a refrigerator. However, Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist, says that an electric fan will thaw a 5-pound bird in three to six hours. Turkeys require more time.

If wrapper has been removed before thawing, the bird should be cooked immediately or there will be danger of spoilage. "Also, says Miss Curtis, "remember that when poultry is not completely thawed before cooking, it is necessary to increase the cooking time so the meat will be done all the way through when time is up.

As an easy way to measure dates, remember that a ten-ounce package of pitted dates measures about one and one-half cups.

The Homemakers S. S. Class News—

The Homemakers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church of Clanton held its regular monthly meeting on Friday night, November 17th, in the home of Martha Wilson, with Rose Farley, Blanch Powell and Alpha McRae oijnt hostesses.

The program was arranged by Mable Lewis and Iris Taylor. The meeting was opened with the group singing the class song, "Help Somebody Today." Miss Madgelene Johnson gave a most inspiring devotional, reading the Bible Scripture from Matthew 5,13-17, and giving the poems "The Master Is Coming" and "Obedience." These poems have such a wonderful lesson within. Mary Heflin gave the history of the class, giving it the title of "Remembering." Mary read a letter which she had just received from Mrs. Mooney, now of Birmingham who was the class's first teacher. A long letter to the class from Mrs. S. J. Ezell was also read. Mrs. Ezell taught the class for 12 or 13 years. This year marks the 25th anniversary of the class and there was much reminiscencing with the older class members as they would join in with Mary Heflin.

The president, Jewel Sutley, presided at the business session. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Plans were made for Thanksgiving packages to be delivered by the individual class members to some needy person or a shut-in. Reports were made by the various committees. Names were drawn for the annual Xmas tree party to be held on December 15th at the church.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments to 21 members present.

GUNNISON HOUSE

Gunnison House at Point Clear is a white frame, two-story house that was used during the War Between the States as a hospital for wounded Confederate soldiers. During a bombardment by Admiral Farragut's fleet in 1864, a ball hit the house, and a brass plate bearing the inscription, "Compliments of Admiral Farragut, 1865," now covers the hole made by the shot. After the war, Gunnison House became a "Monte Carlo," where money, cotton crops, and sometimes entire plantations changed hands at the gambling tables. It is now a private home.

The death of Michael Truman Capitina, age 2 years and 2 weeks, deeply saddened this community last week. Michael died in a Selma Hospital. He was a beautiful child, the very picture of health. He was ill a very short time before his death and his passing came as such a shock. He was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Olon Capitina. The Capitinas live here on the Earl O'Neal place.

Funeral services were held at Pleasant Grove Church near Lawley, Ala., Friday afternoon at 2:30 p.m., Rev. Hymon Atcheson officiating. Flower ladies were Mrs. Earl O'Neal, Mrs. William Gay, Mrs. John O'Neal and Miss Ruth Hicks.

A number of close relatives in this and other communities survive this child. Our sympathy to the bereaved ones.

The Olon Capitinas wish to take this means of thanking each and everyone of you for your every deed of kindness, sympathy, the beautiful flowers, visits and for the food you sent or brought to their home during their recent bereavement. They also want to thank Mr. White of Spigener Funneral Home, Clanton, and Rev. Hymon Atcheson of Maplesville, Ala., for their services.

News of the sudden death of Mr. Perry Milam of 970 North 53rd Street, Birmingham, Ala., reached relatives here late Monday afternoon. Mr. Milam had completed his day's work at the Goslin Manufacturing Co., and was preparing to go home from his work when he collapsed and died. He had worked for this company for over 16 years.

Mr. Milam was 58 years of age, was born in Chilton County. His parents were the late Mrs. Alice Ruddick Milam and Mr. Union Milam. This family spent a number of years in this and surrounding communities. Were highly respected and loved by all who knew them. They have a large family connection here.

Mr. Milam is survived by his wife, Mrs. Cora Milling Milam; two sons, Perry, Jr., and Ladelle; three sisters—Eunice, Anna and Clozelle; one brother, Goodlow Milam. Our sympathy to the loved ones.

Funeral services were held from the Woodlawn Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon. Burial in Forest Hill Cemetery. The floral tributes were many and very beautiful.

The Goslin Manufacturing Co. was closed during the funeral and the community in which the Milams live certainly went all out for this family during their bereavement.

Five colored men who had worked under Mr. Milam's supervision during all these years and had learned to love their "boss man" attended his funeral and had places in the balcony reserved for them.

Attending this funeral from this and surrounding communities were Mrs. Fannie Milling Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Pierson Milling, Mr. William Ruddick, Mr. and Mrs. U. T. Ruddick and Mrs. Arthur Osbourne.

On November 24th and 25th the annual Pirate Treasure motorcycle run will be held. Mobile has been putting on this run every year until last year. Last year the motorcycle riders of Shreveport, La., decided they wanted this run and it was held there. Entries from many states enter each year. This year the Montgomery Motorcycle Club decided to put it on. This run starts both days in Montgomery. Ala., and ends there each night. On November 25th the riders will be through this section. The noonday check being in Maplesville, Ala., near the Greenroof Cafe. This run will have sidecars entered as well as (solo) riders, Several ladies will start this run. Some riding sidecars and some (solo). One or two riders we especially want to mention. Mrs. Dot Robinson, of Detroit, Mich., small of statue, will ride a sidecar with a passenger. She enters all the National runs and is President of the Motor Maids of America. She is an excellent rider and one the spectators will watch and enjoy. Then Pat Boatwright of Louisiana will enter riding solo.

The entire tamily of the Robinson's will enter. There will be Earl Robinson, husband of Dot and their daughter, Betty, all riding. The mother and father of Mrs. Dot Robinson will accompany them to Monltgomery, Ala. They are in the motorcycle business in Detroit. Mich., and have been riding all of their lives.

This run attracts many excellent riders and spectators will be given a show when following this run. There will be guides to route the spectators on each day to see the many hazards all along this course—creek crossings. mud, sand, hills, gulleys, etc.

Thursday night (Thanksgiving) there will be a banquet at the Afmory in Montgomery, Ala., for the riders, their families, friends and spectators. Delicious, Southern style fried chicken will be served. This chicken will be prepared by an expert. Banquet tickets are $2.00 per person. Go to the banquet, see the riders, meet and talk with them, join in the fun of hearing them talk motorcycles, the spills, the fun, etc. These riders are a nice, clean bunch of people. They love the sport of motorcycling.

During the run watch for the following riders. They are extra good and they'll be in there riding and riding hard to finish this 500-mile run. I'll mention just a few, but there are many extra good riders among the entries: Watch Clarence Gray of Montgomery, Ala.; Dot and Earl Robinson, Bert Cummings, Claude Goulding, Gerald J. McGovern, all of Michigan; Aub LeBard, of California; Clem Murdaugh, of Pennslyvania; the Kroegers, of New York, and others that are plenty good.

Mr. Oscar Lenz of Lansing, of Michigan, will be a special guest. This is the man who puts on the annual Jack Pine Run each year in Lansing, Mich. Believe me he is an expert in laying out a run. Cecil Lane of Montgomery, Ala., laid out the first day's run and Millard Reynolds, of Stanton, Ala., laid out the second day of this run. If I don't miss my bet they'll find it tough and certainly will go back to their respective homes with their minds filled full of pleasant memories of our Southland. They'll have the joy of eating Southern fried chicken, seeing all along their routes our cotton and corn plantations, the colored folks opening gaps and helping in any way they can. The timber lands, the beautiful coloring of our woodlands, the scenic beauty in and around the fire towers of Chilton, wild grapevines hanging full of grapes, huckleberries loaded to capacity, Ripley's Believe It or Not oddity down the University Highway and many other things of interest.

Watch the car with the RED FLAG. That car leads you to many points of interest during the two-day run. You'll get a thrill out of the spills, seeing these riders handle expertly their motors all along the route. Mr. Russell Shoults and Mr. S. B. Rogers are helping put up arrows and markings on the route of the second day run.

MINUTES OF THE COURT OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF CHILTON COUNTY, ALABAMA, OF NOVEMBER 1, 1950

The Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County, Alabama, met in adjourned regular session at the county courthouse at Clanton, Alabama, on November 1, 1950, at 10:00 o'clock, a.m., in adjournment and continuation of the regular meeting held on October 9, 1950. The following were present: W. L. Parrish, Judge of Probate and ex-officio chairman of said court, and the following members of said court: V. O. Lenoir, Hoyt Freeman, Neal H. Harrell and J. M. Dunlap; absent: None. Judge Parrish presided as chairman of the meeting and, a quorum being present, declared the meeting open for the transaction of business.

WHEREUPON, the Clerk of the court read the minutes of the meeting of the court held on October 20, 1950, whereupon the chairman of the court asked for corrections or additions to said minutes, there being no corrections or additions to said minutes and the same being correct, Commissioner Freeman made a motion that said minutes stand adopted as read, whereupon Commissioner Dunlap seconded said motion, which motion was unanimously carried, and all the members of said court affixed their signatures to said minutes in the presence of the court and the clerk.

The Court of County Commissioners (herein called "the court") of Chilton County (herein called "the County") in the State of Alabama (herein called "the State") has ascertained and does hereby find and declare as follows:

(a) It is desirable that the county construct and improve or aid in the construction and improvement of necessary public roads and bridges in the county. The court estimates that the total cost to the county for the performance of such work will be not less than $31,000.

(b) The county does not now have and will not have from its income which will accrue prior to the end of its current fiscal year or prior to the completion of such work funds which will be sufficient and available for said purpose. The county has ascertained that it will be impossible to raise funds for such purpose in any manner other than by anticipation of the proceeds which will be received by the county in the future from the tax levied by the state under Section 647 of Title 51 of the Code of Alabama of 1940, as amended, and distributed to the county pursuant to the provisions of Sections 655 and 657 of Title 51 of said code, as amended, and any substitute for said tax and any tax levied in lieu thereof (which taxes are together herein referred to as "the state tax"). To that end, and in order to provide the funds required for said purpose, it will be necessary that the county anticipate the proceeds from the state tax by the issuance of the warants of the county hereinafter authorized, payable in installments in the future in the manner hereinafter provided.

(c) During the following fiscal years of the county it received from the state, as the county's share of the state tax, the aggregate sums respectively set opposite the years indicated in the following schedule:

During the county's fiscal year ending:

The county received the aggregate sum of:

September 30, 1946	$157,934.85
September 30, 1947	185,085.39
September 30, 1948	203,609.71
September 30, 1949	218,785.71
September 30, 1950	240,963.71

In the opinion of the court, the aggregate amount which will be received by the county as its share of the state tax during each of the fiscal years of the county to and including the fiscal year ending September 30, 1953, will be not less than the average of the said sums so received by it during its fiscal year ending in each of the years from 1946 to 1950, inclusive.

(d) There are no bonds, warrants, contracts or claims of any kind now outstanding which were issued or made by the county against, or which are payable out of, the proceeds hereafter to be received by the county from the state tax, or for the payment of which such proceeds have been heretofore pledged, except the following:

$15,000 principal amount of 1-¾% State Gasoline Tax Anticipation Warrants of the county dated September 15, 1948, being the outstanding and unpaid portion of an issue in the original aggregate principal amount of $55,000 issued pursuant to an order adopted by the court on September 20, 1948; and $48,000 principal amount of 3% State Gasoline Tax Anticipation Warrants of the county dated May 1, 1949, being the outstanding and unpaid portion of an issue in the original aggregate principal amount of $68,000 issued pursuant to an order adopted by the court on April 11, 1949.

(e) All the proceeds which will be received by the county during the month of December, 1950, and during each month thereafter from the state tax distributed to the county under said Sections 655 and 657 of said Title 51, as amended, will be available for payment of the principal of and interest on the warrants hereinafter ordered issued, except such portion thereof which may be necessary to pay the principal of and interest on the warrants referred to in paragraph (d) above as being now outstanding. When the warrants hereinafter ordered issued shall be so issued, they will constitute the first and only claim and lien on said proceeds which may hereafter be received by the county from the distributions respectively made to it under said sections, except the warrants referred to in paragraph (d).

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby RESOLVED, ASCERTAINED, ORDERD and DECREED by the court as follows:

(1) The findings and statements set out in the foregoing paragraphs lettered from (a) to (e), inclusive, are hereby found and declared to be true and are hereby adopted as a part of this resolution and order.

(2) There are hereby authorized to be issued by the county thirty-one State Gasoline Tax Anticipation Warrants (herein called "the warrants") of the county aggregating $31,000 in principal amount, to be numbered consecutively from 1 to 31, inclusive, to be in the denomination of $1,000 each, to be dated November 1, 1950, and to mature as follows:

War. Nos. (both inc.)	Matur. Date	Aggre. Prin. Amt. Matur.
1 to 6	May 1, 1951	$6,000
7 to 12	November 1, 1951	6,000
13 to 18	May 1, 1952	6,000
19 to 24	November 1, 1952	6,000
25 to 31	March 1, 1952	7,000

The warrants shall bear interest at the rate of 3% per annum from their date until their respective maturities, which interest shall be payable on each May 1 and November 1 until and at the maturity thereof and shall be evidenced by separate interest coupons (herein called "the coupons") attached to the warrants. The warrants and the coupons shall bear interest at the rate of 6% per annum after their respective maturities and shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the principal office of Peoples Savings Bank, in the City of Clanton, in the State of Alabama.

(3) The warrants and the coupons shall be signed by the Judge of Probate and ex-officio chairman of the court. The official seal of the county shall be affixed to the warrants, for which purpose the seal of the Judge of Probate is hereby adopted as the official seal of the county. The coupons bear the facsimile signature of the Judge of Probate and ex-officio chairman of the court, whose facsimile signature shall be valid in all respects as if his signature had been signed to the coupons by him in person. The Judge of Probate and the Treasurer of the county are hereby authorized and directed to register the warrants and the coupons as claims against the State Gasoline Tax Anticipation Warrant Fund of 1950 of the county hereinafter referred to, which registration shall be made simultaneously with respect to all the warrants and the coupons.

(4) There is hereby established a special fund to be known as the "State Gasoline Tax Anticipation Warrant Fund of 1950" (herein called "the special fund") for the purpose of providing for payment of the principal of and interest on the warrants and the coupons. The special fund shall be maintained until both the principal of and interest on the warrants shall be paid in full. There shall be paid into the special fund prior to the 15th day of each successive month, beginning with the month of December, 1950, the amounts respectively indicated in the following schedule:

Prior to the 15th day of each of the following months, there shall be paid into the special fund the following amounts:

December, 1950, to and including April, 1951 $1,293.00.

May, 1951, to and including October, 1951 $1,063.00.

November, 1951, to and including April, 1952 $1,048.00.

May, 1952, to and including October, 1952 $1,033.00.

November, 1952, to and including February, 1953 $1,766.00.

In addition thereto, there shall also be paid into the special fund during each successive six months' period commencing with the period beginning May 1, 1951, and continuing until the principal of and interest on all of the warrants shall have been paid in full, the following amounts: (a) The amount by which all payments made into the special fund during any preceding six months' period shall be less than the amount herein required to be paid into the special fund during such preceding period; (b) the amount of all sums theretofore paid into the special fund which shall have been lost or which is not for any reason immediately available for payment of such principal and interest; and (c) any additional sums which may be necessary to pay the principal of and interest on the warrants as said principal and interest are herein provided to be paid.

(5) The moneys so provided to be paid into the special fund shall be paid solely out of the moneys which shall hereafter be or become due or payable to the county, or to which the county shall be entitled, from any of the following sources:

(a) All sums which shall be or become due or payable to the county as payment of its share of the state tax and allocated or distributed to the county pursuant to the provisions of Section 655 of Title 51 of the Code of Alabama of 1950, as amended; plus

(b) All sums which shall be or become due or payable to the county as payment of its share of the state tax and allocated or distributed to the county pursuant to the provisions of Section 657 of Title 51 of said Code of Alabama of 1940, as amended; plus

(c) All sums and amounts which shall be or become due or payable to the county by any succeeding, corresponding, equivalent, amended, supplemental or additional act or provision of law authorizing or relating to collections received by or apportioned to the county from gasoline or other motor fuel taxes, or the proceeds thereof, or any tax levied by the county or the state all or a portion of the proceeds of which may be received by the county in lieu of the state tax, and which the county shall be lawfully authorized to appropriate, transfer, pledge or use for the construction or maintenance of roads and bridges in the county or for the payment of the warrants and the coupons; it being the intention hereof to include and subject to and set aside, for the payment of the principal of and interest on the warrants, the aforesaid portions of the proceeds payable to the county not merely by virtue of said Sections 655 and 657 of Title 51 of said Code of Alabama of 1940, as amended, but the proceeds payable to or collected by the county under any corresponding, successive, equivalent, amended, supplemental or additional provision of law or any law in lieu thereof which the county may lawfully pledge, assign or set apart for the purposes hereof, in such wise that if the allocation provided by said sections be repealed, amended or supplemented, any succeeding, corresponding, equivalent or additional fund shall be subject to the payment of the warrants and the interest thereon as contemplated hereby.

(6) The special fund and all moneys at any time in or pertaining thereto, and the proceeds at any time payable to the county from the tax or taxes referred to in paragraph (5) hereof and herein ordered paid into the special fund, are hereby assigned to and pledged with the trustee hereinafter referred to as security for payment of the principal of and interest on the warrants and the coupons. Failure to pay into the special fund the proceeds received by the county from the said tax or taxes which are required in this resolution and order to be paid into the special fund shall constitute a diversion of said proceeds. Said assignment and pledge are made for the pro rata benefit of the warrants without preference or priority of one warrant over another by reason of prior issuance or otherwise, and shall be and remain prior to any assignment or pledge of any proceeds of the said tax or taxes which may hereafter be made for the benefit of any other warrants of the county hereafter issued or any contract of the county hereafter made. The special fund shall constitute a trust fund and the trustee therefor is hereby authorized and directed to use so much of the moneys on deposit therein as may be necessary to pay the warrants and the coupons at their respective maturities.

(7) Peoples Savings Bank (herein called "the trustee"), a bank doing business in the City of Clanton, Alabama, is hereby designated trustee for the special fund pursuant to the provisions of this resolution and order. The special fund shall be held and treated by the trustee as a trust fund for the purposes herein provided. The Department of Finance of the State of Alabama and any successor to its duties are hereby authorized and directed to transmit directly to the trustee such portion of all moneys hereafter payable to the county out of the taxes referred to in paragraph (5) hereof as may be necessary to make the payments into the special fund in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (4) hereof, beginning with the payment required therein to be made during the month of December, 1950, and each month thereafter as therein provided. The County Treasurer of the county is hereby ordered and directed to take all steps that may be necessary to cause such payments to be made into the special fund, including the grant to the trustee of authority to collect the payments so provided to be made direct to the trustee by the said Department of Finance and the authority to endorse all warrants, vouchers and checks therefor and to apply the proceeds thereof toward payment of the principal of and interest on the warrants. The county agrees with each holder of the warrants and the coupons that, so long as any of the warrants and the coupons shall remain unpaid, it will not revoke the authority and direction for transmission directly to the trustee as contained in the preceding sentence of this paragraph. The trustee is authorized and directed to pay the warrants and the coupons out of the moneys so paid into the special fund as and when the warrants and the coupons respectively mature, and thereupon and transmit to the county treasurer the warrants and the coupons so paid. If any moneys remain in the special fund following payment of all the warrants and the coupons, such moneys shall thereupon be remitted by the trustee to the county.

(8) The trustee at any time serving hereunder may resign as such by written notice of such resignation given to the county, to the original purchaser of the warrants from the county, and to the said Department of Finance or the successor to its duties.

In the event the trustee should at any time hereafter resign or cease or refuse or become unable to act as trustee hereunder for the special fund the county agrees that it will thereupon appoint a successor trustee hereunder which shall be a banking institution in the State of Alabama which is at the time of such appointment a member of the Federal Reserve System and all or any part of whose deposits shall be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any similar instrumentality of the United States of America, if there is any such. Upon the appointment of such successor trustee the county shall, within five days thereafter, give notice in writing of such appointment to the Department of Finance of the State of Alabama (or to the successor to its duties) and to the original purchaser of the warrants from the county. All provisions of this resolution applicable to the trustee shall likewise be applicable to any successor to it so appointed.

(9) The general faith and credit of the county are not pledged for the payment of the warrants or the coupons. The warrants and the coupons shall not be general obligations of the county but shall be payable solely out of the special fund. Neither this resolution nor any of the warrants or the coupons issued hereunder shall be deemed to impose upon the county any obligation to pay the principal of or interest on the warrants, or any other sum, except with the moneys herein directed to be paid into the special fund. None of the agreements, representations and warranties made or implied in this resolution and order, or in the issuance of the warrants and the coupons, shall ever impose any pecuniary liability upon the county, except with respect to the moneys herein directed to be paid into the special fund. Nothing herein, however, shall be construed to relieve the county from the performance of any of its agreements herein contained, or to relieve any of the officials of the county of any of their official duties.

(10) The forms of the warrants and the coupons and the registration thereof shall be substantially as follows, with appropriate changes therein to conform with the provisions hereof:

This warrant and the interest coupons hereto attached may be assigned or transferred by delivery. The county agrees with the holder hereof, and with any person or persons to whom this warrant and the said coupons may be assigned, that neither the principal of nor the interest on this warrant will be paid except upon presentation and surrender of the respective warrant and coupons. The local Social Security Office is a very busy place these days, with a big boost in activity due to the recent widespread changes in the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance system. Nevertheless, Mr. Martin C. Folmar, Manager, today issued a special invitation to people in several groups to get in touch with his office promptly, if they have not already done so since the new law went into effect. He gave the following list:

1. People age 65 or over who have worked as much as a year and a half on social security-covered jobs. Those in this group who are age 75 or over can now get monthly benefits even though still regularly employed.
2. Mothers, or other persons in charge of minor children of deceased World War II veterans. Also dependent parents of deceased World War II veterans.
3. Wives under age 65, in families where the husband and one or more minor children are receiving benefits. Under the new law, the wife in these cases can also qualify for payments, even though she is under age 65.
4. Fathers, or other persons caring for children of deceased women workers. Children formerly could not get monthly benefits from their mother's social security account if their father was a member of the same household at the time of her death. Now in many cases, those children can be paid."

"There are many people in this vicinity," Mr. Folmar said, "who are in one of these categories and who can qualify for benefits upon making application. They can get all necessary blanks and information by getting in touch with our representative who is at the Employment Office each Thursday at 1:00 p.m. in Clanton, Ala.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Allen Lenoir, Adams Station, Cooperator of the North Central Soil Conservation District quotes, "I can take my bird dog puppies to the bicolor lespedeza border and they will point a covey of birds any time. I have held the birds by having the bicolor for them to feed on during the winter. The only reason there is not plenty of quail is the lack of food.

* * *

Julius Hicks has planned a soil and water conservation farm plan with the North Central Soil Conservation District. Julius' plan calls for a complete terracing and water disposal system, crop rotation, and year-round grazing for twenty cows.

With almost a perfect stand of young long-leaf pine seedlings still in the grass stage, Julius agreed to poison or cut the hardwood.

* * *

Approximately two hundred pounds of bicolor lespedeza has been harvested. These seed will be turned over to the State Department of Conservation.

* * *

Say you wish it would rain? Your pasture is gone and the winter grazing not big enough to graze. Well, to keep out of the same fix next fall and years to come, plant fescue now and kudzu next spring.

Birmingham, Ala. — Government contracts awarded to manufacturers and dealers in the five Southeastern States of the Birmingham Region of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor, during the third quarter of 1950 totaled $14,490,803.

CLEAN THOSE HATS, BUT DO IT SAFELY

The first step in renovating a hat is a thorough cleaning job, finds Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist.

The job can be done with one of the many cleaning fluids found on the market. Since they are inflamable and explosive, the specialist urges that all dry cleaning be done out-of-doors and entirely away from fire or heat.

Hats that have been cleaned must be allowed to dry thoroughly out-of-doors before blocking. "Several hours are required for the cleaning solution to evaporate," warns Miss Ellis.

BUILT-UP LITTER

Every few weeks, when the poultry litter begins to look dirty, add an inch or two shavings or other litter material until a depth of six to eight inches is reached.

GREEN CHICKEN FEED

If green crops are growing on your farm, they can be cut and fed to layers at the rate of five pounds a day for each 100 hens. Use of these greens will reduce feed costs and improve the health of the flock.

SWEET POTATOES

The Alabama sweet potato crop is larger this year; prices are more attractive to consumers; and October was the major harvesting month.

GARDENS

A few minutes once a week, or as needed, with a good dust gun and a good dust will save a garden that may be destroyed by insects and diseases.

IRISH POTATOES

Farmers who are storing Irish potatoes this winter might do well to try some of the sprout preventing material now on the market.

Now is the time to apply nitrogen to winter grazing crops.

Alabama has had a 10-year
POPULATION GROWTH 8%
TELEPHONE GROWTH 188%

A good gauge of Alabama progress and prosperity, and of the size of the telephone job that's been done, is a comparison of population growth with telephone growth. While the number of people in Alabama was increasing 8% in ten years, according to the census, the number of telephones jumped 188%.

A large part of this telephone growth has taken place in just the last five years. During that short time Southern Bell has built $62,171,000 of new telephone facilities in Alabama . . . more than doubled the number of telephones . . . more than doubled long distance circuits and nearly quadrupled rural telephones.

We've spent far more to expand Alabama telephone facilities in the last five years than we had invested in the state five years ago. And we're going right on doing our best to meet the continuing heavy demand for service in town and on the farm.

S. H. Youngblood
Alabama Manager

Where Money to Expand and Improve Service Comes From

It doesn't come from the money you pay us for telephone service . . . that money goes to pay wages, taxes and other operating costs. The money to build new facilities must come from people with money to invest. That's why the future of telephone service depends on the Company's continued ability to pay for the use of the money invested in telephone facilities.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

Mr. Dan Goldsmith, 3024 Curron Road, Louisville, Ky., owner of Coogla Cut Rate Store at 935 West Broadway, says there just aren't enough words in the English language to praise HADACOL correctly. He says he knows most folks don't realize what a change HADACOL can make in their life if their systems are deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin.

Here is Mr. Goldsmith's statement:

"Before I started taking HADACOL I was run down and nervous — and had a hard time sleeping nights. With my work in the store I have to spend sometimes 14 hours a day on my feet. Since I am in the retail business I saw how many folks were asking for HADACOL so I decided to try it myself. After the first couple of bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now I have all the pep and energy in the world, my nerves are steady as ever and I really do get a good night's rest. HADACOL is wonderful — I not only take it, but recommend it to all my customers. I praise the day Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc put HADACOL on the market."

HADACOL Is So Different

Thousands are benefiting from HADACOL . . . whose systems lack Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin. HADACOL is so wonderful because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these great Vitamins and Minerals to every body organ — to every part of the body.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance and if you don't feel better with the first few bottles you take — you get your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

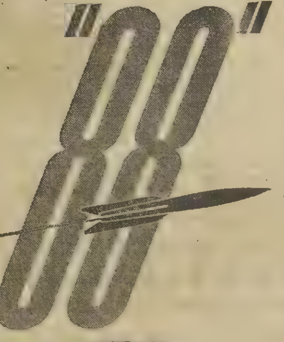
For Power with Economy...it's High Compression!
FOR HIGH COMPRESSION... IT'S THE "ROCKET"!



Ever since Oldsmobile introduced the "Rocket" Engine two years ago, seems like everybody claims "high-compression"—but nobody explains it. The phrase simply means squeezing the gasoline into a smaller space before exploding it. This gets more power out of the same amount of fuel. But the engine must be designed for high-compression all the way through to assure smooth, quiet, gas-saving performance. The "Rocket" is 100% high-compression —from the crankshaft out. And the lowest-priced "Rocket" Engine car is Oldsmobile's "88." Makes good sense to try it soon—doesn't it?

Oldsmobile Hydra-Matic Drive optional at extra cost on all models.

Strange Design Formed During Recent Freeze

A lot of strange stories usually come out of a period of unnatural weather conditions and the strangest to be heard and seen following the recent cold spell came from LeBess Beauty Shop.

Mrs. Walter Fiquette, proprietor, turned some water into a bath tub and due to weather conditions the water was very muddy. When the water settled a strange and most beautiful design formed in the bottom of the tub.

The design defies description but a photograph of the formation was made by S. E. Scott, local photographer, and can be seen at Scott's Studio.

The strange design has caused much talk in the community.

YOUTH REVIVAL HOUR

The Baptist Youth Revival Hour of Unity-Chilton Associations is off to a good start. This is a program by the Young People of these associations recorded in the churches on Saturday nights and broadcast the following Sunday afternoons at 2:30 over Station WKLF. Listen to these fine programs.

We are encouraged by the fine response of our pastors and young people of our churches. There have been five recordings to date and you are missing a blessing if you do not take advantage of the privilege of meeting with our young people and older friends on Saturday nights as they meet to worship. Everyone is invited to meet with us, all young people and pastors are urged to take part. You will be inspired as young voices are lifted in praise, prayer and thanks-giving to God. The evangelistic messages are brought by dedicated young Christians, by ministerial students and young pastors. Following the worship service and recording everyone enjoys a season of fellowship and all join in group singing and appropriate games. We want our young people to know the joy of being a Christian and witnessing for Him. We want them to have good wholesome fun, that they may develop into well rounded citizens with high ideals, a sense of humor, and a great love for all mankind.

Any church in Unity or Chilton Associations who wishes to have the Youth Revival at their church, please contact the chairman of the program committee, Mr. Robert Holley, Jemison, Ala., or the young people's leaders in the Associations, Mrs. J. W. Johnson, Thorsby, or Mrs. Houston Nivens, Clanton.

December 2 — Bethsalem, speaker, Rev. Evan Johnson.

December 9 — Collins Chapel, speaker to be announced.

December 16 — Open date.

December 23 — West End, speaker, Rev. Harper Shannon.

This church is holding a youth revival that week and this will be the closing night. Clanton young people and many others will be recalling the spiritual blessings we enjoyed when Harper was with us some two years ago in a Vacation Bible School and revival at the West End Mission.

December 30 — Concord Church, speaker, a young ministerial student from Howard College. This will be the last Saturday night in the year 1950. Come, let's worship together, thanking God for past blessings and may we dedicate our lives anew as we go out into the unchartered days of 1951.

Christmas Chest Committee Holds First Meeting

Plans get under way for the third annual Chilton County Christmas Chest Friday night of this week, according to information received from Bob Taber, general chairman for this year's Chest. Invitations were mailed this week to 49 people, including other officials of the chest campaign and community leaders from all over the county. The list is made up of ministers, P.-T.A. leaders, civic and service club leaders, public officials. veterans' organization leaders and others.

This initial meeting is being held in the auditorium of Radio Station WKLF and is for the purpose of getting the 1950 campaign under way. Indications are that the need will be greater than ever this year, and officials are confident that this year's Chest will be ready to meet the occasion.

During the last two years, hundreds of Chilton County people have been aided directly through the efforts of the Christmas Chest. Numerous families had "Santa Claus" that would otherwise have been without him. The movement is an effort to organize giving in such a way that everyone wishing to give may do so, and at the same time have the assurance that gifts will be more evenly distributed among the needy.

Mr. Taber and Miss Foshee. Chest secretary, urge all those invited to attend the meeting. The time is 7:00 p.m., and the place is the auditorium of WKLF. Anyone interested in the success of the campaign is cordially invited.

Congressman Ed deGraffenried To Washington

Congressman Edward deGraffenried of Tuscaloosa, member in congress from the Alabama Sixth District, in which Chilton is located, returned last Saturday to Washington where Congress reconvened on Monday of this week.

Before leaving Congressman deGraffenried said: It has been a delightful pleasure to visit in the District and I have enjoyed seeing the people and discussing with them the problems of the District, as well as those of a national and international nature. We are faced with a grave crisis and it is going to take the best efforts of everyone in successfully combating the threat of Communism. I pledge my entire thoughts and energies for the welfare of our nation and know the people of the District stand squarely behind me in support of the principles which have made this country great.

The 82nd Congress convenes in regular session on January 3rd.

WEST BROS. INDOOR CIRCUS COMING TO CLANTON

When West Bros. Indoor Circus arrives in Clanton, Ala., for a one day exhibition in the Airport Hangar on Friday, December 8th, under the sponsorship of Clanton Post Disabled American Veterans it will be reminiscent of the pilgrimages of Indian princes and potentates with the heraldry, pomp and ceremony that marked the travels of these romantic sons and daughters of the far East.

The West Bros. have sent their emissaries into the far reaches of the earth's surface to secure suitable talent for the entertainment of this nation's populace. From England comes the truly remarkable Clyde St. Leon Troupe composed of six brothers casting themselves into space with the wild abandon of whirling dervishes of the desert. Performing feats of wonder that actually have to be witnessed to be believed.

Many other such wonders, including wild and domesticated animals; a never ending array of novel and daring acts; laughing, hilarious clowns are to be seen when West Bros. Indoor Circus present their cavalcade of wonders in Clanton Airport Hangar at 3:30 p.m. and 8:00 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from any member of the Clanton Post D.V.A. members. Adults $1.00; children 60c. taxes included.

Grammar School P.-T.A. Will Meet Tuesday

The Clanton Grammar School Parent-Teachers Association will hold their regular meeting for December on Tuesday evening, December 5th, at 7 o'clock, in the school lunchroom.

This will be a meeting especially planned for those parents who work, mothers and fathers, and cannot attend the afternoon meetings.

A Christmas program has been planned by the Fifth Grade and will be presented by members of those classes.

All parents are especially invited to attend and all friends are cordially invited.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

The regular meeting of the Music Appreciation Club was held on Tuesday afternoon, November 21, at the home of Mrs. I. S. Levine with Mrs. W. H. Klinner and Mrs. Charles Wade as hostesses.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. E. Huddleston. The members then repeated the Club Collect and sang the National Federation Hymn. This was followed by the business session in which matters pertaining to the club were discussed.

The members of the club were honored to have as the guest speaker for the afternoon Mrs. Ulric Gilbert; president of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs. Her informal talk of the Music Appreciation Club in its local, state and national aspects was most inspiring. The musical part of the program was given by Miss Patricia Huddleston who sang three beautiful solos. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Raymond P. Mims.

At the conclusion of the program the hostesses served delightful refreshments to the members and their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Sharp of Auburn spent Sunday with Mrs. Sharp's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Roper.

Dial Telephones For Clanton --- Maybe

It's a possibility that Clanton will have dial telephones within the near future. Mayor C. Fenn Jones has been in correspondence with W. L. Hinds, District Manager of Southern Bell Telephone Company, and he advises the Mayor that he will call by to talk the matter over with him on his next trip to our city.

Mayor Jones stated Tuesday that quite a few of our local citizens are interested in dial telephones and he believes there is a chance we may be able to get them soon.

CENTRALA SUB-DISTRICT

The Centrala Sub-District held their M.Y.F. banquet Tuesday night, November 21st, at the First Methodist Church. The dining room was beautiful with blue and yellow candles and crepe paper. After the guests were seated a welcome was given and the officers were introduced by Helen Parrish, our Mistress of Ceremonies. Pat Huddleston sang, "Morning" and "One Song." After Pat had so beautifully rendered her numbers the meal began. It is hard to tell which was enjoyed more, the meal or the jokes and singing. When everyone had finished eating Carolyn McNeill rendered a beautiful piano solo, "Clara de Lume." Bro. Joe McKinney was our guest speaker and gave us a very inspiring talk. We sincerely hope everyone enjoyed the banquet and will be looking forward to the banquets in years to come.

We wish to thank everyone who helped make the banquet a success. Our appreciation especially goes to the ladies who prepared the meal and those who gave donations.

The Sub-District will have it's next meeting Monday night at 7 o'clock. Jemison M.Y.F. is in charge of the program. After the business meeting and program we will have a Christmas party in the basement. Each person is asked to bring a gift, about fifty cents, and we will have an exchange of gifts.

THE MARVEL OF BIRTH

From the Polls—The Voice of many People spoke.

Conceived thought—was captured.

The Voice from the Hut, Homes of Modest means and elegance have blended in one desire—.

The people of Chilton County want a hospital.

A building nestled in a grove of trees, where birds help to sing away the memory of pain—for all patients.

Where dew drops cluster, where rain drops break in splashing vibration in misty sheen—where God in His Glory —varies the beauty of each day on the cloud screen of the world.

The Birth of a dream,—The dream of reality—Life's exultation expressed to bring a dream from the clouds and anchor it in the Valley of Service below—

Impossible?

No—For, "Every noble deed is at first impossible."—Only in the thinking—.

The greatest monument to any memory—is the monument of helpfulness —not hidden away in obscurity—or perishing in a day's passing—but captured, utilized, vitalized and energized in a moving power for the Birth of a Dream.

The decision has been registered, the Voice has spoken—The Echo rebounds past the Valley of Doubt—over the rocks of can't—through the [illegible] discouragement—and hustles unseen to the Valley—of Can—where great men and noble women watchfuly wait—for the moment and begin this [illegible] work —

F[illegible] Own Hospital—.

[illegible]ssell A. Williams.

A TRIP TO THE LITTLE WHITE HOUSE

Last week Pastor A. T. Hickman, with several members of the Temple Church, made a trip to Warm Springs, Ga. There they viewed the Little White House that was bequeathed by the late President Roosevelt to the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Thousands of visitors from all over the nation go to Warm Springs every year. The tour by visitors includes the garage, in which the famous Roosevelt touring car is shown. All rooms of the House are shown by trained attendants who answers questions. The museum room contains many of the President's personal effects and momentos he saved, including the 130 walking sticks of all kinds. The President's favorite chair and the bed in which he died. The Little White House still holds the personality the President gave it. A wheel chair, braces, and walking canes. and many personal effects of the President's reminds any one of the great personality that loved the South, including the hills and valleys in and around Warm Springs, Ga. Numerous ship models are located in the home of the man who loved the seas. The dog chain, a riding quirt still hangs in the closet. Many products of school children who loved the President and their nation are shown also. It was learned that oat meal was the last food the President ate before he died, and the dishes are still shown as they were.

Pastor Hickman and his company ate their lunch on the top of the lonely mountain near Warm Springs where the President asked his Secret Service men to drive him just two days before he died. The guards withdrew a space, and on top of the mountain he looked out over the hills and valleys, saw its beauty and majesty in the glory of Spring. What went through the President's mind, no one will ever know as he sat there for two hours.

The trip was made in one day's drive. Those who went with Pastor Hickman were: Mr. and Mrs. Acie Mims and daughter, Mrs. Ruth Thompson and Grace Easterling, Mary Alice Mims, Mrs. Effie Mae Mims, Thomas Earl Watts, Mrs. Earnest Mims, Mrs Lester Mims, Sarah Dean Mims, Mrs Edna Mims, Mrs. William Mims and daughter, Mrs. Mildred Bridges and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Hickman.

When a person frets about what the weather will, or will not do, he isn't fooling anybody. He's selfish and thinking only of his own interests. What's good for one can be bad for another.

Friday, the day after Thanksgiving, it sleeted and snowed in Clanton for two hours or more. A little of the snow stuck but was soon gone. It wasn't even enough for a good snowball.

UNFAIR

Joe Jackson and Charles Wade, owners of the Clanton Drive-In Theatre and the Wadesonian Theatres respectively, think that the custom of letting road shows come to our little city and give performances under the guise of helping some local club or organization should be stopped. Stopped, that is, unless they are made to pay licenses, taxes, etc., on an even basis with the local entertainment operators. No doubt Arthur Taylor feels just as Mr. Wade and Mr. Jackson do.

At the expense of bringing the wrath of every P.-T.A. member in the county, down on our heads, we will have to, through all fairness, take sides with the gentlemen who have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to bring us entertainment day in and day out, the year around.

To our way of thinking it isn't a bit fair for a show to come to Clanton, show at the courthouse at no expense, pay no licenses, no taxes, and then give to the local organization sponsoring them a small percentage of the receipts. We do not believe this is fair competition for our local operators who have so much invested here.

For plays with local talent it is all together different. The cash received stays at home and goes for the improvement of our schools and playgrounds. The training and experience for the children is invaluable and the community spirit it inspires is the thing that makes living in a small town so worth while.

NEAL H. HARRELL

The passing of Neal H. Harrell is a great loss to Chilton County. As a member of the Commissioners Court he had under supervision the roads in the Third District and for the two years of his term served, he had done a good job.

Neal had his faults, it is true—like all men in all professions, but he was a sincere, conscientious, Christian man, and highly respected throughout Central Alabama by all who knew him.

Chilton County will have a hard time replacing Neal Harrell, but it is gratifying that the County Officials and others interested in his successor are making every effort to fill his office with a capable servant rather than a professional politician.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

The very hard freeze we have experienced for the past few days is just what was needed, according to authorities at the Experiment Station at Auburn. According to one report there were plenty of boll weevils killed the past week. That should appeal to the cotton farmer no matter what inconveniences he suffered because of the cold.

Scene on U. S. 31 Sunday afternoon: A young man on a motorcycle going south with one leg bandaged as if in a plaster cast; a crutch tied to the other side of the machine. This, mind you, in temperature that was away below freezing. That, to our way of thinking, was the height of "uncomfort."

Herbert Linton opened his new addition to Watson's last Friday with a lot of fanfare and gifts to the ladies. The new Watson's covers just about twice the floorspace as before. Both Jim Wade and Mr. Linton are to be congratulated on the beautiful new store and we certainly are proud of their faith in our growing little city. The opening was well attended but that ten degree-temperature didn't encourage a fellow to go anywhere.

Heard a fellow remark the other day that the best after dinner speech was made by the fellow who said: "Give me the check."

"The new maid has burned the toast and the eggs, dear. Won't you be satisfied with a couple of kisses for breakfast?" Husband: "Sure, bring her in."

Did you see a copy of last week's Powergrams? That's the publication of the Alabama Power Company you know. Lot's and lot's of pictures of local people—employees and their families, appeared in this issue. The occasion was a celebration commemorating the good safety record made at Mitchell Dam. However, they took the opportunity to present A. L. Watson a certificate and medal for his bravery in saving a man from drowning last March 31st when he fell from his boat into the swift waters below the dam. In case any of you readers don't receive Powergrams you can borrow our copy if you'll promise to take a look and return it.

Wife (to husband behind newspaper): "Darling, don't you love me any more?" Husband: "Love you! Listen woman, I adore you, I worship you, I love you more than life itself; now shut up and let me read my paper."

Awful news about Robert and Julian Evans' home burning down Saturday morning. Some of the valuables were saved but the home was a complete loss. Just across the street from the Fire Hall, but that was the morning the cold had practically everytyhing solid ice and by the time the fireman got the water coming it was too late to save the property. Understand Robert and Julian were born in that home too.

An army colonel who had the reputation of being quite a pep-talker called his men together frequently to inspire them to greater achievements. There was one occasion, however, when the colonel found himself the victim of a humorous situation that gave him several uncomfortable moments.

He had not had time to select a subject upon which to speak and found himself at a loss as to what to say. As he entered a door to the hall where his men were assembled he noticed the word, "Push," and happily adopted it for his topic. He quickly thought of a suitable opening and worked up to the chest-pounding stage with comparative ease. Then with an air of pride and confidence, he orated, "And if you men want to know what had put me where I am just turn around and read the word on that door back there." Turning as one man, the group read on the inward side of the door the word, "Pull."—The Pick-Up.

The Stewardship of Life

Lesson for December 3: Romans 12: 1-2, 6-8; II Corinthians 8: 3-5; Philippians 2: 25-30

Memory Selection: Romans 12: 1

BECAUSE of, and through, the "mercies of God" Paul called upon the Roman Christians to present their bodies a living sacrifice to God. Through the organs of sense we may serve others. With the eyes we may see the needs around us, and with the ears we may hear their cry of distress. The hands may minister unto the needy. Upon the feet we may go upon errands of love and mercy. With the tongue we may speak words of cheer and comfort, and voice the praise of God.

Differing gifts are made. The only shame that can come is in the failure to use what one has. The man of one talent was not condemned because he had only one talent, but because he did not use what he had. In the same ratio of increase with the other men who received talents, he would have had two talents if he had developed what he had. Whatever your gift may be, use it well in God's service.

The secret of good stewardship is found among the Macedonian Christians, who gave more than was expected of them for the poor saints in Jerusalem, because they first "gave their own selves to the Lord."

Among the Macedonians was Epaphroditus, who brought a gift from the church at Philippi to Paul. At Rome he fell dangerously ill and came near death. Paul sent him back to his fellow Christians, with warm commendation.

HOG LICE AND MANGE

One pound of six per cent gamma, 50 per cent wettable benzene hexachloride in five gallons of water, or one pound of 25 per cent lindane in 25 gallons of water will destroy lice and mange on hogs.

The Day Of Rest & Worship

"Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days thou shalt labour, and do all thy work, but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God, in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day, and hallowed it." (Ex. 20:9-11).

A. T. HICKMAN

This is the fourth commandment in the Decalogue. And sorry to say, one that is ignored by millions of people. To some people, the day of rest, or the Sabbath, or the Lord's Day, the Holy Day, or whatever you might call it, means nothing to them, but a day of sinful pleasure or just another day for work and busnies, and money making. This kind of practice is profaning to the Sabbath, and has the curse of Cod upon it. The results of profaning the Lord's Day, and neglecting the things of the spirit never appear immediately, but after a while they will show up. Oh, God is long-suffering, and allow people to go on, and on, breaking His Divine laws, but there always comes the day of reckoning.

Nehemiah reminded the nobles of Judah that their fathers had neglected the Sabbath, and profaned it, and the ill effects had come a generation later. The next generation, our children, and their children may be the greatest losers because of our neglecting our spiritual life, that by all means, should be taken care of on the Lord's Day. We have neglected and profaned the day of rest and worship, and used it for another day of sinful revellings; and they that do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. No Sabbath or no day of worship means no church, and no church means no religion and worship; and no religion and worship means no morals; no morals means no society; no society means no government; and no government means no civilization; and no civilization means world-wide chaos.

It is up to you, my friend, to figure out where the world is headed, and what lies out ahead of this present sinful generation. A doctor who had charge of an institution for the insane was asked: "What was the main cause of insanity?" His reply was: "Seven days a week work with no rest and worship." The body needs rest, so does the mind, and the spirit and soul. This is what the Sabbath is far.

GOOD NEWS

There is good news today! Amazing as has been the discovery and development of antibiotics which have revolutionized treatment of certain infectious diseases, new such drugs are constantly being produced to cure an increasing number of diseases.

Ten short years ago there were no antibiotics—today there are at least eight which, each in its own sphere, are doing extraordinary service to mankind. These eight whose names may be somewhat difficult for the layman to pronounce include in the order of their discovery and use: Tyrothricin, penicillin, streptomycin, bacitracin, polymyxin, aureomycin, chloromycetin, neomycin, and terramycin.

Prior to the use of antibiotics, the most effective treatment of infections was with the arsenicals and the sulfonamides and antiserums. These were pure chemical substances, while the antibiotics are derived from microbes.

Antibiotics do not affect all micro-organisms in the human body in the same way—hence the growing variety of these products. Penicillin, for instance, exerts its most powerful influence against gonococci and other so-called gram-positive cocci, and has no effect or very feeble effect against all gram-negative bacilli. Etreptomycin, on the other hand, has a striking effect against the tubercle bacillus and other gram-negative bacilli.

The microbiologists, laboring in the laboratories of universities and industry, are spending much money and effort. It is almost certain that new antibiotics will be discovered and developed that will successfully treat infections for which there is now no adequate treatment.

PRUNING PEACH TREES

In recent years there is a tendency toward lighter pruning of peach trees than has been formerly practiced. It has been found that larger peach yields can be made by leaving more bearing wood.

DALE CARNEGIE

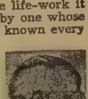
Why Not Try God?

IF YOU ARE WORLD-WEARY, unhappy, or even desperate, read a little book entitled Why Not Try God? Read this book, and you will feel better.

It was not written by a religionist, one whose life-work it is to turn people toward God. No, it was written by one whose work it was to entertain, a little woman who had known every kind of disappointment and frustration, from a poverty-laden childhood, on through the struggle for success, then to marital unhappiness, and later great happiness in another marriage, which eventually ended in loneliness and frustration that might have carried her to the depths of despair.



Carnegie

This little woman as a child in her early teens was the first moving picture actress to be truly recognized as a star, "America's Sweetheart," Mary Pickford.

She wrote her book during an unhappy period of her life, when things were not going well with her and Douglas Fairbanks. I spent an afternoon with her just before she got a divorce from him. I had expected to find her, if not morose or unhappy, at least despairingly resigned. I found her not in either of these mental states. She was one of the most serene and triumphant persons I had ever met. Happiness shone in her face.

"She must have wanted that divorce her own self," do I hear you say? Oh, no, she didn't. She made every effort to hold their marriage together, doing what some women would have been too proud to attempt, she even went to Douglas Fairbanks to seek a reconciliation, or, perhaps I had better say, to ask that they give their marriage another chance. When she saw that her act was to no purpose, she knew where to turn—to God. And she was not unhappy any more.

And she found happiness in her home life later.

So if you are unhappy, even though your unhappiness be only temporary, go to your public library and get a copy of this little 35-page book, "Why Not Try God?" If you will read it through carefully, word for word, I assure you with all my heart that you will be the happier for having done so.

The Pirate Treasure Run (motorcycles) had a number of entrants. Many states entered riders and was well attended by spectators all along the route. The weather was terrific on these riders. They rode in sleet, rain and snow. Their clothes froze while riding, however, out of all the entrants 12 endurance riders, and we said, ENDURANCE, completed the run. Forty some odd trophies were awarded. A list of the trophy winners will be announced later. The ladies, Mrs. Dot Robinson, Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Pat Boatwright, Louisiana, yes, they entered and rode the run until their motors took out on them. The weather didn't back them out either.

As another Thanksgiving has passed are we truly and sincerely thankful for the innumerable blessings? It isn't difficult to think of something to be thankful for. The world in which we live has a bountiful supply of most everything. As the Pilgrims were thankful for their harvest over 300 years ago, we too, have much to be thankful; our free land where we can worship and choose the religion of our choice, our coast lines have not been changed and battered by enemy guns, our cities have not been devastated by bombs. No one in our land know the horrors of war, except the men who have fought.

Card Of Thanks—

Mr. and Mrs. Theron Watson wish to express their thanks and deepest appreciation to their friends and neighbors for their kindness shown them during the illness and death of their mother, Mrs. Beulah McCary; for the beautiful flowers, the food, the kind words and acts of sympathy. The Commander, George Gillespie, is working hard and needs the cooperation of all.

ASSISTANCE FOR TOTALLY HANDICAPPED INCREASED BY FEDERAL AID

Montgomery, Ala. — The State Welfare Department's program to aid the permanently and totally handicapped people got a shot in the arm this week. The Alabama program was the first of any state to be given approval under the new federal Social Security Act which provides liberal sums for aiding the handicapped.

"Alabama has had a handicapped program for several years," Welfare Commissioner Broughton Lamberth said, "but it has always had to be financed from state and local monies. Hence, we have never been able to pay but a very small amount to the handicapped cases. But now that the Federal government will provide a goodly sum for matching purposes, it has been possible to increase this assistance.

The increased checks went into the mails beginning with the month of October. During that time there were 8,816 handicapped people receiving help from the state. They got an average payment of $20.90.

The handicapped program is now on an approximate equal basis, as to payments, with the old age assistance program. During October the 81,704 old age cases received an average payment of $20.27 each. The 1.525 blind recipients got an average payment of $22.65.

BETTER CORN MEAL

Many homemakers keep on hand a bottle of vinegar containing several cloves of garlic and a few pods of red peppers. This vinegar gives a pleasing flavor when used in making mayonnaise or French dressing for vegetable salads and is delicious when poured over a roast of mutton or a pot roast of beef

TIME TO GIVES HOMES THE CHRISTMAS LOOK

Auburn, Ala. — "At Christmas time every family wants the home to look pretty and cheerful," says Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

She reminds homemakers that the smell of evergreens mixed with the wonderful odors from the kitchen help to make Christmas. No season of the year offers a greater opportunity to decorate the home beautifully with native plants. Some of these are pine, cedar, mistletoe, youpon, and holly.

"The best thing to do," says the specialist, 'is to plan how decorations should look, then work towards that goal. Think of the size and style of the home and furniture. They must all be in keeping with each other. For example, large homes and furnishings require large heavy arrangements and a small Christmas tree."

"It A Date" At Maplesville High School Nov. 30 & Dec. 1

The Maplesville P.-T.A. presents "Its A Date." The name of the big variety stage show using all local cast for the benefit of the lunch room building. It will be presented Thursday and Friday, November 30 and December 1, at the Maplesville School Auditorium.

There are ten scenes in this unusual entertainment. They include the impersonation of such popular radio shows as "Take it or Leave it." Don McNeil and "The Breakfast Club," as well as a "Showboat Minstrel Scene" for variety.

The two leads in the show will be taken by Mrs. Lyndall Kelly, cast as Ginger Jones and Mr. Lyndall Kelly as Jo Jol Brown, a typical American boy and girl who are in love, but just can't decide on the proper date for their wedding. They discuss the various months as the show progresses, giving a wide variety of entertainment including music and comedy.

There is a big Homecoming Scene at Boola Boola College which shows the old grads and alumnus back for the celebration singing songs and giving college yells in true collegiate style. Mr. Gott Rocks, the college professor, is taken by Mr. Clarence Gray.

For the month of December, the audience is treated to a peek at "Santa Claus Land," where a lollypop party is in progress for the good boys and girls who have come to the North Pole for a special visit on Christmas Eve. The youngsters do dances and watch the dancing dolls and other toys come to life as the midnight hour strikes, and too, they sing Christmas carols and certainly no Christmas Eve party would be complete without meeting Santa Claus in person, who is played by Carlos Owen. The jolly old man puts in an appearance and introduces his helper, Butch Higginbotham "little Santa Claus, Jr," as his wife Miss Maude Johnson. Mr. Santa takes charge of the youngsters. This scene is a clever, heart-warming one which appeals to everyone because it gives a chance to visit briefly the mythical land of make-believe where everyone is having fun.

One scene in the show will use John Herrod as Eddie Cantor, who will impersonate the "Take It or Leave It" radio show. In this scene members of the audience will participate and choose the categories they will use when they compete for prizes. All contestants also get a chance to compete each performance for the jackpot questions.

One of the outstanding scenes of the show is an impersonation of the Breakfast Club program. In this number, which opens with the regular Breakfast Club theme song Mr. Joe Graham will impersonate the famous toastmaster, Don McNeill. Miss Elyse Naish will have the singing role of Patsy Lee and Marshall Atcheson will be featured as Johnny Desmond, the male singer who will go down into the audience and serenade the ladies. The comedy character of the talkative Aunt Fanny will be taken by Mrs. Charles Baugh. In the number Don tries to help Joe and Ginger solve their problem of which month is best to choose or their wedding by interviewing the woman in the audience who has been married the greatest number of years. She will be presented a gift on stage for her advice.

Something entirely new in the way of minstrel costumes will be seen when the curtain goes up on the Showboat Minstrel Scene, for plastic red and black has been chosen as the fabric from which end men and minstrel circle will have their uniforms fashioned. Bright red berets and white gloves give an unusually colorful note to the entire ensemble.

The only man on the stage in the Showboat Minstrel who does not appear in blackface is Mr. Joe Graham who will act as interlocutor for the number. The two lead end men, Rufus and Rastus, will be taken by Mr. Van Potts and Billy Dennis. The other end men, Sambo and Hambone, who also have speaking parts and portrayed by Mr. Charles Baugh and Charlie Haggard.

Other men in the minstrel circle are: Calvin Chambers, Lamar Smith, Billy Dennis, Clarence Gray, Perry Thomas, J. D. Preston and Lowell Gray.

Special costumes will be worn by the following girls as they impersonate a professional dancing chorus and do a clever routine:. Osla Lou Lovelady, Betty Payne, Lois Smith, Elizabeth Dennis, Peggy Ruddick, Virginia Pugh, Helen Atchison, Carolyn Landus, Betty Lovelady, Judy Cates, Lois Taylor, Barbara Morgan, Ann Merchant, Barbara Pullen, Joyce Parnell, Eva Jo Walker, Doris Merchant, Juanita McAfee, Marjorie McAfee, Betty Moore, Margie Griffin, Fay Harris, Ruth Pugh and Arthell Johnson.

The music for the entire show will be furnished by Mrs. Annie Laurie Potts, the pianist, who is working with the cast each day and evening at rehearsals.

The highlight of the show will come in the Christmas scene when the crowning of the King and Queen of Toyland will take place. The contest will close Friday, December 1st, at 4:00 p.m.

Advance tickets are on sale by all members of the cast and members of the P.-T.A. The P.-T.A. urges everyone to make it a date to see "It's A Date," Thursday and Friday, November 30 and December 1st, at the Maplesville High School Auditorium.

CAN SURPLUS LIVER, RIBS AND BACKBONE

Why not store these items in the refrigerator until the rush is over and then can them, suggests Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist.

To save space in jars, precook backbones until tender, then remove meat and can it as hash. Ribs are nicer if they are broiled in the oven and packed into jars and covered with brown gravy before canning.

Precook sliced liver in water until it loses its color. Pack in jars with a small piece of lean pork and cover with water or stock.

WOOD LEADS ALL OTHER STATE FARM PRODUCTS

A recent release of the A.P.I. Forestry Department places wood above all other farm products harvested in the state in 1948.

I. R. Martin, A.P.I. Extension Service forester, reveals that timber furnished 33.8 per cent and cotton brought in 32.6 per cent of the 1948 Alabama farm income. Livestock and livestock products accounted for 21 per cent and all other crops totaled 12.6 per cent.

"Wood is undoubtedly one of Alabama's best crops," declares Martin. "And proper forest management and fire protection could easily triple the state's income from forest products."

Ask the local county agent about timber management. He will be glad to show farmers how they can make more money for their timber stands.

KILLING HARDWOODS

November is the best month to kill hardwoods with chemicals, such as sodium arsenite. Tree killers furnish the cheapest and most positive methods of hardwood eradication in timber stands and pastures. The local county agent has complete directions for applying chemicals to undesirable hardwoods.

BENEFIT LUNCHROOM

Things We See And Hear

(By "Tuck")

It looks as though we have some up and coming football stars down at C.C.H.S. this year. In the "B" team game last Saturday night, Reuben Gaylor, Tom Frank Scott and DuWayne Deaton really showed what Clanton's eleven is going to have next year. Of course, these are just samples of what we will have next year and the whole team is just about as good as these boys. Mr. Deaton, I believe, will not be with us next year, but we will regret losing a good ball player.

Looks as though the editors of the local Chit-Chatter sort of threw some punches at me in the last issue of said paper. I can assure the editors, if they be the ones who wrote the editorial, that my intentions were good and the criticism was supposedly constructive. As for the "No one asked me" part of the editorial, I, as as member of the student body should have something to say about the paper and make any comment or remark that I choose to about the paper. (I or anyone else, so long as it isn't destructive!) The school paper is still the student body's business, and I as a member of the school, should be able to make comments on what goes into their school paper. I am far from being an authority on journalism as the editors said I was not and I wouldn't want them to take my word for anything said. That being true I might suggest they ask another member of the student body and get his views on this matter. (Ask lots of them!)

Well, keeds, our girl last week was Pat Huddleston and no one has complained, so I guess they were satisfied with the description or they don't read my column. Let us hope the latter is not so. (You know, we aim to please!)

Speaking of descriptions, I am quite sure that all of Miss Griffin's Senior II English students are familiar with that word. In fact, so familiar that they may not like the sight of it.

Next week a boy friend has sort of short, blond hair, freckles ,about six feet tall, wears glasses, takes an active part in school affairs and seems to be quite a favorite with some of the girls.

You know, it's harder to get a ride to Montgomery than I thought it was. Harold Parr and I hitch-hiked to the ball game the other week and we had a pretty hard time. Even home town folks wouldn't pick us up. Oh well, I guess Harold and I just haven't got the looks and the luck some people have.

Looks as if the "Tigers" weren't as big a push-over as Prattville thought they would be.

The team really shined Wednesday night and a score of 7-6 is sort of debatable to which team did have the better eleven. The team as a whole played better Wednesday night, November 22, than they have the whole season and we're all proud of them, even if Bannister's right foot was a little cold.

COLLINS CHAPEL GIRLS 4-H CLUB MET

The Collins Chapel girls 4-H Club met Thursday, November 9th. The meeting was called to order by the President, Edwina Williams. Edwina appointed Doris Nell Pate to lead the pledge. Then our club stood and gave the pledge.

Our song leader gave her selections of songs which we sang. Miss Ann Brown, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent, taught us a new song, "Tell Me Why."

Then we had a demonstration on making a bed. Miss Brown showed us how to miter the corners.

After that the meeting was adjourned. — Reporter, Dot Bean.

A Good Neighbor

(From The Foley Outlook, Mrs. B. B. Larrimore, Robertsdale, Alabama)

"There's nothing she wouldn't do for anybody!" exclaimed one woman. Inquiry being made, the speaker revealed that she referred to Mrs. B. B. Larrimore, lovingly spoken of as 'Mary Charles' among her nearest and dearest friends— and they are many as one may well gather by the opening statement.

"What does she do?"

There are dishes of food for the neighbors. Many of these tokens of hospitality come unannounced, without warning, because the giver loves to give. Then there are other dishes of good food, prepared by the hands of this capable as well as kind hearted woman, to go to the home where need exists. When sickness, sorrow, trouble, or death comes to someone near her, Mrs. Larimore sees that a meal is prepared, carried and served for those who need it. And as a final token of neighborliness she washes the dishes.

When new people move to town, strangers though they be to everyone, Mrs. Larrimore hurries to give them a visit of welcome. She is one who doesn't wait for ceremony or for assurance that new people are of special rank or prestige. In speaking of this particular trait, one whom she had welcomed in this manner, months ago said, "You know, Mrs. Larrimore just took me in! She had a way of making me feel that I was really a part of this town."

When Mrs. Larrimore hears of a needy family, she sends whatever they need. It is not unusual to find that she has carried clothes as well as food to people in need. Her friends have a feeling that she "looks" or searches out these cases!

"I've never seen Mrs. Larrimore go to a meeting, P.-T.A. or church alone. She always tries to pick up as many other people as she can carry to the meetings. I just can't picture her driving up to a meeting by herself."

It seems that her three children, as friendly as the mother, have a way of inviting all their friends to visit them, often a dozen at the time. Some days the yard is full of children at play and there are bicycles all over the place. Through it all, not on word of unwelcome talk is heard. The poorest child in town is made to feel just as welcome as the child from the best homes. To Mrs. Larrimore there seems to be no difference.

As strange and unreal as it may sound when one thinks of the spirit prevailing in some homes, the children and their visitors have full run of the house. The spirit of neighborliness knows no bounds. The Larrimores share their lovely home with all who pass their way.

Nor does that kind and unselfish spirit end at this. When she shops for groceries, when she goes for the mail, when she carries the children to school, when she goes out anywhere— "Mary Charles has a friendly smile, a cheerful 'hello,' a word of encouragement for every friend and casual acquaintance. And . . . if she meets someone she has never seen before on the street she says 'Good Morning' or some form of greeting to that one. She doesn't stop to take notice of the dress or possible attractions of the person. I honestly believe she sees something good in everyone, the way she goes along speaking so friendly to all of them."

Perhaps that's it—perhaps she does see some good in everyone. A person usually sees in others a duplicate of what he or she wants in himself or herself.

"The world is a mirror for king and slave.

It's just what you be or do.

Then give to the world the best you have.

And that best will come back to you!"

Truly, one who gives to the world all the genuinely fine neighborliness that this good wife, mother and friend gives must be a very happy person. At least, she deserves to be.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cox of Clanton.

- - Watch out for the Hooks

They make it as tempting as possible.

They make it look so good, the "fish" never "questions" the hooks.

When he does, it's too late — MUCH TOO LATE

A dangerous artificial bait is being dragged back and forth across the land today — by people who want to change our form of government.

They call it "economic planning" or "security."

They want the government to "give" us "security" by "giving" us government housing . . . government education . . . government electricity . . . government insurance . . . government medical service . . . and a "Big Bargain Assortment" of other government "benefits" of all kinds.

Everything must be paid for by somebody. Whatever government "gives" you, you're paying for with taxes.

WATCH OUT FOR THE HOOKS. Your freedom is at stake.

Consider the British citizen. He is not in chains yet. He votes, and he has the right of free speech and free press. But his Socialist government can tell him where to work, how much money he can make, how much food he can eat, what clothes he can wear, what he can plant on his farm, what he can sell, and what price he can put on it.

WATCH OUT FOR THE HOOKS. This is not freedom as we Americans know it.

Webster's Dictionary defines Socialism as "the economic and political theory of social reconstruction abolishing individual ownership and making capital and the means of production the property of the State."

The British government has taken over utilities, communication, medicine, coal mining, railways, highway and water transportation, aviation, banking, and others. Wages are frozen. Farmers are paid subsidies out of the taxpayer's money to raise certain crops. Here are some of the results: The poorest British subject pays an income tax at the rate of 45%, and surtaxes run from 10 to 52%. The cost of government has reached the figure of 40% of the national income. Britain has 21,000,000 taxpayers — of whom 8,740,000 get $1,000 to $2,000 a year after taxes; another 8,740,000 get $600 to $1,000, and 2,030,000 get only $480 to $600 a year.

WATCH OUT FOR THE HOOKS!

"I place economy among the first and most important virtues, and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared . . . To preserve our independence, we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt . . We must make our choice between economy and liberty or profusion and servitude . . . "If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessities and our comforts . . in our labors and in our amusements . . If we can prevent the Government from wasting the labors of the people, UNDER THE PRETENSE OF CARING FOR THEM, they will be happy."

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Chilton County, A Municipal Corporation, Petitioner, vs. H. L. Glass, et als, Respondents. In the Probate Court of Chilton County, Alabama.

To: Wm. C. Lucas, a person over the age of 21 years and of sound mind, and who is absent from the State of Alabama, and is in the Armed Forces of the United States of America, and whose last known post office address is 251 Linears Street, San Antonio, Texas.

You will take notice that on the 28th day of November, 1950, an application or petition was filed in the Probate Court of Chilton County, Alabama, by Chilton County, a municipal corporation, petitioner, setting forth its desire to condemn and acquire an easement or right-of-way in and to the hereinafter described lands for the purpose of a right-of-way on which to build, construct, use, widen, extend and maintain a highway or road for the use of the public, said lands being described as follows, and which are now owned and in the possession of the said Wm. C. Lucas:

A right of way hereinafter described over and across the real estate hereinafter described in Chilton County, Alabama, for a public road; which right-of-way shall be 50 feet in width on each side of the center line of said road, as it is now located and staked out by the State Highway Department, or so much of said real estate as is required to make a 100 foot right-of-way across said lands, said right of way being more particularly described as follows, to-wit: As shown by right-of-way map project S-463 and recorded in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, in Map Book No. 3, Page 8, beginning at survey station 305-15 of said project being the north property line. Thence Southeasterly along a fixed radius curve of 2 degrees 30 minutes to the left for a distance of 1109.4 feet to Station 316-24.4; thence south 40 degrees 6 minutes east for a distance of 328.6 feet to Station 319-53. The point of ending being the Southern Property Line. Said strip of land being 50 feet in width along the Easterly side of said center line. Said strip of land lying in Section 32, Township 24 N, Range 13 E., and containing 1.65 acres more or less including area now used as a right-of-way.

You will therefore take notice that the Court has entered an order appointing the 15th day of December, 1950, as the day for the hearing of said petition, at which time you may appear and contest the same if you so desire to do.

Witness my hand, this the 28th day of November, 1950.

W. L. PARRISH,
48-3tc Judge of Probate.

Jemison News

The Quest Club had an open meeting at the Baptist Church Tuesday evening. Rajkuma Chowdz, a student at Alabama College from India, spoke. Miss Chowdz came dressed in native costume.

Her subject was India. She said that after India had been granted her freedom it was divided in two parts—Hindustan and Pakestan. Also the caste system still exists and that education alone will finally eliminate it. She said that each State has a language of its own, and English was then only common language.

Miss Chowdz was quite attractive and very interesting.

A group of girl students from Alabama College came with Miss Chowdz for the evening.

The Quest Club officers for the year are: President, Miss Sybil Langston; Vice-President, Mrs. George Naish; Recording Secretary, Miss Mary Clements; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Fred Smith; Treasurer, Mrs. Stanley Cost; Historian, Mrs. Lester Pate; Parliamentarian, Mrs. Seymour Reynolds; Reporter, Mrs. Marvin Dawson.

The Club is to have a Christmas party at Mrs. Cliff Walton's home in December.

Mrs. Giles Duncan from Birmingham will review the novel, "Mary," by Shalem Ashe at the January meeting. In February there will be a program on the Legislation Outlook. March will have as its theme "Music." In April the program will be on flower arrangements.

The Baptist W.M.U. met at the home of Mrs. George Naish for its November program and business meeting. Mrs. Elvin Dawson, president, presided.

VOICE OF THE COLORED PEOPLE

To the Mayor and Councilmen of the City of Clanton:

We, the colored people of West End, thought we had gone the limit in giving thanks for the sewer system and water in West End. Now, we are grateful to see that you have gone a step further and have sprinkled gravel over our streets, which is so nice for the safety and convenience of our people, as well as for our white friends who have to go and come through our streets.

We are saying again, with up-lifted hands, "Thanks, Thanks a Thousand Times, Thanks."

CENTRALA SUB-DISTRICT

The Centrala Sub-District held its December meeting Monday night at the First Methodist Church. Jemison M.Y.F. was in charge of the program.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, R. L. Foshee. We discussed plans for a watch night program for Sunday night, December 31st, from 9:00 to 12:00.

After the business meeting refreshments were served in the dining room. In the middle of the basement stood a large beautiful Christmas tree. The only lights, other than the ones on the tree, were candles around the room. Everyone was seated in a circle around the tree. Everyone brought gifts for an exchange. As Miss Sybil Langston played the piano the gifts were passed to the right. The gift you had when the music had stopped the seventh time was the one you kept. From the way the presents turned out there must have been a good crop of cherries and chocolate. Then everyone enjoyed the games Dorothy Sheppard, our recreation chairman, had planned for us. We ended the meeting by singing, "Bless Be The Tie" and forming a Friendship Circle. The meeting was dismissed with M.Y.F. benediction.

"THE TIME IS NOW"

Edward M. Tuttle, executive secretary of the National School Board Association, recently released to the press of the nation a thought-provoking statement entitled "The Time is Now." Mr. Tuttle said:

"Only have we begun to understand that investment of 2 per cent of our national income in public elementary and secondary education is not enough to insure the future of our schools and our beloved country. No business could exist, let alone prosper, which devoted 2 per cent of its income to provisions for its future. How then can we expect to safeguard the nation on any such basis?"

Continuing, Mr. Tuttle points out that our sights concerning education need to be lifted, and there are encouraging signs that this is being done. It is safe to say, he states, that every dollar spent in improving our system of public education will save $2 in time to come that would otherwise have to be spent on physically and mentally inadequate citizens caught in a mesh of crime and delinquency because of poor adjustments in childhood.

"Yes," Mr. Tuttle concludes, "the time is now that America awake to the critical needs in public schools. One encouraging sign is the increasing vigor of school board associations and the service they are rapidly learning to render not only to their own membership, but to the country at large."—Alabama School Journal.

WHAT ONE COUNTY HAS DONE",
(Mobile Register)

If one county in Alabama, why not all?

In a dispatch from Montgomery at week end appeared the statement that "Clay County thus far is the only county without a road fatality during 1950."

Alabama has sixty-seven counties, of course.

Yet traffic accidents this year have taken the lives of one or more persons in sixty-six of these sixty-seven counties.

In other words, up to the past week end only one of Alabama's sixty-seven counties could say that nobody had been killed in a motor vehicle accident within its borders since last January 1.

If one county in Alabama can go that long without a single traffic fatality, can't all other counties in Alabama do the same thing?

It can be argued, of course, that the danger of accident on the roads varies with the volume of traffic, and also with road conditions.

But can't it be reasoned in return that the greater the danger of accident in traffic, the greater the need for the practice of safety in traffic?

And wherever increased danger of traffic accident may arise as between counties in Alabama, can't it be overcome by increased practice of safety?

The sad fact is that in Alabama and everywhere else, most of the fatal and crippling accidents in motor vehicle traffic could be avoided. That is, most of them occur because of failures which precaution and care would prevent.

In Alabama and elsewhere over the United States, traffic accidents will cease to be a disturbing problem when drivers and pedestrains exercise the needed precaution and care.

Meanwhile, Clay County has set an example in traffic safety this year which it should strive to repeat and other Alabama counties should strive to match in future years.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Things You Didn't Know. . . .Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Pipes will be wed 54 years on December 19th next. . . .the fellow or fellows who robbed the Yellow Front Store here last week were colder than hungry. Thy took enough clothes to cover a regiment, but never touched any food. . . .four antique tables were destroyed when the Evans home burned. Valued at $800, or that is what they had been offered for them. . . .Julian's hobby was antiques. . . .T. W. Bryan has singles off a house his father built in Didge County, Ga., 77 years ago. Not a bit rotten either—sound as an old shingle. Mr. Bryan said his father made them from cypress. . . .The Goodyear Service Store will have their new front completed this week. It's a beauty. . . .Herbert Linton tells us he can't finish his floors in the new store for two months. Something about the concrete having to dry out so the tile will stay stuck. . . .M. T. Holliman says the amount of the Yellow Front robbery is mounting. . . .Ralph Morrison has a beautiful livingroom suite he wants to sell. . . . wonder when Clanton Motors is going to open that used car lot.

The case of the missing cat was solved last week by Leo Thompson. It's a very good story so don't go away. Joe Campbell lost a cat, according to Joe it was a very small cat and enters the story through error—he crawled in the wrong bed to sleep. He crawled into a bundle of dirty clothes on (if you aren't following us, we're talking about the cat) Joe Campbell's front porch and was taken from there by the Clanton Laundry truck driver and dumped into the truck. Around the town and around the town the truck, the old dirty clothes bundle, and the kitten went. Late that afternoon they wound up at Clanton Laundry and when the bundle was opened the little cat walked out. Leo not being a drinking man, we do not know what we thought, but there is no doubt he figured some funny business was going on somewhere—sending cats to a laundry.

Watching the television Sunday night of the Montevallo Woman's College group we know many people wondered who, in Chilton County, was the first to appear on television. Was it Mary Clyde Mims, Dorothy Mims, Audrey Popwell, those girls who attend Alabama College. Or was it some talented youngster who has gone to Birmingham and appeared at one of the studios there? It's just a thought but some day, someone will feel mighty proud to boast they were the first in the county to appear on television.

Got a brain-storm and we placed it over our mast head on the front page this week. If we all will put our heart in the Christmas Chest work, a better job will be done. Those working in the Christmas Chest are putting their heart into the job so why not every man, woman and child who possibly can, join in. It's a great work. What's better for Christmas than making others happy?

GOITER

When a goiter develops, the gland involved is the thyroid, a butterfly-shaped structure located in the neck. Whether it is toxic or non-toxic, whether it is producing symptoms or not, any enlargement of the thyroid gland is a goiter.

There are several different types of goiter, but the three most common are non-toxic, toxic and cancerous.

In the non-toxic type, which is found commonly in the Great Lakes region, a deficiency of iodine is usually the cause. The hormone which the thyroid gland secretes contains 60 per cent by weight of iodine. If there is not sufficient iodine in the food intake to manufacture the required amount of hormone, the thyroid gland works overtime and becomes enlarged in a futile effort to compensate for the deficiency. Using iodized salt is an inexpensive and efficient method of furnishing an adequate iodine intake.

Because of the possibility of the non-toxic goiter developing into the toxic or cancerous types, medical supervision is warranted. In the toxic or hyperthyroid individual, the appetite is usually excessive, but the fuel is burned so rapidly that the resulting energy is dissipated as heat. The patient loses weight and strength in spite of a good appetite; he becomes hot and sweats on little effort, is usually nervous, jittery and has a tremor. As longevity increases, there has been a noticeable increase in cancers of the thyroid. Because they usually stem from the toxic goiter, it is wise to be suspicious of any swelling or enlargement of the thyroid gland.

With the development of new and effective drugs, the activity of the thyroid gland can be controlled through medical supervision. Some persons respond very well to some of the new medication, while others do not. And with still others surgery must be undertaken to return the individual to good health.

COLORED SLIDES ON FARM POND BALANCE

A new colored slide series showing pond owners how to keep ponds in "balance" has just been released and may be obtained through the local county agent.

Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. Extension Service fish and wildlife specialist, prepared the slide series and script that accompanies it. He describes how he and county agents determine the "balance" of fish life in any pond. Each condition of "balance" or "unbalance" is explained simply and thoroughly.

The specialist believes that the slide series will prove most beneficial to owners of both new and old ponds.

Honor Thy Parents

"Honor thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." (Ex. 20:12). This is the Fifth Commandment of the Decalogue. The First Commandment with a promise. Let us notice that it is a Comandment direct to Israel; and the promise given to Israel was that they might be long upon the land which the Lord God had given them. The land which He had given them was that of Canaan. Their breaking of this Commandment was to effect them nationally. The whole nation would feel the effect of breaking this particular Commandment; the result would be, they would be driven out of the land which the Lord God had given them. Any one who know the history of Israel, know full well that they did not keep this Commandment. Fathers and mothers were forgotten; they were dishonored by their posterity. Every generation seemed to be less spiritual and regilious than the one preceding it. The result of breaking this Commandment came. Israel was driven from the land which the Lord God had given them. They became slaves to other people; they lost their possession and were driven and scattered throughout the world. They are still a scattered people, and a people who have suffered at the hand of other nations.

A. T. HICKMAN

But when we turn to the New Testament what do we find for us today? Yes, we find the same Commandment given to the church and to the people of this dispensation. "Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. Honor thy father and mother, which is the first Commandment with promise; that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth. But how are we as a nation observing this Commandment? When we turn to II Timothy 3:1-2, we read what will take place in the last days:

"This know also that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, trucebreakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those who are good, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God."

Along with other sins of the last days, we find the sin of "disobedient to parents." Every one knows that the home of the average American has lost its authority and honor. The youngster of the home generally does as he pleases. Therefore, we have juvenile delinquency; or is it "parents' delinquency?"

Look for Others' Good Qualities

HERE IS A STORY demonstrating the way to keep from hating people, quoted from Winning Your Way With People, by K. C. Ingram. I think you will like it, as you will like much about this book.

An elderly man, of the hard-shell philosopher type, who knows about human nature, operates a filling station outside of San Francisco. A friend tells this story about him:

"I've been at Santa Cruz for the past two weeks," the motorist said. "Had a wonderful time there—nice people and a nice place."

Carnegie

The gas-station operator told him that he would like the people at the resort up the highway.

An hour or so later another man came by inquiring about the same Redwood Highway resort. He complained that thus far on his trip he had "had a terrible two weeks: inhospitable people and poor accommodations.

"You won't like it up there," the station operator told the second motorist.

As the second motorist drove on our friend asked the operator why he had changed his attitude so quickly about the Redwood Highway resort.

"I ain't changed my attitude," he replied. "I just was sure neither of them fellers would change their attitudes. The first one liked the people and the places he'd been. So it was a sure thing he'd like it where he was going. The second feller was a griper; he'd have a poor time wherever he went. Having a good time with people is a habit, son."

Says Mr. Ingram, the first step toward getting along with people is to build the habit of looking for their good qualities. If you look, you will find them.

One can look on even the most disagreeable people with considerable tolerance if one realizes the fact that these people are unfortunates whose personalities have been distorted by bad handling, usually early in life. Dominating or neglectful parents, family disgrace or humiliation, nagging or childhood-spoiling may so affect people as to make them overbearing or give them inferiority complexes; may make them liars, or show-offs, or malicious gossips.

Or vice-versa. One can easily fall into the tragic, self-defeating habit of disliking people, by thinking of and looking for only the mean, small despicable qualities in humankind; by thinking of people as being greedy or bestial, or cheats, liars, flatterers, or whatnot.

We ought to try, at least, to understand these people. There is no good purpose to be served by trying to punish them, for they do not realize why they do what they do. If we cannot bring ourselves to help them, we can at least avoid them.

Liking or disliking people is a matter of personal habit or outlook, of personal philosophy.

One of Dostoevski's characters said that to love people you have to hold your nose and shut your eyes: but love them you must.

Oratorical Contest 1950-1951

A large numer of schools are already enrolled in The Birmingham News oratorical contest for 1950-51, with additional enrollments being received daily.

Indications are that there is greater interest in this contest than ever before.

The basic subject is "Stay South Young Man." Contestants may use the basic subject, one of the suggested topics, or a topic of their own selection, provided it is sufficiently related to the basic subject.

Schools of this county already enrolled in The Birmingham News oratorical contest are as follows:

Senior High Schools:

Chilton County High, Clanton, junior and senior departments; Jemison High, junior and senior departments.

Junior High Schools:

Enterprise Junior High, Verbena. Two contests are being conducted, one for senior high schools, the other for junior high. Combined schools which have both senior and junior high departments may compete in both contests, provided they enroll in both. Grammar schools which have junior high work may compete in the junior high contest.

State finals for both senior and junior high contests will be held at Birmingham-Southern College. Birmingham-Southern will award tuition scholarships valued at $3,600 to State finalists of the senior high contest. The News will award cash prizes in both contests and will pay railroad fare and hotel bill for each visiting state finalists and chaperon. There is no charge to schools or pupils for participation.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

R. O. Williams, Clanton, Ala., Rt. 1, Supervisor of the Chilton Unit of the North Central Soil Conservation District is in the process of clearing approximately six acres of "Yellow Leaf Swamp" and preparing the land to plant Fescue and Ladino Clover. The vines, briars, bushes, and other growth are so dense that it is almost impossible for man to see through. But with the use of a Rattang Cycle stalk cutter all growth from the size of a man's arm down is litterly chewed up.

Next summer the balance of the swamp will be cleared and prepared for earlier planting of Fescue and Ladino.

* * *

Last Thursday was spent in Shelby County with the other Soil Conservation Service personnel of the District, including State office personnel. J. A. Gibbs, Regional Forester from Spartanburg, S. C., was in charge. Forestry management was the discussion.

Robert Crumpton of Jemison Route 1, and Charles Wallace, Verbena Rt. 2, have completed soil and water conservation farm plans. The rough lands are devoted to sod crops and will be used for ay or grazing for milch cows.

If you are not convinced that a good crop of fescue will pay off in grazing at this time of year, ask W. A. Williams, Cleve Mims, O. H. Lawrence, G. U. Mims, C. C. Fiquette, Charlie Patterson or J. N. Dennis.

A cold-saving idea is that of using a small tray in the refrigerator to hold small bowls of food. Then when anything at the back of the refrigerator is needed, the tray can be pulled out for easy reaching and immediate replacement.

A REAL THANKSGIVING

Jemison, Ala., may be only a small dot on a map, but its people have generous hearts. This was demonstrated recently when the people of the community sent their Thanksgiving greetings to Pfc. Jesse Lewis in Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D.C.

Pfc. Lewis was wounded in Korea, October 12, losing a leg and sustaining seven other bullet wounds. He was flown from Tokyo to Washington a few days ago.

What can we do to show our appreciation of him was the question on the minds of the people of Jemison. What would a sick boy, who had barely reached his 18th birthday want more than anything else? His mother, of course; so the school children, teachers and local people surprised Mrs. Lewis by presenting her with a round trip ticket to Washington — all expenses paid. The citizens wanted to show further appreciation to young Lewis and added a sum of money to be used to purchase a gift for him.

Mrs. Lewis was accompanied by her husband, Mr. G. W. Lewis. They left November 22 in order to be able to spend Thanksgiving with Jesse.

Pfc. Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis of Jemison, Ala. He has been in the army two years. Since the beginning of the war he had been in Korea.

SOUND FARMING IS VETERAN'S GOAL

James H. Rhodes after being discharged from the army took up carpentering for a living. Then in February of 1949, he decided to start farming.

Mr. Rhodes rented a farm north of Clanton and enrolled in the Veterans' Farm Training Program.

He then started out as a cotton and corn farmer, but soon realized the weakness of the one cash crop system.

After deciding this, Mr. Rhodes planned out a sound program. He set 3-4 acre of strawberries, 3-4 acre of dewberries and built a laying house large enough to house 200 hens.

In addition he has been sowing pasture, using sericea and reseeding crimson clover as base crops. He will carry a few brood cows to supplement his income.

This year Mr. Rhodes bought the farm he previously rented.

He has 200 laying hens which are clearing a nice profit each week.

In addition his strawberries and dewberries will bear this spring.

Mr. Rhodes is definitely on the road to economic security, a road made possible by the interest and aid afforded through the Veterans' Institutional On-the-Farm Training program.

every day 'cept Christmas I wear 'em myself!

I have to look dressed up when I'm out deliverin' gifts to folks for Christmas, but almost every other day I wear those comfortable, tough-wearing Happy Jack dungarees. They feel better and wear nearly twice as long as any others I've found. Plenty of other folks wear 'em, too, including all my helpers and people all over America. For putterin' around in my workshop or taking care of my reindeer, I've found you just can't beat Happy Jack dungarees for men. Women wear 'em too, only their's are called Happy Jill. You can get Happy Jack and Happy Jill dungarees in stores everywhere.

The Old Lathe, near the entrance of Langdon Hall on the campus of A.P.I., Auburn, was used to make cannon in the Confederate munitions plant in Selma. After the war a second-hand machinery dealer bought it and later sold it to an iron works company in Birmingham, where it remained for about 40 years. By accident its history came to ilght—just as a junk man was about to ship it as scrap iron to Japan.

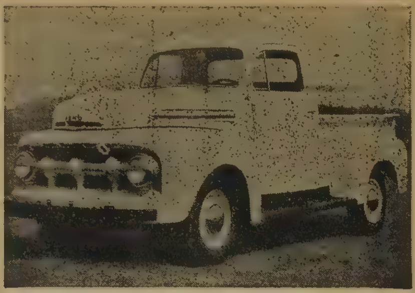
INCREASED COTTON ACREAGE

An increased cotton acreage should be based on a well planned program. See the local county agent for complete information.

CUT STALKS

Cut stalks and other crop residues will help control erosion, add organic matter to the soil, and make soil preparation easier.



The 1951 Ford F-1 pickup truck and other models in the new Ford truck line feature as optional equipment a new "5-Star Extra" cab for added comfort. An enlarged rear window in all 1951 Ford trucks provides better all-around vision. The steering column gearshift is standard equipment on the F-1 truck. The new cab, with many passenger car features, is sound-proofed with undercoating and roof insulation. Seats, including backs, are adjustable, and cushions have a thick foam rubber pad.

HOW TO FIREPROOF A CHRISTMAS TREE

Auburn, Ala. — Christmas trees dry out rapidly in heated homes and become a fire hazard unless they are fireproofed.

"The best way to fireproof a Christmas tree," reveals I. R. Martin, A.P.I. Extension Service forester, "is to apply one of the following solutions to needles and limbs by dipping, or using a fly sprayer, laundry sprinkling bottle, or vacuum cleaner sprayer:

7 Oz. Borax.
3 Oz. Boric Acid.
1½ Oz. Soap Powder, Old Fashioned.
2 Qt. Hot Water, or
9 parts Sodium Silicate (water glass).
1 Part Water.

"If the water glass solution is thinned for spraying, two or more coats should be applied."

Martin says that the next step is to cut off the trunk diagonally at least an inch above the original cut end. Stand the tree at once in a container of water and keep the water level above the cut surface during the entire time the tree is in the house. If the tree is not to be set up for several days, it should be kept standing in water in a cool place.

SAVE VIAMIN, COVER MILK WHILE HEATING

Keeping milk covered while heating helps save riboflavin, an important B-vitamin.

Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist, explains that riboflavin is destroyed easily by light and that this destruction is hastened by heat. Tests show that milk boiled in the light lost considerable riboflavin, but milk boiled in the dark lost very little.

Miss Hulsey believes that it is important for the housewife to take every precaution against loss of this vitamin in milk, because milk is the food on which children and adults depend for most of the riboflavin they need for best health.

The local home demonstration agent can give homemakers other vitamin-saving tips.

GOOD POULTRY CARE MEANS MORE PROFIT

Auburn, Ala. — Good care of the poultry flock calls for sanitation, declares John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultry specialist.

Another important thing to remember is that the amount of heat required depends upon kind of house, kind of brooder, and age of chicks. Keep chicks comfortable; avoid overheating. Allow at least one square foot of floor space for every two chicks. Never place over 250 to 350 chicks around one brooder.

One four-foot hopper for each 100 chicks should be provided. Increase hopper space as chicks grow older. Provide two half-gallon jars of water per 100 chicks.

Teach chicks to roost as soon as possible after they are received. Turn them out early so they will get plenty of sunshine. Separate pullets and cockerels as early as possible and place pullets on clean range at an early age. Vaccinate pullets against fowl pox when 10 weeks of age.

CORN FUMIGANT

One of the best controls for weevils in corn is a mixture that contains one part carbon disulfide and three parts of carbon tetrachloride. This mixture is effective in the control of weevils when used at the proper dosage, and it will not create a fire hazard like carbon disulfide does when used alone.

When grinding dry bread, tie a paper bag over the outlet of the grinder. This prevents the crumbs from dropping on the table or floor.

PLAN FOR ENOUGH TERRACE OUTLETS

During the coming weeks many farmers will be turning their attention to planning and building terrace and water disposal systems to control surplus run-off water.

"In planning such systems," warns S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist, "much consideration should be given to outlets. The most serious weakness in many terracing jobs has been the failure of providing enough outlets for safe disposal of water from terrace ends.

LIVESTOCK GROWERS GIVEN GREEN LIGHT

Livestock growers have every reason to plan for full production, according to A. W. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist.

He points out that a gradual expansion in the market demand for meat may occur in 1951 because of an increasing consumer purchasing power and an increasing demand for meat by both civilians and the armed forces. Also, pastures and grazing crops in Alabama are better than normal, and the largest supply of corn and hay ever harvested is on hand.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Sunday was our regular preaching day. The attendance was off a little too. We want to invite everyone to come to church every time they can.

The church will draw names the next preaching day (Second Sunday in December) for the Christmas tree. We want to urge every one to be present.

Remember Sunday School at 10 o'clock next Sunday morning and B.T.U. at 6 o'clock Sunday night.

Rev. and Mrs. N. E. Cook and family and Mr. and Mrs. Sylvin Easterling were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dock Hilyer.

Mrs. Reedie Smith visited in Georgia the past week end.—Mozelle Miller, Reporter.

PLENTIFUL FOODS

Food buyers are finding a wider variety of high-quality food products on the market this fall.

Constant use of a milk cooling system will prevent milk from souring in mild weather and freezing of milk in cold weather.

CENSUS BUREAU'S CURRENT POPULATION SURVEY

Information on the number of different persons who do farm wage work in the course of the year will be obtained as a part of the Census Bureau's Current Population Survey, it was announced today by District Supervisor Mary L. Griffin from her office at Clanton. The Current Population Survey interviews each month a representative cross-section of 25,000 households throughout the United States, including a number in the Chilton-Perry area, Miss Griffin said.

Roughly 9 million different persons did farm wage work or operated their own farms for all or part of 1949, according to a similar study conducted in December last year. Many of these —especially women and school-age youngsters — worked on farms only during the harvest season and other periods of peak activity. Others did farm work during peak periods of the year and worked at non-farm jobs when no farm work was available. In December 1949, with farm operations at a seasonal low, only 6 million persons were doing paid farm work. This year, at the request of the Department of Agriculture, special questions are again being asked to determine how many different persons did farm wage work at any time in 1950 and the extent to which these persons worked at other jobs to supplement their farm earnings.

These special questions are in addition to the regular ones on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the Current Population Survey. In October, employment was estimated at 61.8 million—the highest level ever reported for that time of year. Unemployment, in the same month, dropped to 1.9 million, its lowest point in nearly two years.

The survey will be conducted in the Chiton-Perry area during the week of December 11 to 16. Supervisor Griffin emphasized that all individual information furnished the Census Bureau is held in absolute confidence and only statistical summaries are ever published.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roper of Birmingham and Mrs. L. J. Martin of Bessemer were the Thanksgiving visitors of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Roper.

METHODISTS WILL HOLD MID-CENTURY CONVOCATION

From cross-roads and big cities, 1200 representatives of Methodist churches totaling over two million members in nine Southeastern states will gather January 2-5 in Savannah, Ga., for a Mid-Century Jurisdictional Convocation.

Held every four years, the Convocation is expected to attract hundreds of visitors in addition to official delegates as Methodists seek to learn more about church plans at home and abroad, and to gather inspiration from an imposing array of speakers.

Fourteen bishops and 15 other eminent lay and clerical leaders will come from across the nation to appear on the four-day program.

Theme of the Convocation will be "The World Is My Parish," quotation from John Wesley, English founder of Methodism. He and his brother, Charles, came to Savannah as missionaries 215 years ago and established the Methodist doctrine in this country.

Keynoting the Convocation theme in opening speeches will be Dr. Gordon Rupp, prominent theologian of London, England, and Dr. Roy L. Smith, of Chicago, religious writer and lecturer.

Chief lay speakers will be Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, whose subejct will be "The United Nations Our One Hope for World Peace," and Congressman Walter H. Judd, Minnesota, who will discuss "Communism and the Far East."

Bishop Arthur J. Moore of Atlanta, Ga., convocation chairman, said the program will include joint sessions of the jurisdictional council and the Woman's Society of Christian Service. Mrs. E. U. Robinson, Franklin, Tenn., is southeastern chairman of the WSCS.

Will There Be A Santa Claus? It's Up To You

To many of our boys and girls of Chilton County this is a very serious question. To them, there is a possibility that there will not be; that is, unless some kind, thoughtful person takes it on himself to assure them that there will be a real Santa. There are quite a few of them—too many, in fact, for any one person to play Santa to. Yet, we cannot afford to let Christmas morning find them with empty hands and empty hearts. We must see to it that the less fortunate children in our various neighborhoods can feel that Santa is no respecter of persons; that he remembers all, regardless of stations in life. Isn't this in keeping with the teaching of the Master Teacher, He whose birthday we will be celebrating? Do you think He would be pleased with our Christmas services, songs, prayers and celebrations when we are allowing those less fortunate than we to go hungry on His birthday?

It is the purpose of the Chilton County Christmas Chest to assist in providing Santa Claus for the less fortunate in our county. By giving to the chest, you will be giving to all those who will be in need of assistance this Christmas. It is the aim of this organization to see that your goodwill and holiday contributions be distributed as evenly among the needy as possible. Those who know homes that need assistance are urged to contact the general chairman or some other official of the Chest. All suggestions will be investigated and those in real need will be added to the list. The basement of the First Methodist Church of Clanton is the collection point for donations of usable items of clothing, shoes, toys, staple groceries and canned goods. Money will be gladly accepted by any official, especially the finance committee, of which Reverend A. T. Hickman is chairman. Other workers are as follows:

Clanton — Bob Alred, Russell Williams, Rev. R. W. Stuckey.
Thorsby — Mrs. H. S. Peterson.
Jemison — Mrs. Edith Haymon and Mrs. Stanley Cost.
Verbena — Mrs. H. G. Daniel.
Enterprise — J. D. Thomason.

Club, organizations and churches are urged to give through the Chest. Giving in an organized way can be more effective and more needy can be reached.

Mail contributions and suggestions to Bob Taber, general chairman, WKLF, Clanton.

Both glee clubs will sing such old favorities as "White Christmas," "Gesu Bambino," and "O, Come Emanuel." Pat Huddleston will be soloist for the evening.

This year Mrs. Mims has organized a Girls' Chorus and Boys' Chorus. Together they will sing a novelty arrangement of "Jingle Bells" and the ever beautiful "Shepherds in the Hush of Night." The Boys' Chorus, accompanied by Sarah Madge Mullins, will sing "Silent Night," "Lo, Now A Rose" and Carol of the Birds." Rebecca Popwell is pianist for the Girls' Chorus. —Dorothy Sheppard, President.

AMERICAN LEGION PASSES RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED by the Executive Committee of the Department of Alabama, The American Legion, that we are forced to recognize the perilous situation in which our country now finds itself, and the resultant threat to the safety of our Government and to the liberties of our people, and that in this situation we do deem it the sacred duty of every citizen to support our Government in its foreign policy, and to preserve our spirit of National untiy.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that we are convinced that all partisanship and irresponsible criticism of our Governmental officials are disloyal and merit the condemnation of every patriotic citizen.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that we do heartily condemn and reprobate factionalism and any attempt to derive personal or partisan advantage from the difficulties encountered by our military and civil leaders.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that we pledge our unqualified support to our Government and to its officials, both civil and military, in their efforts to deal with the crises which confront us, and that we do now call on every loyal and patriotic American citizen to give his utmost, without reserve, in furtherance of the ultimate victory of our armed forces, and in support of those who bear the burden of directing our affairs.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States and to our Senators and Representatives in Congress; to the National Commander of The American Legion, and various Department Commanders of The American Legion, and to the Press of Alabama. — George Huddleston, Jr., Dept. SPENDING MONEY IN YOUR HOME TOWN

Home Communities Can Only Grow and Prosper Through Business Done in the Town

There is only one reason why towns grow and become prosperous and that is because of those who are loyal to their home institutions and industries and do business in their community.

There is absolutely no valid argument for sending your money away from your home community. It is only by the merest accidental chance that one can hope to secure even a slight temporary advantage, and this is more than offset by the fact that the money has left the community never to return to the channels of trade in your locality. Of course a single smal item sent away would not make much difference but when people send away so that it mounts into sums of thousands of dollars in the aggregate, then it becomes a very serious matter for the community.

If everybody, for instance, in Chilton County would make it a practice to send away for their merchandise, etc., business enterprises of Clanton would vanish, for they could not live without patronage. It is only due to the fact that all do not send away their money that the community is abe to survive and those who do business in their home town are the ones who should have credit for the schools, churches, and public conveniences that are only possible through the public enterprise of your home town.

Of course, there are sometimes inequalities that arise to discharge home trade. There may happen to be a short-sighted business man in the community who does not fully appreciate his opportunity for service to the people of his community. But it is a sure thing that he will sooner or later be eliminated, for business today, especially in the smaller cities and towns, is based on service.

The value of the business done in the town is definitely reflected in real estate values throughout the entire country and neighgboring territory, and thus brings the question of the importance of home trade directly to the door of the farmers as well as everybody else, for it determines the value of his farm. There is also the social side, churches, schools, etc., as well as many other things of a public nature to be enjoyed by the general public.

These benefits are the direct results at co-operation.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

We deeply appreciate the invitation from George Smith Friday night to attend, with our family, the VFW Circus at the Airport. However, the night was wet, cold, and practically every member of the family was suffering severe colds. We all stayed close to the home fires.

Speaking of colds, bet you never saw more people with better colds. Just about everyone you see has a humdinger. It's such lovely weather for colds and flu.

Jimmie Taylor tells us that his son, James Heflin Taylor, has received an appointment to Annapolis Naval Academy. Congratulations!

Too, we want to congratulate Welch Roebuck on his appointment to fulfill the term left vacant by the death of Neal H. Harrell our County Commissioner. Mr. Roebuck is a young man and capable of doing a fine service for his county. Our best wishes and every cooperation are his.

Roy Mahan told us Monday about the little fellow who was smoking a cigeratte and was surprised by an elderly lady. "Don't you know you'll never amount to anything smoking cigerattes at your age? You'll never grow up to be president doing things like that." "Well," answered the little boy, "I wouldn't anyway, I'm a Republican."

The names of those who have contributed to the Christmas Chest this year appear on the first page of the News this week. Hope yours is there. Next week another list will be printed of those who have contributed. In the mean time, if your donation to this good cause didn't get in early enough to make the front page this week, watch next week's Chilton County News for the complete list.

Been waiting every day since the robbery at the Yellow Front Store for news to break of the capture of the criminals. It's a fact that the local authorities have made progress in the case and know a lot more than they are telling. We're writing this several days before news deadline and maybe we will have something to report on page one this week.

According to Mr. Brown, City Street Superintendent, the new bridge south of town will be ready for travel around Christmas Day. Of course it never has been completely closed to traffic, but the bottleneck has been inconvenient. The new bridge will be broad and modern, eliminating the driving hazard of the narrow bridge formerly there.

HOW FEAR OF THE DARK BEGINS

A MOST COMMON FEAR would seem to be fear of the dark or, in reality, fear of what might be lurking in dark shadows. In many cases, this fear is developed in early childhood.

This was so with Jerry Scharr, Fresno, Calif. As the youngest of 10 children, he often was frightened by his brothers and sisters. It was fun for those youngsters, but it was terror for little Jerry.

Carnegie

As he became old enough to play on the streets, he would run back and forth to the home of his friends; he would roller skate out in the middle of the street rather than brave any shadows on the sidewalk.

Then all of a sudden one night he was cured, cured through his own logic. He was on his way home and he decided he would conquer his fear. He knew at heart that nothing was going to harm him. So instead of running, he walked.

When about two blocks from his home, he heard a noise. He looked down a narrow alley and saw a man. His heart jumped into his throat, metaphorically speaking. He took off like a flash. But the man also started running and soon caught up with him, just as he reached the steps of his own home. This man put his hand on Jerry's shoulder, and Jerry was about to emit a shriek when he turned and saw that it was the special policeman who patrolled the neighborhood. It developed that he was suspicious of Jerry because of Jerry's own attitude, so he gave chase. From then on, Jerry could walk home instead of run, for his reasoning told him that he was safe.

But when he went into war service, the old fear attacked him again. He was seized with fear when on guard duty, afraid that he would be shot in the dark, so he would tell the guards on each side of him to let him know when they were meeting in the dark. He was impatient with himself about this, and began recalling the boyhood incident when he cured himself of fear near his home. Now he began telling himself there was nothing to be afraid of, and after a period of years in the army, he conquered. But he says that he will break the neck of anyone who ever frightens his own little son.

God Loves A Cheerful Giver

Some one asked the question, "Why does God love a cheerful giver?" the answer is, "He is one Himself." God so loved the world that He gave His Only Begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. (John 3:16). The Christmas spirit is the spirit of giving. For it began with the greatest Giver, and the greatest Gift. God the Father was the Giver, Jesus Christ, His Son, was the Gift; while the sinful world, and those who will believe in Him are the receivers. We can think of no better way to commemorate the first Christmas than to have that same spirit of giving. And there is no better way for you to give than to give through the Chilton County Christmas Chest. So if you have not already made your contribution to the Chilton County Christmas Chest, do it now. Do it this week. Elsewhere in this paper are the names of those who have already given. If your name is not on the list, be sure you have it there by next week.

A. T. HICKMAN

The purpose of the Chilton County Christmas Chest is to provide Christmas baskets full of needed things for those in our county who cannot provide for themselves. There are many needy families in our county, and there are children in many of those homes who will not have any Christmas only as they receive it from our Christmas Chest.

All churches in the county, Lodges and Clubs, and P.-T.A. organizations, and like groups are asked and urged to give through the Christmas Chest, in order that every unfortunate family may receive something; and that there be no duplication to some families, while others might not receive anything. Friends, it is through the Chilton County Christmas Chest only that this manner of giving can be done with fairness to all.

Mr. Bob Taber, manager of WKLF Radio Station, is serving as chairman of the Christmas Chest this year; Earl Parrish, of the First National Bank of Clanton, is the treasurer; Miss Louise Foshee is the secretary; Rev. A. T. Hickman is chairman of the finance committee. So if you will call either of these persons, we will gladly call by for your contribution toward this great and worthy cause. There are other members of the finance committee you may see. They are: Roy Roper, I. S. Levine, Robert Alred, Russell Williams, Rev. R. W. Stuckey and Hiram Littlejohn. See any of these men today!

THIS WEEK IN Washington

WITH CONGRESS BACK in session, the nation's capital once more resumed its stride, for although many here breathe a sigh of relief when congress adjourns, the city is not the same with the big plant on Capitol Hill idle and all the employees absent from the city.

And even though this is a so-called "lame duck" session and likely will accomplish little, the wheels of legislation are again turning, albeit slowly and creakingly. As a matter of fact this is the first full-dress lame duck sesion of congress to convene after elections since the 20th or "lame-duck" amendment was ratified in 1933. The 80th congres reconvened for a a few hours on December 31, 1948 for formal adjournment only, so it could qualify as a lame duck session.

• • •

It usually takes a couple of weeks to get a congress into action, so with the time on this session limited to not more than four weeks, no one here expects any action to speak of. The Democrats, despite the optimism of President Truman and the statistics which show Democratic losses smaller in this off-year election than any party in power since 1918, are disheartened. And while the Republicans are jubilant, they are looking ahead toward 1952 and will not risk any decision on major legislation until they come up with their new full strength in the new 83rd congress which opens January 3.

• • •

The first bill on the calendar is the railway labor act amendments in the senate, which made it unfinished business when it closed up shop in September.

As to President Truman's requests for military appropriations, they will likely come through, but only after the Republicans get their fill of what Senator Taft called a "re-examination" of our foreign policies. There probably will be a $10,000,000 appropriation for the defense department for the Korean war and other defense measures; aid probably will be voted for Yugoslavia in the form of a loan or food grant; Hawaii and Alaska statehood bills, both already through the house, likely will be shoved aside; a watered-down excess profits tax measure will get through the house, but likely will not clear the senate; rent control may be extended, but only on a sixty-day basis; if the Kefauver crime investigators want to risk another filibuster by Senator Malone of Nevada, the anti-slot machine bill might get through the senate. The bill already has passed, but Senator Malone, it will be remembered, blocked adoption of a conference report by a one-man filibuster.

Another reason why as little action as possible will be taken, is that both house and senate will return to meet in cramped quarters, the senate in the old supreme court room and the house in the larger ways and means committee room. Both senate and house chambers are torn up with the modernization program, but will be in shape for the opening of the new congress.

In the meantime, there will be some headhunting by the GOP membership with their whipping boy, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, the butt of most of their criticism. Some, however also are demanding the resignation of Secretary of Agriculture Brannan and even of Secretary for Defense George C. Marshall. Even some Democrats of the southern variety want Brannan's scalp for his order, later modified, clamping down on cotton exports. And with cotton selling for around 40 cents a pound too!.

• • •

Then too, the Republicans, still short of control in either house, will want to woo, if possible the southern bloc and renew a tight southern Democrat-Republican coalition for control. Senator Taft of Ohio, back with a handsome 400,000 majority vote tucked under his belt, is cool to the whole lame-duck session idea. His answer to the question of what the session should do was one word—"Adjourn."

Then there is the nostalgic side to a lame duck session, for despite their political squabbles, members of the senate form a very exclusive club, and over the years these friendships run deep.

BACKACHE

Backache, like headache, comes in several different varieties, stemming from many causes and sometimes requiring months to clear up. The normal or even slightly irregular back is usually so flexible that it can perform many movements and a person may live for years without once having experienced the stabbing ache that comes with low back pain. Tripping, however, or twisting suddenly out of a chair may produce the action that leaves the victim in pain for weeks.

The spinal column, one of the strongest and most important parts of the body, is likened to a chain made up of short cylinders of bone (vertebrae) superimposed one on the other and held together by muscles and ligaments. Thirty-three vertebrae make up the spinal column in human beings. In between the vertebrae are elastic cushion disks of gristle, and inside the spinal column is a tube which holds the spinal cord from which the nerves branch out to all parts of the body.

Low back pain may be caused by many things; and because of the variety of causes of low back pain, long careful study is often necessary to determine definitely the underlying source responsible for the pain. In some instances, the discomfort may be attributed to poor posture alone. When improper posture throws the body out of line the disks receive unequal pressure and pain may result. This unequal force is likely to occur low down in the spinal column producing strain in the sacroiliac joint.

Backaches, resulting from injury or accident, are called traumatic where sudden or prolonged strain or twisting dislocates or damages a ligament, throwing the whole hip area out of line, or bursting and squeezing out one of the disks. There may even be chipping or fracture of one of the bony processes of the vertebrae.

Other backaches stem from fatigue, a type which is found in persons doing excessively heavy labor. In this group, the pain may come from working in an improper and tiring position which may cause strain on muscles and ligaments. The housewife usually falls into this group, suffering particularly from overtaxed muscles.

Patients with true, organic pain in the lower back region suffer great misery and should consult a physician to ascertain and remedy the cause. Sometimes a few corrective exercises and education in the proper way of walking, sitting or lifting will free the victim of an "aching back."

Following the Indian wars Brewton progressed from a settlement to a large lumbering center which accounts for the county seat being moved from Pollard to Brewton. It is said that the citizens of Pollard, incensed at losing the seat, gathered a great number of cats, loaded them into a box car, hauled them to Brewton, and turned them loose to become pests in the town for years to come.

CHILTON COUNTY FARM BUREAU MEMBERSHIP DRIVE IN PROGRESS

The Chilton County Farm Bureau Membership Drive is now in progress. Mr. Glenn W. Sessions, President of the County Farm Bureau, is County membership chairman.

Chilton County's 1950-51 membership goal has been set at 1,037 members. This figure is Chilton County's prorata share of an Alabama 1950-51 goal of 80,000.

Membership solicitor teams have been selected in all Chilton County Beats. The sixteen Beat Membership Chairman are as follows:

Beat 1 — Gerald Hubbard.
Beat 2 — H. T. Moody.
Beat 3 — C. C. Moore.
Beat 4 — T. E. Blackmon.
Beat 5 — Cleve Wyatt.
Beat 6 — Cecil Yeargan.
Beat 7 — Harry Higginbotham.
Beat 8 — R. H. "Bob" Davis.
Beat 9 — E. N. Bentley.
Beat 10 — E. H. Bowles.
Beat 11 — Raymond Giles.
Beat 12 — Claude Glass.
Beat 13 — B. M. McRae.
Beat 14 — I. N. Waldrop.
Beat 15 — F. T. Williams.
Beat 16 — Leroy Rhodes.

Beat membership goals have been set ranging from 10 for Beat 1, to 345 for Beat 4. In most cases the beat quota is approximately one-third of the total number of farmers in each respective beat. Membership solicitors, beat leaders, and county membership chairmen, are donating valuable time to make the county canvass successful.

Mr. Sessions reminds all old members that have not already renewed their membership that now is the time to do so. Don't wait until someone looks you up. Go to your beat chairman or to your neighborhood leader and renew your membership. Or if yu are in Clanton go by to see James N. Dennis, County Secretary, and renew. Mr. Sessions reminds all farm people and friends of farm people that the Farm Bureau "Parity" program has "put money in your pocket" and that farmers are going to have to continue to fight to maintain price supports.

The Farm Bureau is strong because of a large total membership. Every single member adds to the total and to the influence that the organization can have. YOUR MEMBERSHIP WILL COUNT.

All farm people and farmer friends are encouraged to make it a personal item to see that Chilton County reaches the county goal of 1,037 paid-up members in the Farm Bureau for 1950-51.

Annual Farm Bureau dues are only three dollars per family. The three-dollar membership dues makes each Chilton County member also an Alabama Farm Bureau and an American Farm Bureau member. The annual dues are divided:

$1.25 to the County organization.
$1.00 to the Alabama Farm Bureau.
75c to the American Farm Bureau.

Along with the $3.00 annual membership fee each member receives a year's subscription to "Alabama Farmers State," a weekly farm paper, and "The Nations Agriculture," a monthly magazine.

A county, state, and national membership in the world's most influential farm organization; a weekly paper, and a monthly magazine; the opportunity to secure fire, life, auto, and hospital insurance in your own company at cost; plus the satisfaction of cooperating with your farmer neighbors in an organization that is constantly fighting for a fair deal for agriculture is a few if the major things that one $3.00 Farm Bureau membership does.

Where else can so little accomplish so much?

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

By Mrs. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

PARENTS AND GIFT-BRINGING FRIENDS have been well educated in choosing the right toy for very young children. They know about the baby's need for toys to feel, watch and chew on as he learns about the material world about him. They know, too, about the toddler's need for toys to test his new skills—push and pull toys to help him gain confidence in walking, a little chair of his own to show off the involved business of sitting down in a chosen spot instead of just flopping. But as the child approaches three or four and is undeniably an individual, you have to put a lot of thought into what your particular Jimmy or Julie will benefit by, as well as enjoy.

If four-year-old Jimmy, for example, is quiet and a bit sluggish about exercise, now is the ideal time to have Stanta Claus introduce outdoor play equipment—a swing, a teeter-totter and especially a bit of climbing apparatus. An easel and paints will be a more natural form of amusement for the little introvert and would wisely balance the gifts meant to stir him into more activity.

But suppose three-year-old Julie, on the other hand, is too slam-bang for a little girl. Now is the time to develop her more feminine side with a doll she can bathe and undress and wheel about in a dolly buggy. (Up to now dolls have just been something to hug and squeeze and drag around by one foot.) Records to which the child can dance and sing will develop rhythm and thus lay the foundation for bodily grace.

Boys and girls both at this age are ready for toys that improve hand and finger dexterity, such as beads for stringing, crayons and miniature cars.

An outdoor playhouse, simply constructed out of packing boxes, helps the six-year-old go a step farther in dramatizing adult housekeeping. If playhouse is in the yard, brother will enter into the play, especially if he can turn the playhouse into a store or doctor's office now and then. Playing school doesn't seem to occupy children as much as it used to when the more dominant child in the group was usually teacher and always had a stick in her hand as a symbol of authority. But children of four or five are becoming acquainted with school things—books, pencil sets, more advanced records, paper and scissors—all of which make welcome gifts.

The bicycle age is from six on, though the child should show some inclination for riding a bike before he is confronted with trying a skill he can't yet master. The same is true of roller skates, ice skates and skis, all of which are possible for the six to eight year old child to use. Games that the child can play with his parents or older brothers and sisters are much appreciated at this time—dominoes, checkers and simple card games are usually not too difficult. Cooking, sewing and carpentry engage his interest and any tools of these play trades make suitable gifts.

After eight the child has usually found his place with his age mates and is most valuable about the gifts he wants, which will usually be something his friends can share.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala. — The 418 cancer cases reported in September from the state as a whole included 6 reported from Chilton County. The announcement was made today by the State Department of Health.

The state total represented a slight increase over the 406 cases reported in August. It exceeded by a much larger margin the 359 cases reported in September of last year.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Viola D. Gerwig of Frametown, W. Va.: I remember when "apple cuttings" were big society events. The family at whose home the apple cutting was to take place, put in the day bringing in huge stocks of apples. That night the whole community gathered and peeled and cut apples.

Next day the youngsters of the family strung the cut apples on long strings and hung them across the fireplace, or tied the ends together and hung them on a rack in front of the fireplace, to dry the apples. Huge bunches of these strings of apples hanging on the kitchen wall was a common sight. After the apples were cut, games were played."

From Mrs. Edward McKenzie of Jamestown, N.D.: I remember Mother's remedy for a bad cold was onion soup taken internally —and goose grease and camphor or turpentine plentifully spread on a woolen cloth and applied to the chest. She kept a can of turpentine handy to pour into open wounds from rusty nails or lacerations from barbed wire, etc. . . . A sure cure for sore throat was a generous slab of salt fat pork plentifully sprinkled with black pepper and fastened about the neck with a woolen rag. Some hardier souls saved the fat from a skunk to be used as a poultice for rheumatism and various other aches and pains.

STUCK! . . . John Batt, Long Beach, Calif., stuck his finger into a manhole cover and didn't pull out a plum. Policeman Sid Dunmore and fire company members had to apply soap to the finger.

STATIONED AT SEOUL, KOREA

A letter was received this week that Pfc. Clarence D. Stone is with the 51st APU stationed at Seoul, Korea. His home is at Maplesville.

Pvt. Stone, who is with the post office, says that things there are quiet at the time. They have a PX across the hall in the post office building where they can buy toilet articles they need. Their barracks are about two miles out of town and they have two trucks and a jeep for transportation to and from work. Korean women do their laundry free and he stated the only thing they can't get is candy.

Maurice L. Benson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Benson, Route 1, Clanton, has enlisted in the U. S. Air Force.

He is stationed at Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, Texas, and after basic training will be ready for specialized work. He was accepted for enlistment by M-Sgt. Harry Morehead of the U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station at Clanton.

Chopped nut meats sprinkled over meringe or chocolate cream pie before baking will produce an added delectable touch.

FREEZE EXTRA PECAN AND MINCEMEAT PIES

Auburn, Ala. — The way to keep extra mincemeat and pecan pies on hand is to prepare, bake, and then freeze them in the home freezer.

According to Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. extension service food preservation specialist, crusts of frozen mincemeat and pecan pies will remain crisp for several months. Also, the flavor will be the same as when they were first baked.

After baking, allow the pies to cool and then wrap them in cellophane paper and seal. Store in a cardboard box that will prevent crushing of pies.

Try this delicious, eye-appealing salad: Cut off the stems and remove the seeds from a sweet pepper. Stuff it with cream cheese, but fill the center of the cheese with chopped stuffed olives. Place in the refrigerator to chill. When firm, slice and serve on lettuce with French dressing.

Victorious Daily Living

Lesson for December 17: II Corinthians 11: 18-30; 12: 8-10

Memory Selection: James 1: 2-3

VICTORIOUS daily living pre-supposes difficulties to be overcome. Being a Christian is the hardest job a man can undertake. But by the grace of God any man can gain the victory. James (memory selection) urges the brethren to "count it all joy" when they meet divers trials, as knowing that the testing of their faith can make them stronger, if they trust the divine grace.

Comparing those who were giving him trouble in the Corinth church with himself, Paul wrote of the sufferings he had endured to preach the gospel. What he set down is a good outline of his whole life, not omitting his background, and including his bitter trials, and the anxiety "for all the churches" that pressed upon him daily. In all things, even when his life was threatened, he continued faithful. And through him we may learn that we can grown in strength as we trust in God in the midst of severe trial and difficulty.

Men have speculated on Paul's "thorn in the flesh." What was it? No one knows. Epilepsy, as some have suggested, poor eyesight, any kind of physical disability, whatever it was, God promised Paul grace sufficient to bear it. And by the grace of God we can bear any "thorn in the flesh," and triumph over all difficulty.

Let Paul teach us that those who trust God can be victorious in their daily living, no matter how hard may be the trials that come.

CANVASES

Farm machinery canvases should be just tight enough to prevent slippage on the drive rollers. However, too much tension causes increased draft, friction, and excessive wear on both rollers and canvases.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AGAIN ISSUES ITS INCOME TAX BOOKLET

Income taxpayers of Chilton County have cause for rejoicing. Uncle Sam is coming to their rescue again this year—not with money but with another booklet telling them what they should and should not pay the United States Government in the form of taxes on their 1950 income.

According to Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce, for the third successive year the Federal Government has issued its publication "Your Federal Income Tax," again this year has been revised to incorporate changes made last summer by Congress.

The 1950 edition of this booklet is available from the U. S. Department of Commerce, 418 Atlanta National Building, in Atlanta, at a price of 25 cents to pay the cost of printing. It is one of five such documents emanating from the Federal Government to help Chilton Countians to determine what they do and do not owe Uncle Sam on income. The other four are "Bulletin F, Income Tax Depreciation," containing detailed information on depreciation of real and personal property, "The Small Businessman and His Declaration of Estimated Tax," "Your Rights of Review When the Government Question Your Income Tax Return," and another on the subject of how an unincorporated business may use an operating loss to obtain a refund on previous years' taxes. The one on depreciation of real and personal property also sells for 25 cents, but the others are free.

"The Federal Government wants every penny due it from income taxpayers under the Federal income tax law, but it doesn't want one penny not due it," Mr. Lofton said. "That is the reason such booklets as the foregoing have been issued. Uncle Sam wants to be sure the people know what they are doing when they pay their taxes to him."

The booklet "Your Federal Income Tax" was first distributed in large quantities two years ago. In those two years it developed into a Federal Government "best seller." This year, the Government Printing Office, anticipating another heavy demand for it, has ordered some 200,000 copies for distribution over the country.

It is said that a succession of caverns extend more than four miles through King's Cave, known locally as Bat Cave, to another entrance on the southwest side of King's Ridge, and that they resemble Mammouth Cave in Kentucky.

COLMAN

PLATTER CHATTER

CAPITOL—What to get the kiddies for Christmas? Capitol has come up with a wide variety of wonderful albums that should make not only Christmas itself brighter but many days to follow as well . . . There's a grand Hopalong Cassidy Square Dance album that will please the most fastidious small fry . . . And there's a real treat, too, in a brand new "Baby Snooks" album, starring, of course, Fanny Brice and Hanley Stafford as patient daddy . . . Snooks learns to tell the truth, to be good, to be clean, table manners, how to cross streets and to be kind to animals . . . Children will like it.

Another wonderful album is the latest in the Bozo the Clown series . . . This time Bozo is on the farm and his adventures will keep the kiddies enthralled . . . In addition, there are numerous single discs like "Daffy Duck Meets Yosemite Sam," starring Mel Blanc, the screen Donald and Daffy Duck . . . Then there's a fine Smiley Burnette recording of "Donkey Engine" backed by "I Wish That I'd Said That" . . . Mel Blanc comes back strongly in a cutie, "Tweetie Pie."

Still on Capitol, there are two good "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer" records . . . One by Sugar Chile Robinson, the other by Smiley Burnette.

PARENTS ARE BEWILDERED too often by what kind of conduct is expected of them and may become sullen when children question their behavior. Parental delinquency often can be traced to unwise discipline by children. A basic code of conduct should prevail in the family:

TRUANCY—Youths should know at all times where parents are. A youngster dickering for a convertible mustn't suffer frustration because truant papa has skipped off to some silly place of business to fill the family purse just when Junior needs it.

SOCIAL EVENTS—At all mixed gatherings, parents should be well chaperoned. Morals of the older generation leave something to be desired. Necking leaves them cold, so they must be plotting something outlandish. Parents should learn an early bedtime so they won't be underfoot when the hepcats call. Parents should neither be seen nor heard.

ALLOWANCES—An essential in developing adult responsibility. Parents should be allowed to keep a small portion of their incomes to call their own.

HOME DUTIES—Allot parents tasks to keep them from mischief—about 100 percent of labor around the house. No pay. Work should never interfere with education; parents should prepare their offspring's lessons before undertaking other chores.

DRINKING — One "harmless" malted upon son's breath may turn impressionable papa into a confirmed imbiber. The child who tucks his father in bed and leaves a goodnight kiss often finds his soda-fountain lips have left him contemptible in the parent's wide, innocent eyes.

PROFANITY—Parents are apt imitators who form their vocabularies by listening to youth. Their innocent babbling is filled with colorful expressions lifted from kids' conversation. They may be ignorant of the meaning of juvenile oaths and apply them without discrimination upon minister and layman alike. Remember, kiddies, "darn," "shucks," "shoot," and "double shoot" are still strong enough to use around oldsters.

Decatur, Ala., was originally known as Rhodes Ferry. In 1820 President Monroe directed the Surveyor General of the United States to reserve a site for a town in Alabama on the Tennessee River to be named in honor of the naval hero, Commander Stephen Decatur. The site chosen was at an old Cherokee crossing of the river known as Rhodes Ferry, established by Dr. Henry Rhodes.

OLD-AGE SURVIVORS INSURANCE SYSTEM

You do not have to be wholly or permanently "retired" to get retirement payments under the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance system, according to M. C. Folmar, Manager of the Birmingham Social Security office. The numbers of people coming into his office confused on this point prompted him to make the explanation.

"Actually," Mr. Folmar pointed out, "the new Social Security law makes it possible for insured people 65 and over to collect retirement benefits while still earning up to $50.00 per month on covered jobs. The old limit of $14.99 was changed on last September 1st. Even the $50 limit does not apply to earnings from work not covered by Social Security. Neither does it apply to people age 75 or over."

"The law is simply that a person between 65 and 75 years of age cannot collect benefits for any month in which he earns more than $50 from work covered by Social Security. No amount of earnings or income from other sources will affect his right to benefits. Insured people age 75 or over can collect even though working full time on jobs covered by Social Security, or for that matter, any job."

"Another point we'd like to get across," Mr. Folmar continued, "is that anyone now age 65 or over very likely is insured if he has worked as much as a year and a half, at any time back to January, 1937, on Social Security—covered jobs."

Mr. Folmar invites residents of this area who are eligible for benefits under the new law to get in touch with his office, located at 1825 First Avenue, North, Birmingham, or contact our representative who is at the State Employment office, Clanton, each Thursday at 1:30 p.m.

WELCOME CORNER

Mr. Leonard Lockhart, who has been connected with the E. L. Klinner Furniture Company for several years, has moved his family into town and are living in the house formerly occupied by the Phil Crumps in West End.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole came here from Oakdale, La., and are at home in the J. A. Hester Apartment. Mr. Cole is with the new gas line that is coming into Clanton.

The first county to be organized in present Alabama was Washington County with McIntosh Bluff as county seat. It was formed in 1800 to include all of the Mississippi Territory between the Pearl River and the Chattahoochee River. Its population consisted of 733 white persons, 494 Negro slaves and 23 free Negroes.

The Mardi Gras Carnival, celebrated annually for five days ending on Shrove Tuesday, was instituted by Bienville, first governor of the French colony of Mobile, on August 24, 1704, as the Masque de la St. Louis. The carnival was almost a century and a quarter old before the first semblance of the modern decorative float was added.

Blame Warfare On Sumerians

THE ANCIENT SUMERIANS really started it all.

This cultured people who lived about 4,000 B.C. in the land that was later known as Babylonia, was the first to have "organized warfare."

In their study of rare documents and archaeological finds, research experts have found conclusive evidence that the "art of war began in Sumer," in Asia, on the fertile plain between the great Tigris and Euphrates rivers.

The Sumerians "fought in remarkable order, the warriors close together." They are described as advancing with their leaders "behind square overlapping shields."

At a time when such discipline was unknown in Egypt, Sumerian fighters marched into battle in a trained and organized mannner. Heavy-armed foot soldiers of this early civilization, wore copper helmets and felt cloaks and carried short, stabbing spears. Other warriors rode in four-wheeled chariots behind a driver and drawn by a team of four, swift-footed animals, smaller and more wary than horses.

QUESTION ENEMY NURSES . . . Brig. Gen. Kang Moon Pong and Capt. Yoon Rin Suk of the South Korean intelligence are questioning three North Korean nurses captured near the Manchurian border. They were flown to the rear by airlift.

The Gunnison House at Point Clear was used as a shelter for wounded Confederate soldiers during the War Between the States. When Point Clear was bombarded by Admiral Farragut's fleet in 1864 a ball hit the Gunnison House, and a brass plate bearing the inscription "Compliments of Admiral Farragut, 1865" now covers the hole made by the shot.

Cream that contains from 30 to 35 per cent milk fat is ideal for whipping. But "coffee" cream (18 to 20 per cent) may be satisfactory if cold at least one day old. A well-beaten egg white added to coffee cream will sometimes help it to whip.

COMMUNITY FARM MEETINGS TO BE HELD THROUGHOUT CHILTON COUNTY

A series of community farm meetings has been called to give farm people an opportunity to study the entire county's income earning farm program. Summary figures for major crops for the entire county will be presented by County Extension workers. At each meeting farmers will be given a summary of the following:

1. Acreage devoted to major cash crops.
2. Number of farmers throughout the county participating in each project.
3. Total sales value for the entire county of various major crops.
4. Average per acre yields and income of a number of the important crops.

After summarizing the county's 1950 record a few of the more important trends will be pointed out. An analysis of past years records should be of value to every farmer.

When the 1950 record is presented and discussed recommended improvements will be worked out by producers and county workers.

M. R. Glasscock suggests that all farmers meet with him and his coworkers to study what farmers throughout the county have been and are doing, and to make needed changes for improving upon past years records.

Blame Warfare On Sumerians

THE ANCIENT SUMERIANS really started it all.

This cultured people who lived about 4,000 B.C. in the land that was later known as Babylonia, was the first to have "organized warfare."

In their study of rare documents and archaeological finds, research experts have found conclusive evidence that the "art of war began in Sumer," in Asia, on the fertile plain between the great Tigris and Euphrates rivers.

The Sumerians "fought in remarkable order, the warriors close together." They are described as advancing with their leaders "behind square overlapping shields."

At a time when such discipline was unknown in Egypt, Sumerian fighters marched into battle in a trained and organized mannner. Heavy-armed foot soldiers of this early civilization, wore copper helmets and felt cloaks and carried short, stabbing spears. Other warriors rode in four-wheeled chariots behind a driver and drawn by a team of four, swift-footed animals, smaller and more wary than horses.

The old Byler Turnpike, Hamilton, Ala., was built in 1819 and at that time was a toll road. Considerable travel passed over the turnpike after Tuscaloosa became Alabama capitol in 1826; the toll was $1.00 for a four-wheeled carriage and "one bit" (12½c) for a horseback rider. Drivers paid a toll on each head of livestock driven over the road, and if a traveler was found using the pike after detouring around the toll gate, he was fined $5.00 plus the toll.

WE ARE IN A GRAVE CRISIS — SPARKMAN

Senator Sparkman, Alabama, told the National Association of Manufacturers, a group of 15,000 businessmen, at its annual convention in New York, that "this is indeed a time of crisis, more crucial than any in our past history. The free world is watching what may very well be its Pearl Harbor of 1950."

Despite the great dangers which confront us, the Senator was quick to point out that our situation is not hopeless. "There is one great difference," he said, "between the situation now and that which prevailed on December 7, 1941. Then the free world was asleep, or at least so disorganized that it could not immediately meet the assault upon it. The United States was just beginning to shake off its isolationist lethargy. Today the free world is alert to the danger. It is unified as never before in the world's history, although that unity is not yet supported by enough strength to guarantee against additional aggression.

"We must continue," Sparkman stressed, "to strengthen the free nations that have taken sides with us by helping them to build up their armaments in order to withstand the shock of the imperialistic onrush of Communism. We must speedily rearm ourselves despite the cost in taxes and secrifices that we shall be forced to pay."

While stressing the necessary political and security measures for us and other nations to take, Senator Sparkman also emphasized the tremendous value and need of economic help. He said that we are often prone to overlook the fact that helping nations to help themselves toward a sounder and better economic life is an equally important requirement for building and maintaining peace and security in the world.

"Whereas many of us are likely to think of the United Nations and its work toward establishing a peaceful world in terms of Security Council measures, political moves and military operations, it is probably true that of the 60 member nations 50 or more would attach greater importance to economic measures as a means for bringing about a peaceful world."

Senator Sparkman discussed some of the economic steps that were being taken and others that were contemplated by the United States Government or by the United Nations or both. Some of those he mentioned were the Technical Assistance Program, the Point IV Program, the Agricultural Assistance Program of the Food and Agricultural Organization, and the Economic Assistance Program of the International Bank, the International Monetary Fund, and the Export-Import Bank. Senator Sparkman gave a large measure of credit to the Marshall Plan for having thus far saved Western Europe from Communism. "The Marshall Plan," he said, "stands as a mighty testimonial as to how an economic program can be used to bolster the strength of free nations and to cause them to turn away from Communism."

The Senator stressed the urgent need of replacing bickering and fault-finding with unity and determination among all our people if we hope to bring ourselves and other free nations through the present crisis.

C.C.H.S. Seniors Guests At Alabama Mills—

Sixty-seven Seniors of Chilton County High School were guests last Friday of Alabama Mills, Inc., for a program designed to acquaint the students with the textile industry.

Under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Barton, home room teacher, the young men and women participated in activities that explained manufacturing procedures and emphasized the importance of the textile industry to Clanton and to the state.

All steps in the manufacture of corduroy were shown in detail. Supervisory personnel and operators at the mill composed the "cast," and the students recognized many familiar faces of relatives and friends.

After seeing the film, the seniors went to the local mill, where they were divided into small groups for tours of the plant. Under the direction of competent guides from the mill personnel, the students visited each department. They watched machinery in operation, were given the opportunity to ask questions about various processes, and learned how cotton is converted into cloth from "the boll to the bolt."

Following the tours, the class went to the First Baptist Church to enjoy a dinner prepared by the Women's Missionary Union under the chairmanship of Mrs. F. H. Spicer. The tables were arranged to form an "A" for Alabama Mills, Inc., and decorations attractively carried out the textile theme.

Honor guests at dinner included Principal Patterson Hicks of Chilton County High and T. C. Kerr, teacher at the school.

After lunch, a forum was held in which the students and their teachers were invited to ask any questions they wished about the operation of the local plant and of Alabama Mills, Inc., the textile industry in Alabama, and of the industry in general.

Mr. Redmond served as moderator for the forum. Forming a panel to answer questions were Grady Heflin, president of Peoples Savings Bank and a director of Alabama Mills, Inc.; H. C. Arnold, superintendent of the Clanton Mill; B. L. Venable, cashier and office manager of the local plant; R. K. Argo of Birmingham, personnel director for the company; and Edwin B. Callaway of Decatur, Ga.; roving editor for the Textile Information Service.

The students showed a keen interest in pay scales and total payrolls for the Clanton mill, the size and importance of the textile industry in Alabama, job opportunities for high school graduates, and consumption of cotton.

Their queries brought answers that the local mill is Clanton's largest single industry, currently employing 305 persons. The weekly payroll is about $18,000, which amounts to approximately $935,000 a year.

Looking forward to the day when they will be seeking jobs, the students learned that beginners in the mill earn a minimum of 75 cents an hour during training periods. Regular employees earn a minimum of 97 cents an hour, while highly skilled workers earn more than $4,000 a year.

In addition, employees of Alabama Mills, Inc., receive other benefits. Those with employment records of a year or longer are given a week's vacation each year with pay amounting to two per cent of their annual earnings. In recent years the company has been able to pay year-end bonuses amounting to two per cent of annual earnings for each employee. The company pays the great part of the cost for both life insurance policies and hospitalization and surgical insurance, and it provides low rental housing for many employees.

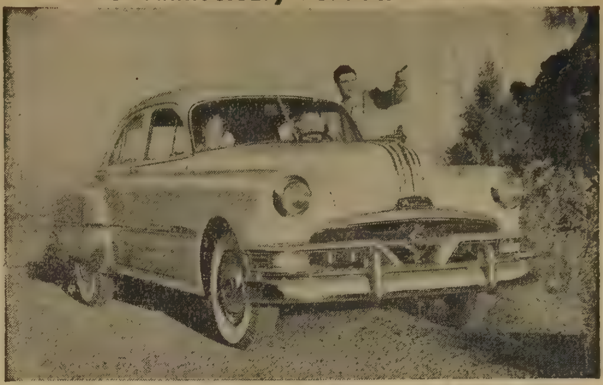
It was pointed out that farmers of the state profit from operations of the local mill, which consumes 130 bales of cotton a week. As much of this cotton as possible is bought in this area.

The company has about 2,300 employees in its seven plants in Alabama. Oddly enough, there are also 2,300 stockholders—almost exactly one stockholder for each employee.

The students were advised to continue their formal educations if possible, and were told of the industry's modernization and research that constantly require more and more highly trained workers. However, the seniors were told that many opportunities for advancement await high school graduates if they will further their education through correspondence courses or other measures.

They were told that openings in mills are sure to be available in one locality or another, as the textile industry is by far Alabama's largest, currently employing 55,000 persons.

Silver Anniversary Pontiacs Make Bow



Pontiac's 1951 Silver Anniversary models bring twenty-eight fresh styling innovations and seventeen mechanical improvements to the line. The new Pontiacs, now on display, again are available with six or eight cylinder engines. All models offer a choice of Hydra-Matic or synchro-mesh transmission. The popular Chieftain four-door sedan pictured exemplifies the advanced styling of the Pontiac Line.

HOMEMAKERS SET OWN CLEANING STANDARDS

Every housekeeper has her own standards of cleanliness. When her home falls below these standards, she is upset.

Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, points out that the pressure of other jobs may make it impossible for her to keep her home as clean as she would like.

When this is the case, usually a definite but flexible plan will help. Remember that a thin layer of dirt is easily and quickly removed, but an accumulation is hard to remove because it cakes and requires extra time and equipment for cleaning.

"Enlist the cooperation of all family members," advises the specialist. "A cheerful attitude on the part of the housekeeper makes it easier to get other family members to help. Give children responsibilities suited to their ages. Even a very small child can hang up his clothes if low hooks are provided."

TOP 4-H'ERS ATTEND NATIONAL CONGRESS

A total of 35 outstanding 4-H Club boys and girls represented Alabama at the 1950 National 4-H Club Congress and The International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, Illinois, the last week in November.

Hanchey Logue and Ann Barr, A.P.I. Extension Service 4-H Club leaders, say that the boys and girls were given the trip on the basis of leadership and project achievement.

The leaders further state that the boys and girls were an honor to their state as they participated in discussion meetings, banquets, parades, and a tour of the city, along with 4-H members from 47 states. Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and guests from 11 foreign countries.

The 26 Alabama counties sending representatives were: Cleburne, Mobile, Etowah, Perry, Calhoun, Franklin, Elmore, Fayette, Coosa, Houston, Marshall, Lee, Lamar, St. Clair, Jefferson, Tuscaloosa, Geneva, Randolph, Jackson, Talladega, Lauderdale, Baldwin, Dallas, Marengo, Limestone, and Sumter.

PIGS AND SALT

Experiments revealed that pigs getting dry, loose salt in addition to a balanced ration gained two and one-half times faster than pigs getting the same ration but with no salt included.

"TUCKING IN" VEGETABLES

Several gardeners in Alabama practice "tucking in" their winter vegetables during cold waves of 20 degrees F. or below. The covers are removed, rolled up, and put away as soon as the danger has passed.

James Morrow, age 41, was badly burned at the Stremming Veneer Plant, Maplesville, Ala., Thursday afternoon around 1:00 p.m. He was rushed to the Good Samaritan Hospital, Selma, Ala., and died Friday at 1:00 p.m. James was the son of Ed and Laura Morrow. He was born in Chilton County and married in early life Rosa Binford, a Dallas Countian. She and 11 children survive him, as well as his father.

James Morrow lived a respectful life, served Dr. T. M. Martin's family faithfully in any job they saw fit to give him. He had a cheerful disposition and couldn't number his friends, both white and colored.

This community lost a valued person in the passing of James. He was ever ready to do anything he could for those in need and certainly always with a willing heart. Oak Grove Church was filled and the grounds adjoining Sunday at his funeral. White friends viewed the body and expressions of deep grief at his passing. Rev. Howard Suttles officiated. Solo by Rosie Lee Ford. Mistress of the burial ceremony was Rosa Lee McCall of Clanton, Ala. Burial at College Hill, Summerfield, Ala. The Dr. Martin family followed next to the family of James Morrow to its final resting place.

Among white people attending this funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin, Jr. and two children, Mrs. Stella Martin and Robert, Mr. Clyde Gregg, Mr. Raymond Stremming, Mr. Union Chambers and others.

Dr. T. M. Martin was so upset over this death he could not attend the services. James was a Mason and a Steward of the Methodist Church.

* * *

Another death saddened this community in the passing of Will Peoples (colored). Will and Amy, his wife, had lived many years in this community and had friends by the score among colored and whites. Will was born in 1886 in Perry County. He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, two daughters and one son. He died in Tuscaloosa and was buried at Oak Grove. Will lived a good life and was respected by all who knew him.

Hubert Goodwin (colored) was rushrushed to the Good Samaritan Hospital last week quite ill. All his family are at his bedside. However, we are glad to report he is much improved. Hubert has reared a large family of respected children. Has lived a busy life and a good life.

THE STUDY CLUB

At the home of Mrs. N. S. Johnson, Mrs. Norman Roberts was hostess to the Study Club on December the first, at three o'clock, with Mrs. John Mullins presiding. Plans were made for recognizing the homes of Clanton with the most beautiful Yuletide decorations.

To remind us of the season of the years when we proclaim "Glory to God in the Highest and on Earth Peace and Good Will Toward Men." Luke. Mrs. L. C. Warr introduced to the club members and guests the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Clark Polk. Mrs. Polk gave a reading about a little fir tree that did not appreciate its station in life. Impressively she told us to be happy and thankful wherever we are.

Guests and members were invited into the dining room for delicious coffee, tea and sandwiches.

COUNTY AND COMMUNITY COMMITTEEMEN ELECTION

Auburn, Ala. — All Alabama farmers are urged by W. B. Crawley, chairman of the Alabama Production and Marketing Administration State Committee, to vote during the county and community committeemen election, December 14th.

He explains that this is an important election since those who are elected will be responsible for deciding how and what kind of farm programs are to be carried out in their respective counties.

"It is up to the farmers of the state to make sure that the men elected are the ones they think can do the best jobs," adds Mr. Crawley.

Farmers are advised to continu watching livestock for screw worm damage.

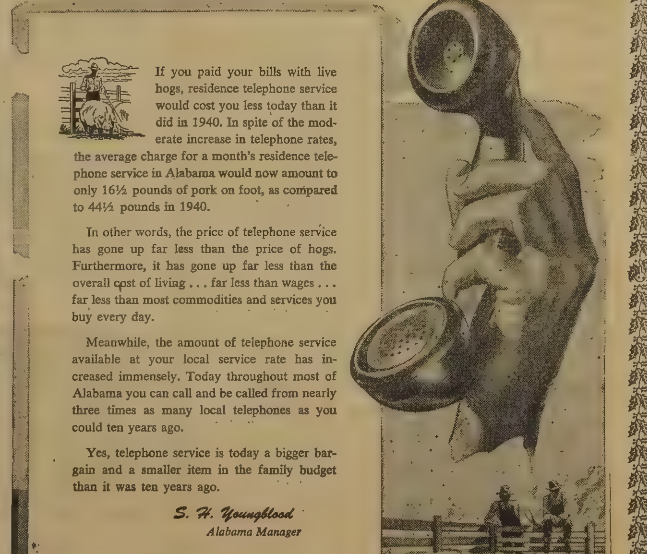
It takes less pork
to buy residence telephone service today than it did 10 years ago...



If you paid your bills with live hogs, residence telephone service would cost you less today than it did in 1940. In spite of the moderate increase in telephone rates, the average charge for a month's residence telephone service in Alabama would now amount to only 16½ pounds of pork on foot, as compared to 44½ pounds in 1940.

In other words, the price of telephone service has gone up far less than the price of hogs. Furthermore, it has gone up far less than the overall cost of living . . . far less than wages . . . far less than most commodities and services you buy every day.

Meanwhile, the amount of telephone service available at your local service rate has increased immensely. Today throughout most of Alabama you can call and be called from nearly three times as many local telephones as you could ten years ago.

Yes, telephone service is today a bigger bargain and a smaller item in the family budget than it was ten years ago.

PEANUT GROWERS TO VOTE IN MARKETING QUOTA REFERENDUM

On December 14, 1950, (today) peanut growers will vote in a referendum on peanut marketing quotas. Those eligible to vote in the referendum are: Owner, operator or share-cropper who shared in the proceeds from the crop of peanuts produced during 1950, on a farm with a "picked or threshed" acreage of more than one acre.

If two-thirds of the votes are favorable, quotas will be in effect for the 1951, 1952 and 1953 crops of peanuts unless the Secretary of Agriculture determines that quotas for one or more of these years should be terminated because of increased demand or a national emergency.

If more than one-third of the growers oppose, quotas will not be used for the 1951 peanut crop. In this case another referendum will be held next fall for the following three peanut crops.

PRICE SUPPORTS — If quotas are approved, price supports on the 1951 crop of peanuts must be set at a level between 80 and 90 percent of parity as of August 1, 1951, the beginning of the next marketing year. If peanut marketing quotas are not approved, the law requires that the level of support be set at 50 percent of parity.

HOW IT WORKS — Under the peanut marketing quota program—(1) If the 1951 peanut acreage on your farm is not greater than the allotment, all the peanuts you produce may be marketed without penalty. All such peanuts will be eligible for price support through a Government loan or purchase program. (2) If the 1951 peanut acreage on your farm is larger than the allotment and also larger than the 1947 farm peanut acreage, all the peanuts you market will be subject to a marketing penalty equal to 50 percent of the support level. None of the peanuts you produce on the farm will be eligible for price support. (3) If your 1951 peanut acreage is larger than the allotment, but not larger than your farm's 1947 peanut acreage, all the peanuts marketed in excess of the farm marketing quota will be subject to a marketing penalty. However, you may avoid this penalty, if you deliver the excess peanuts to an agency designated by the Secretary of Agriculture to receive excess peanuts for oil. You will be paid the prevailing oil value minus certain estimated costs for the excess peanuts and will be paid not less than support price for the quota peanuts in each lots marketed through a designated agency. (4) If you operate or have an interest in more than one farm, the Secretary may provide that you are not eligible for price support on peanuts produced on any of your farms if you produce peanuts, on one or more of your farms, in excess of the larger of your farm acreage allotment or the 1947 farm peanut acreage.

Quotas apply only to peanuts "picked and thrashed."

Quotas do not apply to peanuts "hogged off" or otherwise disposed of without removing the nuts from the vines.

Marketing penalties do not apply unless more than one acre of peanuts is produced on the farm.

ADDITIONAL RESERVISTS TO BE CALLED

It was announced today by M-Sgt. Harry T. Morehead, local Recruiting Sergeant that an additional 9,565 Reserve male captains and lieutenants, not assigned to troop program units of the Organized Reserve Corps, have been added to the Army's original call for 7,862 company grade officers for active duty.

In additional 205 company grade Army Chaplains and 240 company grade Army aviation officers have been ordered to active duty. All will be ordered to serve for 21 months or such other period authorized by law unless relieved sooner.

The Army has authorized its Army Commanders to select National Guard officers for active duty if they volunteer and their applications have been approved by the Adujtants General of the states concerned. National Guards officers were excluded from the first call.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Chilton County, A Municipal Corporation, Petitioner, vs. H. L. Glass, et als, Respondents. In the Probate Court of Chilton County, Alabama.

To: Wm. C. Lucas, a person over the age of 21 years and of sound mind, and who is absent from the State of Alabama, and is in the Armed Forces of the United States of America, and whose last known post office address is 251 Linears Street, San Antonio, Texas.

You will take notice that on the 28th day of November, 1950, an application or petition was filed in the Probate Court of Chilton County, Alabama, by Chilton County, a municipal corporation, petitioner, setting forth its desire to condemn and acquire an easement or right-of-way in and to the hereinafter described lands for the purpose of a right-of-way on which to build, construct, use, widen, extend and maintain a highway or road for the use of the public, said lands being described as follows, and which are now owned and in the possession of the said Wm. C. Lucas:

A right of way hereinafter described over and across the real estate hereinafter described in Chilton County, Alabama, for a public road; which right-of-way shall be 50 feet in width on each side of the center line of said road, as it is now located and staked out by the State Highway Department, or so much of said real estate as is required to make a 100 foot right-of-way across said lands, said right of way being more particularly described as follows, to-wit: As shown by right-of-way map project S-463 and recorded in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, in Map Book No. 3, Page 8, beginning at survey station 305-15 of said project being the north property line. Thence Southeasterly along a fixed radius curve of 2 degrees 30 minutes to the left for a distance of 1109.4 feet to Station 316-24.4; thence south 40 degrees 6 minutes east for a distance of 328.6 feet to Station 319-53. The point of ending being the Southern Property Line. Said strip of land being 50 feet in width along the Easterly side of said center line. Said strip of land lying in Section 32, Township 24 N, Range 13 E., and containing 1.65 acres more or less including area now used as a right-of-way.

You will therefore take notice that the Court has entered an order appointing the 15th day of December, 1950, as the day for the hearing of said petition, at which time you may appear and contest the same if you so desire to do.

Witness my hand, this the 28th day of November, 1950.

W. L. PARRISH,
Judge of Probate.

"St. Stephens, though dead, still Speaketh!"

Those were the words of historian Peter J. Hamilton, fifty-one years ago in a speech on the site of St. Stephens, first territorial capital of Alabama. Even as he spoke, St. Stephens on the Tombigbee had become only a memory to many, and was unknown to still more.

As in 1899, so in the intervening years and in this year—and in this week which marks the beginning of Alabama's 132nd year as a state—"St. Stephens, though dead, still speaketh." As in the day of St. Stephens, and in later days when historical Huntsville, ill-fated Cahaba, and beautiful Tuscaloosa were capitals of the state, the descendants of earlier settlers (mostly from Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky) have held to the vision that Alabama would achieve her rightful place in the vanguard of progress. In later years, and particularly in the last half century, others came from other states to join ranks in the quickened pace of educational, cultural, agricultural and industrial achievement.

Today their descendants—native Alabamians—as well as newcomers, are in the triumphant parade toward economic leadership.

Figures are but a symbol of progress which has been made.* The real story and the inspiration for the future are in the lives of men who kept their faces forward in dark days and bright. They were those who kept up the struggle despite obstacles which would have caused weaker men to give up in surrender. They are those who today firmly hold to the ideal of "Ever Onward!" born in the days of St. Stephens which—"though dead, still speaketh."

U. S. NAVY RECRUITING REGULATIONS

Regular Navy enlistment requirements have been changed, married men with one dependent can enlist now. The armed forces qualification test has been lowered.

Married men who have no previous military training and has only one dependent can enlist in the regular navy as a seaman recruit, men who were honorably discharged from any branch of the armed forces that held E1 or E2 (SR, SA) ratings and have only one dependent can now enlist, over one dependent not permissable. Married men who were honorably discharged and held pay grade E3 (SN) or above, no restrictions on the number of dependents.

Men who were discharged from the Navy, and were second class petty officer or above, may enlist as third class petty officer, men discharged from any other branch of the armed forces who held E3 ratings can enlist with no restrictions.

There has been many changes to the Navy Recruiting instructions recently. For any further information about the Navy visit your local recruiter, located in the New Post Office Building, Room 501, Montgomery, Ala., or contact your traveling recruiter who will be in Clanton, Ala., at the Army Recruiting Station the second and fourth Mondays and Tuesdays in each month. .

DEPENDENT'S BENEFITS

It was announced recently by M-Sgt. Harry T. Morehead, local Recruiting Sergeant for the U.S.A. and U.S. Air Force the following will help clarify dependent's benefits for enlisted personnel of the Army, inasmuch as there have been many inquiries along this line.

The Dependents Assistance Act of 1950 provides some financial support for dependents of enlisted personnel. Under the new allowance program, recruits, privates and privates first class will contribute $40.00 per month and the Government will contribute an additional $45.00 for one dependent, $67.50 for two dependents, and $85.00 for three dependents or more. Corporals and sergeants contribute $60.00 and the Government's share is $67.50 for one or two dependents and $85.00 for three or more. For sergeants first class and master-sergeants, the Government's share is the same as for sergeants, but these two grades contribute $80.00 per month. This allowance is not payable when quarters are furnished soldier and dependents.

For the purpose of paying the quarters allowance under the law, the following are considered as dependents: Wives, children, and a dependent mother or father, provided a dependent parent receives over one-half of his or her support from the soldier. No other relatives can be considered as dependents for purposes of allowance payments.

Application for this allowance must be made by each soldier. In cases where soldiers do not make application, the Secretary of the Army may order payments made and arbitrarily cause deduction from pay of these soldiers in order to insure that their families will be properly cared for.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

James Kincaid, Thorsby, Alabama, and Otis Gray, Clanton, Ala., have excellent stands of Ladino Clover and Kentucky Fescue despite the cold weather.

Of all the fescue and ladino, reseeding crimson clover and caley peas that were sowed there seems to be only slight damage to the plant that had a good root system; on the other hand some fields of clover are almost a total loss.

* * *

H. S. Brasher has prepared land for a winter planting of kudzu. As soon as plants or crowns can be gotten they will be planted.

* * *

J. H. Johnson, Clanton, and Mrs. Grover of Verbena, have asked for kudzu seed next spring. Others interested in planting kudzu seed direct should contact the Soil Conservation Service Office.

* * *

Monroe Foshee started planting his ten acres of fescue and ladino clover Thursday, November 30th.

* * *

C. L. Wilkins, Enterprise Community, has planted approximately 400 pounds of cold-hardy not-pop blue lupine.

Mr. James Goggins and other personnel from the Experiment Station are in the process of making growth studies along with disease and specie studies of the pine, locust and red cedar set out by the CCC Camp. If you happen to have one of these plantings and they call on you for information, please help them.

PEANUT FARMERS URGED TO VOTE DECEMER 14

Alabama peanut growers, along with producers in 15 other states, will decide by their votes on December 14 whether marketing quotas are to be extended to the 1951, 1952, and 1953 peanut crops.

W. B. Crawley, chairman of the Alabama Production and Marketing Administration State Committee, urges peanut farmers to exercise their right to vote in this Marketing Quota Referendum, especially since marketing quotas will not be in effect on the 1951 crop unless approved by at least two-thirds of the farmers who vote.

"Any peanut producer who shared as owner, operator, or share cropper in the proceeds from the 1950 peanut crop on a farm on which more than one acre of peanuts were picked and threshed is eligible to vote," explains Crawley. "Registers of eligible voters will be prepared by County Production and Marketing Administration offices."

He adds that price supports ranging from 80 to 90 per cent of parity as of August 1, 1951, will be available if marketing quotas are approved by producers.

SAFE CHRISTMAS TOYS FOR THE YOUNGSTERS

Auburn, Ala. — The National Council of Safety offers this advice to gift-givers who are buying toys for the baby or toddler:

Avoid stuffed animals with glass or button eyes. Examine toys to see that there are no removable parts which could be swallowed. Buy sturdy rattles, blocks with rounded corners, soft balls and dolls, and push-and-pull toys with rounded handles.

Elta Majors, A.P.I. Extension Service child care specialist, joins with the Council in urging parents not to endanger a child with shooting or target toys, sharp scissors or poorly built wagons or carts. Also, buyers should pass up toys that are too heavy or complicated for the receiver.

A small envelope glued inside of a stationery box will prove a handy place to keep stamps, money order receipts and addresses.

MAKE PLANS FOR MORE AND BETTER PASTURES

Auburn, Ala. — Now is the time to look ahead and plan for more and better pastures in 1951, according to J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist.

He believes that many Alabama farmers have some bottom land that should be cleared or some hillsides that need to have briars and bushes removed. Perhaps some pastures that were improved a few years ago need attention now.

Lowery adds that lime needs should be checked, also.

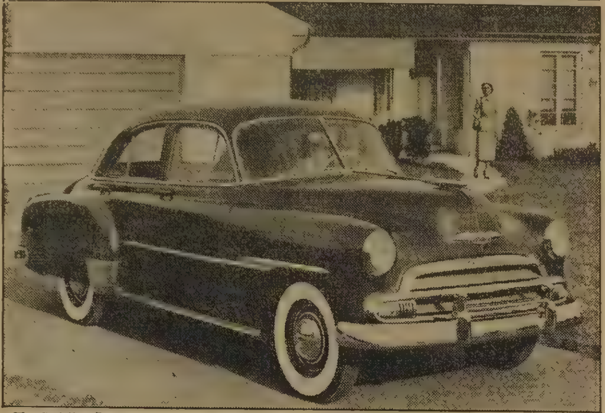
Fresh Chevrolet Styling Imparts Lower Lines



The Styleline De Luxe four-door sedan is one of 14 models introduced by Chevrolet as its passenger car line for 1951. Notable in this picture are the design improvements which accentuate a longer, lower appearance. Radiator grilles have been simplified, the decorative body moulding lowered and rear fender crowns raised. Models also offer added safety.

44 KILLED ON ALABAMA HIGHWAYS DURING SEPTEMBER

Montgomery, Ala. — The Highway Patrol reported this week that 44 people died from 511 highway accidents during September.

Drunken driving jumped 30 per cent over the previous month. There were 314 drivers licenses revoked during the month due to driving while drunk.

One strange fact about the many accidents is that 73 per cent of them occurred on the straight road, not on curves. Twenty-six per cent of the drivers killed held no drivers license. Clay is the only county without a road fatality during 1950.

PONTIAC FIRES BIG GUNS FOR SILVER ANNIVERSARY ANNOUNCEMENT CAMPAIGN

Pontiac Motor Division, which this year celebrates its Silver Anniversary, will announce its 1951 models with the greatest and most diversified advertising campaign in its 25 year history, according to H. J. Klingler, general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

Newspapers again will form the backbone of the Pontiac announcement campaign with top-size advertisements, in many cases full pages, in 4,000 daily and weekly newspapers. These will be followed by more large semi-announcement type advertisements.

Double and full page announcements will appear in The Saturday Evening Post, Life, Time, Collier's, Newsweek, The New Yorker, U. S. News, Holiday, Sports Afield, Outdoor Life, Field and Stream, Country Gentleman, Successful Farming and Progressive Farmer.

Pre-announcement and announcement radio spots will be aired five times daily over 1,125 stations and 96 leading television stations will carry an average of three spots daily during the same period. Radio and TV spots—so successful in Pontiac's case last year—again will feature famous personalities, commentators, actresses and news analysts, including John Daly, John Kennedy, Kyle MacDonnel, Arlene Francis, Leland Stowe, Harry Conover, John W. Vandercook, Wilbur Shaw and John Cameron Swayze.

A strikingly beautiful announcement poster, "Twenty-fifth Year. . .More Beautiful Than Ever," by Bradshaw Crandall will appear on 14,000 outdoor boards.

DAIRYING

Factors favoring the development of small dairy herds are artificial breeding, better marketing facilities, better forage and pasture programs, and a greater need for a regular income necessary for high living standards.

CULL SWEET POTATOES

All cull sweet potatoes should be utilized for stock feed. Tests show that cull sweet potatoes are excellent feed, especially for hogs and dairy cattle.

JEMISON PANTHERS DEFEATS PLANTERSVILLE AND CALERA

On Tuesday night, December 5th, the Jemison High School basketball team opened the current season by downing a tough quint from Billingsley High by the score of 37 to 35. Pete Ellison and Charles Jones paced the winners with 10 points each. Jones was outstanding in hawking the ball from the boards. He played a bang-up game defensively. Watch this husky youngster in future games. He is perhaps the most improved player that J.H.S. has produced the past two seasons. His will to win never ebbs, and his hard, sincere playing is an inspiration to his team mates. Sorrell was off his usual stride in the Billingsley game, but came back strong and lashed out some fine work in the Calera game.

Lowery, Cox, Burks and Jerry Ellison (younger brother to Pete) are all players moved up from last year's B team. They have all been turning in nice floor performances. Joe Frank Cobb, who was injured in the Autaugaville football game, is not yet able to don a basketball uniform. Our school hopes to see him in action soon after the holidays. Giles, Gilmore, Gothard, Busby, Maddox and Miller round out the A team roster for J.H.S. All the boys are driving hard to bring a winning team to Jemison High this season.

In the Billingsley game Cox with 10 points, Hamm and Davis with 8 each, led the losers. These boys proved tough to rope in, and had they capitalized on their free shots (they had 29) the score would have warranted a different story. John, their best defensive player, went out on fouls the last quarter. The Jemison B's won a hard-fought contest over the Billingsley B's the same night 45 to 38.

The following Friday night, December 8th. Jemisin kayo-ed a tough rival from Calera High by a count of 36 to 32. Calera holding a one-point lead with four minutes to go, made the fatal mistake of trying to freeze the ball. In desperation they lost the ball, and over-anxiousness caused them to commit several damaging fouls. A last minute rally by the J.H.S. boys salted the game down for keeps. Charles Jones was the "Ole War Hoss" in this game also. He banged out 12 points to lead his team in this department and played one of his best defensive games. P. Ellison rammed 9 points through the net to clinch second place scoring.

Knight (17) and Bean (12) spotlighted the Calera scoring. The game was played by two teams fresh from the football field and turned out to be a rough and tumble contest. 35 fouls were called, with Calera lamming off 21 of them.

The Jemison B's snowed under the Calera B's to the tune of 41 to 18. Guin, Cobb, Guy, Porter and Cox sprung most of the points for Jemison, while Cannady, Peterson and Glass confined their efforts to defensive play. Collum (7) and Ingram (6) led the losers in scoring.

Jemison High meets Vincent at Jemison next Friday night. Come on out folks, and support your school's athletic program. — Robert B. Johnson, Sports Reporter.

BOSWELL PLANS ENJOYABLE DAY FOR PRISON INMATES

Montgomery, Ala. — "I will thank you to make the day as enjoyable as you possibly can for the inmates. Visitors will be allowed." That was the instruction sent this week to all prison officials throughout the state by Prison Director Frank Boswell.

Topping the list of 'enjoyable' factors on Christmas Day will be a baked turkey dinner with all the customary frills of the usual holiday dinner.

The complete menu will consist of baked turkey, dressing, giblet gravey, candied yams, string beans, pickled beets, pear cobbler, hot rolls, coffee, apples, pecans, and candy.

As a special added attraction, Boswell said that all prison work except for the necessary housekeeping chores will be suspended for the holiday.

Religious services will be held and inmates will be encouraged to attend.

GOVERNOR CUTS CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS FOR STATE WORKERS

Montgomery, Ala. — For the first time in a number of years, state employees will receive only one work day as a holiday for Christmas, and that will be Christmas Day itself.

Orders to that effect were distributed to all state departments upon direction of the governor.

In years past, employees have been given enough time off to have from four to five days with their families. This was made possible by letting half of the employees off before and the other half off after Christmas, thereby maintaining business-as-usual in the state offices for all except Christmas Day.

In issuing the directive, the governor said, "Government employees as well as civilians must devote every effort possible to help in our present world crisis."

Employees of the Clanton Drive-In Theatre held their annual Christmas Party this week and were presented their bonus checks. The party was held Tuesday at 2 o'clock at the Drive-In and a most enjoyable time was reported by those attending.

DENT WILLIAMS NAMED "BETTER DEALER" BY PONTIAC

Latest dealership to be admitted to Pontiac Motor Division's "Hall of Fame" is the Dent Williams Motor Company of Clanton, Ala., which was today named a "Better Dealer" by Pontiac factory executives.

One of the better auto dealerships in this area, Dent Williams Motor Company has represented the Silver Streak line here since 1947. The firm is headed by Dent Williams, who serves as owner and manager.

With the honor, Dent Williams Motor Co. was presented a reproduction of the famous painting of Pontiac, Chief of the Ottowas, the great tribal leader for whom the car was named. The presentation was made by L. H. Holmes. Manager of Pontiac's Atlanta Zone.

In his presentation address, Mr. Holmes cited Dent Williams Motor Company for the firm's constant efforts to improve its dealership operation and widen its services to the community.

"Our Better Dealer program was instituted earlier this year with the aim of making Pontiac dealers pre-eminent in the automotive field," Mr. Holmes said. "It is not enough that Pontiac dealers be as good as their competitors. They must be better. They must be better than they themselves were a year ago. They must be better than they were six months ago, and they must be better than they were yesterday to maintain this honor and keep possession of this symbolic picture."

Under the terms of the Better Dealer program, each Pontiac dealer is graded on the improvement of his physical property; the number and quality of trained personnel; service facilities and equipment, parts inventory, used car lot and local advertising program. Of paramount importance is the dealership's services to the local community.

"Our dealers and their employes are Pontiac's only direct contact with the public," Mr. Holmes said, "and much of the goodwill which Pontiac enjoys among the American people is due to these fine dealers we are honoring throughout the country with these presentations."

In this regard, Mr. Williams has been active in community affairs for more than five years. He has served as chairman for the Chilton County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, Commander and Organizer of Company B, 167th Infantry, and is now a member of Battery B, 767th Field Artillery Battalion U. S. Reserve. He served as Captain in the 117th Field Artillery Battalion in the Southwest Pacific for about five years. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club and the Church of Christ.

The dealership is considered one of the finest and most modern in the state. The building measures 6750 sq. ft. and includes a completely-equipped service department measuring 3500 sq. ft. The showroom is located on the Montgomery Highway, in South Clanton.

The firm's parts inventory is considered more than adequate to meet not only it's own needs but those of independent garages in the area served. In addition to the building, the property includes an area at the same location for customer parking and used cars.

Other members of the Dent Williams Motor Co. are Roy Adkins, new car salesman who has been with the dealership four years; Clarence Berry Hill, office and parts manager, who has had one year experience with the company; W. J. Jones, service manager, four years; B. L. McGuire, body shop foreman, three years. Joseph Edwards Jr., is a mechanic and has been with the firm one year.

FINE ARRAY OF YULE PROGRAMS OVER WKLF

The wonder, glory and spirit of Christmas will be reflected this year when one of the greatest array of Christmas programs will be heard over Radio Station WKLF.

From 1:30 Christmas Eve afternoon, right on through until sign-off on Christmas Day there will be some of the finest Christmas talent, programing and music ever heard over the local radio station.

The first Christmas program will be entitled "Silent Night and Shining Star,' which will feature the story of a night of nights, the story of a small desert town jammed with jostling crowds of people in from the country. It is the story of a man and woman and a Baby born in Bethlehem, the story of Mary, Joseph and the infant, Jesus. The program will also feature such music as "Nazareth," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "O Holy Night," and many other old favorites in spirit with the Christmas spirit.

Another highlight of WKLF's schedule in keeping with the season will be the presenting of the Messiah, a program that will take a full two hours to complete and featuring the voice of one of our local people, Henry Grady Heflin. This program will be aired at 2:45 Christmas Eve afternoon.

A special Yuletide Christmas show will begin at the 980 spot on your radio dial at 8:45 Christmas morning, a full 30 minutes of Christmas music that will feature such well-known songs as "Gather Around The Christmas Tree," the "Toy Trumpet," "I'll Be Home For Christmas," and many others.

This program will also feature such well-known musical artists at the Hollywood Serenaders, vocalist Hal Derwin, The Starlighters and The Mellomen.

At one o'clock Christmas afternoon Helen Parrish will be heard in a special program of A Christmas Carol by Charles Dickens, which promises to be another highlight in the Yuletide programing of WKLF.

And then to wind up this wonderful array of Christmas listening, the final, but by no means the least, "The Angel With The Cold Nose," a program designed for listening with great pleasure by both young and old alike. It would be well worth the while of everyone to keep this schedule by their radio this week end and enjoy some of the best music and talent that has ever been put together on the local radio station.

Christmas Chest Officials Report Gratifying Results

According to reports just received from A. T. Hickman, Chairman of the finance committee, the Chilton County Christmas Chest for 1950 is turning out to be definitely the best yet. This committee reports that the response this year has been very gratifying and that the general attitude of citizens of the county toward the Chest has been excellent. The latest report of funds received show that a total of $1,282.10 had been received in cash offering before the deadline for receiving had been reached. Similar results were reported on the receipts of materials. An appreciable number of repaired and usable toys, clothing, and staple foods had been received in the basement of the Methodist Church, which is being used as a collection center.

Bob Taber, general chairman of this year's Chest, stated that arrangements have been made to distribute the packages on Saturday morning. Woodmen of the World, under the direction of Lewis McGee, will be in charge of distribution.

DR. JOHN GALLALEE MAKES STATEMENT TO STUDENTS

Dr. John M. Gallalee, president of the University of Alabama, took this stand in a statement to the students through the Crimson-White, University Alabama student paper.

Editor Sam Harvey released the following statement from Dr. Gallalee:

"Because your country is at war, your decisions must be wise, not only for your own personal development but for your country's good as well. Your main business at present is to finish as much of your college work as is possible with the best possible success. Whether you remain a civilian or become a member of the Armed Services, you will be most useful if you have specialized training.

"If students are enrolled in either Army or Air ROC, they will help to answer the increasing need of the Armed Services for trained officers. Our government and our military leaders, realizing that the present crisis may last for years, have up to the present time taken precautions not to cut off the supply of college-trained men. The University of Alabama's quotas for both Army and Air ROTC have recently been greatly enlarged. This fact signifies that, under present law, there will be a greatly increased number of deferments for ROTC students. Thus, your chances of remaining in the University until graduation are better than ever before in wartime.

"The Selective Service and military officials will call up persons at a rate which is regulated to eliminate an excessive waste of manpower. The best way, then, for University students to serve the country is to maintain the highest possible level of scholarship until they are idrected to serve in other ways. This is particularly true because it was found during World War II that one of the most serious weaknesses of the military organization was the scarcity of college-trained personnel.

In time of crisis such as this, tension and uneasiness are to be expected Many of the students are asking what immediate steps they can take to be of greatest service. I urge the men of the University of Alabama to remain at their desks and in their libraries and laboratories and to apply themselves to the tasks before them. In so doing, they will insure the maximum of service to their country in time of need, without sacrificing personal and professional development. There is need for calm thought and sensible action now as never before."

SECOND ANNUAL PERFORMANCE OF "BIRTH"

Clanton's Associated Producers present the second annual performance of "Birth," a cantata by Mary Clyde Mims and Henry G. Heflin Jr., Sunday evening at seven o'clock at the First Baptist Church of Clanton.

This cantata, a musical version of the ageless story of the Nativity, is the same program that won such approval when presented the past Christmas Season. Its two young, local composers promise an even more enjoyable performance than last year.

This performance of "Birth," beginning at seven o'clock, is open to the general public.

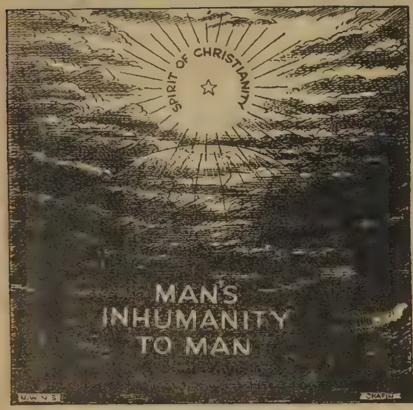
OVER A WORLD OF DARKNESS SHINING



PROUD AND GRIEVED

The 31st, (Dixie) Division has been alerted for federal duty, and will report January 16th. The Division will train at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Clanton's own Company B, 167th Infantry, is a part of this Division and it is with grief and pride that we see these fine young men called into service.

The Dixie Division was called first because of efficency and equipment. The Division made an enviable record in World War II in the South Pacific, and we are sure will give a good account of themselves whereever called to serve their country.

AMERICAN LOSSES IN SIX WARS

The undeclared war in Korea has been going on six months and already the loss on the American-allies side in killed, wounded and missing exceeds the number of killed wounded and missing in three American wars, the Revolution (seven years), the War of 1812 and the Spanish-American war, more than in three wars combined. The American loss in the Revolution in killed, wounded and missing was reported to have been 12,200. Of course, many of the wounded recover and most of the missing were prisoners, as in other wars.

The American loss in the War of 1812 was given as 7,000 in round numbers and approximately 10,000 in the Spanish-American wars were tame affairs compared with the present preliminary war in Korea.

Loss in the Mexican war was 17,000 in killed, wounded and missing. In the War Between the States (1861-1865) the loss on the Union side is given as 650,000; about half that number killed in battle and some were captured or died of disease. The American loss in World War I has been fixed at approximately 350,000, and in World War II at 1,100,000, of which about 300,000 were killed in action.

During the Revolution and up to the Spanish- American War, nations didn't have the destructive weapons they possess today, and it is alarming to think of what destruction another world war would bring. But it seems inevitable unless the free nations decide to submit to the Communists drive for world domination.—Jasper Mountain Eagle.

JUST A LITTLE CARE

As they do so often, members of the Pilot Club have struck a timely note.

"Don't Let Death Take Your Holiday" is the topic of special pamphlets that Pilots of Alabama are circulating by the thousands in the weeks before the Big Holiday season.

As Governor of Alabama Pilots, Andalusia's Miss Sicily Raley is responsible for this safety program.

Considering the cold fact that December's traffic fatalities a year ago were 43 per cent higher than the monthly average for the year, emphasis on proper vehicular operation and safety in the home, during the last month of the year, is especially appropriate.

Just the exercise of a little care and nearly all the tragedies at Christmas time could be avoided.—Andalusia Star-News.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

PRESSURE OF GRIM URGENCY pervades Washington as the nation and the federal government faced the forbidding aspect of an on-rushing all-out war.

Solemn-faced, but calm and objective officials moved into action quickly to speed-up total mobilization of manpower and production. From the President down the line of command in the defense and control agencies, this pressure of necessity was obvious. There was no hysteria, no emotional upset—the officials in charge of the defense agencies and the war production control agencies, apparently with plans complete, seem working only against time to build up personnel for the purpose of putting into action the program which has been formulated over the past few months and weeks.

• • •

The need for pressing action was evident even in the Congress, as the legislative body moved for hasty consideration of the President's request for an 18-billion-dollar appropriation to pay the costs.

While President Truman called for immediate intensification and step-up of the military effort, Secretary of State Dean Acheson warned the nation to "hope for the best, but prepare for the worst."

• • •

The department of defense first swung into action to reactivate training camps throughout the nation to house a 2,700,000-man or more army by early spring. First roll call was for 50,000 more men in the selective service. As a matter of fact, the size of the army will be limited only by the production of arms and equipment to man it.

Administrator Stuart Symington of the national security resources board, stepped out in front as the top man in the entire controls picture and summoned by telegram an emergency meeting of representative leaders, 90 in all, from business, industry, agriculture and labor, 30 from each field, for an off-the-record briefing here in Washington. These men were told frankly by the highest ranking officials the grim facts and the precarious future the nation faces. They were told in no uncertain terms the plans for all-out production which must be carried out to meet the urgency of the military needs, with the hope that these plans can be carried out with the least disruption of the national economy.

• • •

The national production authority in charge of allocations and priorities of raw materials immediately issued a series of orders cutting back civilian use of nickel, lead, copper and other metals. Orders on hides, rubber and others were expected momentarily. In the meantime, NPA made its first direct requisition of supplies against an individual company, directing General Electric and the Raytheon Corporation to supply 12,000 electronic tubes to a Washington firm to keep military observation planes in the air.

• • •

Amid the swirling kaleidoscope of government activity, Michael C. DiSalle, mayor of Toledo, was named federal price administrator, rounding out the set-up of the economic stabilization agency under Alan Valentine as head man.

As the cost of living index soared to a new peak, it was evident that price controls are bound to come, the time only depending upon how fast this organization under DiSalle can obtain personnel. Under the appropriations already asked by the President and the new military appropriation bill, it is estimated that some 200,000 civilian jobs will be provided for in the military and control agencies with perhaps 20,000 to 30,000 of them here in Washington.

• • •

In the meantime a new wrinkle may be tried in mandatory price controls by starting at the bottom to fix prices on raw materials such as aluminum, zinc, copper, cobalt and even steel. And while this is working, business may be asked to voluntarily control their profits, not prices, on a pre-Korean war base in the hope this will stem the tide of rising prices until mandatory controls can be clamped on. Labor will be asked to do the same thing with regard to wages, although labor is all set to ask for increased wages on the basis of the new steel formula, recently agreed to by Big steel and CIO.

API ART PROFESSOR WINS EXHIBIT PRIZE

Auburn, Ala. — Roy Staples, associate professor of art at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, has been awarded first prize in the third annual exhibit of the Water Color Society of Mobile.

His painting, entitled "The Pines," was done in Auburn. It is based on the pine grove in Graves Center. The award was made by the jury on December 9 and Staples will receive a gold medal given by the Mobile Art Association. The painting will remain on exhibit in Mobile until the end of December.

TUSCALOOSA FIRST IN STATE TO APPROVE PLAN TO STOP TOOTH DECAY

Tuscaloosa, Ala. — The Tuscaloosa Dental Society announced this week approval of a plan sponsored by the city to place sodium fluoride in the city water supply in an effort to reduce tooth decay among children.

Waterworks Commissioner W. H. Nicol previously announced the city would undertake the project if the dental society and the County Board of Health approve.

UNIVERSITY TO HOLD WORK SHOP ON JOURNALISM DAY

University, Ala. — It was announced this week by Professor C. E. Bounds, head of the department of journalism at the University of Alabama, that the "Journalism Day" workshop will be held on the campus February 9-10.

An estimated 150 high school students and sponsors are expected to attend the two-day conference.

The three journalism organizations at the University in cooperation with the journalism faculty will judge newspapers from high schools throughout the state. The papers are to be divided into three classes according to the method of printing, and will be judged on overall makeup. The winner in each division will be given an award donated by Paragon Press, Montgomery.

On February 10, specialized workshops for writers and business managers of newspapers and yearbooks will be held. The faculty will conduct a workshop conference for sponsors of the high school publications, emphasizing techniques and teaching aids.

Peace On Earth, Good Will Toward Men

The above words are those of angels who appeared to the shepherds the night the Prince of Peace was born; though it was 1950 years ago since the event, the words still have meaning, and hold out to the world the only hope of an everlasting peace on earth, and good will toward men.

A. T. HICKMAN

In this war torn world we are living in today, with the multiplied millions being prepared to fight, some to wage war, and some to defend what little peace we already have, it looks as if the world will never have the peace, and the good will that the Lord above and the angels would have us have. But before there could be redemption for all mankind, the Saviour had to suffer many things, and even be put to death; and it looked to the disciples that all of their hope was gone, and each one returned to their former occupation, but on the first day of the week an angel was sent from God Who rolled away the stone, and out of the grave our Lord came. He had triumphed over all His suffering, and over death, hell and the grave. Within the bosom of the disciples came new faith, the light of a resurrected hope; soon they were to be filled with the Holy Ghost that would be unto them Power to be witnesses of the Gospel in all the world.

And so it is, my friend, when we turn to the Word of God for comfort, hope, and a renewed faith, we find such words as "Peace on earth, and good will toward men." We know that He Who was born 1950 years ago, whose name was Jesus, is the Prince of Peace; also the Prince of the kings of the earth, and some day He will be crowned King of kings, and Lord of lords. Some day God will give unto Him the throne of His father, David, and He that is to come, will come.

The disciples were taught to pray for the coming of the Kingdom of God, and so are we. Christians of all ages have prayed for the coming of Christ's Kingdom on earth, and that His Will might be done on earth as it is done in heaven. Some day all wars will cease, swords will be beaten into plowshares, and spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. But before that time, there must be wars, and rumors of wars; nation must rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; the battle of Armageddon must be fought ere there is peace on earth and good will toward men.

Remember Their Names!

IF YOU DON'T REMEMBER the names of the people introduced to you, you are losing chances to make people like you. As I have said before, "A man's name to him is the sweetest sound in the English language."

It behooves a politician to remember that to recall a voter's name is statesmanship; to forget is oblivion. This is just as important in social contacts.

No doubt Franklin Delano Roosevelt occupied his high chair for the fourth term largely because he knew how to make friends, and one way he made friends was to call people by their names.

> W. F. Chamberlain, working for the Chrysler organization that had built a special car for F. D., was delegated to deliver the car to the White House. There were a lot of gadgets on the car, designed for easy handling by the President. Mr. Chamberlain went back to the plant in a happy frame of mind. Franklin D. Roosevelt had called him by name, and expressed admiration for all Mr. Chamberlain knew about the mechanics of a car.

F. D. R. may have learned this as a young man from his predecessor and distant cousin, Theodore Roosevelt, for he, too, was adept at the art. I knew personally of an incident when Theodore Roosevelt met a man while fighting big game in Africa. Several years later, T. R., making a tour of the southern states before election, was down in the very depths of a Democratic stronghold. Suddenly in the crowd he spied this man. "Sweeting," he called loudly, so that everyone could hear, "didn't we have a bully time in Africa?" Who do you think this Democrat voted for? Yes, just who do you think. Not only did he vote for him, but he swung other votes toward Theodore Roosevelt.

> It works in every walk of life. Homer Croy had in his employ a nurse brought from England for their little girl. When this nurse said she didn't think she could ever live in England again, Homer asked how America differed from England. Without hesitation, the girl replied: "Well, Mr. Croy, your friends speak to me when they come here, and they call me by my name."
>
> Try making friends by the following:

1 — Learn the name of those you contact. (If necessary, ask them to spell it.)

2 — Call them by their names clearly. Don't overdo this; don't make it obvious. Just do it when a natural occasion arises. But always when you say "Good morning," or "Good night."

ACCIDENT FACTS

Some information from the National Safety Council's 1950 publication of Accident Facts should give us pause to think.

The public is properly aroused by the casualty lists from Korea but pays little or no attention to such a fact as that in 1949 in the continental United States 91,000 deaths occurred from accidents in addition to 9,500,000 nonfatal injuries. The costs of these accidents are estimated at $7,500,000,000. A very few of these accidents may have been so-called "Acts of God" but the vast majority are man-made by carelessness or by failure to observe what should be common sense precautions.

The greatest single accidental cause of death was the motor vehicle. More than one-third (31,500) of all the accidental deaths in 1949 were the result of automobile accidents. Underlying was the fact that in one out of four such fatal accidents either the driver of a car or a pedestrain had been drinking.

Other causes of fatal accidents in 1949 were falls: 21,300; fire burns and other injuries associated with fires: 5,500; drownings: 6,700; railroad accidents: 3,300; firearms: 2,350; poison gases: 1,800; poisons, solid or liquid: 1,600; all others: 17,300. Obviously many of these accidents were preventable.

Home accidents accounted for nearly as many fatalities (31,000) in 1949 as did motor vehicles. About one-half of the home accidents were due to falls. The place of greatest danger in the home was the bedroom where more than 25 per cent of fatal home accidents occurred, most frequent cause in that room being falls.

With the holiday season coming up everyone should be doubly careful. Don't spoil your fun by taking chances which cause an accident.

CLANTON GROUPS ACTIVE WITH YULETIDE CELEBRATIONS

Homemakers S. S. Class Party—

One of the highlights of the Yuletide Season parties was the Homemakers Sunday School Class annual affair held in the basement of the First Baptist Church on Friday night of last week.

About 50 of the class members gathered for this much looked forward to party.

The decorations were of greenery, red berries and bright Christmas ornaments. Beneath the beautifully lighted tree the gift packages were piled high, waiting to be delivered. The party was opened with group singing of Christmas hymns, followed with prayer by Mrs. J. Gilbert Hutchinson. The famous "Grand March" and peanut hunt, the contests and games proved to be a great source of delight, with Pearline Robinson finding the most peanuts.

After the games the ladies were invited into the church dining room where refreshments were served. Greenery and burning red candles adorned the room. The serving table was covered with an exquisite lace cloth and centered with a nine-branched silver candelabra holding burning tapers. Mary Heflin presided at the coffee service. The Christmas motif was artistically carried out in the dainty refreshments.

After the refreshments, Mrs. J. Gilbert Hutchinson told an original Xmas story of the "Birth of The Little Homemakers Class" and asked each little girl to come up to the tree and deliver a gift to some other little girl there. After everyone had received a gift, each one opened her package. The class teacher, Mrs. Howard Boockholdt, received a lovely lace table cloth from the class. Under the tree was a large package, beautifully wrapped and on the Xmas tag was the Homemakers Sunday School Class. This was opened by the class president, Mrs. Russell Sutley. It was a lovely picture of Christ in a walnut frame. This was from the teacher and was hung on the classroom wall Sunday.

Lovely gifts were received by each one and a wonderful time was had by all.

The entertaining committees are to be commended on their great effort to make this party such a success. Serving on the hostess committee were: Mary Burnett, Bess Hayes, Mary Heflin, Lora Rose Bell and Minnie Wade. Program were: Nell Powers, B. Ray and Hazel Boockholdt. Decorations were: Jewel Thompson, Annie Lane, Evelyn Teel and Referee Lineberry.

The beautiful home was even more beautiful with poinsettias and the traditional Yuletide decorations throughout.

An imported Irish linen cloth covered the dinner table, with a milk glass epergne' filled with white California mums placed on a mirror plaque, forming the center piece. White candles in crystal holders completed the table appointments. Each small dinner table was centered with Xmas ball decorations and greenery. Place cards attached to red Xmas boots, filled with mints, marked the place of each guest.

This community was saddened by the passing of Mr. Jim Gay Sunday. Mr. Gay was 71 years of age and had been ill for over a year. He was a good neighbor and always ready to do anything he could for someone in need. He joined the Valley Creek Baptist Church early in life and always attended church services. He believed in Sunday School and Church attendance. His funeral was held at the Plantersville Baptist Church at 2:00 p.m. Monday. Rev. J. R. Robinson officiated.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, Mrs. Ollie Barnes Gay; two daughters, Mrs. Vincent Pierson, Mrs. V. C. Eiland; four sons — Robert, William, Clifford and Howard Gay, and several grandchildren; two brothers, Charlie Gay and Oliver Gay; one sister, Mrs. Estelle Davis.

Mr. Jim Gay was a person that believed in doing all he could for a person in need and administered to the needs of his neighbors every chance he got. He will be greatly missed by his many friends throughout this and other sections.

Brown-Service of Selma had charge of the body. The floral tributes were large and beautiful.

Mrs. John O'Neal, Mr. Oren Carroll and Miss Ruth Hicks had charge of the flowers. Pallbearers were: Mr. Millard Reynolds, Mr. Gent Harrison, Mr. Archie McKinney, Mr. Guy Osburn, Mr. Ham Carter and Mr. Melvin Carter.

Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Robinson and children had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Carter.

Friday night at 7:00 p.m. the Wesleyan Methodist Church will have their Christmas play, "The Star Grew Dim," at the church. Everyone is invited to see this play. You're welcome always.

A Young People's Convention will be held December 31st, all day, at the Wesleyan Methodist Church. There will be a guest speaker. Won't you attend?

Sunday an old friendship was renewed. Mrs. Lucy Hathcock Goodson of Florida happened up at the home of her friend, Miss Ruth Hicks, and they had a wonderful reunion. These two ladies were great friends throughout the sixth grade and this friendship was cemented throughout their high school days at Centreville, Ala. Soon after graduation Miss Hathcock married Frank Goodson of Brent and they moved to Mississippi. Miss Hicks attended her friend's wedding, then years of separation—no writing, no visits—they just drifted apart. Sunday wasn't long enough for the two, they did much reminiscening. Mrs. Goodson is with her mother, Mrs. Hosea Hathcock, who is quite ill at her home in Brent. It is a wager that these two won't let many years roll by before seeing each other again.

Mrs. Vera Lagrone and three daughters are living with their mother, Mrs. Kate Harrison. Mrs. Lagrone and daughters moved from Lawley, Ala., here and we welcome her into our community.

The Wesleyan Methodist Church are soliciting funds from their friends to improve the inside of their church. If they haven't contacted you and you wish to help them with this undertaking they will appreciate any donation large or small. Rev. Edmund Crowe is the pastor of this church at this time and he is a good worker among his people.

Of news in this section is the engagement of Miss Mary Ann Green of Arab, Ala., and Mr. Robert Bruce Dyer of Bessemer, Ala. Miss Green is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Green, and Mr. Dyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Dyer. Mr. Vernon Dyer will be pleasantly remembered by his many friends throughout this section. The wedding will be solemnized December 24th at the First Baptist Church at Arab. Both are students at Birmingham-Southern College, Birmingham, Ala. She is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. A picture of Miss Green recently appeared in the Birmingham Post-Herald.

Mrs. R. E. Fitts of Safford and Mrs. Weston Scarsbrook and son, Donnie, of Orrville, Ala., were guests at the Schurter home Sunday.

Miss Alma Lee Beagle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clifton Beagle, of Fulton, Ala., became the bride of William Charles Gibbs of Grove Hill, Ala., December 1st, in the presence of members of the two families and a few close friends. The double ring ceremony took place at six o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. A. S. Bentley officiating.

The wedding music was played by the bride's aunt, Miss Elsie Schurter, of Stanton. Mrs. William J. Graham (Katherine Schurter) of Birmingham attended her niece as matron of honor. Jesse G. Gibbs of Grove Hill served as his brother's best man. A reception followed. Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs have returned to Fulton after a honeymoon and are at home with the bride's parents. Mrs. Gibbs is the granddaughter of Mrs. Alma Schurter of this place.

Mr. W.M.D. O'Neal is on our sick list. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Miss Ann McKee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McKee, is in Vaughan's Memorial Hospital, Selma. Ann has a very bad cold and has had high fevers for quite some time now. Her parents thought it best to take her to the hospital and have her checked.

Things We See And Hear

(By "Tuck")

Looks like I've been missing out lately, doesn't it, guys and gals? Well, I've been pretty busy it being so close to Christmas and all, and haven't found much time for writing. I haven't even been keeping the basketball games up like I'm supposed to.

Speaking of holidays, it's about time we had another holiday; boy, this going to school really wears a guy down. (Understand, I didn't say studying wears a guy down, just going is bad enough.)

You know, our "B" team seems to have a better record this year in basketball than the "A" team. Well, it's no wonder, just look at who's on the "B" team, Joe Grooms and Sonny Gaylor. Man alive, that Joe Grooms is a one-man team himself!

Glad to see Jearlyne Studdard able to be out again. She really had it bad there for a while. We hope she will be able to come back to school some time in the near future

Saw Fred Thompson Sunday morning and he is looking fine; he says Tennessee is treating him okay, but confidentially, I think he'd like to be down here on his old stomping grounds He and Cadet Simpson have been up there just a few months and I imagine to them it seems like many months

Mrs. DuBose made the remark in History class the other day that she couldn't stand up and teach the class because she fell down the steps that morning. I think she just got the holiday spirit and didn't wanta teach us. Or maybe she's getting lazy. Reckon?

Billy Devaughn has a very effective way of making the passer throw him the ball. The defensive player usually pulls off with someone else and Billy runs out, turns around, and starts yelling and waving his arms. Well, the passer naturally throws it to the man in the open, which is Billy, but somehow or other he always manages to mess up and miss the ball. I think he gets over excited. I'm no authority, but my advice to Billy on his football career is to take up basketball, you can't hold the ball anyhow in that game.

Last week's mystery man was Myron Levine, people, and I don't think I missed him too far, he does wear glasses anyhow.

Next week's mystery girl has sorta dark hair, about 5 ft. 5 in. tall, got a nice figure. I think she's in Miss Griffin's room and if she's not, she's in Miss Barclift's room, and you don't see her by herself very often. Oh yeah she has cat eyes and one of her initials is P. (Man, that's easy!)

The City of Montgomery was named for General Richard Montgomery of Revolutionary fame who lost his life in the Arnold expedition against Quebec, while Montgomery County had been named years earlier in honor of Major Lemuel P. Montgomery, who was killed in the Battle of Horseshoe Bend while serving with Andrew Jackson in the Creek War.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: I remember when Mother would buy five cents worth of asafoetida (a foul-smelling, waxy substance), break off small pieces and sew them in little bags, which were pinned on our undershirts to ward off contagion. One glimpse of a contagious disease sign on a door sent us school kids scurring diagonally out on the street so we wouldn't pass the house.

MERRY CHRISTMAS, OLD TIMERS!

From O. O. Clayton of Monroeville, Ind.: I remember the old ashbarrel that stood on a sloping platform in the corner of the yard. The bottom was knocked out and a layer of straw was placed inside the barrel. It was my job to carry all the wood ashes from the old cookstove and fill the barrel. Then I carried water and poured it over the ashes to leach out the potash. The brown water was stored in earthen jars until butchering time. Then it was used to make soft soap out of the waste fats. Mother proportioned the ingredients, but it was my job to keep the old iron kettle boiling out by the wood pile until the soap was done.

Something Happens to Joe

By Maud McCurdy Welch

BUTCH WAS TAKING the shortcut from town as he usually did, walking through the lonely wooded log-road, to the farmhouse where he lived.

Nothing had ever happened on this road before. But something was happening now. Butch saw two men in a gray car counting money by the light of the dashboard, great quantities of money. He felt scary inside. He knew the bank had been held up the night before. And while he was only 14, he knew gangsters and stolen loot when he saw it. He knew also that he was in danger. He whirled around. The next thing the men were coming after him. He started running. But one of them caught him. Butch stammered, "I . . . was just going home. I live on the other side of the swamp."

The older man took Butch's arm and started pushing him toward the car. The other one said, "He's just a swamp-rat. Green as they come. He won't do no harm."

"I don't take chances," the older man said, giving Butch a push. "Get in," he ordered.

"See you, Skitch," the other man said and walked off.

Butch was silent as the car slid and bumped its way over the rough log-road and, at last reached the highway, where it speeded up.

Butch didn't know where they were going or what would happen to him, but he was sure it would be bad, very bad. He sat there trying to figure out some way to escape. If the car slowed down, he could open the door and jump. But not at this speed,

To his surprise the car suddenly stopped. The driver let out an oath. Butch edged nearer the door, reached for the handle. "None of that, unless you want to get pumped full of lead!" his captor snarled. Then he was getting out, motioning Butch to follow, his hand in his pocket on a revolver.

"You know those people over there in that filling station?"

Butch nodded. The station was only a few yards up the road. "Now, listen, kid, we're going over there. You tell these men that I'm a friend of your family and that something has happened to your brother, or some of your kinfloks in the next town. Tell them we got to get the car fixed in a hurry."

"Yes, sir."

"Hi, Butch," the station owner smiled.

Butch said, "Hi, Mr. Beeker." Then went on quickly, "This man is a friend of my father's and something's happened to Joe in Pineville. We got to get there in a hurry. Please fix the car right away."

The mechanic came and they went to the car. "Nothing but a loose connection," he said as he fixed it. "Fifty cents please."

Then they were moving down the road again at a rapid speed. The gangster glanced at Butch. "Too bad you had to get yourself mixed up in my business, but I guess one hick more or less won't be missed around here."

It happened a few minutes later. The welcome sound of sirens, motorcycles, speeding cars.

The gray car was doing 80 now, but it wasn't good enough. Another few more minutes and there were motorcycles on both sides of the gray car, a squad car drawing up behind.

"What'd you do, you sneaking brat?" The gangster reached his hand for Butch's neck in a fury, but a quick arm reached in, and jerked it away, ordering him to get out.

"Just what you told me to," Butch grinned.

The officer smiled at Butch, relieved the gangster of his gun. "Butch is an orphan, lives with his aunt. When he mentioned his father, that seemed strange. But when he said something had happened to Joe, that was all we needed. Butch is a nickname. His name is Joe." The officer grinned happily at Butch. "And something has certainly happened to Joe. He's in for a nice reward. Smart kid, if anybody asks me."

The Price Of Peace

(By Robert L. Johnson)

Thousands of young Americans have already given their lives to beat back aggression in Korea. They have set a standard of sacrifice which will make our best efforts in defense of freedom seem small indeed.

Yet your part and mine in building a strong defense establishment will not be discharged easily. Several months ago I said that the time was coming when we would have to tighten our belts. That time has come.

Consider this. The present federal budget is $42 billion a year. Its cost averages $1,000 per American family per year. About one-third of this cost is spent for defense purposes.

Within two years, defense costs may well be tripled. The cost of government will then be close to $2,000 per family per year. Of this about two-thirds, or $1,500 per family, will go for defense purposes. Things have certainly changed since the days before World War I when we were able to manage with a small peacetime Army and Navy which cost less than $10 per year per family.

No American living today has ever seen, or can possibly imagine a peacetime military establishment of the size we are now building. More money for planes, ships and guns is bound to mean less money for automobiles, radios, television sets, and other luxuries of American life. We can get along without these things cheerfully if we must. But remember, this large Army must be paid for by taxes. The purchasing power of our dollars tends to shrink when taxes increase. Unless we manage matters carefully, we may find that the cost of necessities, as well as luxuries, may get beyond our reach.

You hear a lot about inflation. What does it really mean? It means that dollars will be more numerous than the things they buy. It means that the cost of coffee, let us say, might be tripled or quadrupled to the point where neither you nor I could afford it, no matter what our wages and salaries might be in dollars, simply because the purchasing power of our wages is being increased every day by competition for goods and the constant demands of taxation.

Inflation came to Central Europe in the 1920's. Once it got under way, they couldn't print money fast enough to give it any meaning. Housewives went to the stores with bushel baskets full of money to get a single loaf of bread. This was the direct result of over-taxation and under-production. It can happen in any country at any time.

One of the greatest causes of inflation is waste. If there is waste in the management of our government, if there is overlapping of functions and duplication of effort, the danger of inflation becomes that much greater. That is why we need more than ever before an efficient and economical government which will make the best use of every dollar we pay in taxation.

The bipartisan Hoover Commission showed us that $1 in $10 of Federal expenditures could be saved by better management. The six Democrats and the six Republicans of the Commission made recomendations which could save at least $100 per family per year on the present budget. We have since seen that these savings can be made. So far, the Congress, with President Truman's approval, has enacted 50 percent of the Hoover Commission recommendations with savings which will amount to not less than $2 billion a year or about $50 per family. This is important to you and me, to our families and to the nation's future. If $100 a year per family can be saved on a budget of 40 billions, then $200 a year can be saved on a budget of 80 billions. Better still, we will be getting our full "money's worth" for the defense dollars we spend, not only in terms of material but of manpower. We simply can't afford to have large numbers of people doing unnecessary things, in Government or out of it. In the coming contest every pair of hands, every heart and every mind must be made to count to the utmost.

The biggest thing that the Commission showed us, however, was that our government can move faster and do a better job for us if it is better organized. For example, the Army, Navy and Air Force were unified along lines which the Hoover Commission recommended. This produced a new brand of teamwork on the combat fields and behind the lines. Without unification I seriously doubt if our troops would even be in Korea today and our losses would certainly have been much heavier.

The greatest savings of reorganization, therefore, would be made not solely in terms of dollars but of manpower, material and, above all, lives. We can never rest assured that America is properly organized to meet the demands of defense while maintaining its own living standards and lifting the living standards of the rest of the world unless the remaining 50 percent of the Hoover Commission's recommendations are adopted.

Will this be done? That is up to you and me. As citizens we can tell our Representatives in Congress that we want to cut out waste and duplication, so that every bit of our national effort and all of our resources are used wisely and well in defense of freedom. You can vote every day of your life, with a three-cent stamp if you will just take the trouble to write to your Representatives and Senators and urge them to adopt the remaining half of the Hoover Commission's Report.

When beating egg whites, be sure that the beater is free of oil and that the whites are free of any stray bits of egg yolks. The presence of even a minute quantity of fat will keep the egg whites from beating satisfactorily.

A fresh egg will lie on its side on the bottom of a pan of water. If old and stale, it will rise to the surface.

LOW GRADE LOGS MAKE GOOD REPAIR LUMBER

A farmer who doesn't keep a stack of home-grown, custom-sawn boards often pays a high price for good repair lumber. Usually cheaper boards would serve the purpose and save him money.

I. R. Martin, A.P.I. Extension Service forester, points out that the man who cuts his low grade logs and hauls them to the mill for custom sawing gets his repair lumber for about one-third of the cash cost of the same lumber purchased outright. He adds that there are few wet weather jobs around the farm that will pay more money.

Major General James S. Saliba, the Adjutant General of Alabama, today announced that he received the following release from the Department of Defense, Office of Public Information, Washington, D.C., regarding opportunities for commissions offered by National Guard.

"As a result of authority to bring all its units to full officer strength, the National Guard offers excellent opportunities for civilians to be commissioned as officers in Army National Guard Units.

"Major General Raymond H. Fleming, acting chief of the National Guard Bureau, said the current campaign to increase the strength of the National Guard, together with the authority to reach full officer strength, have created a number of vacancies which will be filled by eligible citizens-soldiers.

"Commissions in Army Units of the National Guard may be given qualified civilians in the following categories:

"1. Former officers who served at least six months in World War II.

"2. Any man up to 32 years of age with an aggregate of at least one year of service on active federal duty or in the National Guard, or both, and who completes the [illegible] correspondence courses.

"3. Any man up to 32 years who served in the first three enlisted grades or as a warrant officer for at least six months in World War II.

"4. Any man who, after at least six months' service in World War II, was graduated from an accredited college not offering an ROTC course or who had insufficient academic time to permit graduation from the advanced ROTC course.

"5. Graduates of recent advanced ROTC courses.

"6. Any man who, while serving as a warrant officer, flight officer or enlisted man in any of the top three grades, was recommended for or offered appointment to commissioned grade but was taken prisoner of war before final action on the commission could be taken, can be appointed a First Lieutenant if he has not reached his 35th birthday on the date of appointment.

"7. Civilian specialists such as doctors, dentists and clergymen may be commissioned without previous military training.

"Further information about the program is available at local National Guard Armories."

Soda added to cream of tomato soup may prevent it from curdling, but it is also likely to destroy the delicate flavor of the tomato and its vitamin C content. If care is used in making the soup, soda usually proves to be unnecessary.

Lard should not be stored in crocks or stone jars, for air can penetrate such containers and may cause rancidity to develop in the lard. Store lard in rust-free, tightly covered containers, and keep it in a cool, dry, dark place.

A Short Story

LUCKY BREAK

By Willard Olvan Persing

JUDD KIMBERLY paused in a sunny spot on the bank, waiting for old Doc Smathers to fish the pool below the falls. His eyes softened as he stared at the town nestled there in the valley below.

Doc wheezed up the path around the falls, pausing at the top to see what Judd was going to do.

"Doc, it makes me shudder to think how close I came to missing all this," Judd said thoughtfully. He sat down on the bank of the stream at a spot where there was a good view of the town.

Busy filling his pipe, Doc looked up through his shaggy, white eyebrows at Judd. Fifty years as a country doctor told him that Judd wasn't referring to the pleasant morning of fishing they'd had.

Judd removed his hat, shook his head wonderingly, and chuckled at some bit of humor that he found in the years that lay safely behind. "I don't mind telling you this, Doc, because you probably suspect more of the truth than anyone else in town."

While easing his tired old frame into a comfortable position on the grassy bank, Doc smiled inwardly at the memory of all the skeletons he'd glimpsed in closets of respected citizens. Now, it seemed, Judd had one that he wished to rattle.

Thinking aloud rather than speaking to Doc, Judd spoke thoughtfully, "If that one thing hadn't happened to change the way I was headed, there is no telling what kind of a bum I would have been by now. I'd have probably ended up in prison." Judd winced at the thought of that possibility.

Doc puffed slowly at the pipe, staring at the strongly-featured, usually pleasant face that was now wrapped in a frown. "But it didn't happen that way," he said gently, breaking into the silence.

Smiling at this bit of help from Doc, Judd continued, "Because of that one lucky break, I own the hardware store down there, the people are all my friends, they even look up to me," he said humbly. "And at the time Mary's father died, I was no better than a common thief."

"A man could get himself whipped by calling you a thief down there now," Doc reminded him.

"Yes, I don't think that even Mary realized the hardware was nothing but a bundle of debt at the time her father died." Judd shook his head ruefully. "There I had been, during the year the old fellow was kept in bed, filling my pockets out of the cash drawer to finance the good times I was having on all those unnecessary buying trips to the city. The old man didn't keep any books so even I didn't realize what a mess the store was in until the wholesale houses began limiting the credit. I had just found out that I loved Mary. That, with the mess the store was in, convinced me that I would have to leave town. Then her father died and left me the store. I guess he knew that Mary and I were in love, and figured that it might salve my pride a little if I wasn't marrying a hardware store along with Mary."

"Mary told me what her father had done, and then I was really frightened at the mess I had made of things. I did leave town that night, not intending to return, but I was back before daylight. I found that I couldn't leave Mary with the debts of my making dumped into her lap. There was no choice but for me to try to put the business back on its feet. Her father, in leaving me the store, gave me the bit of luck that started me on the right path. If Mary had owned the store, I just couldn't have gone back and faced her."

Judd paused and stared at Doc, who was grinning. "What's so funny?"

"Son, that bit of luck was tailor made for the job it did. Mary knew about the mess you had made of the store, but she knew you better than you knew yourself and she loved you. She cooked up that deal about giving you the store after her father died to keep you from running away and let you get a little confidence in yourself. She wanted my help to make it seem legal and she wouldn't take my 'No' for an answer, so that's the way it was. I've been thankful all these years that she had backbone enough to prove I was wrong about you.

According to local tradition, a group of surveyors, while working at Whistler were saluted daily by a passing lomotive engineer with prolonged blasts from the locomotive whistle. They called the engineer "the whistler" and and subsequently named the town for him.

31st Infantry Called For Active Federal Service

Major General James S. Saliba, the Adjutant General of Alabama, made the following remarks regarding the alerting of the 31st Infantry Division for active federal service on January 16, 1951, to train at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

"The Alabama Units are ready. They have been ready. Our units are now about 90 percent of presently authorized strength. They will now have to recruit to full war strength. They will need many more men. Veterans and other volunteers are urged to go to their local national units and enlist, so they can serve with their own home folks.

"Alabama has set a record by inducting its units this past summer at nearly 100 per cent strength. We expect the 31st Division to go in at or near 100 percent strength.

"The Unit Commander of the 31st Division are all war-seasoned officers, well qualified to lead, train, and, if necessary, fight their units. They will be greatly interested in taking care of their men, your boys, because they are their own friends and townsmen.

"The 31st Division has made an outstanding record since it was reorganized in 1946-47. It is well equipped, well officered, well trained. It contains the flower of our youth. I know it will make a glorious record again, as it did during World War II.

"I sympathize with the fathers, mothers, wives, and friends of members of the Division in their natural anxieties. They will be proud of these brave young men, though, for they will make the best division in the Army, and help to make our nation, state, and homes safe for you and keep them free and democratic.

"The United States is the finest place in the world to live, because of its freedoms, it demoracy, its boundless opportunities. It is worth fighting for, by our youth in the armed forces, and by all civilians, young and old, on the home front. We should all forget our little differences and get together in this fight for freedom. In this manner, and with the help of our Almighty God, we can win this fight for the right to worship him and enjoy the freedoms and blessings He has intended for men to have."

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY CIVIL DEFENSE CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Reuben L. Newton, Jasper, Ala., Department President, appoints Mrs. Clyde Ellis, Fort Payne, as the Department Civil Defense Chairman. Mrs. Ellis, the wife of an Alabama World War II veteran, is an English woman who was in London during the entire bombardment of that city during the war.

Mrs. Newton attended the 23rd annual conference of Department President and Secretaries, American Legion Auxiliary, Indianapolis, Ind., November 29 and 30.

Present were representatives not only of the States but Alaska, Hawaii, Panama and Puerto Rico. Hawaii had orchids and Leis sent by plane for each member of the conference. Alabama was especially recognized in that the department president, Mrs. Newton, was given the honor of addressing the National Conference.

Mrs. Newton said, "My trip to Indianapolis made me realize that in every state in the United States are wide awake, intelligent, capable women all working for the same purpose for which we in Alabama are working. To hear those national chairmen, informed, level headed women accustomed to meeting and solving problems, tell us of the danger that lies ahead, of the many complex problems of national security, of our foreign policy, and have the national president following the vital report of the chairman on civil defense request each department to appoint a civil defense chairman without delay, to hear them tell us how to survive following an atomic attack, to hear how efforts are being made to undermine our very existence made me realize with what urgent necessity we need to work."

REMOVE FINISH FROM FURNITURE WITH CARE

A successful job of refinishing depends upon the care and thoroughness with which the old finish is removed.

According to Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, only a good quality commercial paint and varnish remover should be used on valuable pieces of finer woods.

The cost of refinishing furniture may be kept down by using homemade lye paste on large pieces such as a bedstead, corner cupboard, or chest with thick, old gummy finishes. Most of the old thick finish may be removed with the lye paste and the final layer next to the wood removed with commercial paint and varnish remover.

ALABAMA EMPLOYERS CAUTIONED TO OBSERVE CHILD-LABOR LAWS

Birmingham, Ala. — As Alabama schools prepare to close for Christmas, employers who plan to hire minors during the holidays were cautioned today to abide by specific Federal laws and regulations applying to the employment of minors in interstate commerce or in plants producing goods for interstate commerce.

This warning came from Joseph C. Noah, Regional Director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, with offices at 1007 Comer Building in Birmingham. Mr. Noah stressed the fact that under the Fair Labor Standards Act—Federal Wage and Hour Law—the minimum age for general employment is 16 years, while the employment of children 14 and 15 years of age under specified conditions is permissable in some occupations.

In addition to the general prohibition against employment of children under 16 years of age in commerce and the production of goods for commerce, except when specifically exempt, the prohibition extends to employment of children under 18 years of age in certain occupations which have been declared particularly hazardous by the Secretary of Labor.

Under the Law, a parent is not prohibited from employing his own child under the age of 16 years in an occupation other than manufacturing or mining or a hazardous occupation.

PLENTIFUL POULTRY

Food buyers have never before had available to them so great a supply of high quality poultry meat as they have now.

CROP RESIDUES

Crop residues, including stalks, leaves, stems, grass, and weeds, are really fertilizer. They also add needed organic matter to the soil and help control erosion when cut down and worked into the surface layer of the soil.

NEXT YEAR'S LAYERS

To avoid loss of profit from next year's layers, start pullets in December, January, and February. They will be in production by July and will reach peak production while eggs are selling at top prices.

EXTRA RATIONS LISTED FOR STATE COW HERDS

Auburn, Ala. — A dry fall and recent freezing weather have retarded growth of grazing crops, making it necessary for Alabama cattlemen to provide extra feed for the first time in several years.

"Furthermore," states W. H. Gregory, A.P.I. Extension Service livestock specialist, "no one can predict when winter grazing crops will recover enough to furnish much grazing. In the past, of course, it has been a good practice for herdsmen who had ample hay to feed only cotton seed meal or other oil seed meal. At present, however, most cattlemen would do well to feed grain or a mixture of grain and oil seed meal."

Gregory adds that peanut meal is a better buy at this time of the year than cotton seed meal. Suggested daily rations for each cow are: Four or five pounds of corn, cob, and shuck meal, and one pound of peanut meal, or eight ears of corn and one pound of pellets. Each ears of corn should be chopped into three or four pieces.

ARTIFICIAL BREEDING ON INCREASE IN STATE

What is known as a "bull stud" is located at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The services of seven Jersey, four Guernsey, and three Holstein bulls at the "stud" are now available to a number of Alabama dairymen.

Farmers who wish to obtain artificial breeding service hold a meeting and organize a cooperative artificial breeding association in their county. A board of directors is elected to run the business of the organization. Semen from the bulls is shipped from Auburn to a trained breeding technician.

Since this program will do much to increase Alabama milk production, Pete Turnham, A.P.I. Extension Service dairy specialist, believes that more dairymen will want to ask the local county agent for complete details about artificial breeding of dairy cows.

MORE AND MORE PEOPLE DEPENDENT ON FARMERS

Farming in this country has come a long way in recent years, according to A. W. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist.

He explains that only 18 per cent of the people in the United States live on farms, compared with 35 per cent in 1910 and 80 per cent a century ago. This fact means that many crops, once grown in small amounts for home use, are highly specialized cash crops now. And the prospects are that this trend will continue.

ESTIMATING MATERIAL NEEDED FOR CURTAINS

Auburn, Ala. — Curtains and draperies are not difficult to make if measurements are right and accurate cutting is done, according to Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

She says that the best way to estimate the amount of material needed is to measure from the bottom of the rod to the desired length at the bottom, then add the allowance for hems, casings, headings, and shrinkage. For example, a window may be 72 inches long and the curtains are to have a three-inch hem, a one-inch finished casing, and a one-inch finished heading, which means that two inches each have to be added for both casing and heading, since the measurement was taken from the bottom of the rod. One inch is allowed for turning in the two raw edges, and the width of the hem is allowed for shrinkage.

Crackers, cheese, and jelly may be served as a simple but very delicious dessert.

WALTER J. (CRACK) HANNA NAMED TO ADJUTANT GENERAL POST

Montgomery, Ala. — An outstanding Alabama soldier and veteran National Guard officer will be Alabama Adjutant General during the new administration, it was announced this week by Gov.-elect Gordon Persons. Brig. General Walter J.. (Crack) Hanna, 48, of Birmingham will head the State Military Department.

A veteran of World War II, General Hanna is deputy commander of the 31st (Dixie) Division, which is made up of National Guard troops from Alabama and Tennessee.

He enlisted in the Alabama Guard in 1919 as a private and has held all ranks up to and including his present rank of Brig. General. At the present time he is the senior line officer in the Guard.

Hanna was in command of the 31st Division through all engagements participated in by the division, including the Philippine Islands campaign, New Guinea, Morotai and the Netherlands East Indies.

General Hanna has been awarded the following decorations: Silver Star medal, Legion of Merit medal, Bronze Star medal, Air Medal, Combat Infantryman's badge, Army commendation ribbon, American Defense medal, Asiatic-Pacific ribbon, Aerican Theater campaign ribbon, Victory medal and the Philippines Liberation ribbon.

Hanna is executive vice-president of National Safety Engineers in Birmingham, a concern that handles such items as highway signs and paint.

AGENCIES IN ALABAMA UNABLE TO MEET CHILD CARE NEEDS

Montgomery, Ala. — The demand for institutional care for children has exceeded the supply furnished by public and private agencies in the state, Public Welfare Commissioner Broughton Lamberth said this week.

xplaining why institutions are asked to care for larger numbers while their remaining long lists of families waiting to adopt children, Lamberth said: "Most children who receive institutional care in Alabama are not children eligible for adoption placement. In fact, most of them are children whose family ties are not permanently broken and a large number are family groups of two or more brothers and sisters."

He added too that the institutions are affected by the rise in food costs and other high living expenses.

OIL WELL BEING DRILLED IN CHEROKEE COUNTY

Anniston, Ala. — Efforts are now being made to open a new Alabama oil field, as oil prospectors are this week drilling a wildcat well in Cherokee County, near Spring Garden, Ala.

Lloyd C. Green, Detroit engineer in charge of the project, said a crew is now drilling below 60 feet.

A JUMBO-SIZE CHRISTMAS

BY JOHN H. HOSE

"AND NOW, BOYS AND GIRLS, here's what you've all been waiting for! The winner of the BIG, PRIZE CONTEST!" After a word about Elephant Overalls — the strongest, toughest garments ever made—we'll announce the grand prize winner!"

The radio blared into the modest living room of the Layton farmhouse. Its only listener was attentive, 10-year-old Bobby Layton, who lay stretched out on the living room floor.

"Bobby! For heaven's sake, must you play that radio so loud?" called his mother from the kitchen. "I can hear that man screaming out here." But Bobby didn't even hear her, so rapt was his attention to the radio. The commercial ended and the voice blared out again:

"And now, friends, here is the winner of the grand prize—20 pairs of Elephant Overalls, and a real, live elephant, the 2000 pound Jumbo!"

A fanfare and a roll of drums burst from the speaker as Mrs. Layton entered the room. The voice continued:

"The grand prize winner is Robert Layton of Grandview Falls, Minnesota!" Bobby leaped from the floor and danced around the room shouting,

"I won . . . I won . . . Momma, I won!"

"Bobby, stop screaming," said his mother as she turned down the loudspeaker. "What is this all about? You won what?"

"I won the elephant on the radio contest, Momma! I won the elephant and all the overalls!"

"An elephant?" questioned his mother, reaching for her head to indicate her bewilderment. "Begin at the beginning." Neither of them heard Carl Layton enter the house from the barn, where he had been completing the evening chores.

"I sent in some answers to the questions on the Elephant Overall program, Mom, and I won first prize—a real live elephant!"

"What's this?" said Carl, entering the room.

Bobby finally explained to his parents how he had entered the contest which had been running for several months, and that he had won first prize—a live elephant, to be shipped in time for Christmas. Breathlessly, Bobby turned to his Dad,

"It's a good thing we've got lots of hay, Dad. That's all that ol' elephants eats is hay."

"Do you mean to say you won an ELEPHANT?" asked Carl. "Well, I'll be . . ." He paused before he finished his thought aloud, "You don't think for one minute I'm gonna have an elephant on this farm, do you?"

The tears were forming in Bobby's brown eyes as he looked to his mother for help. May sympathized with the boy whose eager happiness had been snuffed out so quickly; but she knew how foolish it was to even think about an elephant on their little farm. Before she could say a soothing word, however, Carl continued:

"I've got enough trouble trying to get together the money for our farm payment the first of the year, and plan a little Christmas for the family, and then you start this elephant business. Just WHAT do you think we'd DO with an elephant?" Bobby stammered, looked at his mother, and burst into tears. Carl looked at him in disgust and turned to leave the room.

"Are we ever gonna have any supper around here?" he flung over his shoulder. May comforted Bobby while she tried to dry his eyes. Both looked up when the phone rang in the kitchen, and they heard Carl's gruff voice answering.

"Hello! Yes, this is the Layton place. What? . . . I guess he did, that's what he just told me anyhow . . . OH? . . . I see."

Bobby and May both looked up expectantly as Carl re-entered the living room. He tossed Bobby high into the air, and then whirled May around the room in a dizzy dance.

"Well, well, well," he shouted. "Bobby, my boy; there's a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow after all."

"Carl . . . stop, you silly goose," said May breathlessly. "Will you tell us what this is all about."

"Bobby's elephant has just paid off the mortgage, Mother," howled Carl. "I'm proud of you, son!"

"But how?" interrupted May.

"That elephant business was a publicity stunt for the overall company. If the winner wanted it, he could have had the elephant; but before the contest began, the company made arrangements with the Lincoln Park zoo in Chicago to buy the elephant. The fellow who just called said they would send a check for $1000 if we didn't want the elephant, said the check would be in the morning mail! So, Bobby, my boy, you've really given your family a Merry Christmas after all."

May turned toward the window and stood with her apron to her eyes. Both father and son hurried to her side.

"Why, Mother, what's wrong?" asked Carl.

"Oh, I'm just so happy that everything turned out well, Carl. For a minute I had a picture of that elephant eating all our hay." She wiped her eyes as her MEN hugged her from each side. Then she remarked, "Oh, look! It's snowing. We're going to have a white Christmas!"

"Good," said Carl. "And with that big check of Bobby's, I wouldn't be surprised if we could figure out some way to get that bob-sled you've been talking about, son!"

"Gosh!" squealed Bobby, "A bob-sled's better'n an ol' elephant any day."

"And don't forget," added May laughingly as she herded her men to supper, "there's also 20 pairs of overalls to hang on the Christmas tree."

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Montgomery, Ala. — As in previous years, diphtheria was primarily a disease of childhood in Alabama last year.

The State Department of Health announced today that nearly three-fourths of all the cases of this disease reported in this state in 1949 occurred among youngsters less than eight years of age. More than half, it said, involved children under the starting-to-school age of six.

Diphtheria cases reported during the year totaled 358. They included nine regarding which no information is available as to the ages of the victims. Fourteen of the remaining 349 occurred among those less than one year old. Thirty-four 1949 diphtheria victims were one year of age. Thirty-seven were two, 42 were three, 39 were four and 33 were five.

VOL. XXVIII THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1950 CLANTON, ALABAMA NUMBER 52

Kendrick Names Thornton Deputy

RUCKER AS DEPUTY; BOB OWENS, JAILOR

Sheriff-Elect J. Luther Kendrick Monday named his deputies and county jailor for the next four years. As had been promised Kendrick chose his right-hand men, not because of their politics, but because of their ability to serve the people of Chilton County.

Chief Deputy will be J. S. Thornton, son of the late J. T. Thornton, former deputy sheriff, with Coy Rucker second deputy. Mr. Rucker is well known in law enforcement circles, having served as a deputy sheriff and as city policeman.

Bob Owens was named as county jailor and will take the place vacated by Jess Motes.

Mr. Kendrick also stated a full-time office clerk will be named within the next two weeks whose duty will be to keep the Sheriff's Office open each day from 8 to 5 o'clock to give service to the people. "This clerk will be paid by the Sheriff and not by the taxpayers," Mr. Kendrick stated.

Another modern aid in criminal investigation and apprehension, that the new sheriff hopes to bring to the county within a short time is the two-way radios in police cars. Sheriff-elect Kendrick is working to this end and hopes to realize this improvement before the year's end.

He has already secured a FBI Police Training School for the county that will start the week of January 29th. All interested in law enforcement work are invited to attend this school.

Betty Meherg, Clanton, cuts on face. Theodore Stevens, negro, Eutaw, Ala., broken leg and face cuts. All were taken by Martin's ambulance to Central Alabama Hospital, where they were later transferred to Craig Field Hospital, St. Margaret's at Montgomery, and Birmingham hospitals.

MRS. HUGH JONES NAMED CANCER HEAD

Chilton County's fight against cancer will be led for the next twelve months by Mrs. Hugh Jones, of Clanton, Ala.

Her appointment as Chilton County Commander for the Alabama Division of the American Cancer Society, was made public here today by Mrs. Lillian G. Meade, of Birmingham, the Society's State Commander.

As County Commander, Mrs. Jones holds one of the most important posts in what is going to be the greatest effort ever undertaken in Alabama to stop the 1,200 or more preventable deaths cancer is causing here," Mrs. Meade said.

The entire cancer education program in Chilton County—the first and most essential step, doctors say, toward cancer control—will be under Mrs. Jones's direction.

The work that Mrs. Jones will do will have a direct bearing on the future health and safety, insofar as cancer is concerned, of one out of every six men, women and children alive in Chilton County today because that is the number medical statistics forecast will be struck by cancer at some time during their lives—one in six.

Mrs. Jones, and all those who assist her, will serve as volunteers without compensation as a service to their community.

Mrs. Jones has always been identified with the religious, cultural and civic activities of Clanton. She is very active in our Lady's Catholic Guild, and is vice-president of the Montgomery Deanery N.C.C.W. Mrs. Jones is a charter member of the Clanton Study Club, and past president. She is also a member of the Clanton Community Concert Association. During the war she served as county chairman of the women's division of the War Finance Savings Bonds.

CHRISTMAS CHEST OF 1950 IS HAPPY SUCCESS

People of Chilton County have again proved that Santa Claus is a reality. The proof came in the form of a very successful year for the Chilton County Christmas Chest. Many hearts were made glad and many had a merrier Christmas after the deliveries were made on Saturday morning.

The work of the Chest this year can be briefly summarized with the following figures:

Total cash donations—$1,287.10.

Number of cash doners—147.

Estimated value goods donated—$1,500.00.

Number of families reached—107.

Number of people affected (estimated)—550 to 600.

Total value of materials given (estimated) $2,800.00.

Officials of the Chest this year are especially gratified over the wonderful spirit of giving and cooperation shown by hundreds of citizens over the county. The work and assistance this year was more county-wide than it has been before. Donations came from the various sections of the county and citizens from all sections assisted in the packaging and delivery to the various sections. This attitude is in keeping with the original idea that it is a county-wide project. Bob Taber, general chairman, is especially elated over the success this year. "Just tell everybody that I am very happy over the wonderful attitude and cooperation we received this year," Taber stated, upon being approached about the outcome. "The Chest gets bigger and better every year, and the people need to begin plans for next year right off. Express my thanks to everyone."

Plans will get underway early in January for the next edition of the Chilton County Christmas Chest.

Besides Bob Taber, a few other chairmen of committees deserve considerable credit for the success of the Chest. Rev. A. T. Hickman headed the committee that collected the largest amount yet collected for the Chest. Cohen Stapp did an outstanding job of organizing and supervising the packaging of the materials. Lewis McGee had the delivery well organized. Fourteen trucks and pick-ups along with six automobiles and approximately 50 or 60 people assisted in the delivery, while a number volunteered that were not needed.

Plans are being made to publish the list of commercial concerns that donated materials in a later edition of this paper. The lists published before have been of those who donated cash only.

Study Club Names Winners In Christmas Lighting

The Clanton Study Club has the following report from the Judges who so graciously gave of their time last Saturday night, December 23rd, to tour our town and see the Christmas decorations. They were impressed over beautiful trees, window decorations, and all other touches of Christmas.

Outstanding decorations were the Craig home, the Otto Jones home, the Bob Windham home, Polk Bros. Motor Co. and the most beautiful Christmas tree at the home of H. G. Heflin.

A Prayer For Peace—

This was in the Polk Bros. Motor Co. Window.

It was a beautiful symbol of the true meaning of Christmas, and one felt as you silently gazed at this picture, it really said, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace good will toward men."

The Otto Jones Home—

The Jones home gave everyone who passed a feeling of personal greeting, Santa Claus at the door; and a feeling of warmth and peace with the lovely white candles glowing in each window; and a feeling of gaiety from the colors of the beautifully lighted tree out of doors.

The Bob Windham Home—

This little home was really an expression of Merry Christmas.

The jolly Santa with his pack of toys just ready to enter the doorway which, you would know, was saying, "Merry Christmas" to you with twinkling candles and lights.

From the outdoors Christmas tree and bright lights added cheer to those who passed this way.

All in all, it said, "Merry Christmas to everybody."

The Craig Home—

The Craig home made one have the gay Christmas feeling, with Santa on the chimney smiling to all who passed this house.

The lovely candles that lighted the entrance gave a warmth of Christmas cheer and gaiety.

The garlands of lights at windows and doors sent sparkles and good wishes out into the dark, wishing for all a happy good night.

The Civic Committee of the Study Club wishes to thank the judges for their kindness in giving their time and the entire Study Club appreciates the efforts of all homes to help make Clanton bright and cheery looking at Christmas time.

TOO BROAD MINDED

Elizabeth Massey Hill writing in the November issue of Woman's Home Companion certainly hits the nail on the head in an article called, "Don't Call Me Broad-Minded." She takes to task our "modern" method of accepting rude and unheard of behavior and excusing ourselves as being "broad-minded."

To be broad-minded seems to be the most desirable trait possible today. Beat your wife if you like; steal if you must; but never deviate from the path of broad-mindedness. It amounts to a fetish and I for one am sick of it.

I cannot discover a single thing—except Communism, of course—which we are not supposed to tolerate. Did your neighbor cheat his brother's widow out of her inheritance? Poor thing, he must have been the victim of some childhood insecurity which left him with a pathological craving for money.

Has your best friend run off with your husband? You must realize that monogamy is an unnatural state for the male animal and most likely your friend's mother didn't teach her when she was small that it is rude to grab. You must just get a divorce on polite grounds, give a party for the happy pair when they return from their flight, and teach Junior to call the lady "aunt."

Every undesirable trait must be excused on the grounds of improper upbringing (or too proper, which is apparently even worse) or some mental or physical maladjustment. Never suggest that just possibly a mature individual should be held responsible for his own acts, that he is given a brain with which to reason and control his appetites and desires, and that living entirely to please oneself is not always the ideal of life.

Almost anything can be blamed on poor old Mom if you try hard enough; an inhibition is more to be feared than a thousand devils and duty is the last reason for any act.

Well, I am now through being tolerant. It seems to me that a bit of insistence on the old-fashioned virtues might be a healthy change. If my son should write home that he is flunking college because he has discovered that he has a mother fixation and must free himself of the desire to please me, I would arrange things so that he would have to spend more time earning his way and less dreaming up fixations to make himself more interesting.

I think psychologists should make it quite clear that inhibition — that bugaboo of modern life — means not the conscious control of undesirable impluses but the abnormal fear of them. This fear is what causes the inhibited person to push such impluses out of the conscious mind altogether, down into the subconscious to fester and infect the whole mind and body. Resisting a conscious desire is quite different and never did anyone any harm.

Even in smaller matters I am quitting the broad-minded group. I shall not force a lenient smile when someone in my presence uses words which wouldn't have been tolerated in a well-run saloon a generation ago. I shall do my bit to put discussions of marital relations back into the privacy they should never have left. When guests at my parties drink themselves into an objectionable state, I shall never again invite them. There is a line, and I am going to draw it.

I fail to see that our vaunted modern tolerance and easy philosophy have made either society or individuals better or happier. Our parents and grandparents may not always have been as saintly as they pretended, but they did have definite standards which they insisted on and lived by in large part. Religion was large in their lives. And they weren't afraid of inhibiting their children by teaching them to do their duty and strive after goodness, and by smacking their little bottoms when they didn't.

Yet the degree of stability and of human happiness generally was greater then, I think; and certainly our present appalling increase in crime and in neurotic and psychiatric cases is scarcely an argument for our modern way. We are trying to steer a course without a compass and it appears to me we are foundering.

It sifts down to the fact that broad-mindedness has come to mean moral apathy — either a complete lack of any principles or standards of decency or, at best, the lack of any convictions strong enough to fight for. Nothing worth building was ever founded on quicksand; no statue carved from putty; no enduring society or satisfactory life built on laziness, selfishness and irresponsibility.

So from now on, call me anything else you like, but don't call me broad-minded! Those are fighting words!

Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama

Dear Ben:

If you can spare a few lines of space, I would just like to tell you how much I enjoy the News each week. And I'd like to send greetings to all my friends around Central Alabama.

I certainly appreciate all of the good cards and letters that you folks have sent to me since I moved to Albertville; I am always glad to hear from you. Jo and I like this section just fine, but of course we miss all the neighbors down there.

Several have asked me if our station could be picked up there. So Ben, if you don't mind, I'll give our frequency a plug. We are on AM at 630, and FM at 105.1. With a good radio, you can possibly pick us up on either, but better on FM.

However, you won't hear anything better than ole WKLF, but you might try tuning in some time so I can "talk at you."

Best wishes,
JESSE CULP, WAVU.

Your Health

TIRED?

You're always tired; you feel as though the day will never end? Any small task requires too much energy —energy of which you have so little? Why? A natural feeling at the end of a hard working day, but one that is supplanted with new energy after a refreshing sleep. The fatigue that is always present is another problem. This is the fatigue brought about by a long period of overwork, late hours with little rest, or meals that do not provide the fuel necessary to maintain the machinery of the body.

The maximum of production cannot be obtained from long hours of overwork. Efficiency is lessened to the degree that a worker comes to his job as tired as he left it the night before. The physical fatigue resulting from overwork, either mental or physical, is responsible for the saying "too tired to eat." The body needs fuel, it needs to replenish its stock of energy with energy-producing foods and this can be done by means of a well balanced diet. Sugar is needed to combat fatigue. When the blood sugar is depleted, many cases of fatigue and tiredness occur, even to the point of collapse. Many conditions stem from fatigue. Again fatigue may stem from various diseases, infection, improper hygiene, too much mental effort and inadequate nutrition. Many accidents can be charged to fatigue.

In general, rest is the best treatment for all types of fatigue. Physical activity should be decreased as much as possible and such stimulants as coffee, tea and "cokes" should be abandoned or, at least, the use of them curtailed.

Consult your physician. He is the person to investigate the reasons for your fatigue. If a glandular disturbance is responsible, he will detect it. Self-medication won't help. Let your doctor lead you into a balanced social and business way of living. The fatigued person is one who, in his tired state, contributes little to his own enjoyment and nothing to that of any one else. Time passes too quickly to be too tired to enjoy it.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Now we know why they call them "wonder drugs." After taking them you start wondering what will happen next.

Took a shot more than two weeks ago and within the hour all hell broke loose. In less than two hours we looked like an over grown strawberry with legs. We're still popping out in big whelts at the most unexpected times—and places.

Hear Carolyn Montgomery is already in Japan. After reaching the West Coast she got shipped out in a hurry. Shows how great the need is for nurses in that theatre of operations.

We'll never be able to express our thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness shown us during the past few weeks. We didn't know we had so many friends. We do appreciate them every one and deeply appreciate each kind thought and deed.

Good job, well done. That's what the Christmas Chest members accomplished for Christmas. They have done a wonderful work and each year sees it grow bigger and bigger. Of course the need also grows bigger and bigger, but as long as there are people in the world like grow in Chilton County who are willing to offer a part of what they have to make others happy we can continue to make happy the hearts of the poor and needy at Christmas time.

If the amount eaten at our home was a fair sample of the amount of "junk" that is consumed by kids everywhere at this season of the year then Ralph Johnston isn't so dumb in decorating his front window on Christmas Day with a product that will be much in demand along about now. In fact, we dare say mothers will be clamoring for it—large bottles of Milk of Magnesia.

Last summer our good friend, A. T. Hickman, called by the office after us one afternoon and asked us to go down in the country a short ways with him to see the devastation wrought by the grasshoppers. Saturday afternoon when we went to town for the first time in two weeks we were reminded of those corn fields when we got a look at the stores in town after the Christmas rush. The stores looked just like those corn fields did when the grasshoppers got through with them. Clanton merchants certainly can't complain about their Christmas business. Another thing no one can complain about the weather Christmas week. Did you ever see prettier weather? It couldn't have been more perfect if it had been ordered special for the occasion. Beautiful moonlight nights. Days as nice as springtime. Everything just perfect and then man has to come along and muss it up with wars and traffic deaths, etc., etc., etc.

Methods of Handling Slander

HERE ARE TWO EXAMPLES of wise methods of handling slander or malicious gossip.

When William Jennings Bryan was campaigning in the middle and far west for the presidency of the United States, one of his supporters came to him one day and said "Mr. Bryan what are you going to do about that slanderous article that appeared in the paper this morning?"

"I haven't read it," said Mr. Bryan.

"Well. Just read it. You'll have to take some action," went on his informer.

"Oh, no," said Mr. Bryan. "I don't want to read it. You see, that paper doesn't sound logical to me, so I just let it be."

With a smile and a sly twinkle of the eye, he went about his business, crowding all thoughts of the slanderous remarks out of his mind by filling it with something else.

Carnegie

Some years back, a Philadelphia newspaper was undergoing a trying period. Rumors were being circulated that when you paid for that paper, you paid only for advertising, not news.

Did that paper fight back on its pages? No, the editor apparently ignored the specific remarks, but he got out a book, at great expense, which he gave away. In that book was printed all the news and feature material the paper carried in one day. And they sold it for 1-100 of what it cost — two cents.

How do you handle the matter if you have been slandered, or even gossiped about? Even an unkind remark can color our whole day if we allow it to. But, thank God, we don't have to allow it.

If the remark is not true, we don't have to worry about it. If it has a groundwork of truth, our enemy has done us a favor by calling it to our attention, for we can now see our fault and do something about it.

Then we can put an unkind thought out of mind by crowding it out with something else. It may be a good poem, a beautiful bit of music, or — best of all — by dismissing it through doing something kind for someone else.

Happy New Year

"Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth." (3 John 2). These words borrowed from the Apostle John express my wish for every one of my readers. I do wish for one and all a year of happiness and prosperity in soul, body and even material things as well. I would like for you to notice the verse of Scripture quoted above; it reveals a threefold prosperity; body or health prosperity, soul or spiritual prosperity, and prosperity in material needs. To have such prosperity would mean riches untold. There are those who prosper in the material things of life, but all in the spiritual do not prosper at things, and some do not prosper in health, for they hardly know what a well day is. Always under the treatment of a doctor, or taking some kind of patent medicines all the time, and still complaining of not being well. Health, like spirituality, cannot be bought with money; so it does not matter how much a person may prosper in the material things, or worldly things, if he does not possess health for the body, and spirituality for the soul he is not happy.

A. T. HICKMAN

There are many things we could mention that embrace spiritual prosperity. There is more faith, more patience, more godliness, more kindness, more tolerance for the other fellow, more brotherly love, a cheerful attitude and out-look upon life, being able to keep our equilibrium in this atomic age which we live. Some of these attributes may be classed as "mental prosperity." But whatever it is, we need it. "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city. But he that hath no rule over his own spirit is like a city that is broken down, and without walls."

To fly to pieces and lose one's self control is a weakness in the fibre of character. It shows mental, spiritual and moral weakness. The unsearchable riches of Christ should be diligently pursued by every one who desires to be happy, and to cause others to be happy. Be careful and sow happiness in the pathway of others, and you will be bound to reap whatsoever you sow. But if you spread thorns in the pathway of others, don't be surprised if you are pierced with them yourself. May every one of us remember the Golden Rule throughout 1951.

I wish for one and all a most happy and prosperous New Year.

JEMISON DEFEATS ISABELLA 55 TO 47 DEC. 19th

In a game replete with thrills and chills, one that the element of competition is strong, the Jemison High Panthers downed the rugged and smooth-clicking quintet of Isabella on Tuesday night, December 19th, to the tune of 55 to 47. The game was played on the newly improved court at Isabella, with a nice sized crowd of supporters whooping it up for their favorite.

Joe Frank Cobb, back in uniform, after suffering a broken bone injury in an earlier football game, led the J.H.S. boys in scoring 17 points. His mates, Sorrell and P. Ellison, followed closely with 15 and 14 points respectively.

C. Jones, who has led the scoring for Jemison the past four games, was playing under the severe handicap of a boil on his shoulder, limited his playing to some fine defensive work, along with chipping in seven points to add to the victor's total.

Foshee, for Isabella, was high pointer for the night in ringing up 27 markers. This lad proved a tough hombre to rope in under the nets. He played his usual, clean, clear-cut game and was really outstanding from the offensive side of the line.

The previous week's play saw Jemison High lose a tough one to Verbena by a 36 to 32 score. Charles Jones banged out 18 points for high scorer in this game. Lee was Verbena's big gun in hooking 12 points. The game was played at Verbena on Tuesday night, December 12th.

The Verbena Bees also set the J.H.S. Bees down by an 8-point margin.

The following Friday night, December 15th, Jemison took on Vincent High and proceeded to hang a 47 to 28 licking on the Shelby boys. The Vincent team was composed of the largest players this writer has ever seen represent a high school team. Those boys were really husky. They played a nice brand of ball too; but their pass-work was ineffective and their shooting was below par.

The Jemison Bees ran away with the Vincent Bees in hanging up their third win of the season by a 37 to 18 score.

The Jemison A's and B's play both games next week away—but, umph!

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

C. R. Childress, Jemison Route 1, cooperator of the North Central Soil Conservation District, states, "I have thirty-eight cows that I put on less than two acres of Kentucky 31 fescue that was allowed to grow last summer and fall. The cows have been on the grass with no other feed for one week and I expect to leave them there another week. The milch cows have increased one-third in milk production. I now believe we can have twelve-month grazing by using this plant with the others such as sericea, kudzu, bermuda grass and bahia grass along with the reseeding legumes."

Mr. Childress was given the fescue seed by the Soil Conservation Service for observational studies and seed production.

* * *

Dewey Collins, Thorsby, Alabama, has bought another three hundred pounds of Kentucky 31 fescue and is planting it on the old Thorsby and Maplesville road.

* * *

O. H. Lawrence, Billingsley Route 1, and cooperator of the North Central Soil Conservation District states, "The only thing green on my place is fescue. I plan on seeding ten more acres next fall."

* * *

Dr. Edgar has just received 10,000 slash pine and 100 yellow poplar and black walnut trees that will be planted on the Lay Dam Road.

* * *

Dr. Thomas Hayes is preparing approximately thirty acres to plant coastal bermuda grass this spring and next fall reseeding crimson clover will be seeded over the bermuda.

Look out, folks! The following Tuesday ngiht, January 9th, Jemison's grand ole rival, the Chilton County High boys, from Clanton, come to town. Put this one in your list—if you must miss all other games. This year's teams will try to uphold the past traditions, customs, rivalry, keen competition, razzle-dazzle and what have you, that all the teams of these two schools have struggled faithfully to build up. You sport-loving fans who like your games colored with excitement can't afford to let this one go by the board.

Clanton at Jemison Tuesday night, January 9th. B game at 7:00 p.m.; A game at 8:00 p.m.—Robert B. Johnson, Sports Reporter.

Clanton Clubs Enjoy Yuletide Parties—

Mrs. R. C. Williams was hostess to the Wednesday afternoon Bridge Club at their annual Xmas Dutch luncheon on December 20th. The luncheon table was covered with an imported Irish linen cloth and centered with an epergne' holding white mums. Places were marked with a gift beautifully wrapped and the place card attached. The service plates were designed with a decorated Xmas tree in the center forming a very festive table setting. Yuletide decorations were used throughout the receiving room. Gifts were brought by the guests and placed under the lovely decorated tree.

Bridge was enjoyed during the afternoon. Prizes for bridge score count went to Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, Mrs. J. D. Bell, Mrs. W. C. Davidson and Mrs. J. G. Newton. Late in the afternoon the hostess served ice cream and cake and gifts were exchanged. Guests were: Mesdames Arthur Broadhead, Spurgeon Calloway, W. C. Davidson, Joe Higgins, Crit Jones, Leroy Martin, B. L. McCary, J. G. Newton, J. C. Parr, Marcus Polk, Jr., Jimmy Taylor and J. D. Bell.

On Thursday, December 21st, Mrs. Charles Wade entertained her Bridge Club at the annual holiday luncheon. Silver and blue Yuletide decorations were used in the dining room. The luncheon table was centered with a tree of blue and silver Xmas balls surrounded with greenery. Other holiday decorations were used throughout the home. Gifts were exchanged after several rounds of bridge. Present were: Mesdames J. D. Bell, J. C. Parr, W. C. Golden, George H. Tucker, Ben Tucker, Referee Lineberry, Leo Thompson and G. O. Willingham.

The Thursday Sewing Club enjoyed a Spend-The-Day when Mrs. J. W. Moore entertained in her home on December 21st. This being the first Xmas Party the Club has held in several years. Traditional Yuletide decorations were used to decorate the Moore home. The day was spent with sewing and reminiscencing. Gifts were exchanged. How is this for a coincidence? In the 25 years ago column of The Union-Banner of last week, Mrs. Moore read where she had entertained her sewing club with the Xmas Spend-The-Day. Not all of the old members were present this Xmas, but those who were there, were present 25 years ago also. Present on December 21, 1950, were: Mesdames L. E. Diefenderfer, H. T. Pipes, N. S. Johnson, Hugh Simpson, John Browder, T. C. McSwain and the hostess.

Center of Life.
Lesson for December 31: John 15: 1-10; Galatians 2:20; Philippians 3: 8-16.

HOW DOES a Christian grow? During the past three months this has been our underlying question. Now at the year's end we come back to the point where we began: to Jesus Christ. When all is said and done, the best way to describe a Christian's life is not "religious" or "spiritual" or even "godly," much less "pious." The best way to describe it is to put the fullest possible meaning into the single word "CHRISTIAN."

• • •

In your hymnal you may find a hymn by the author of the better-known "O Love that wilt not let me go." It begins with these lines:

"Make me a captive, Lord,
And then I shall be free . . ."

That sounds upside-down. Captive and free are opposites, aren't they? Not when God is the captor! The American translation of Phil. 3:12 says, "I have been captured by Jesus Christ." Paul's word was a strong one; it was the Greek word used when police or soldiers take a man and tie him and lead him off.

People who have gone far in music would understand this. Take two young people, both of whom know something about music, maybe both of them in the same music school. One of them has been captured, so to speak, by music, the other has not. That is to say, in plainer language, music has "got hold" of one of them. There is an irresistible fascination about music for him, every day is too short for the study and practice he wants to do. The other one goes through his lessons, but without [illegible]

Officials of the county board of revenue announced that the bond issue would not be submitted to the voters of Mobile County until the world situation returns to a more normal condition.

There has been much recent discussion about building a new county courthouse for Mobile, but officials said that nothing definite has been decided up as of present.

The first English school in Alabama was established at the beginning of the Nineteenth century at the Boat Yard on Lake Tensas by a New Englander, John Pierce. Pierce's school was known as the "blab" type as the pupils studied by repeating the words of their lessons out loud. The school building was a crude log cabin with puncheon benches, and the student body consisted not only of English children, but also those of French, Spanish, and Indian parentage.
